"I feel good enough to disdain it. Of course I may be struck by lightning tomorrow, or the car may turn turtle when we go down to be married, but I refuse to contemplate anything of the sort. I feel as arrogant as that moon up there, who may have all the gods inside him, and do not mind proclaiming aloud that earth is heaven."

"Well—it is." She was not superstitious herself, but she was suddenly invaded by a sinister inexplicable fear, and smiled the more brightly to conceal it. But she lowered her eyelids and glanced hastily about her, wondering if an enemy could be hiding in those dark woods. She was not conscious of possessing enemies venomous enough to assassinate her, but she knew little of Clavering's life after all, and he was the sort of man who must inspire hate as well as love . . . danger assuredly was lurking somewhere . . . it seemed to wash against her brain, carrying its message. . . . But there were no wild beasts in the Adirondacks nor even reptiles. . . . Nor a sound. The owl had given up his attempt to entice his lady out for a rendezvous and the frogs had paused for breath. There was not the faintest rustle in the forest except those eternally whispering leaves and the faint surging tide in the tree-tops. That ugly invading fear was still in her eyes as she met his.

"What is the matter?" he asked. "You look frightened."

"I am a little—I have a curious feeling of uneasiness—as if something were going to happen."

"'Out of the depth of the hollow gloom,
On her soul's bare sands she heard it boom,
The measured tide of the sea of doom.'"

he quoted lightly. "I fancy when one is too happy, the jealous gods run the quicksilver of our little spiritual barometers down for a moment, merely to remind us that we are mortals after all."

"Ah, Mary!" he whispered. "Mary!"

MARRIED 40 YEARS UNDER WRONG NAME

Couple Ask State To Correct Error in License.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5.—Children of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradford Frampton discovered after they were grown that legally their name is Tucker, it was revealed when a bill was introduced in the Maryland legislature to correct a mistake on a marriage license issued 40 years ago.

It was in the days when boys were "bound out." Frampton was apprenticed to a farmer by the name of Tucker, and was known to others more often by his employer's name than his own. On April 28, 1883, one Isaac Covey applied for a marriage license for young "Tucker" in Talbott county, and Mr. and Mrs. Frampton have since been legally Mr. and Mrs. Tucker—if the marriage was legal at all.

Anxious to have the error corrected, members of the family had a bill presented at the last session of the legislature, but it was killed in the house.

"PRECIOUS ONE" GREW JEALOUS.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 6.—With the jury excused until Monday, the validity of the divorce decree obtained by Mrs. Onezima de Bouchel from Adolph Rocquet as it affected the legal merit of he engagement to Asa G. Candler Sr., was to be argued today. The argument will be made in connection with Mrs. de Bouchel's $500,000 breach of promise suit against Mr. Candler, which went to trial here Wednesday.

Attorneys for the millionaire Coca Cola king have attacked the New Orleans society leader's divorce decree obtained at Reno on the ground that she was not legall domiciled in Nevada at the time the decree was granted.

Rebuttal testimony will be resumed Monday morning, the plaintiff's attorney indicating today they would continue reading letters received by Mrs. de Bouchel from Mr. Candler for the purpose of offsetting the contentions of the defense that Mrs. de Bouchel was the agressor in cultivating the acquaintanceship which led to the engagement to marry.

30 More Letters.

Thirty-nine additional letters written by Mr. Candler to Mrs. de Bouchel revealing further details of the romance which ended in the breach of promise suit were tendered in evidence yesterday by counsel for plaintiff.

Letters of Mr. Candler to his former fiancee disclosed that three questions already were being raised as to his proposed marriage by persons known to him, but whose names he did not give.

He quoted the question as being her Spanish-French extraction, Roman Catholic faith, and recognition as legal and respect by the courts and by the public of her divorce.

"I love you with my whole heart," the letter mentioning those questions continued. "I want you to be married to me at the earliest date consistent with our future safety."

A tinge of jealously was noted in a letter he wrote on Jan. 12.

"I am not happy this morning," he stated, "because I can in imagination see you eating candy amidst the fragrance of flowers accepted by you from men who are near you. My privileges are being usurped. May I not hope that you will not allow this to continue?"

Gave Her Warning.

He cautioned her against associating with a New Orleans woman whose name he did not call.

"She added nothing to your good reputation when she was in Atlanta in a party with you," the letter stated. "I write this because you belong to me and it is my duty as well as my privilege to protect you any way I can."

A letter in February thanked her for a leter in which she had addressed him as "precious one," and complimented her on the scope of her "bewitching vocabulary."

NEVER FORGETS FACES, JUST MISTAKES THEM

Hon. Geo. P. Graham.

Even Mr. Graham had heard it so often that he himself began at last to believe that it was impossible for him to make a mistake.

This is the story of his mistake.

Some years ago, Mr. Graham commenced what proved later to be a lasting friendship with Mr. Gardiner, of the Australian federal house, who, incidentally, greatly resembled Premier Baldwin of England. They had met only once, but the gap of three thousand odd leagues of sea had been no barrier to the spirit of "auld lang syne," which persisted in spite of time.

As a result of some preliminary business which necessitated his presence, the Canadian minister of railways and canals arrived ahead of time. But as soon as he could he hurried into the assembly hall, eagerly looking for his old friend from the Antipodes. Almost instantly, he spied him. Strange to say, he was "receiving" at the door.

Without hesitation Mr. Graham ploughed resolutely through the crowd, and, with an exuberance of spirit which was as sincere as it was emphatic, landed a resounding thwack on the back of the Australian, exclaiming as he thrust out his hand: "How are you, Gardiner? I'm glad to see you again."

The violence of the greeting did surprise Gardiner, but was in no way comparable with the reflex of astonishment which came over Mr. Graham. Premier Baldwin turned a wondering countenance on the minister of railways and canals, then smiled calmly, remarking, as he grasped the outstretched hand, "I'm very glad to meet you."

Kaiser Couldn't Forgive Like Small-Minded Men

British General Corrected the Kaiser in His Interpretation of the Battle of Waterloo

IN revealing for the first time the late General Gordon's lamentable weakness for stealthy brandies-and-sodas, it was no love of scandal that induced Lytton Strachey to bring out that deplorable failing in the great man, but a love of truth.

William II.

Discussing the legends about great men, Professor J. H. Morgan, professor of constitutional law at University College, London, throws his weight and influence behind the modern view that the essential of a good autobiography or biography is that "the very soul of the sitter is revealed."

How many great men ever really said the great things that an adoring generation attributed to them? Most of them are myths, according to the professor's judgment, backed up by a collection of specific instances in which the Kaiser even figures.

It was Lord Rosebery that shattered the cherished belief of the British public for a hundred years that the great Pitt's last words were: "My country, oh, how I leave my country." What he really said, according o Lord Rosebery, was: "Fetch me one of Bellamy's pork pies."

There is also, the celebrated question of what Blucher really said to Wellington when he arrived in the fateful twilight on the field of Waterloo. Was it: "Am I in time?" No, it seems he grunted: "Excuse me, I've taken a blue pill," the rest of his remarks being so Prussian as to be unprintable.

In an admirable biography of the late General Grierson, one-time military attache at Berlin, the biographer is at great pains to account for the coolness which grew up between the Kaiser and Grierson, ending in something like estrangement. If Prof. Morgan recollects correctly, he now here tells a stry which is still current in Berlin, and accounts for much.

It is this: At a banquet of the Guards regiments in Berlin, to which Grierson was invited the Kaiser gave the toast of "The immortal memory of the German army which won the battle of Waterloo."

Grierson joined in drinking it, and, subsequently, having to reply to the toast of his own health, quietly remarked: "Gentlemen, I would have liked to have given you yet another toast: "To the immortal memory of the British army which fought the battle of Waterloo."

The story, which I have some reason to believe authentic, not only illuminates the estrangement—for the Kaiser found it as difficult as other small-minded men to forgive those whom he had injured—but lights up as with a flash the characters of the two protagonists: the Englishman, imperturbable with that imperturbability which always at once mystifies the German and exasperates him to further asperities and the German, arrogant, and tactlessly arrogant, with that arrogance which has made him the most unpopular man in the world. Such stories belong to that class of traditions which are not merely anecdotal and are not irrelevantly scandalous, but have the same intrinsic worth for the literary biographer as the detail of a characteristic gesture for the painter—they at once illustrate and reveal the man.

"THERE is always a telephone on Mr. Baldwin's desk," says a writer. And yet there are hard-hearted people who are not sorry for him.

Canon Had Fiery Blush Leap Year Being So Near

Celebrated Padre-Preacher Began to Wonder Whether Fate Was Sending Him an Unmistakable Sign

PROBABLY no one enjoys a joke more than the big-hearted rural dean of Toronto, the Rev. Canon Baynes-Reed, especially if it happens to be on himself. As a matter of fact it is not very often that his parishioners are able to fasten one on him. But on the third Sunday in Advent, quite a number of coincidents transpired that positively made the canon blush.

Canon Baynes Reed

Things began early in the morning. To a big congregation the canon read the lesson. "What went ye out to see, a REED shaken by the wind?" he chanted, hesitating, surprised at the pun.

After the Nicene creed, and the publishing of the banns of marriage, he then ascended the pulpit and gave out his text: "It is not good for man to be alone."

Some of the spinsters in the congregation who manifest designs upon their eligible widower minister vividly took fresh courage, realising how near leap year really was.

His sermon, one of the best he ever preached, lasted forty-five minutes, then he announced the closing hymn: It seemed the climax of a widower's change of heart: "Art thou weary, art thou languid, art thou sore distressed?"

It was only a few days afterwards that the canon was embarrassed again.

He had engaged an Irishman to assist in cleaning up the basement of the church. In one corner were piled up a number of bottles which formerly contained sacramental wine. On going down to see how the work was progressing, he found Pat holding up a couple of bottles to the light.

"Pat, they are all dead ones," said Mr. Reed.

"So I perceive, your reverence," he replied, sighing, "but there's one consolation: They had the clergy with them to the last."

Booth, Asked About Initial Capital, Points to His Two Strong Hands

Veteran Lumber King's Granddaughter Will Marry Prince Erik of Denmark—T. P. O'Connor Recalls Dramatic Incident at Luncheon---Modest About His Achievements

"I DON'T know whether he is still alive, but I met more than once the grandfather of Miss Lois Booth, whose engagement to Prince Erik of Denmark has just been announced," writes T. P. O'Connor in the Sunday Times. He was a short, robust, rather good-looking old gentleman, with rather a handsome face, a very simple manner—altogether a very sympathetic personality. At the time I met him he had already reached his great position as practically the head of the timber industry in Canada.

J. R. Booth

I asked him to tell me something of the story of his life and what he had when he came to Ottawa. He showed me his two strong hands. "That's all," he said.

He was quite modest about his achievements. He was then upwards of 80 years of age, and everybody was remarking upon his splendid vigor, for he looked robust, his cheeks had the rosy complexion of youth, and his eye was bright and clear.

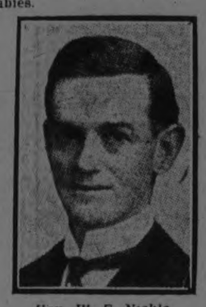
Beside him at the luncheon table there was a gentleman compared with whom Mr. Booth was merely a youth, for this gentleman was either 95 or 97. He was Mr. Scott, who was for many years one of the most prominent and powerful of the Liberal politicians of Canada, and who is made immortal by the Scott law and the first attempt at Pussyfoot legislation in Canada. Mr. Scott lived on a diet of something like nuts and water, and was, of course, an ardent advocate of the principles of teetotalism.

Mr. Booth, on the other hand, took his small drop of whiskey and water with gusto and without any shame. The two men were an extraordinary contrast in appearance, the one man, as I have said, rosy-cheeked and blooming, the other man with a face as white as his long white hair and his splendid white beard. But his debility was only in his appearance. I saw him rushing across the street in Ottawa to catch a tram like a youngster. His son, Mr. D'Arcy Scott, who is a well-known and prominent man, is in the same community as his father.

Has a Way With the Babies, Nickle Makes Them Coo

A Mother Wishes She Had Ontario's Attorney-General for a Husband Instead of Her "Old Man"

IF there is one thing Ontario's attorney-general Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., values above his hold upon the electors' confidence it is his popularity with the babies.



Hon. W. F. Nickle.

About a year ago Mr. Nickle was traveling on a train when he noticed a young married couple struggling with their first baby. Their inexperience was manifest. The mother was red-faced with embarrassment because of the child's squalling and the mortified father was cursing under his breath.

"Excuse me, will you let me try my hand with the child; I'm considered to have a way with babies" volunteered the coming attorney-general.

Rather than throw the child out the window, which the parents were almost ready to do, the babe was turned over to Mr. Nickle, who promptly pulled down its waist band and cast over it a hypnotic spell. Presently, he had it cooing and when not cooing chewing on his eyeglass case.

The time came for Mr. Nickle to return the child to its owners. But would it go? Certainly not. All Mr. Nickle's wiles were not enough to persuade the child to go willingly where it belonged. Mr. Nickle had to forcibly disengage himself, much to the amusement of his fellow passengers. The gratitude of the mother did not relieve the situation.

"I wish I had you for a husband," she said. Mr. Nickle is lucky so far in escaping a suit for alienation of affection.

Did Not Know of Sin Till New Minister Came

Congregation Congratulates Rev. H. P. Charters on Preaching Like Archbishop of Canterbury—Convincing Sermon

THE Rev. Harry Pearson Charters, rector of St. Agnes' Church (Anglican), Long Branch, son of Mr. S. Charters, M.P. for Peel County, shortly after his ordination to the diaconate, was assigned to St. John Baptist Church, Norway. Like all newly made deacons, he was very anxious to learn what kind of an impression his initial sermon made upon his hearers. He rather timidly asked one of the parishioners after his first effort what he thought of it.

"Excellent, sir, excellent; his grace the Archbishop of Canterbury could not have done better. But without imputing to you the sin of plagiarism, I happen to have at home a book that has in it every word which you uttered."

Mr. Charters' face turned scarlet.

The next morning the young deacon received through the post a pocket dictionary.

Upon another occasion he preached a logical and convincing sermon on "Sin." Evidently it gripped some of his hearers. After the service, several of the parishioners congratulated him upon the splendid, helpful sermon, remarking that they did not know what sin was until he came amongst them.

MME. CURIE ONCE VICTIM OF REBUFF IN LONDON

MME. CURIE, the discoverer of radium, upon whom the French government has just conferred a pension of 12,500 francs a year, was once the victim of a strange rebuff in London.

Soon after the discovery of radium a famous British scientific society decided to honor Prof. Curie and his wife. They both accepted the invitation to London, but it was discovered at the last minute that the rules of the society prohibited women being present at its meetings. So Prof. Curie was alone permitted to enter the chamber to hear the president's eulogy of his wife, the actual discoverer of radium, who had to remain outside.

MILLIONAIRE BACHELOR KISSES CARNIVAL QUEENS

There Were Six of Them at Calgary—But Mr. R. B. Bennett Was Not Dismayed

HON. R. B. BENNETT, K.C., LL.D., member of the privy council and late minister of justice for Canada, Millionaire bachelor, who is commonly looked upon as hopelessly confirmed in his state of single blessedness, has proved conclusively to a Calgary audience, that in the matter of paying tribute to beautiful young ladies he is the peer of any of the young bucks of the day.

R. B. Bennett.

Calgary is staging a winter carnival for February. Among the many attractions is the contest for carnival queen put on by the Kiwanis club of which Mr. Bennett is a member. Six beautiful young ladies have been chosen as queens respectively of England, Ireland, Scotland, the Maritime Provinces, Western Canada and Ontario. These six young ladies were introduced at the annual dinner-dance of the Kiwanis club by six prominent speakers, five of them lawyers and the sixth a newspaper editor. Then Mr. Bennett gave a summing up.

A reporter in writing the advance story said that, "these six speakers would each introduce a queen after which Mr. Bennett would give the summing up, embracing the whole six queens." The editor noticed the reference but passed it and Mr. Bennett was the subject of considerable good natured ragging as the result.

As the queens were introduced they were escorted to seats on the right or left of Mr. Bennett and after making his speech he called the bluff by embracing all six, not collectively but individually and bestowing at the same time on each a paternal kiss. This added much to the interest of the gathering and needless to say, to the embarrassment of the blushing beauties. One of them remarked afterwards, "what we have to go through in this contest is awful, but we have started so we must go through."

GALT'S NEW MAYOR "AB," IS WHIRLWIND CURLER

AS the result of a vigorously carried on campaign, A. E. Willard, better known as "Ab" among his legion of friends throughout western Ontario, has been elected mayor of Galt, the gem city of the Grand river valley.

Mayor Willard, besides being the proprietor of a large furnishing business and a dry goods store in Galt, has large property interests in his home city. He is also an ardent curler, lawn bowler and motorist.

Major A. E. Willard

In the mayoralty campaign just closed the chairman of one of his public meetings quite innocently "pulled a good one" on Galt's new mayor, introducing him as follows: "Ladies and gentlemen, I ain't going to bore you with no long speech myself, but I will now introduce you to a man who will."

That he "bored" in well must be admitted by the fact that he was elected by the largest majority ever polled for a mayor in the long history of the town, now city, of Galt.

GIRL MAKES $50,000 A YEAR

ONE of the world's luckiest girls is at present in London. Her name is Caroline Nunder, and she is New York's leading dress designer. At the age of twenty-four she is earning $50,000 a year.

Left at the death of her father with less than $500 instead of a fortune which she had always believed would be hers, and with an ailing sister to support, Miss Nunder entered upon the battle of life with wonderful courage. She started a tiny shop in a back street, and from that worked up in the space of three years the enormous business she controls to-day.

Miss Nunder is a radiantly pretty girl with fair bobbed hair and large hazel eyes. Every frock she designs she wears, usually at the theatre. As a rule she sells each one next day. In this way she wears about five hundred frocks every year!

Pierre Reads Riddles of the Stars Weird Serpent Guards Front Lawn

By CHARLOTTE GORDON

IN Vancouver, they have a queer man who sees visions and casts horoscopes.

A line of waiting motors, near a prominent corner on Marine Drive in West Vancouver, leads you to the little house of Napoleon St. Pierre. The house is a mere shack, but the grounds are full of "mysterious" decorations. It is, perhaps, the weirdest garden in Canada.

Mr. St. Pierre is original himself. He is a French-Canadian, born near Montreal. He has always been an admirer of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He has a lifesize painting in oils of Laurier, which occupies a prominent place in his bungalow and is very proud of two letters, received from the great statesman. So it is quite fitting that his home should be known as the "Chateau Laurier."

The most unique "decoration" of the gardens is the "mysterious snake" which occupies the front lawn. The centre is of grass while the edges are formed of shrubbery. Great glass eyes adorn the face, giving it a sinister appearance, very realistic—one of those works of art that sends a chill down the spine.

At one corner of the grounds is a cement was an ardent admirer of Lillian Russell, was was an ardent admirer of Lillian Russel, was inspired to build it the day she died, knowing that her favorite hymn was "Rock of Ages."

St. Pierre has built his three houses with an axe, hammer and saw—entirely alone. He has no money and picks up lumber on the shore of the inlet while various people give him old sheds and shacks.

A deep student of horoscopy, he seems to be able to determine a person's destiny with rare insight. A man of broad ideas, he is deeply religious and declares that Christ has appeared to him several times. "To do right is my motto," he said. "I take no liquor, no tobacco, no meat, no coffee, no tea. I do not swear. I say nothing and carry the cross."

There is no mercenary idea connected with his work. His endeavor in horoscopy is more in the nature of "art for art's sake." He will not often accept money for the horoscope readings and takes only a small sum for the picture post cards of his garden.

St. Pierre has many treasures. He has a colored picture of the head of Christ, that has been through two fires and yet has not been burned. The sides of the picture are burned and damaged but the face remains clear and kindly. This, he says, is a source of comfort and guidance to him in his work.

He knows the secrets of the forests, and spends much time roaming about the mountain slopes in the interests of another hobby, the collection of roots of strange formation. He also finds grotesque roots floating about the waters of Burrard Inlet. These he names, according to his vivid imagination and poetry of ideas.

There is the "Head of King George," "A mother's head," "A great lion's paw." He has been offered a thousand dollars for this collection, and a hundred dollars for the "Head of King George," but, having no interest in accumulating dollars, he refuses to sell these treasures.

Lady Byng, while at the coast, visited him. He has had letters from three presidents—Roosevelt, Wilson and Harding.

THE ASTOR TOUCH

"Say, missus, how many toes are there on a pig's foot?"

Lady Astor flashed the reply:

Statesman Snips Red Tape That Holds Two Loving Welsh Hearts Apart

HOW David Lloyd George cut the red tape which separated two loving hearts was told this week at a meeting of the Montreal Presbytery.

A young Welshman engaged to a girl in the old country arranged for her to come to this side and be married. He proceeded from Chicago to Quebec to meet her, but found the quota was exhausted and she was barred from the United States.

In vain he appealed to the local immigration authorities. On their refusal he appealed to Washington and was turned down.

It was his good fortune that Lloyd George was in Quebec. In desperation the fiancee laid the case before the celebrated statesman. Lloyd George telegraphed a personal request to Washington and the marriage took place.

THE GLOOMY PRINCESS

THEY talk, especially in England, of Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, as the "Gloomy Dean," but now it seems that Princess Karadja, of Sweden, is qualifying for feminine honors in the direction of gloom. She suggests, in her most recent predictions, that the world is growing old, and that we may look forward to the following pretty little list of happenings:

Volcanic action will submerge one-third of the present earth.

In the final catastrophe, part of the American continent will be saved. (The tops of skyscrapers, with all those who seek sanctuary thereon?)

Her one ray of hope is that, when other portions of the globe become uninhabitable, the frozen north will open to give us an icy welcome. We should all have hot water bottles ready to take with us.

DOCTOR AT LAST SEES ENORMITY OF HIS FEE

DR. H. O. HOWITT, the well known physician of Guelph, Ontario, says that it never occurred to him to doubt the equity of the usual charge of two dollars per visit, until one day he was called in by a German farmer on the outskirts of the city, to attend his four-year-old boy.

"The youngster had swallowed a 25 cent piece and was in a bad way, having nearly choked to death before I got to him. I recovered the quarter and saved the boy. Nevertheless, the parent entered a vigorous protest when in answer to his query I put my fee at the rate above quoted."

"Dot's robbery!" was his prompt response. "Two dollars for recovering a quarter! Vy, doctor, I am surbrised at you."

"MOVE THEM ON" MAN

A JOB not particularly enviable is the new one given to Superintendent Arthur Bassom, of Scotland Yard. He is to tackle London's traffic puzzle, and unravel the knots Londoners see tied in the streets every day in the week.

As Mr. Bassom has been in charge of the public carriage department ever since the first motor-omnibuses appeared in London, he knows all there is to know about the problem. People wonder if he regrets the passing of the old cabby, to say nothing of the horse-bus driver—and their store of repartee?

"D'you want all the road??" roared a bus-driver to a cabby.

"No; only the bit you're on!" came the retort.

MOST WONDERFUL PEOPLE

DR. A. A. BRILL, the famous psycho-analyst, gives the following as the best story he has heard a patient tell:

"A Jew and a Greek are in a cafe, enjoying their coffee and talking. Says the Greek: 'You know, Jacob, the old Greeks were the most wonderful people that ever lived. They knew everything. Just recently they were digging around the Acropolis in Athens and they found wires, which shows that the old Greeks used telegraphy.' Then the Jew: 'That's all right, but I tell you the Jews were the most wonderful people. They recently dug around the walls of Jerusalem and did not find anything, which shows that the old Jews used wireless telegraphy!"

JUNIORS ANNEX GROUP ELIMINATING LINDSAY

Young Petes' First Victory of Season Was Decisive—Won By Score of 6-1 and Captured the Round By Margin of Three Shots.

Improved Team Work.

Peterborough's juniors redeemed themselves last night by defeating the Lindsay Midgets by the score of 6 to 1 and winning their round by 10 to 7. It was their first taste of victory in the group games and they made it a mouthful.

Lindsay came down with a two goal lead having won their on own ice by 5 to 3 after holding the young Petes to a one-goal tie in the previous local game. Last night they were outplayed and decisivcly beaten in a game that wiped out the memory of the rest of the series.

The Lebarr-Jackson machine combined effectively while their ability to follow in their shots and play their positions was a treat to watch and had a great deal to do with their victory over the hard checking Lindsay aggregation who fought hard to the end. On the other hand the Lindsay boys did not play the game that they did at home two weeks ago. Their failure to use team play was costly to them. They checked like fiends and were dangerous when they broke away, but the Petes managed to keep their rushes scattered and in the second period the rubber was kept most of the time in the Lindsay territory.

Although there were eleven penalties handed out, Lindsay receiving 6, while the Petes got off with 5, the game was at no stage out of the control of Referee Jacobi. Most of these penalties were minor ones for tripping or bodying and there were no bouts staged.

For Lindsay Fortier, the bad man of the night, and Piercy, showed up best, while Lehane in goal also deserves some credit for the good game he turned in.

Cheu was the outstanding player of the Peterborough team, while all the rest turned in a faultless game. Harold McDougal, the new member to the staff of the Peterborough team, and whose weight is in the neighborhood of about 90 pounds, played a wonderful game and his ability to play his position was a feature. He also took his ups and downs as well as any of the heavier players. Lou Lebarr in goal was in fine form and the defence was nearly airtight.

The Line-up.

Mulholland got away for a nice rush about one minute after the face off. He worked in close but Lehane in the nets was too good for him. Williams had the first real shot at Lehane, who cleared beautifully.

Fortier received the first penalty of the game for holding M. McDougal. A few minutes later, Williams, Collins and Cheu combined in a nice rush, Collins receiving a pass from in front of the nets and boring it at Lehane, who saved, Williams receiving the rebound and after driving shots at Lehane that looked like home runs, Williams at last shot the rubber into the corner of the net for the first counter. After 17 minutes of play M. Collins scored on a beautiful pass from McDougal, who had fooled the defence and was right in on top of the goalie when he slipped the puck to Collins, who slapped it in, giving the net guardian no chance to save. Petes 2, Lindsay 0.

Second Period.

For the first three minutes of the second period the game was very slow on account of so many face-offs for kicking the puck, and offsides made by both teams.

Williams was waved to the penalty box for his second trip for bodying Fortier, and while he was off the Lindsay boys ran in their first and only goal during the game, Piercy doing the trick after a nice rush. Ten seconds later Holland scored the nicest goal of the game after a lone rush in which he set the Lindsay forwards dizzy and broke through the defence, drew out Lehane and slipped the puck past him. The Petes were now tied with the Lindsay boys on the round and they fought for the next ten minutes in whith Lehane was peppered with shots from all angles. Piercy was chased for upsetting Holland, but while he was off nothing happened in the line of goals. Lebarr made a clever save on Fox's shot. Piercy was working like a mad man and his close checking broke up many Peterborough rushes.

Martin was warned by Referee Jacobi for mixing it with Williams, and Fortier was benched for downing Cheu in front of the nets. While he was off Collins broke away for a nice rush and passed to Williams before he came to the defence men, who carried the puck in and landed it in the net for the fourth goal. The Petes still forced the play while the Lindsay aggregation were beginning to show signs of fatigue. When the period ended the score stood—Petes 4, Lindsay 1.

Third Period.

The third period opened up at a break neck pace, with both teams giving all they had. The Petes now had a one goal lead on the round, but this was not enough for them and they fought all the harder, while the Lindsay team had rushed Fortier from defence up to the forward line.

For several minutes they gave Lebarr in the local nets a busy time, but after Williams and Piercy were chased for bodying the play changed and the Petes kept the rubber in the visitors' end of the rink. Shortly after Williams had finished his term in the penalty box, Cheu was sent to the same place for upsetting Fox. While Cheu was off H. McDougall, the flyweight forward of the Peterborough team, scored on a neat pass from N. Collins, making the score 5 to 1. Most of the fans expected to see the Petes play a defensive game for the rest of the period, but they followed up their shots and about one second before the final gong sounded Harry Cheu scored on a fast shot from outside the defence. Three minutes before the game ended Fortier, who had visited the bench twice before in the game, was once more sent the same way for tripping Cheu and no sooner had he stepped on the ice than H. McDougal was chased for tripping him. The final score was — Peterborough 6, Lindsay 1.

DIPLOMAS FOR BALL PLAYERS

American League Will Recognize Most Valuable Player Each Season.

BOSTON, Feb. 5. —A diploma will be presented each season to the player in the American League who is named as the most valuable for his season's work, it was decided today at the adjourned annual meeting of the American League here. The diploma will take the place of the championship button previously awarded.

The meeting, which was attended by President Ban Johnson and seven members of the League, was the so-called schedule session held each year and was the first of its kind ever held in this city by either League. Aside from adopting the playing schedule for 1924, which was released for publication February 6, the magnates devoted their time and attention to informal discussions of what was best for the league. No deals were made public. The Chicago Club was not represented, owing to the legal tangle growing out of the Joe Jackson incident.

EDITH A LONG DRIVER.

Edith Cummings of Chicago, new woman's golf champion of America, is one of the longest woman drivers in the game. Few Americans can hit a golf ball as far as the slim Chicagoan, and the Misses Wethered and Leitch of England have to step to keep up with her, long as they are on the tee.

MOLLA AS SHE'LL LOOK IN NORWEGIAN NET GARB

MRS. MOLLA MALLORY.

The Olympic Committee has definitely established that Molla Mallory shall not compete in the big summer games as an American, although she has been in the country for years and has repeatedly won the American tennis championship. If Molla plays at all it must be as a member of the Norwegian team, of which country she is a native. This shows her as she appears in native garb, with the flag of Norway in the background.

That's How Murchison, Lever and Wefers Finished

FIRST—MURCHISON
SECOND—LEVER
THIRD—WEFERS

That Loren Murchison is still one of the greatest sprinters in the land in spite of his recent incapacitation was demonstrated the other night when he outdistanced a select field in the 70-yard dash for the metropolitan championship. Murchison won the race in 7 2-5 seconds. Boots Lever, Pennsylvania University star, was second, and Bernie Wefers, another crack, third.

RUTH PRAISES PENNOCK.

"I regard Herbie Pennock as the best southpaw in the American League," says Babe Ruth. "I am very glad I am playing on the same club with him. When Miller Huggins secured him from the Red Sox he made the Yankees' pitching staff. Pennock, more than any other man on the Yankees, made possible our recent world series victory over the Giants. He rounded out our ball club. His victory, after the Giants had trimmed us game after game, was the turning point in the series." Some compliment from Babe Ruth.

GOOZEMAN STARS.

Ernie Goozeman, only Spaniard in the professional prize ring, continues to make a noise like a real star. Goozeman all but knocked out Joe Burman some weeks ago, and more recently he gave George Butch of St. Louis an artistic trimming.

SAME COURSE, SAME GOLF SCORE 25 YEARS LATER

PINEHURST, N.C., Feb. 6.—(United Press).—On either side of the great open fire place in the foyer of the country club here is a collection of carefully preserved mementoes and among them is a silver and amber cup.

The inscription shows the cup was presented to George C. Dutton away back in the last century, for the best gross golf score achieved that year.

The cup was the first trophy ever offered heer and was given by James Tufts, founder of Pinehurst, to the man making the highest score during the season of 1898-99. It was won by Dutton with a card of 81 made on the last day of the season over the original course. Previously W. N. Smith, also of Boston, was leading in the race with a score of 83.

Dutton won the match with a medal round of 81, the same score with which he defeated Smith a quarter of a centruy ago.

The two golfers have agreed to try it again in 1949.

BANKS ON LUTZKE.

Tris Speaker is confident that Rube Lutzke wil be a much improved ball player the coming season. Lutzke lacked only confidence in his real ability last year, according to the Cleveland leader.

THEY SAY YOU MUST HAVE FORM

And Yet These Two Visiting Champions Are Totally Unalike As to Style.

Two of the foremost golfers of the old country are in America engaging in competitive matches—

And Jimmy Ockenden, open champion of France.

Havers has form, as the eminent golf doctors prescribe it; Ockenden hasn't.

Study the accompanying pictures. You see Havers and Ockenden playing full wooden shots off the same tee, both going for distance and both playing under identical conditions.

Note the position of the players' feet, also the position of the respective club heads after the last degree of power has been rammed into the shots.

Two Different Styles.

Ockenden's hands are well out in front, his club head is high in the air, poised at a 45 degree angle, his right foot is completely off the earth, and the weight of his body is full on his left heel instead of on the ball of the left foot, which is the approved style.

Havers' position more closely approximates correctness in form. He has followed through perfectly, he has transferred his weight naturally and easily from right to left foot, he has put body power in the shot with a minimum of effort. In short, he has played the shot with form.

It would be difficult to imagine two completed golf strokes more totally different. Yet Ockenden is the open champion of France, and Havers, to repeat, the premier professional of the Empire.

Timing Most Important

All of which proves that what is form for the goose is not always form for the gander, if you will permit a biblical quotation.

Ockenden, ignoring accepted fashions of golf, gets the same results as the graceful Havers because he has mastered the art of timing, which is everything, if not more, in golf.

If you have timed your swing so as to get all your power into the shot at the moment of impact you needn't sit up nights fretting about form.

LOOKS FOR IMPROVEMENT.

First Baseman Lu Blue of the Detroit Tigers, who slumped badly in his batting last year, is hopeful of returning to his 1922 form at the plate.

We used to think Kitty Gordon was daring child, teeming with wickedness, when she defended beautiful-back championship against all comers, but ladies in current leg tournament make her look just like a back number.

Swept Through the Saints' Team Like Water Through a Seive

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Working with machine-like precision, the University of Toronto O.H.A. senior team last night swept through St. Marys as easily as water falls through a sieve, and won by 14 to 1.

It was the season's record score.

St. Marys' weakness in checking gave the collegians a great chance to get their combination working, and "Conny" Smythe's well coached team had a field days. The students could do nothing wrong. They gave a brilliant exhibition.

Saints made their best showing in the first eight minutes, when they surprised everybody by holding the collegians scoreless. Had they maintained the same pace throughout, the game would have been an interesting affair, but the West-enders lacked condition.

BIG CROWD FOR FRIDAY'S GAME

Will Be a Rush for Tickets When Plan Opens Tomorrow.

The big game of the season is in sight on Friday night, when the Belleville team will clash with the Petes in the second game of their second round series. The Petes play in Belleville to-night, leaving at noon for the Bay of Quinte burg, and are confident of giving the Easterners a tough tussle on their own ice. Whatever the result of to-night's affray, however, Friday's clash will be brimful of excitement, and the largest crowd of the year will be on hand. The reserved seat plan opens to-morrow morning at Bond's, and there will be a rush for the paste-boards. Many out-of-town fans will see this game, which is looked upon as one of the classics of the year.

SEASON OPEN FOR BRAND NEW GAME

Played on Park Street by Street Car Conductors —Distant Resemblance to Curling.

The street cars on Park street are indulging in a new game during the frosty weather. Nobody knows what the game is, and nobody knows, either, whether it is a favorite pastime with those taking part. It is a sort of a curling affair, with two players only. The skipper of the trolley is also the skip, the conductor is the player, the brow of the hill is the tee, or the 'button,' and the player is armed with the conventional broom with which he coaxes the stone (the car itself) along. As a preliminary warming up to the first round of the game, the car wheels are supposed to do a sort of stationary run at the foot of the incline. While the wheels revolve merrily, the car stands perfectly still for a few moments. Then it proceeds jerkily up the slope, coming to a stop frequently while the player descends with his broom and sweeps it along until it arrives at the tee. On the return journey down the hill, there is a variation in the play. The player descends with an axe and chops out whatever obstruction appears to be in the way of the 'stone's 'progress down the slope.

Whether this game will remain popular with the player for any length of time remains to be seen. It appears to be a cold weather pastime and there isn't much conversation accompanying it. From the demeanor of those taking part, it hasn't yet achieved any great degree of popularity amongst its devotees.

A NEW INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE FORMED

The agreements were closed on Monday at a conference attended by Tex Rickard and Tom Duggan, of Montreal, and details will be completed at a meeting here on Friday of next week.

The cities to be represented in the League are Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, New York and Boston. Madison Square Garden will be used in New York for the games and will seat about ten thousand fans. The schedule has already been drawn up, and the opening matches will be played here in the last week of next November, according to Mr. Duggan

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MET

King George Members Had Eventful Meeting --Elect Man as President and Consider Disbanding.

A somewhat eventful meeting of the King George Home and School Association took place last evening, resulting finally in the election of a gentleman instead of a lady to the presidency of the society, the commencement of a new year without the services of a secretary being available, and the inauguration of a new official in a convenor of membership, whose duties will be to drum up the membership. The officers for the new year are: President, Mr. James Ellis; Vice, Mrs. E. Scott; Treasurer, Mrs. P. King; Convenor of Refreshments, Mrs. W. Ebbs; Convenor of Membership, Mrs. H. Dodds; Convenor of Telephone, Mrs. F. Storey.

Last evening, a considerable discussion took place as to the advisability of the society disbanding at once. It was impossible to get any lady to take the office of president, and Mrs. J. Grierson, the secretary, tendered a written resignation, refusing to hold the office for another year. It was maintained that the average meetings of the society numbered only about six or seven members, and that the only time when a good attendance could be had was when the organization provided a "bun feed," the attendance on such occasions usually taxing accommodations, and proving somewhat fatal to the finances of the society.

A programme at last evening's meeting consisted of vocal duetts by the Misses Grierson and Hurl, and the Misses Girven and Grierson, songs by Grace Davis, Mabel Bettes, Howard and Wesley Bettes, recitations by Isabel Girven, Muriel Kemp, Olive Weese, Florence Weese, an instrumental selection by Miss Frances Edwards, a song by four little girls, "When You and I were Young, Maggie," the Sailors' Hornpipe dance by the Misses Edwards and Dunlop, and a dialogue, "Tending the Baby," by the Misses Ebbs and Grierson.

FORMER RESIDENT PETERBORO HOME

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sloan of Buffalo, New York, Who Resided in This City About 33 Years Ago See Many Changes

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sloan, of Buffalo, New York, are guests in the city of the former's brother, Mr. George Sloan, 518 Chamberlain Street. Mr. W. J. Sloan lived here about thirty-three years ago, and this is his first visit to Peterboro in that length of time. Born in the Bay of Quinte District, he removed with his parents to Peterboro in his early youth, going later to the U. S. A., where he was for some years superintendent of erection work for a big Cleveland concern, going into bridge and building construction work for himself in Buffalo about twelve years ago.

Mr. Sloan sees many changes in the city. "Why, most of George Street South was a swamp in those days, as I remember it," he said, "and none of the west end was built up. It gives me a great deal of pleasure to come back here after such a long absence, and its fine to see so many splendid manufacturing establishments in my old home town, and such a busy city growing up here. You know, I like Canada. The Canadians are kind, neighborly people, but, after all, give me the U.S.A. That's where we have the right spirit to make things go. There's progress over there. Men aren't afraid to invest their money in business over there, but here, why, say, a Canadian wouldn't put a dollar into a thing unless he could see ten of them coming back to him right away."

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Crown Prosecutor T. J. Rigney, K.C., of Kingston, conducting the prosecution in the murder trial of Henry Jack (Slim) Williams, charged with the slaying of Russell Campbell at Melbourne three years ago, brought his side of the case to a speedy conclusion early this afternoon after thirteen witnesses had been called. This number is but one less than that which featured the trial of Sidney Murrell, found guilty of the same crime, whose trial occupied two days, and was completed last night. The Williams trial opened when the court resumed to-day and Williams' fate will be in all probability be made known before evening. Both trials form part of the winter assizes, being conducted with Mr. Justice Lennox presiding.

CANADIANS FACE CHARGES IN U.S.

Two Bootlegging Rings Are Under Dissolution by Law--Methods Told

BUFFALO, Feb. 5.—Presentation of evidence against at l' ' 20 persons, many of them wel known Toronto and Belleville men, charging them with being principals in two distinct international ale smuggling rings, was begun yesterday before the Federal Grand Jury here by Assistant United States Attorney, John McGovern.

At the same time Federal A' rney McGovern exposed the methods and routes employed by international ale smugglers in smuggling contraband booze from Toronto into this country.

Indictments are being sought against mebers of the two distinct rings. The first, it is charged, employs a Toronto-owned gasoline cruiser in running huge shipments of ale from that city to Manitou and Payne Beaches, near Rochester. A second ring, employs a Lockport-owned cruiser and other vessels plying between Toronto and Lockport. Cargoes of both vesels, officials charge, have been making huge shipments of Toronto-made ale and porter. Other boats have been carting ale from Belleville to Rochester in large consignments.

Customs Officials.

In conection with the ale-running scandal, Assistant Federal Attorney McGovern charged that several known Canadian customs officials were acting in connivance with the ale smugglers. H also said that the ale runners were abetted by the methods of Canadian Customs men in allowing small gasoline cruisers to clear from Toronto, Belleville and other ports laden with ale for Cuba, Mexico and other countries, which it would be impossible to reach in these vessels.

Collector of Customs John Palace of Rochester and several other officials testified before the Grand Jury to-day. It is understood Palace told of seizing a truckload of 150 cases of Toronto ale on the aldder road near Rochester. He declared that the driver, Harry Raube, who will be sentenced to-morrow for complicity in a $14,000 mail robbery, told him the cargo was landed at Payne Beach by the "Orlana from Toronto.

The launch, according to Raube, pulled in shore near Manitou, and Payne Beaches, and signalled with a red light. Raube was caught flashing his lights out to Lake Ontario at the time of his arrest.

Customs men also testified to finding a 150-case shipment of Canadian ale in boxes marked "Cosgrave, Toronto," on a wharf at Manitou Beach. A boat was seen headed out to the lake.

Breweries Involved.

Several Canadians, resident of Belleville, who were arrested in connection with the Poultneyville rum ring, have testified to the methods employed in runing ale from Belleville to Rochester. It is said that their testimony may involve brewery and Customs officials as well as bootlegers.

Names of shipersp, consignees, cruiser crews, truck drivers and garage men engaged in at least three of these liquor escapades are said to be known to the Federal officials and weer taken before the Grandy Jury. Indictments will be asked against them. The presentation will continue to-day.

IS FOUND INNOCENT AFTER FORTY YEARS

PARIS, Feb. 6.—(United Press). —The action of the high Court of Appeals here in rehabilitating Louis Danval, druggist, after forty years of penal servitude for the supposed murder of his wife by arsenical poisoning, has lead to widespread agitation for a review of cases of asenical poisoning in the light of recent discoveries science has made, Danval, who is 78 years old, has been granted an indemnity and a generous pension for life.

Senator Louis Martin has now made application for the rehabilitation of Marie Capelle, who died seventy years ago. She was a tragic figure in a sensational trial in 1840 for poisoning her husband with arsenic and the controversy over her guilt or innocence stirred France under the reign of Louis Philippe.

There was no rea[illegible]y Marie, who was twenty-six, [illegible]d kill her husband, named Lafarge, because he was living comfortably on her money and they had not long been married. He ate a piece of cake, which she was supposed to have baked and died shortly afterwards. Three chemists failed to find arsenic in the body, but a fourth, Orfila, then famous, found an imponderable trace, and on the strength of this report the unfortunate woman was convicted. She was sentenced to life, and her pretty black hair completely turned white in one night. She was pardoned twelve years later, because of illness and died from the effects of her prison life.

The celebrated celebrated chemist Raspaid was called in the case but he could not arrive in time and the verdict was rendered. When he heard of it he gave vent to his famous remark: "It is possible to find traces of arsenic everywhere, even in the legs of the chair of the president of the Assises."

TRAPPED IN THE ALPS.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—An eagle measuring nearly 11 feet from wing tip to wing tip was caught alive at Meolans in the Alps. A few days before its capture the bird was seen to swoop down on a goat and kill and eat it. A trap was set and baited with a goat's carcass, and when the eagle returned he was captured.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL

AT THE ROYAL THURSDAY.

The feature the last half of the week at the Royal Theatre will be G. B. Samuelson's big dramatic spectacle, "The Hero of Ladysmith," with the famous London matinee idol, Owen Nares, supported by Lillian Hall-Davis and a big cast.

"The Hero of Ladysmith" is a big historical spectacle, the story of which begins at the Reindeer Hotel, Southampton, in 1898. Here is where the romance starts between Waverley, who later becomes "The Hero of Ladysmith," and a young English girl known as Blackie, daughter of the Innkeeper at Southampton. The setting of this romance, England in 1898, is colorful in the extreme and the exteriors help to round out the beauty of this love story back in Victorian Days.

Then the story takes strong dramatic twists and we see the black genius of Transvaal, Oom Paul Kruger, throw the gauntlet down to the British commissioners with the declaration, "Then it shall be war, and war that will stagger the British Empire," and then we find Great Britain plunged into the famous struggle in the veldts, and rapidly from England and her colonies come the responses of the volunteers to uphold Britain's prestige, and in Southampton, Waverley hears the calls and embarks for South Africa.

And then we see on the screen staged wonderful spectacles of the South African War, Magersfontain, Stromberg and Colenso, and the English power trembles under the onslaught of the wild Africanders, and even then Ladysmith and Mafeking are hemmed in and subjected to the horrors of a seige lasting long and weary months.

And here, Britain calls upon her national heroes, Lord Roberts and Kitchener of Khartoum, to save the day, and with the arrival of these two great leaders on the scene, the tide of battle swiftly changes and we find the Boers giving way to advance after advance on the part of Roberts, till we finally see the great day of the surrender of General Conje on the Modder river.

And here in the story is where Coropral Waverley comes through with spectacular colors to save the day. Waverley forms one of the beleaguered garrisons at Ladysmith and volunteers to carry word through the Boer outposts to General Buller at Pieters' Hill; and here we see the romantic and adventurous exploits of this Englishman going through the entire Boer forces and carry the message that is to save Ladysmith.

AT THE GRAND

"THE COVERED WAGON"

"The Covered Wagon," Emerson Hough's story of the great adventure of the Western pioneers in 1849, begins tonight at the Grand Opera House. For those who like thrilling shows, "The Covered Wagon" is very satisfying. The wild Mazeppa-like horsemanship, "skull and knuckle" combat, buffallo hunt, red-skin attack, William Tell gun play and swimming of whole caravans across deep water keep interest at a high pitch. Behind the episodes two great continuities serve to interest the spectator; the ever-moving epical conquest of the West and the struggle for the lovely Molly Wingate's heart and hand by two rival fighters of the Mexican war. Earnest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Johnny Fox, Guy Oliver, Lois Wilson, J. Warren Kerrigan and the others have established themselves as Boston favorites. Showings are given twice daily.

AT THE REGENT

THRILLING SCREEN SERIAL COMING TO REGENT

"Beasts of Paradise" Stars William Desmond and Eileen Sedgewick

The Regent Theatre has booked "Beasts of Paradise," the latest Universal chapter-picture. This film serial is said to be a thriller of the first water. It has as its stars two of the best drawing cards of the screen, William Desmond and Eileen Sedgewick both of whom have been seen here in several popular chapter pictures.

Universal has won laurels for itself in the care and discrimination it uses in making serials. The present Universal serial is a far different thing from the blood-and-thunder thriller of two years ago. Yet, the thrills are just as startling and the action just as dramatic. The improvement has been in the choice of stories, the acting, the settings and in the photography.

"Beasts of Paradise" was adapted from a combination of two stirring adventure stories. It deals with the search for sunken treasure, stolen from a gold-bearing ship by a raider submarine. Much of the action takes place on shipboard and on a tropical island. Wild beasts contribute important parts of the excitement. Although not an innovation in pictures, this phase of the plot has been developed with unusual care and interest, so much so that the thrills given to the story by the jungle situations long will remain vivid in the memory after seeing the film.

"Beast of Paradise" will begin at the Regent Theatre to-morrow. It is in fifteen chapters, one to be shown each week.

She can keep on getting her daily drinks. And nobody will be arrested for giving them to her.

So it looks like Lizzie still can have her daily dozes of alcohol — wood or grain.

HIGH HONORS TO WOODROW WILSON

Man Who Led the United States Through the World War Was Honored by Nation's Silence

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. Canadian Press. — Without pomp, yet with the highest honors in the power of the nation to bestow upon a private citizen, the body of Woodrow Wilson —war time president of the United States—was laid to rest to-day in the quiet little Bethlehem Chapel of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Sixty of the closest friends of the former president attended a brief and simple service at his home, and some four hundred found places in the Cathedral while the Episcopal service for the dead was conducted.

Twenty carriages composed the funeral cortege which moved slowly through the thinly populated section of the capitol, yet the entire route was flanked by dense masses of people who stood in silent tribute to the man who led their country through the great war. Congress stood idle in honor of the dead, government departments closed for the day and in many states the wheels of commerce and municipal and state governments halted for a few minutes as the funeral service progressed.

There were no military detachments in the cortege aside from a small group representing the army and navy, detailed as active pallbearers.

The catching of dogs in North Monaghan, he says, is up to the dog catcher appointed by that municipality.

WHOLE TOWN HELPS ITS OWN INVENTOR.

Municipal Council Led the Way in Helping Inventor Who Had Come to the End of His Resources.

OBERLEUTENSDORF, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 6.—(Associated Press). —This industrial town of 12,000 persons has voluntarily transformed itself into one great electrical workshop to assist Fritz Havlitzek, a local electrician, in his struggle to improve apparatus of his own invention designed to transfer electrical power without wires. Every man, woman and child in Oberleutensdorf consider themselves Havlitzek's assistants. Every house, every machine shop, every telegraph pole in the town has been placed at the disposal of the young inventor.

Just at the time when Havlitzek had nearly perfected the machine upon which he had been at work for years, his funds gave out and he found himself unable to carry on his endeavors. But the burgomaster and the town deputies quickly came to Havlitzek's aid and gave him money with which to continue.

Oberleutensdorf manufactures toys, textiles ,hats and steel goods. Every worker in town looks upon young Havlitzek as a second Edison, and the men of science who have seen his work predict great accomplishments for the local wizard of electricity.

COST OF LIVING INCREASED MUCH.

Has Taken a Jump of 65 Per Cent. Higher Since Before the War Started in 1914.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The cost of living now is about 65 per cent. higher than when the war started in 1914. This is the latest estimate by National Industrial Conference Board. It arrives at its figure by striking an average for the whole country. In some communities, cost of living is higher. Other places, it's lower.

Also keep in mind that the 65 per cent. figure is for a wage-earner with five in family.

In simpler terms, it now costs $1.65 to buy what cost $1 before the war. Also, a man must make $1.65 now to have an income equivalents to what $1 was in pre-war days. Interesting, for the individual to figure up and find how his income compares with "what should be," on this basis.

Do you live on a budget system —divide your income in advance, allowing so much for rent, so much for food, and so on? Here are the N. I C. Bard's figures showing how spending should be scientifically divided:

Out of a $10 bill, the board figures $4.31 for good, $1.77 for rent or other shelter, $1,32 for clothing, 56 cents for fuel and light, $2.04 for "sundries." These figures cover only the income actually spent. They do not include the 10 or 20 per cent. which experts say must be saved to provide properly for old age and success.

Consolation: While the board reports that it now takes $1.65 to buy what cost $1 before the war, an outlay of $2.05 was required in purchasing the same stuff at the price peak in July, 1920.

SIXTEENTH LEGISLATURE OF ONTARIO IS OPENED WITH USUAL CEREMONY

Many Legislative Measures Announced in Speech From Throne—Schools, Trade and Agriculture Affected.

TEMPERANCE ACT

TORONTO, Ont. Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—First session of the 16th legislature of the Province of Ontario opened officially this afternoon with all customary ceremony. After the election of Jos. E. Thompson, M.L.A. as speaker, Lieutenant Governor Cockshutt read the speech from the throne which gives indication of considerable government legislation to be brought down during the session. Among the various measures which the speech announces to be forthcoming is one "to make provision to enable the Government to secure an expression of opinion from the people with reference, to Provincial Liquor legislation.' Another is to provide the appointment of a legislative secretary for northern and north western Ontario. It is understood that this position will be given to Frank Keefer, M.L.A. Port Arthur. The speech after reference to the revival in trade in Ontario makes reference to Hydro saying that the problem of further power development now presents itself. Legislation is announced for the modification of the courses of study in elementary schools.

Better advertisement of Ontario in the Old Country and selected immigration with supervision after arrival is also announced. There will be a committee of the house selected to study the economic and of agriculture and make suggestions for legislative remedies. The government will encourage co-operation marketing of farm products. The re-organization of the highways department and more encouragement to county and township roads is promised.

Encouragement by means of bounty on iron ores will be given to mining and extension of the T. & N. O. Railway in the Lorraine district will be seriously considered.

Provision will be made for a separate minister of health.

The speech announces the re-organization of the Workmen's Compensation Board and its works.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Probably the most important forecast in the Speech from the Throne is the announcement of the introduction of legislation to make provision to enable the Government to secure an expression of opinion from the people with reference to the Provincial Liquor legislation.

"Among the measures which will be submitted to you for your consideration are Bills," read the Address, "to provide for the appointment of a Legislative Secretary for Northern and North-Western Ontario, respecting assistance to the iron ore industry, to amend the Companies Act, to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, respecting the Board of Governors of Toronto University, to amend the Department of Education, and to amend the Judiciature Act, to consolidate the insurance laws, to amend the Municipal Act, and for other purposes.

Electrical Energy.

In commenting on the operations of the Queenston-Chippawa development to which the sixth unit has been added, His Honor said: "Throughout the province the demand for electrical power has fully realized the anticipations of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, so that the problem that now presents itself is to make timely provision for the future requirements of the various districts."

Dealing with education it was stated that the Government intends to "modify and improve the elementary schools so as to simplify the courses of study, and bring them into more direct relation to the needs of the people. The question of providing better facilities for education in rural communities is receiving special consideration.

You will be asked to make adequate provision for all branches of education which have the right to look to the State for substantial assistance.

"In order that a larger share of immigration of agriculturists and domestic helpers may be attracted to this province from the Mother country," reads the address, "my ministers have made better provision for placing the advantages of this province before the Britisht peoples. Arrangements have been made for placing directly with the Ontario farmers a number of British boys who will in due course become useful Canadian citizens. It will be generally realized that the useful selection of immigrants and thorough supervision of their location in this province will tend to produce the best results for all concerned."

Agricultural Situation.

A committee of the House will be appointed to consider the agricultural situation with a view to forming a policy touching production, transportation, marketing and other conditions.

"It is to be hoped," say the speech, "that a spirit of co-operation will prevail, thus demonstrating the community of interest which exists between all classes of the people."

An endeavor will be made to advance the cooperative marketing movement.

Highways Department

In connection with the reorganization of the Highways Department efforts will be made to develop the county and township systems.

Provision will be made for the appointment from the members of an advisory board to bring a closer association between municipalities contributing to highway construction.

The Dominion's cooperation will be sought in the development of Northern Ontario through a bounty for the mining of Canadian ores. Satisfaction is expressed in the increased business of the T. and N.O. and an extension into Lorrain is under consideration.

The O.T.A.

The definite statement in the Speech from the Throne that "among measures which will be submitted to you for consideration," is one "to make provision to enable the Government to secure an expression of opinion from the people with reference to the Provincial liquor legislation," will need some amplification. It doesn't say anything about any definite time for securing an expression of opinion. The bare statement means that the machinery will be ready for a vote by the people.

With such an Act on the statute books, the Government could have a vote taken when it desired.

Premier Ferguson has stated repeatedly that the Act will not be changed until the people desire it to be changed and that there will not be a vote until sufficient people want it.

The Government will be the final judge as to the time when "sufficient people" do want to vote on the liquor question again.

CROSSES SAHARA

PARIS, Feb. 4 — The Sahara Desert has been crossed from north to south in five days and four hours by automobiles containing the French Military Mission from Colombechar, Algiers, to the Niger. The party started Jan. 25, and arrived Jan. 31, but this included supplementary reconnaisances of over 400 kilometers, the actual time being thereby prolonged to six days.

The vehicle used was a six-wheel Renault, ten horse power type,which recently successfully crossed the great sand dunes of Southern Tunisia in Southern Algeria. The New York Times correspondent was present on that journey which was subsequently continued to Wargia and Gardia across the terrible bad lands and lava rocks, showing the new type of car is able to go anywhere over the Sahara. It was then planned to make record time trips to Timbuctoo on the Niger.

BANKRUPT.

Seventeen out of every 200 farm owners in the 15 corn and wheat producing states lost their farms between 1920 and the spring of 1923. Hard times "wipe them out." Many others would have gone bankrupt, except for the leniency of bankers and other creditors.

About one out of every 100 business firms fail each year in the United States. So the farmer, as an institution, was hit about four times as hard by depression as the average business organization, in the matter of absolute disaster.

Life hasn't been easy picking for most of us, since May, 1920, when prosperity went on the rocks. But the farmer has been hit hardest of all.

A meeting of the Anglican Sunday School Workers' Association was held last evening in the Parish Hall of All Saints' Church. The President, Miss Clara Adams, was in the chair. The address of the evening was expected from Rev. Walter Cox of Lakefield, who was unable to be present. His place was taken by the Rev. Dr. Blagrave, who spoke in interesting fashion on Sunday school work, giving some helpful hints to the teachers present. A musical programme included a reading by Mrs. H. E. Connolley, an instrumental selection by Miss Madeline Willis, and a vocal solo by Miss Edith Tucker. The service of refreshments by the teachers of All Saints' Sunday School closed the evening.

PARIS AND LONDON DENY L. GEORGE INTERVIEW ALLEGING SECRET PACT BETWEEN WILSON AND CLEMENCEAU

Memorandum on Military Occupation of Rhineland Was Not Shown to Him During Peace Conference, Lloyd George Affirms — British Foreign Office Suggests He Had Simply Forgotten It Among the Many Documents He Considered.

CREATES SENSATION.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — With reference to an interview with former Premier Lloyd George published by the New York World yesterday and re-published in a sensational way by the London Evening Standard tonight, the Foreign Office has issued the following statement:

"An interview is stated to have been given by Mr. Lloyd George to an American paper, in the course of which he is made to express himself with indignation regarding his discovery in certain official documents recently forwarded to him of evidence that during his absence in London President Wilson and Monsieur Clemenceau had signed at the peace conference in Paris a 'secret compact' regarding military occupation of the Rhineland.

"The interview continues: 'I have always been attacked by many people in England as the villain of the piece. I have just received the document from the Foreign Office. The French now wish to publish the agreement between Wilson and Clemenceau, and desire me to agree. It is a little late to ask my consent: I have never seen the document before.

Asked Government's Consent.

The statement of the Foreign Office proceeds:

"These assertions should be read in conjunction with the following facts: "The Foreign Office has been notified that the French Government intends to prepare a Yellow (Blue) Book, concerning certain documents connected with the drafting of Articles 428 to 431 of the Treaty of Versailles. The consent of His Majesty's government to the publication of these documents is necessary, in view of the agreement reached by the peace conference under which the official records of the proceedings of the conference were not to be published.

"On January 22, the Foreign Office decided that before replying to the French Government, it would be only courteous to acquaint Mr.Lloyd George with the proposals, since in conjunction with President Wilson and M. Clemenceau, he had been concerned in the discussion of the matter. A letter was written on January 25, by a Foreign Office official to Mr. Lloyd George's secretary, asking him to ascertain whether Mr. Lloyd George had any objection to the publication of the documents, and enclosing the proof sheets.

Lloyd George a Party.

"There could be no doubt of the purpose of the Foreign Office ,nor of the nature of the communication, as the following sentences from it show: 'We feel that before replying to the French we ought to consult Mr. Lloyd George, who was one of the parties to the discussion at the peace conference from which these documents took shape. I have consequently been directed to ascertain through you as soon as possible whether he sees any objection from a personal viewpoint to their inclusion in the Yellow Book, provided presumably that the other Governments interested likewise raise no objections. Please return proof sheets with your answer.'

"No answer has been received, the proof sheets have not been returned and the first indication of the letter having reached Mr. Lloyd George's hands come from his alleged interview. It will be seen from the above that in on or two respects the interview as reported is not accurate."

Press Sensation.

The London newspapers are making a sensation out of Mr. Lloyd George's statement in an interview Sunday last that an agreement existed between Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau, regarding the French occupation of the Rhineland of which the then English Premier was unaware until the French government sought permission to publish the memoranda.

The Evening Standard, in a double column story, refers to Mr. Lloyd George's statement as a "disclosure which could not easily have been made public during Mr. Wilson's lifetime."

Officials expressed the belief that Mr. Lloyd George's statement has become greatly exaggerated since it was first made. They point out that the document to which he referred as having been secret is only one of many memorandums exchanged among the Big Four during the protracted negotiations regarding the Rhineland. Each of the Allied Premiers outlined his views on the Rhineland issue at the time and exchanged memoranda with their colleagues.

It was during this period that the British Premier returned to London to look after important domestic political developments. The theory is advanced that in the multiplicity of documents he was called upon to consider Mr. Lloyd George failed to remember specifically the memorandum respecting an occupation of the Rhineland which passed between M. Clemenceau and Mr. Wilson.

How Subject Arose.

Throughout the hour's conversation on Sunday, the former Premier did not appear to desire that a sensation be made of the Wilson-Clemenceau memorandum. The subject arose while he was discussing Mr. Wilson's character, his difficulties in Paris, and how events transpired to cause him at times to sacrifice idealism for allied agreement on various clauses of the treaty.

One such circumstance had just come to his attention, Mr. Lloyd George said. It was the agreement between Wilson and Clemenceau regarding the occupation of the Rhineland, the details of which he said he had never been acquainted with, that in fact he never knew that such a memorandum had passed between Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau on that subject until the previous day, when he had received an equiry from the British Foreign Office seeking permission on behalf of France for publication of the memorandum. A copy of the memorandum in question accompanied the inquiry.

Mr. Lloyd George said that this was the first intimation he had had that a Rhineland understanding between Wilson and Clemenceau had been embodied on paper. That he knew of the existence at least of a verbal understanding between Wilson and Clemenceau on the Rhineland question seems amply borne out by the fact that such a stipulation subsequently was incorporated in the Versailles Treaty.

Before Wilson Died.

At the Foreign Office to-night it was stated that only Mr. Lloyd George's permission was awaited before assuring the French government that there was no British objection to the publication. According to the official circles here there can be no question of the French government's intention not to publish the memorandum until after Mr. Wilson's death The French request for permission to publish in the event of Mr. Wilson's death was in Lloyd George's hands the Friday before Mr. Wilson died.

I.W.W. Bore Within Lumber Industry

CALGARY, February 7 (Canadian Press). — That the International Workers of the World, by organising the lumber dispute in Eastern British Columbia, is making an effort to tie up the entire lumber industry of the Dominion as a starting point to overthrow constitutional government and introduce Communism in its place, was the opinion expressed yesterday by John H. Hanna, secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, after giving full consideration to information he had received on the situation from every available source.

There was no doubt, he said, but that the I.W.W. was endeavouring to help the employees in that industry.

With their activities closely watched in the United States, the men behind this organisation are endeavouring to get a foothold in Canada, it was stated, and if they are successful in the lumber camps of British Columbia, Alberta, and other Provinces would soon be having the same trouble.

Concerted action to rid the country of these agitators should be taken immediately, it was stated.

The French Foreign Office Contradicts Implication That Publication of the Memorandum Was Withheld Until Wilson's Death — Deputies Indignant — One Official Declares Lloyd George Himself Proposed Occupation of Rhineland For Fifteen Years.

Says L. G. "Is Raving."

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Declaring that no secret pact between M. Clemenceau and Woodrow Wilson had been concluded, as alleged by Mr. Lloyd George, the former British Prime Minister, the French Foreign Officer issued a brief statement last night setting forth that the French Government reserved its reply to the allegations of Mr. Lloyd George until it was in possession of the exact text of the former Premier's utterance.

In the meantime part of the text of Mr. Lloyd George's interview, declaring that Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau had made a secret agreement for the occupation of the Rhineland in the face of his opposition, reached Paris just when the Chamber of Deputies was adopting resolutions of condolence on the death of the former president.

The report created a sensation in the lobbies of the Chamber. Andre Tardieu, for many years closely associated with Clemenceau, absented himself from the Chamber proceedings long enough to declare that Lloyd George's assertions were "stupid."

Await Full Text

The Foreign Office Communique was as follows:

"The French Government reserves its reply to the allegations of Mr. Lloyd George until it is in possession of the exact text. For the moment it contents itself with the declaration that it did not wait for the death of former President Wilson to ask consent of the British Government for the publication of a Blue Book containing documents relative to deliberations on the conditions of the treaty concerning the security of France, as well as treaty guarantees.

"On December 24, instructions to Count St. Alaire, (French Ambassador to Great Britain) were signed to this effect, and he made the necessary demand on January 8,1924. The French Government, moreover, knows of no document to which the insinuation of Mr. Lloyd Gerge might apply. There was concluded no secret pact between M. Clemenceau and Mr. Wilson, and if there were conversations between them during the absence of Mr. Lloyd George, the latter knew of the result as soon as he returned and he gave his approval on the morning of April 22, 1919.'

Why Ask Consent

Indignation was expressed by the Deputies in the lobbies at the apparent insinuation that the French had waited until after the death of Mr. Wilson before asking Mr. Lloyd George's permission to publish the documents. The general query was: "What was the reason for asking Lloyd George's consent to such pub lication, if it was a secret treaty between Clemenceau and Wilson and one to which Lloyd George was not a party "

At the French Foreign Office, surprise was great when the report was received. The first news was regarded as increditable; only when the partial text of the interview was handed to the French officials did they believe that the British statesman really said what was attributed to him. It was then announced that a reply would be forthcoming as soon as Premier Poincare, who was occupied in the Chamber, could be consulted.

M. Clemenceau was out for the afternoon and evening, but a member of the French delegation to the peace conference, who was aware of everything that occurred between Clemenceau and Wilson and between Clemenceau and Lloyd George, declared that the report was 'preposterous," and that Mr. Lloyd George was 'raving, if he really said what is attributed to him.'

This delegate added: "It was Lloyd George himself who proposed the occupation of the Rhineland for fifteen years to M. Clemenceau, at the same time promising to get President Wilson to agree."

Issuing Blue Book

The intention of the French Government to issue a Blue Book recording all the negotiations concerning the occupation of the Rhineland and other questions from which have developed differences with the British Government became known weeks ago, and it was officially stated at the Foreign Office that the consent of the British Government to the publication of documents in which Great Britain was concerned had been asked. No such request was made of Mr. Lloyd George, however, it was learned this evening, the explanation given being that Mr. Lloyd George had long ago ceased to belong to the Government.

A member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber, who has made a close study of the Treaty of Versailles and is acquainted with the circumstances of the negotiations, said it was astonishing that Mr. Lloyd George had waited until the death of Mr. Wilson to make the existence of the agreement public. He added that if such a secret agreement existed between Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau, it ceased to be secret if, as Mr. Lloyd George said, it was communicated to the British Government. The Foreign Affairs Committee had never heard of it.

Rome and Moscow Approved Accord

MOSCOW, February 7 Canadian Press). — Italian recognition of the Soviet Government probably will come within a few days, according to Maxim Litvinoff, who said yesterday that Mussolini sought to get the treaty signed last Sunday immediately following the news of the British recognition.

The Russian delegation in Rome, however, desired to confer with Moscow regarding certain points in the trade treaty.

U.F.O. TO INSIST ON RECOGNITION

Hon. Manning Doherty Intimated Farmers Will Refuse to Be Ignored As Official Opposition In Legislature.

TORONTO, February 7 (Canadian Press). — Although here has been no formal protest from the U.F.O. members of the Legislature at the Liberals being regarded as the official Opposition, it is understood that the Hon. Manning Doherty will have something to say about the matter when the time arrives.

He intimated that the U.F.O. group would refuse to be ignored, and that they would insist upon recognition under the Act which stipulates that a group of fifteen members must be regarded as an opposition.

Other members of the U.F.O., including the Hon. W. E. Raney, express similar views to that of their leader, Mr. Doherty.

However, in the election of Mr. Speaker, the Government recognised only the Liberals on the Opposition side.

Mr. Sinclair, the Liberal leader, congratulated Mr. Thompson on behalf of the Liberals, but there was no voice heard from the U. F. O. ranks.

Debate on Speech.

The debate on the reply to the Address from the Throne was proceeded with to-day in the Legislature, J. F. B. Belford (East Northumberland) moving the reply, and W. S. Haney (West Lambton), the youngest member o the new House, seconding it.

At noon the Conservative members were the guests of Premier Ferguson at luncheon, which was followed by a Conservative caucus, at which whips were chosen and legislation considered.

QUEBEC FARMERS ASK HIGHER RATE

Resolution Names $5 a Day For Jury Duty — Object to Daylight Saving.

MONTREAL February 7 (Canadian Press). — Declaring that if the Provincial Government undertook to help out a bank to the extent of $15,000,000 there was no reason why the farmers of the Province should not at least receive a similar "hand out," L. P. DeCourval of Victoriaville asked the delegates to the sixth annual convention of the United Farmers of Quebec here yesterday afternoon to pass a resolution to that effect.

His motion was defeated.

W. Bastien was elected president at yesterday's meeting.

Among the resolutions passed was one protesting against summer time clock advances and one asking that farmer jurors be paid $5.00 a day.

Freight rates for milk were objected to as too high, the Federal Department of Agriculture will be asked to appoint a Federal weigher of milk and butter, and the Provincial Department of Roads will be asked to bear the full costs of road construction in the future.

JOHNNIE BULL'S NEW TEACHER

LAST WHITNEY DIES IN OTTAWA

E. C. Whitney Built Up Fortune in North-West—Set Example During War By Patriotic Contributions.

OTTAWA, February 7 (Canadian Press). — Edward Canfield Whitney, philanthropist, capitalist lumberman, banker, and for twenty-eight years one of Ottawa's outstanding citizens died here yesterday.

The surviving relations are Mrs. Whitney and several nieces and nephews. One brother still survives, Albert Whitney, of Prescott, who was the oldest of the brothers.

The late Sir James P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario for many years, was another brother. A third brother, Edgar Whitney, died some three years ago in Montreal and another one died in the West some twenty years ago.

The story of Mr. Whitney's life is one of the romances of this continent. Educated in Ontario, he went west in the early days and was a contemporary of the late James J. Hill and other giants of commerce and railway construction in the North-West. There he built up a great fortune coming back to Ottawa about 1896.

His gifts, especially in later years, were enormous, although the general public heard of only a small portion of these benefits.

Mr. Whitney was born at Williamsburg, Ont., 79 years ago. A Governor of the University of Toronto, Mr. Whitney was a most generous supporter of that institution. He presented a residence to the men students at the University. He also donated to the University library a valuable collection of works on Egypt and its antiquities.

During the war years, Mr. Whitney set a wonderful example by his patriotic generosity. He was one of the most liberal contributors to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, the Canadian Red Cross Society and also subscribed largely to the various war loans.

He is credited with financing practically every one of the many political campaigns in which his brother engaged.

Remis Taxes in Hardship Cases

REGINA, Sask., Femruary 7 (Canadian Press). — Provision for the remission of taxes by an Order-in-Council in cases of great public inconvenience or of great hardship or injustice to individuals, is made in an amendment to the Saskatchewan Treasury Act tabled in the Legislative Assembly yesterday.

A report from the head of a department is required preliminary to the remission being granted.

BARE QUORUM IN FRENCH CHAMBER

PARIS, Feb. 7. —Cries of 'Resign! resign!" greeted Premier Poincare last evening after the tumultuous termination in the Chamber of Deputies of a test vote on the powers demanded by the Government to effect economies by decree.

The vote in favor of the Government on the proposed rejection of the article in the bill giving the powers asked for was less than half the full strength of the Chamber as now constituted, and a quorum was barely attained. The majority was 237, but only 16 of the Opposition voted.

The vote was by roll-call, on demand of fifty members. This procedure is rare in the Chamber, and the rule is that the members demanding the roll call shall be counted in the quorum, whether voting or not. Thus, the vote, was valid, and the motion of M. Herriot, the Radical leader, to reject the Government's demand for full powers was defeated.

Pandemonium reigned after the announcement, the Radicals, Socialists and Communists yelling in chorus: "No quorum! no quorum!"

Comparative calm finally was established, permitting M. Poincare to explain that the reduced vote was due to the fact that many members had left the Chamber, tired out by the all-day discussion of the amendments, in the course of which the Communists and Socialists vied with one another in obstructive tactics.

The president of the Chamber declared that a quorum had been attained and that the motion was rejected; whereupon the Chamber adjourned until to-day.

BERLIN SLIGHTS WILSON MEMORY

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—The attitude of the Foreign Office in refusing to extend official condolence on the death of Mr. Wilson has resulted in a revival of newspaper comment regarding the late president, in which the Government's action meets with approval in some quarters, while rebuked by others. The following official statement was issued yesterday:

"In response to an inquiry from the German Ambassador in Washington whether the condolences of the German Government on the death of Mr. Wilson shall be given official expression, the German Government informed Ambassador Wiedfeldt that an official expression of condolence by the German Government is to be dispensed with, but that the Ambassador may decide for himself whether and in what manner he may personally participate in the national ceremonies of mourning."

Incident at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — The flag over the German embassy flies at half mast out of respect to Woodrow Wilson.

It was run up this afternoon, two hours before the Wilson funeral services began. It will remain at half mast until midnight.

A little group of men, gathered near the embassy shortly after noon to see whether the flag would be half-masted. During the morning no flag flew from the staff over the embassy building.

A servant ran up the German ensign half way. The little crowd in the street cheered. Among the group was Paul Maloney, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., who, last night, with the aid of several taxi drivers, fastened an American flag over the front door of the embassy, where it remained until the police took it down this morning.

It was stated on behalf of Ambassador Weidfeld to-day, that instructions had come from Berlin to half mast the flag, as it was not the intention to show disrespect to Mr. Wilson's memory.

TOMB CLOSED ON AMERICA'S GRIEF AT WASHINGTON

"TAPS" SOUNDED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — A bugle softly calling "Taps" sang peace for Woodrow Wilson, sleeping in Bethlehem Chapel under the towering mass of the Cathedral last night. The same bugler had played the martial requiem for the Unknown Soldier.

As the bugle called, a woman turned away from the entrance to the stone crypt, leaving her dead to the mercy of God. And, at the end, there still stood beside the vault a friend who had battled death for him to the bitter end, who had shared in his triumphs and disappointments and kept vigil with him for more than a half score of years. Not until the great slab of stone had been swung back to close the vault did Dr. Grayson leave the chapel.

Mounds of Flowers.

Distant rumbling of saluting guns ushered in the day of the funeral. To the door of the "S" Street home, and to the chapel of the cathedral were the last simple rites were to be performed, poured an endless stream of flowers. The names of kings and the great ones of the earth and the names of loyal and humble friends were on these tributes.

Before President and Mrs. Coolidge with representatives of the Government and personal friends of the Wilson family had gathered at the house for the first service, thousands had taken their places along the way from "S" Street to the cathedral. The wide avenue was banked with people and kept clear of traffic by lines of military. Before the house stood the guard of honor, non-commissioned officers of the fighting services.

The casket had been placed in the library and before the services commenced, it was vouchsafed to friends to look for the last time on theface of the dead president. The three clergymen took their places at the head of the bier.

Service at Home.

Then Dr. Taylor, under whom Woodrow Wilson had sat during his years of presidential greatness, began to read.

"The Lord is my shepherd"—the comforting words of the Twenty-third Psalm carried through the rooms and up the stairs to the women of the household who waited on the landing.

Dr. Beach of Princeton, who had known the president in his "Old Nassau" days, besought Divine aid in the realization of the high vision of a world at peace that Woodrow Wilson had glimpsed and then Bishop Freeman of Washington read Scriptural passages which had been dear to the heart of the dead man.

As the last solemn words were spoken the honor guard came into the room. They stood a moment, and then lifted the casket to their youthful shoulders.

At Fairbanks, Alaska, which is in the same latitude as Iceland, three men were prostrated by the heat last summer.

BISHOP FALLON NOT MODERNIST

They Are All Infallible, He Said, But Not Unanimous--A Pretty Bad Thing.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Addressing the Catholic Women's League of Montreal here last night, Bishop Fallon of London, Ontario, scored the modernists in theology and a certain type of scientist who, he said, claimed infallibility, not only in their particular branch of learning, but also in matters connected with the Christian religion.

Of modernists, he said that it was with them "not a question of doubt or denial so much as utter loss of faith, it is rationalism run mad against supernaturalism. They are all infallible, but the misery of it is that they are not unanimous, and infallibility without unanimity is a pretty bad thing."

In regard to what he described as "the insolence and arrogance of so-called scientists, Bishop Fallon said that he could not go into a little ordinary secular university without meeting some infallible scientist, and "I am treated as a 'relic of the Middle Ages'—if they don't always say it, they always act it."

TRIALS OF INDIGESTION

Common Errors About This Trouble Into Which People Fall.

Many people so far misunderstand the digestive system as to treat it like a machine; neglecting it until it works sluggishly, then irritating it into work again by the use of purgatives. The stomach needs help at all times, but a study of the process of digestion will show that purgatives, as commonly taken, are seldom necessary and often harmful.

To safeguard your digestion the diet must be controlled. Over-eating is always harmful, but one must assimilate enough food to supply the needs of the blood. Remember, the blood has to carry nourishment to all parts of the body and find fuel for its energy. Hence when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work indigestion arises. Therefore the sure remedy for indigestion is to build up the blood. If you suffer from any form of indigestion choose your diet carefully and take wholesome nourishment. Above all, start building up your blood by taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then under the influence of the new blood supply, your digestive system will respond naturally, your appetite improve and your food will do you good. So begin to improve your digestion by starting to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now.

The new sales tax will not increase the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the pills through any medicine dealer at 50 cents a box, or by mail, post paid, at this price, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Nickle, Attorney-General, would appeal to the Privy Council against the decision of the First Divisional Appellate Court of Ontario, which directed that charges laid under the Bank Act against the ten directors and officials of the investigation be tried before a County Judge without a jury.

STOP NARCOTICS AT THEIR SOURCE

Peterboro' Trades and Labor Council Asked to Support Measure to Eradicate Traffic.

The regular meeting of the Trades and Laboud Council was held in the Labour Hall, George street, last evening and a large numebr of delegates were in attendance.

A communication was received from the Seattle Labor Council asking the local body to endorse a resolution protesting against the production of narcotics, opium, etc., in a larger quantity than is necessary for medicinal purposes, the resolution being addressed to the Congress of the United States and the Government of Canada, and desiring to enlist their good offices in the proper control at the source of production of these narcotics, which are doing such great harm to the people of both countries.

The election of officers, which was billed for the evening, was held over until the next meeting.

There was quite a long discussion on the subject of making the meetings more attractive to the delegates and it was finally decided to mix business and pleasure a little more, and hold a social evening at the next meeting on February, 20, after the regular business has been disposed of. A number of other matters for the good and welfare of the Council were dealt with, and the meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

EXPLOSIONS WRECK MUNITIONS PLANT

Disturbances Reported From Kharkov District of Russia.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press).—A Reuter's despatch from Riga, Latvia, says serious disturbances are reported to have broken out in the Kharkov district of Russia. Commissar Poluaroff with a considerable force of military is declared to be supporting the insurgents on whose banners is inscribed the words, "Life to Soviet Government without Communist dictatorship."

The despatch adds that explosions followed by fire have destroyed a large part of the great munitions plant at Tula, the capital of the Government of Tula, in Russia. The origin of the explosions has not been determined.

The correspondent cites a Moscow despatch as saying that the military authorities, in consequence of their distrust of the new officers, owing to the political proclivities of the officers, have decided to re-appoint their former Czarist officers.

LUMBER KING GRAVELY ILL

John R. Booth May Not Be Able to Attend Wedding of His Daughter to Prince of Denmark

OTTAWA, Feb. 7. Canadian Press.—Much concern is being felt over the condition of John R. Booth, Canada's veteran lumber baron, whose grand daughter, Miss Lois Frances Booth, will wed Prince Erik of Denmark in All Saints' Church here, on Monday.

"Old John R." who will be 97 years old on April 5th, has been ill of late, and it is unlikely that he will be able to attend the wedding which will unite the fortunes of a family whose name has been a household word in the Canadian lumber industry, with the Royal family of Denmark and of England.

There is speculation over the dowry which Miss Booth will bring to this interesting international event. It is now said that the fortune which will be furnished by J. R. Booth, the multimillionaire lumber king, will be about two millions.

INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

ORLAND DETERMINED TO DRAIN CESSPOOL OF THE COMMUNITY

Gifford Was Yesterday Given 24 Hours to Leave the District--Unbelievable Conditions Appear in Investigation of Death of Infant.

BURIED IN SHOE BOX

By a Staff Reporter

ORLAND, Feb. 7.—The aid of the authorities is to be invoked to clean up a cesspool of inquity that has polluted the moral atmosphere of this village and district for the past three years or more and which the respectable element has in vain tried to suppress. One objectionable character was yesterday given 24 hours in which to place himself beyond the confines of Brighton Township, a man and a woman are likely to be arrested on a charge of bigamy and the Medical Officer of Health is to be asked to close up a hovel which has been the rendevous of the people whose lives and conduct have shocked the community for so long

Matters Reach a Crisis

The standing scandal was brought to a crisis on Monday night of the past week, when a girl of 17, as recorded in The Examiner yesterday, while alone in a shack on the outskirts of the village, gave birth to an illegitimate child, which died of neglect, before the arrival of Dr. H. C. Rundle of Brighton, who came through the blizzard, which made the roads almost impassable and Mrs. W. J. Latimer and Mrs. Thomas Gilbride, who went from the village to the help of the unfortunate mother. The lifeless body of a male infant was found in a bucket under conditions too horrible to relate.

The young girl who was close to death herself, was removed to the home of Mrs. Kemp in the village where she is receiving the best of care. George Clifford, the young man, who had been living with the girl and who called the doctor and the neighbors when she was taken ill, was notified by Reeve Sam McColl yesterday to get out of the township within 24 hours since which time nothing has been seen of him.

The girl told Dr. Rundle that the man responsible for her condition, and who, she said, had promised to marry her, was a resident of Trenton, and that he was employed on a train running between that town and Toronto. She also informed the doctor that her mother, Mrs. O'Brien, and James Edward Ash, known here as Mike, had been living with her in the shack up to about a week ago, when they left to reside in Corbyville. She added that her mother and Ash had been married in Campbellford by Rev. Wesley Elliott of the Methodist Church last fall.

These facts Dr. Rundle has reported to Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr at Cobourg, and a charge of bigamy is likely to result. It is well known that Mrs. O'Brien is separated from her first husband, and that the latter is still living and is employed as a railway labourer at Oshawa.

Statement Confirmed.

The statement of the girl with regard to the second marriage has been confirmed. When The Examiner representative returned to Campbellford last night he looked up the reigords in the Town Clerk's office. A marriage license was issued to Ash by Town Clerk McGregor and the two were married by Rev. Wesley Elliott on 28th November last.

Dr. R. J. Wade, of Brighton, medical officer of health for the township will be asked to close up the shack as a place unfit for human habitation.

As the girl lay ill in bed, the snow was drifting in upon her through holes in the walls.

Has Bad Reputation.

This is the second time Gifford, who is a relative of Ash, has been chased out of the community. When he first appeared here he was accompanied by a young woman whom he passed off as his wife, and the two secured work with a farmer in the neighbourhood. In a short time the woman's real husband appeared and took her away. Later Gifford was beaten by a crowd of indignant residents for some flagrant misconduct and was ordered to leave the place. He returned recently and took up his abode in the Ash hovel.

On Friday last Gifford took the girl to the bush of a farmer near here, and the two cut wood with a cross-cut saw all day, but on Saturday the girl was unable to work.

Buried in Shoe Box.

Yesterday the remains of the infant, after the required death certificate and burial permit had been issued, were interred in the potter's field, in the cemetery of Hilton, by Constable Corey Barrow. The casket was a shoe box, obtained from a store in the village.

Orland's Haunted House.

There is a little frame house in Orland, with the windows boarded up, that has been vacant for over a year. Mike Ash some years ago was married to a Mrs. Booth and the two resided in the house referred to. The wife died one year ago last Christmas, and was buried at Hilton. Her grave was made on the side of a hill and the sexton followed the slope of the ground. The undertaker reversed the usual order that the remains were placed with the head toward the east, so as to have it higher than teh feet. Ash always claimed that his dear wife could not rest in such a position, and that she haunted her late home. eH left it soon afterward, and built a shack that has secured so much recent publicity. When spring came he took two of his friends to the cemetery, dug up the remains of his wife, and reversed her position in her grave. Learning later that he had violated the law he went to the township clerk, who knew nothing of the affair, and secured a permit for what he had already done.

The neglected house is falling into decay. No one can be found to purchase or rent it and there are superstitious residents who will not venture near it after dark.

There is no better community anywhere, no finer class of people in Northumberland county than those in Orland and district. The place, however, has had its one spot of moral leprosy, and the residents are determined that now is the time to wipe this out for all time. As soon as the O'Brien girl recovers an effort wil be made to place her in some charitable institution where some attention can be given to her training, so long neglected.

HOTEL LICENSES ARE VERY STRICT

If a Breach of the O.T.A. is Flagrant the License May Be Cancelled Entirely.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Every holder of a standard hotel license in this province will be held to strict accountability for any breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, according to the policy now put in force by the Board of License Commissioners for Ontario. If the breach be flagrant the license may be cancelled entirely. The License Board maintains that it wants every holder of a standard hotel license to understand that the law must be obeyed and that any breach will be visited with a thoroughtly investigation and fitting punishment.

From now forward when the board hears of a conviction the license holder is to be summoned before it to show cause why his license should not be cancelled.

MRS. CROOKS' SLAYER STILL UNIDENTIFIED

TORONTO, Feb. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Coroner J. W. Clendenan's jury inquiry into the death of Mrs. Martha Crooks, rooming housekeeper, of Jameson avenue, who was found murdered in her home on the morning of January 24, decided last night that the evidence produced by the police was not sufficiently strong to warrant a definite expression of opinion as to the identity of the murderer. Comparatively brief consideration of the evidence which had been submitted at the two hearings a week ago and last night resulted in a verdict finding that the woman "came to her death in her residence from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain caused by blows from a hammer in the hands of a person or persons unknown to us."

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one or two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

MILVERTON, Feb. 7.— (Canadian Press.)— The local northern juniors defeated the Clinton O.H.A. team 4 to 0 here last night. The visitors played well, while Schnuker's dexterous stops saved the locals from a tie score.

PET CAT SAVES FAMILY FROM DEATH

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Awakened by the constant meowing of their pet cat, Mrs. T. H. Hadden, Mintern avenue, found that the house was full of coal gas from a defective furnace. Her husband was unconscious. Throwing open windows she awakened five children and carried them out to safety, after dragging her husband to an open window.

J. A. LOUCKS IS MADE CHAIRMAN

Campbellford Board of Education Will Be Led This Year by Old Member of Board -- D. W. Douglas Declined.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7—At the annual meeting of the Board of Education held Wednesday night, Trustee J. A. Loucks was elected chairman for 1924. Trustee Douglas who has been chairman for the past two years, was nominated for re-election but declined to stand. Dr. Watson and Major Bygott were also proposed but withdrew and the election of Trustee Loucks was made unanimous. The new chairman has been a member of the Board for over 20 years, as the appointee of the Counties Council. He is well versed in parliamentary precedure and on previous terms as presiding officer has always insisted upon formality and decorum in debate.

There are now 14 members of the Board, the increase of one being due to the appointment of D. J. Lynch by the Separate School Board and every member was in his place last night. The following committees for the year were appointed, the first named in each case to be chairman:

Finance —O'Sullivan, Lynch, Arnold, Douglas.

Property—Hoover, Hall, Stephens Cock, Jeffs.

E. C. Dolman was re-appointed as member of the Public Library Board. He is at present in California by his duties as secretary have been temporarily taken over by Earl Greig, principal of the High School.

Principal Greig extended an invitation to the members to attend the High School commencement exercises on Thursday evening and gave a synopsis of the programme to be presented by the students and others.

It was decided to purchase uniforms for the Public School cadets. There is a fund of $120 on hand for the cadets and if they are fitted out with uniforms which will last at least five years the government will make a special grant of $1.25 per member.

Health Folks in Schools

Miss Reba Veitch, the public health nurse who has been sent here by the Provincial Board of Health on request of the local Board, requested permission to visit schools for the purpose of giving talks on health matters and observing the physical conditions of the pupils. She explained the nature of her work a sketch of which appeared in a recent issue of The Examiner. On motion of Drs. Richardson and Watson, the request was unanimously granted.

Principal Greig reported that two new 22-calibre rifles have been received from the Department, who required a bond from the Board that these would receive the best of care. No charge is made for them. The bond will be given.

Building Committee For 1924.

On motion of Trustee Stephens, Major Bygott and Trustee Hall were placed on the special committee that looks after the construction of the new High School, in the places of J. A. Irwin and J. C. Birmingham, no longer members of the Board. The others on the committee are: Trustees Lynch, Douglas and Dr. Watson.

Trustee Arnold asserted that the entire Board should be kept posted as to the progress of the work, and was told by Trustee Douglas that the fullest information was available at any time, not only to the members but to the citizens.

Increase in Insurance.

At present the amount of insurance carried on the new High School is $22,500. It was decided to increase this by $20,000, on motion of Dr. Watson and Trustee Lynch, and on motion of Trustee Benor, the placing of this insurance was left to the Building Committee.

Cost of Cymnasium Drain.

Trustee Douglas explained why the contract for the drain from the gymnasium had not been let by tender. No competition was possible, as an outsider could not come in and work on the building for which T. A. Brown has the contract. The latter would agree to do the work only on a cost plus basis, 10 per cent. on the cost of the actual cost plus $200. The Building Committee accepted the latter proposition. For line compressor Mr. Brown charged $21 a day, including the wages of an operator, a price which he had obtained from the Town Council for use on the Garry Street sewer, and for which he could at the time have rented the machine to the Sinclair Construction Company that have the contract for the tail-race excavation at the new power house.

The estimated cost of the work was $1,900, but it was later decided to use 12-inch instead of 9-inch tile, as the drain so equipped can be utilized by adjacent property owners. The actual cost was about $3,000, so that the Board saved money by paying a lump sum of $200 instead of the cost plus 10 per cent.

Paying for Coal.

The question of whether the board or Contractor Brown is to pay for the coal required to heat the new High School while in process of construction, was again discussed. There is nothing in the contract covering this point. Dr. Richardson, Trustees Hoover, Benor and Arnold, maintained that the Board was under no obligation to do so. Other members sought further information before declaring themselves. Trustee Douglas said that the architect had said that in such cases it was customary for the board to provide the fuel, and that it was in the interest of the public to do so in order to protect the building. When the town of Renfrew recently put up a new school building the board paid for the heating.

Coal to the value of about $50 has been ordered but the question of

D. W. DOUGLAS.

Chairman of Campbellford Board of Education for the past two years, who last night declined a third term. Trustee Douglas was the only member of the Board of 1923 who was re-elected by the people last January.

who is to pay the bill is yet in abeyance.

On motion of Trustee O'Sullivan, Thustees Hall and Lynch were appointed a committee to correspond with boards that have recently erected new schools, to ascertain whether they paid for the fuel required while the contractor was at work.

Work on the new school is proceeding rapidly as the board is very anxious to occupy the building before midsummer in order to get the increased government grant for 1924.

WILLIAMS WAS FOUND GUILTY

Murrell Called By Crown As Witness — Jury Recommends Convicted Murderer to Mercy.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 7. Canadian Press. — Henry J. Williams, also known as "Slim," and a member of the gang which terrorized Western Ontario three years ago, was yesterday found guilty by an assize jury of murder, in connection with the killing of Russell Campbell, at Melbourne on April 11, 1921. The verdict carried with it a recommendation to mercy.

Sydney Murrell, who was on Tuesday convicted of the same murder, and Williams, will both be sentenced by Judge Lennox before the close of the court, and the plea for mercy will be forwarded to the Department of Justice at Ottawa.

The Judge's charge was strongly against Williams, and His Lordship pointed out to the jury that where one or more take part in a felonious enterprise in which murder occurs all are equally guilty in the eyes of the law.

Williams, said the Judge, had not fired the shot, but he had taken part in the conspiracy which resulted in the killing of a man.

At 7 o'clock the court adjourned until 8, when the jury announced it had reached a verdict. At ten minutes past eight o'clock the court reassembled and Williams was led back to hear his fate. He seemed pleased when he heard the recommendation to mercy.

The case against Williams was handled most expeditiously by the Crown and it went to the jury at 5:15 o'clock.

The only surprise of the day came when T. J. Rigney, for the Crown, asked that Sidney Murrell, who was on Tuesday convicted of murder, be brought into court and asked to testify. When Murrell was led into the court, heavily manacled, and between two officers, he addressed the bench:

"Your Lordship," he said, "I understand the Crown is using me as a witness."

When informed that this was a fact, Merrell declared: "Then I refuse to testify."

Asked by the judge what he meant by such conduct, the prisoner stated that on Tuesday the Crown had refused to believe his story and he could not expect the court would believe it now.

However, he thought better of the matter, and when Mr. Rigney questioned him he replied freely enough.

EVENING GROSBEAKS VISITED OGDENSBURG

PRESCOTT, Feb. 7.— (Canadian Press.)— A flock of evening Grosbeaks were seen on Tuesday in Ogdensburg by a nurse on the lawn at the Hepburn Hospital. The sight of these birds is extremely rare in this section. The evening grosbeak resembles the resplendant Baltimore oriole in many particulars, and its song is a clear robin-like whistle.

CHILD BURNED FACE ON STOVE

EAST EMILY, Feb. 7.—The annual meeting of the patrons of East Emily cheese factory was held last Friday. Nearly all the patrons were present and discussed the business for the coming season. The old officers were re-elected as follows:

President—Eugene Switzer.
Secretary—John Collins.
Treasurer—Ira Switzer.
Directors—Pat McCauliffe, Herman Franks and William Fee.

The factory is to be run a little differently this year, the patrons not being altogether satisfied with past seasons.

They are advertising for a cheese and butter maker, and will put a churn in the factory also.

Child's Face Burned.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Doran are sorry to learn that their third little boy had the misfortune while playing around the house last Friday to get up on the arm of a rocking chair and fall off against the stove, burning his face quite badly.

Hurt at School.

Master Clifford Boate had the misfortune to get a nail run in his foot at school one day last week. Some of the children were down in the basement and there were some loose nails lying around the floor. But we are pleased to know Clifford is able to walk on his foot again.

Postpone Meeting.

The vestry meeting, which was to be held in St. James' Anglican Church on Tuesday night, was postponed on account of the inclement weather and bad roads.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Clarke entertained a number of young people at their home last Friday evening.

AMERICAN INVENTOR COMMITTED SUICIDE

CAMDEN, N.J., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press.)— Fearing insanity as the outcome of his years of effort to devise a speed machine which would revolutionize transportation by providing a safe travel at 400 miles an hour, Prof. Elza J. Christie, inventor, scientist and astronomer, committed suicide in a hotel here yesterday.

"I have taken my own life because I would rather die now than spend the rest of my life in an insane asylum," he wrote in a note addressed to the coroner, who found the body, with a bullet wound in the head.

At the time Christie told a friend he had come to Camden because it was quiet. He was full of enthusiasm for success of his ideal, which in involved applictaion of the principle of gyroscope to some new form of locomotion. He had been experimenting along this line for many years.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

HAIR.

A professor in Japan invents a hair tonic that is taken internally. There is nothing new about this, for rash idiots on many occasions have been known to drink hair tonic. The exceptional feature is the Jap's claim that his liquid, after being swallowed, actually does make the hair grow.

Some American scientists are having a quiet laugh. But it is quite possible to make the hair grow by taking medicine to stimulate the thyroid gland. This gland regulates many things, including the copiousness of hair and the whiteness and strength of teeth. The body is a chemical machine.

TIPS

A head waiter at Palm Beach, it's claimed, makes $40,000 tips in the season of 10 weeks. At other times he works elsewhere. His income is estimated at $70,000 a year, and he drives a Rolls-Royce. His Palm Beach headquarters is a "swell hotel," and he is quoted as saying his average tip is $5.

People rave a lot at the tipping system. But most of them like to pay the tips, after all. It's a manifestation of "pecuniary honorific"—displaying the ability to pay.

Sleeplessness

Sleeplessness, like insanity, is greatly on the increase. Modern life, with its hurry and worry and noise, brings an enormous strain on the brain and nerves.

The temptation to depend on sleeping powders or tablets must be fought off if you would avoid catastrophe. Means of reconstructing the starved nerve cells must be sought. Since the digestive system fails to supply nourishment to the blood and nerves it is necessary to employ such treatment as DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD to instil new strength and energy into the tired nerves. This is Nature's way of affording lasting relief.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been increased to 60c. the box now contains 60 pills instead of 50 as formerly.

CANADA'S SHOWING.

It may possibly be that the comment of the New York Times on what it terms the "poor showing" of Canada at the Olympic winter games may have been inspired to some extent by chagrin at the defeat of the American hockey team by the Canadians, yet there is nevertheless more than a grain of truth in the article.

Canada's hockeyists did everything that could be expected of them, but it must be admitted that, considering the climatic advantage so far as winter sports are concerned enjoyed by his country, Canada's representation in the Olympic sports was decidedly meagre.

Outside of the hockey series the Maple Leaf was represented by only three skaters, one speed skater and two in the fancy skating classes.

In the other events—skiing, bob-sleighing and curling—there were no Canadian representatives.

With such an unlimited opportunity offered by the Canadian winter for practice in these sports, it is surprising that the Dominion did not have a much larger team at Chamonix, and that in spite of the magnificent hockey triumph our total of points should only have reached eleven.

Nevertheless there is a strong feeling not only in Canada, but apparently among the representatives of the various countries represented in France, that hockey being the principal team competition of the winter section of the Olympic games, it should be recognized by the award of many more points than have hitherto been granted for this sport.

A USEFUL WORK.

The Eastern Ontario Liberal Association, in calling the attention of eligible voters of all shades of politics to the importance of making sure that they are on the voters' lists is performing a public service of considerable importance.

A clear-cut announcement of how the lists are prepared and what electors should do to protect themselves from being left off, has been made, and it contains all the necessary information in a concise form.

Emphasis is put upon the fact that it is not necessary for a man or woman to own property or be a tenant or have an income or pay taxes in order to have his or her name entered on the voters' lists as a Parliamentary voter.

Some confusion has arisen occasionally through persons neglecting to see if their names are put on part 1 of the voters' lists in cities, towns, villages and rural municipalities, and concluding that because of the non-printing of part 3 that they have been omitted.

"Part 1 includes the names of all persons who are entitled to vote at municipal elections and Parliamentary elections.

The association points out the duty of every person regardless of their political views to assist the assessor in every way possible to secure as complete a list as possible of those who are eligible to vote.

OUR HISTORY.

The Canadian Historical Association is appealing for more members, and this useful national association is commended to the attention of Peterborough citizens who are interested in the encouragement of historical research, the adoption of better and more effective methods in the teaching of history in Canadian schools, the development of a live public interest in the records of our past and the co-ordination of the work of other historical societies, Provincial or local, throughout Canada.

Much has already been accomplished along these lines by the association, the executive of which during the past year have interested themselves in the preservation of several landmarks, the organization of the Parkman Centenary and the inception of a scheme of illustrated popular lectures on Canadian history.

The majority of us know all too little about the history of either the district in which we live or of Canada generally.

Historical landmarks that should have been preserved have been allowed to pass away.

There has been carelessness in keeping records that were rich in value because of the light they might have thrown upon important events in the early days of Canada.

The Canadian Historical Association is endeavouring as a national contribution to make up for this neglect and carelessness and to instil into Canadians, whether by birth or adoption, a love for the history of their country.

It is a splendid work and deserves support.

RURAL EDUCATION.

Hon. J. S. Martin, the Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, has been giving utterance to some ideas in regard to rural education that should commend themselves to those who have been worrying over the drift into the cities from the farms.

The Minister of Agriculture believes that the perspective of the country boy or girl must be changed, that it should be one of the chief objectives of the rural schools to instil into the minds of its pupils that in the pursuit of agriculture along advanced and businesslike lines there lies every prospect of success and happiness.

Too many country school boys are impressed with the idea that the goal most to be prized is entrance into [illegible] of the professions and that there is nothing [illegible] life.

[illegible] reason to be [illegible] water in St. [illegible]

ing on a scientific and systematic basis, and so thoroughly successful were his efforts that he has won international fame, as well as a fortune or himself, inside of twenty years.

He is convinced that what he has done can be accomplished by others, and that it should be the aim of the rural schools to emphasize the future that lies before agriculture if that industry is built upon a scientific basis.

There seems to be much common sense in that argument.

Despite the efforts of both Provincial and Federal Governments and the vast sums of money that have been expended in helping agriculture, it must be admitted that there is a lot of primitive, almost foolish, farming even in Ontario, and Hon. Mr. Martin's suggestion that rural education should concern itself with impressing upon the country boy and girl the wisdom of adopting modern methods and with the opportunity for independence and affluence that such methods would furnish, might do much to offset this condition of affairs.

The Minister should develop his idea and seek to sell it to his leader, the Hon. G. H. Ferguson, who is holding the portolio of the Minister of Education.

LORD HALDANE'S SALARY.

There is certain to be a good deal of comment and speculation regarding the action of Lord Haldane in sacrificing his salary of ten thousand pounds a year as Lord High Chancellor and drawing only the mere six thousand pounds per annum to which he is entitled as one of the Lords of Appeal, says the Montreal Star. It is a substantial sum to turn into the Government's coffers, and it will doubtless embarrass the Chancellor of the Exchequer. But that is not the main fact to be noted. This act of Lord Haldane's is sure to be used as an argument by a certain section of the Labor Party when there is talk of economy and retrenchment.

It is quite probable that the whole question of salaries for the more or less decorative positions under the Crown will be raised shortly. Lord Haldane has given the Labor Party a handle to their lever and of this they will not be slow to take advantage. Of course, the mere reduction of a salary is never necessarily a final act, and Mr. MacDonald is too cautious a man to attempt any sweeping changes along these lines until he is seated far more firmly in power than he is today. The Chancellor's voluntary abandonment of his salary is tempered as an act of sacrifice, moreover, when it is borne in mind that Lord Haldane is a comparatively wealthy man, to whom this amount will not mean privation. He has clearly taken the step as a matter of principle, and it is on that ground that it will prove significant for the future. His action obviously creates no precedent, however, and it would be quite legal and proper for any succeeding Chancellor to draw both salaries if he holds both offices and feels so inclined. The force of example in high places is not always found to be compatible with convenience.

TRIBUTES FROM TEXAS.

A tribute is paid to Canadian justice and Canadian methods of dealing with that modern genus, the gunman, by a couple of Texas papers in recent issues, who deplore the ease with which these modern bandits can elude the net of the law in American courts.

"A bank bandit who escaped and was recaptured has been sentenced by a Toronto (Canada) judge to life imprisonment and 30 lashes. It is to be feared that all the intending bank bandits in that neighborhood will promptly emigrate to 'the States.'"

The Dallas Morning News, discussing the same subject, comments:

"Practically all the bandits who would like to operate in Canada are operating in the United States. The reason why they don't operate in Canada is because the Canadians have such little patience with a bandit they hang him if he kills anybody and put him in prison for life or a very long term if he robs without killing. A gunman brought to trial in Canada has about as much chance of escaping conviction, if guilty of crime, as an Eskimo has of plucking posies at the North Pole. For this reason the genus gunman is practically unknown in Canada. Once in a while a lone bandit or a set of bandits do pull a job in Canada. Invariably it is near the international boundary line, and as soon as they pull it they hot-foot for this side of the boundary. If captured in Canada the jig is up with them and no foolishness about it. They are put in jail at once, tried right away and sentence immediately. They are neither bailed out nor pardoned out. The result of this sort of thing is such as to rid the Canadians of their criminal types. Thugs leave that law-enforcing country and settle in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities of our hospitable country, where banditry is relatively profitable and comparatively safe. Bad men stand in awe of Canadian courts. They do not stand in awe of American courts. In fact, our courts are so considerate of criminals that our country attracts them from all over the world. We shall have to do something about it some time. In the meantime it is dangerous to carry pay roll money any distance between the bank and the paying office in our so-called most civilized cities."

Babylonia Liked Beer; Tablets Reveal Recipes.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—French archeologists have just discovered that among the sins of Babylon was the low habit of beer drinking.

Whether or not that contributed to the downfall of the great emprie is not stated, but it is definitely established from cylindrical tablets just translated, that Babylonians under the reign of Hammurale advertised their favorite brands, which they doubtless sipped in the Hanging Gardens while they discussed archaic politics and pensively watched the muddy Euphrates flooding by.

French reports from the Academy of Science declare that Babylonian brewers thrived 2,800 years before the Christian era, and that henceforth the claims of Munich, Vienna and Stratsbourg as the beer capitals of the world must be considered as German ersatz frauds. The tablets not only advertise beer, but give clear recipes.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Butchers' cattle were firm and in instances better by 10 to 15 cents a cwt. than on Monday.

The demand has fallen off somewhat but this is enabling packers to keep their coolers supplied without having to make competition too keen. Buyers are, however, complaining generally of the poor finish even in the best cattle and say the farmers are skimping the feed. Good medium butchers are selling in cases up to 6¼ cents. Cows and bulls are steady with good cows up to 5 cents.

The light run of calves stemmed any impending decline and today's market was steady to firm. Bunches of good calves were taken at 12½ cents and 13 cents was made for choice ones. Medium calves sold at 11 cents and heavy ones at 9 cents.

Lambs turned almost a dollar a cwt. firmer today. Fred Dunn sold a bunch at 14½ cents and others brought 14 cents. No lambs worth while were available at less than 13¾ to 13¼ cents. Sheep were firm at 8 cents a pound. Heavy lambs are 13 cents for the ewes.

Hogs firmed this morning and packers increased their bid to $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and sellers were holding out for $7.75. One outside packer was bidding $7.65 a cwt.

HARD WINTER ON MAIL CARRIERS

Rural Routes Have Been Frequently Drifted and Mail Delivery Occasionally Delayed — Faced Stormy Weather.

BALIEBORO, Feb. 7.—Monday and Tuesday's wind and storm, again left the roads very difficult for traffic. Mailmen were unable to travel their beats, and practically no traffic has been seen on the roads during Tuesday. This year has been an exceedingly rough winter for mailmen, and it is some years since the mail carriers who travel on the rural routes have had so much rough and stormy weather to face. During the entire winter the north and south roads seem to have been lying in the right direction to receive practically all of the snow that has blown. While the pathmasters on the east and west roads have had a rest from digging snow banks on their beats so far this year.

Teachers' Training Class

The members of the Centreville Presbyterian Sunday School are planning to start a "teachers' training class." Already quite a number of the young people of the Sunday school have joined the class.

The class will be instructed by the pastor Rev. A. H. McConnachie, and the meetings will be held on Sunday evening in the church, as the regular church service is held in the morning. Anyone who wishes to enjoy these meetings are to be made welcome at the Sunday evening meetings. This is a splendid training for both old and young, and prepares them for work in the Sunday School.

Personal Mention.

Those from the district who attended the funeral of the late Sandy Lockington of Port Hope on Saturday last were: Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Whittington, Messrs. Harry and Wilbur Barnard.

The members of the Guild of the Anglican Church are busily engaged preparing a play, which they intend producing within the next few weeks.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

Warning Patronage Closes Cologne's Home Breweries

COLOGNE, Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—The little home brew beer shops of Cologne, one of the town's well-known institutions for some 200 years past, have about disappeared.

They were popular because many Germans use do believe they could, and did, make better beer than the big breweries. But this point of view has been changing for years: customers have been deserting the small places, and the last of them has given over its efforts to hold on to the past and, deserting its cellar vats, has become converted into a regular beer hall, dispensing the standard brands.

SMALL DWARF STILL AT LARGE

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—Aided by his small stature, a dwarf known as Fritz has been making a good living by robbing baggage cars.

It was Fritz's habit to ship himself in a trunk, comfortably lined, and provided with enough food and drink to last a week. In baggage cars or in freight sheds, alone and at night, Fritz would emerge, rifle trunks, and take the best of the loot back to his own box. Another trick was to change the destination address on trunks, the contents of which were valuable, sending them to a confederate.

The police have the box, but Fritz is still at large.

DICKSON WRITES FOR LEGAL ADVICE

Asks His Cousin, a Lawyer, How He Can Refute Murder Charges of Police.

Says He Will Not Talk.

BRIDGETON, Feb. 6.—Thompson Dickson, who is in jail here charged by his father, Benjamin Dickson, eighty-two, with beating his daughter, Emma, a fifteen-year-old Millville High School girl, to death with a club, wrote a letter yesterday to Roy Oliver, his cousin, a Port Elizabeth attorney, asking for advice on how to conduct his defense.

The accused father, who has stoutly maintained his innocence since his arrest, set forth in his communication to his relative that he was without funds, and while making no attempt to induce Oliver to defend him, asked suggestions on how to refute the case the police made out against him.

It was pointed out by the authorities tonight that Dickson wrote to his cousin three days after Emma disappeared and stated he had thought she had eloped.

"We know who was in the house when that letter was written," said County Detective Lore tonight. "That person is high in the community around Port Elizabeth and will prove an important witness."

Dickson's recent letter, authorities say, is simply another attempt on the part of Dickson to foil the damaging case which the detectives have built up around the man accused of killing his own daughter and trundling her body away in a wheelbarrow to the lonely spot along the Cape May highway where it was found.

The girl's body was discovered on September 22 in a clump of bushes two miles from Port Elizabeth, where she made her home with her father and grandfather. She disappeared on September 13.

It also was learned tonight that the murdered girl had a small estate, estimated to be worth upward of $1,200. Prosecutor Ward, who ordered the arrest of Emma's father after the grandfather's charges, is trustee for some $600 or $700 of this money. It is said to have been left to the slain girl by an aunt.

Dickson is under constant surveillance in a cell on the third floor of the Burlington County Jail here. Detective Lore announced tonight that he would attempt to get a confession from the prisoner, whose coolness in the face of the charges against him has been a cause of wonder to all those investigating the case.

"I know this man is guilty and I am going to make him confess," said Lore.

Lore said he was anxious to obtain a confession without delay, because Benjamin Dickson has been in a state bordering on collapse since accusing his son. Owing to the advanced age of the grandfather, Lore also fears doubt will be thrown on his accusations by a jury if the old man is depended on alone to convict his son when the case comes to trial.

"The truth will come out," said Thompson Dickson yesterday. "It may be too late to save me. I'll go to the electric chair before I will open my mouth again. The man who says I murdered my little Emma lies.

"I have no fear of death. This is something we all have to meet. If anybody innocently goes to the electric chair it is an honorable death."

MILLBROOK, Feb. 7.—The February meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. E. Burnham, over forty being in attendance in spite of the unfavorable weather.

The President, Miss May Needham, took charge of the opening exercises and the discharge of routine business, the Secretary, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, reading the minutes and the Treasurer, Miss M. Duncan, calling the roll and collecting the fees. The aid decided to hold a domestic sale the last Saturday in February, a committee being appointed to attend to necessary details and secure a vacant store, or other suitable place for the occasion.

At the conclusion of the business session the "Wide Awakes" group of Canadian-Girls-in-Training, which had been invited to give the programme at the meeting, arrived from school and the following numbers were rendered:

Scripture reading — "Witnessing and Promises," selected passages by the group, each member having a verse.

Lord's Prayer, sung softly.

Chorus—"Smile," by the group, Marjorie Sayles, Hazel and Flossie McMahon, Elsie Spence, Gladys Tucker, Bertha Lang, Eleanor Fallis, Wilma Fallis, Vera Weeks, Jean Burnham, Lillian Sanderson and Margaret Lang.

A hearty vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs Burnham, for the hospitality of her home and to the girls for the entertainment provided, was moved by Mrs. A. J. Brown, seconded by Miss A. Hampton, and responded to by all present by a warm clapping of the hands.

NOBILITY.

A million dollar jazz palace, where unemployed counts and barons will be employed as dancing partners and hosts, will be built in New York.

Isadore J. Faggen invented this wonderful idea.

Some humorists consider it funny. Rather, it's pathetic. Not that we are sorry for nobility forced to hunt a job. We'd like to force honest work on some of the parasitic noblemen who stay in Europe, bankrupt, and plot politically or set their traps for American heiresses.

The former nobleman who is willing to work as a dancing partner or waiter, to make an honest living, has our respect to the hilt.

COTTON

A cotton famine is apt to start about next May 1, F. Holroyd predicts. He is president of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners' Associations.

He points out that England, which bought 8 per cent of its cotton from America in 1913, now buys only 65 per cent. here. Egyptian cotton is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

The boll weevil has been gradually destroying this giant American industry. Poison gases scattered by airplanes may be the eventual solution.

AMBITION

A girl in South America, Miss Harrison, swam across the River Plate where it is over 26 miles wide. She had to swim for 24 hours and more. This is exceptional in everyday life. But thousands of people have swum farther and longer, at sea when their ships went down.

Our possibilities are super-human, provided we have the necessary goal. Goal is Ambition. The higher our ambition, the higher we are apt to get. Life, after all, is a swim across a wide river.

STAIN ON MATTRESS.

A stain on a mattress can usually be removed by covering with a thick paste of laundry starch and soap jelly. Let it remain until perfectly dry then brush off with a whiskbroom.

LIV.

As they left the boathouse an hour later and walked up the steep path to the camp, once more that sense of coming disaster drove into her mind and banished the memory of the past hour, when she had forgotten it. What did it mean? She recalled that she had had dark presentiments before in her life, and they had always come in the form of this sudden mental invasion, as if some malignant homeless spirit exulted in being the first to hint at the misfortune to come.

But the camp was silent. Every one, apparently, had gone to bed, and slept the sleep of valiant souls and weary bodies. One lamp burned in the living-room, and Clavering turned it out and they parted lingeringly, and she went up to her room.

She had barely taken off her coat and scarf when she heard a tap on her door. She stared for a moment in panic, then crossed the room swiftly and opened it. Mr. Dinwiddie, wrapped against the cold in a padded dressing-gown and with noiseless slippers on his feet, entered and closed the door behind him.

"What has happened?" she demanded sharply. "Something. I knew it!"

"Don't look so frightened, my dear. I have no bad news for you. Only it's rather annoying, and I knew I shouldn't get a word alone with you in the morning."

"What is it? What is it?"

"I had this telegram an hour ago from Trent." He took a sheet of paper from the pocket of his dressing-gown, covered with handwriting. "Of course those bumpkins down in Huntersville took their time about telephoning it up. Luckily the telephone is over in Larsing's room——"

Mary had snatched the paper from his hand and was reading it aloud.

"Hohenhauer took morning train for Huntersville stop will spend night there and go to camp in morning stop must see M. X. stop don't let anything prevent stop very important stop he will not ask you to put him up stop thought best to warn you as you might be planning expedition. Trent."

"Hohenhauer!" exclaimed Mary, and now, oddly enough, she felt only astonishment and annoyance. "Why should he come all this way to see me? He could have written if he had anything to say."

And then she added passionately, "I won't have him here!"

"I thought perhaps you'd rather go down to Huntersville to see him," said Mr. Dinwiddie, looking out of the window. "Besides, he would make thirteen at table. I can take you down in the morning and telephone him to wait for us at the same time I order the motor to be sent up."

"I don't know that I'll see him at all."

"But you must realize that if you don't go down he'll come here. I don't fancy he's the sort of man to take that long journey and be put off with a rebuff. From what I know of him he not only would drive up here, but, if you had gone off for the day, wait until you returned. I don't see how you can avoid him."

"No, you are right. I shall have to see him—but what excuse can I give Lee? He must never know the truth, and he'll want to go with us."

"I've thought of that. I'll tell him that Trent is sending up some important papers for you to sign, and as some one is obliged to go to Huntersville to check up the provisions that will arrive on the train tomorrow morning, I've told Trent's clerk to wait there, as I prefer to see to the other matter myself. I —'I—hate deceiving Lee——"

"So do I, but it cannot be helped. Did he bring me up here to get me away from Hohenhauer?"

Mr. Dinwiddie's complexion suddenly looked darker in the light of the solitary candle. "Well—you see ——"

"I suspected it for a moment and then forgot it. No doubt it is the truth. So much the more reason why he should know nothing about that man's following me. Why should he be made uneasy—perhaps unhappy? But what excuse to go off without him?"

"They have a Ford down there. I'll tell them to send that. With the provisions there'll be no room for four people."

"That will answer. And I'll give Hohenhauer a piece of my mind."

"But, Mary, you don't suppose that one of the most important men in Europe, with limited time at his disposal, would take that journey unless he had something very important indeed to say to you? Not even for your beaux yeux, I should think, or he'd have asked Trent to get him an invitation to spend several days at the camp. I must say I'm devoured with curiosity——"

Mary shrugged her shoulders. "I'm too sleepy for curiosity. What time must we start?"

"About nine, if the car gets here on time. It takes two hours to come up the mountain, and they'll hardly be induced to start before seven. I'll tell Larsing to telephone at six."

"It's now eleven. We have eight hours for sleep. Good night, and believe that I am immensely grateful. You've arranged it all wonderfully."

She stamped her foot as Mr. Dinwiddie silently closed the door.

"Moritz! What does he want? Why has he followed me here? But he has no power whatever over my life, so why should I care what he wants? . . . But that this—this—should be interrupted!"

She undressed without calm and slept ill.

LV.

The flight next morning proved simpler of accomplishment than she had anticipated. The men were going to a neighboring lake to fish, Larsing hoving excited them with the prospect of abundant trout; and why fish in your own lake when you may take a tramp of several miles through the woods to another? They begged Clavering to go with them, and as mzn cannot exist for long in the rarefied atmosphere of the empyrean without growing restive, he was feeling rather let down, and cherished a sneaking desire for a long day alone with men.

But he told Mary that he did not want to go out of their woods and down to that hideous village for any such purpose as to watch her sign papers, and he stood on the landing waving his hat as she and Mr. Dinwiddie crossed the lake in the motor boat to the waiting Ford. For once his intuitions failed him, and he tramped off with the other men, his heart as light as the mountain air, and his head empty of woman.

Mary looked back once at the golden-brown lake, set like a jewel in its casket of fragrant trees, and wondered if she would see it again with the same eyes. She was both resentful and uneasy, although she still was unable to guess what harm could come of this interview. If Hohenhauer wanted her to go to Washington she could refuse, and he had long since lost his old magnetic power over her.

But as the Ford bumped down the steep road between the woods she felt less like Mary Ogden every moment . . . those mists of illusion to withdraw from her practical brain . . . returning to the heights where they belonged . . . she wondered how she could have dared to be so unthinkingly happy . . . the sport of the cynical gods? . . . sentimental folly that she had called exaltation? After all! After all!

Could she recapture that mood when she returned? Certainly, whatever this man wanted of her, it would be hard facts, not illusions, he would invite her to deal with. Even when he had been the most passionate of lovers, his brain had always seemed to stand aloof, luminous and factual. He had not an illusion. He saw life as it was, and although his manners were suave and polished, and his voice the most beautiful she had ever heard, he could be brutally direct 2hen it suited his purpose. For a moment she hated him as ardently as she had for a time after he had left her.

GRAIN ENQUIRY RESUMED TODAY

Operation of Terminal Elevators at Head of the Lakes Will Be Investigated By Royal Commission.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7.—The Royal Grain Inquiry Commission resumed its sessions this morning after an adjournment of two months. The probabilities are that at the end of the week the commissioners will move to the head of the lakes for the investigation of terminal elevator operations. The session there may require a week. Then they will continue the Winnipeg sessions, taking up the examination of various organizations doing business on the grain exchange.

Eight witneses are to be examined to-day and Friday. They are inspectors of the Federal Department who had to do with the grading and inspection of grain in the Winnipeg yards. This is a very important phase of the case being probed.

The financial report based upon an investigation that has been made during the past month by a member of the commission into the records of the companies on the grain exchange owning and operating country elevators, is to be submitted. This report covers operations for three years and is based up no authorized statements of auditors and date submitted to the commissioner by various companies.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press).—A big rush of immigrants into Canada from Great Britain and the United States especially is expected in the next few months. J. Egan, Deputy Minister, has found it necessary to employ a large number of clerks to deal with these inquiries and send out information. Many of these have come from the Middle States.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A WINKY BLINKY RIDDLE

My home's a garden wher e the flowers stay awake.

The Riddle Lady said next day in Riddle Land, "We have had several winter riddles, so this is a summer riddle. It's about something very small and bright and only seen on a summer night. Listen now Nancy and Nick! Listen, everybody! Here's the riddle:

"My home's a garden where the flowers
Stay wide awake for hours and hours,
And then at dusk they fold up tight
And say good-night.

"But the house I rent—a big, red rose,
Is not so sleepy I suppose,
Because it does not shut up so!
And out I go.

"I am the watchman, if you please,
I watch the flowers and garden trees,
No one comes in, no one goes out,
If I'm about.

"My lantern winks and winks and winks,
And Mister Moon he blinks and blinks,
And so between the two, why we Watch carefully.

"For fairies and the tricky elves
Would just come in and help themselves,
To leaves of this and buds of that,
For dress and hat.

"And caterpillars! My, oh me!
They're out for food—to get it free,
They'd gobble stems and break off leaves,
The greedy thieves!

"I fly around 'most everywhere,
I peep in here, I look in there!
What would this lovely garden be
Were it not for the moon and me?

"I only go out when it's clear,
And never when a storm is near,
When thunder crashes, home I hug,
Although I'm called a lightning ——."

"Oh, dear!" cried Missez Muffet. "If you mean it's a lightning bug I wish you wouldn't say it in front of my daughter. Since that day with the spider, things like that upset her dreadfully."

"But you have just said it yourself," the Riddle Lady explained laughing. "Didn't she Nancy!"

"Why, I declare! So I have!" declared Missez Muffet. "And she doesn't look a bit nervous. She must be cured."

"Or course I am," said Miss Muffet, speaking up for herself. "And as for lightning bugs, they are lovely. They always remind me of fairies."

NORWOOD FAIR HAD PROGRESS IN LAST YEAR

MAIL HELD UP

NORWOOD, Feb. 6.—The adjourned annual meeting of the East Peterboro Agricultural Society was held in the Council chamber of the Town Hall, Norwood, with about forty of the members in attendance. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. The secretary-treasurer, Mr. John E. Roxburgh, gave an account of the financial standing of the society. Owing to bad weather for two successive years the society had a deficit of $1,600.00 to face at the beginning of 1923. A celebration was held on July 1st last and from the proceeds the debt was reduced by about one hundred and sixty dollars. It was decided to hold a similar event on the same date this year.

the morning. The directors were very much pleased to be able to reduce the deficit to $1,190.00. A grant from the County Council makes a further reduction of $500.00, and a special effort will be made to make the 1924 fair the best ever held in Norwood and the directors hope to clear the debt

It was decided to again hold a field crop competition in fodder-corn and oats.

Regret was expressed for the death of one of the directors, Mr. J. B. Pearce, for years a familiar figure on the judge's stand during the fair day race, and also one of the leader of the society.

The salary of the Secretary-Treas. John E. Roxburgh, was increased $50.00.

1st Vice-Pres.—Wm. Thompson, Westwood.

2nd Vice-Pres.—G. Elmhurst, Birdsall.

Out of Roads System

A public meeting called by the Reeve and Council to confer in regard to some matters pertaining to the village, was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, Feb. 4th. The subject discussed was whether it would be better to go into the County road system or remain the way they have been. The feeling of the meeting was that it would be to the advantage of the village to remain out.

Hockey Postponed

The hockey match which was to have been played on Tuesday night between Norwood and Stirling, at the latter place, has been postponed.

Snow Stopped Mail

A storm which developed on Monday caused traffic on the roads to be tied up and the rural mail carriers were unable to make their usual rounds on Tuesday.

FIRE PROTECTION IN EVERY HOUSE

Millbrook Council Will Approach Citizens in Attempt to Place Fire Extinguishers in Homes

MILLBROOK, Feb. 6.—The regular meeting of Millbrook council was held on Monday evening, Reeve W. T. Wood in the chair, and Councillors Eakins, Lang, Stinson and Sayles present.

A delegation from the Agricultural Society, consisting of President L. W. Smith, Secretary-treasurer J. N. McGill, ex-President R. J. McKnight, ex-Warden A. J. Henderson, and Vice-President H. A. Fallis, were present and addressed the council regarding the annual grant to the Winter Horse Show to be held this month.

On motion of Stinson and Sayles, a grant of $20 was given for the Winter Fair.

Messrs. Lang and Eakins moved that council purchase two chemical fire extinguishers and place them in fire hall; also that a canvass be made of the homes and business men of the town regarding the private purchase of extinguishers, the council to pay $5 on the total cost in each case. Provision would thus be made for emergency cases, and though the extinguishers would be municipal property and would have to be redeemed in case of the removal of the purchaser, they would afford an added fire protection at a small cost to the individual.

The auditors' report, present by J. L. Byam and H. R. Armstrong, was received, and on motion of Messrs. Stinson and Lang, 100 copies were ordered printed.

Messrs. Sales and Lang proposed that the time for the return of the collector's roll be extended one month.

The following accounts were presented, and on motion of Sayles-Lang, were ordered paid: Bell Telephone Co., $2.10; Bell Telephone Co., $1.85; H. Nattrass, $20; H. Nattrass, $8; R. Matchett, $9; R. H. Edmunds, $2.76; wreath for late R. J. Doak, $12.65; "Municipal World," $7.02; salary, auditors, Byam and Armstrong, $15.

Humanity of Christ

The large congregation which gathered in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning showed the interest which is being taken in the series of sermons on "The Re-Discovery of Jesus and His Place in Modern Civilization," which the pastor began the previous week. The subject for the second discourse was, "The Humanity of Jesus," and the text was taken from Hebrew 2 : 17, "Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people."

Reviewing briefly the first sermon, and commenting on the fact that the Apostolic period was followed by the period of creeds, the speaker explained that this was necessary to combat successfully the heathen religions, especially Greek thought and culture and later the forces encountered in the teachings of Imperial Rome.

Some thoughts presented were: "The world's Savious cannot be immune from our temptations and sorrows for no mechanical sacrifice of a person, untouched by our experiences, can lift us up." "The Saviour cannot be a superman, dictating with authority what we shall do, and threatening with punishment our failure to obey."

None of the references in the Apostolic writings mentioning the humanity of Jesus appeared in sermonic literature previous to the middle of the nineteenth century, but to-day this view requires emphasis because of the development of democracy. The lowliness of his birth as a babe in Bethlehem, cradled in a manger, brings a close relationship with human poverty, and the simplicity and naturalness of his childhood is seen in the fact that even his brethren and neighbors remarked nothing unusual about him, his deity not finding expression up to the time of his baptism. His temptation, his habit of spending whole nights in prayer, his dependence on circumstances when performing miracles, as at Nazareth where "he could do mighty works because of their unbelief," all reveal the humanity of our Saviour. "According to your faith," he said, "not according to my power." Other evidences are found in his loneliness and longing fo human sympathy, hurt at the misunderstanding of his disciples, and his agony in the Garden.

In conclusion several passeags were quoted from Paul's writings showing that the Apostolic conception of Christ's divinity and humanity are kept together, as in Ephesians 4 : 13, "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

Ministerial Meeting

The annual meeting of the Ministerial Association was held in the board room of the Methodist Church on Monday, the retiring president, Rev. G. S. Gervan, occupying the chair. Owing to stormy weather and bad roads, the annual gathering which should have been held in January, was unavoidably postponed for one month.

After the routine business had been attended to, the election of officers took place for 1924, the following being the result: President, Rev. R. M. Paterson, Frazerville; vice-president, Rev. R. T. Richards, Cavanville; secretary-treasurer, Rev. M. G. B. Williams, Millbrook.

Rev. S. T. Tucker was the speaker for the day and read an excellent paper on, "The Place of the Covenant in Old and New Testament Revelation." Much thoughtful discussion was provoked by the facts presented.

Present: Rev. G. I. Craw, Rev. R. M. Paterson, Rev. G. S. Gerven, Rev. R. T Richards, and Rev. S. T. Tucker.

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 95 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 55 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

BERLIN MAY BURN FAMOUS OAKS

POTSDAM, Feb. 7.—The royal oaks of Potsdam which fringe various avenues often traveled in the past by German rulers and their families, are threatened with destruction. The authorities say the trees have outlived their usefulness, that many of them are diseased, and that the municipality would realize quite a sum if they were turned into fire wood.

Members of former royal families who still makes their home is Potsdam palaces have joined with citizens in protesting against this plan, and assert that all the trees should be spared.

G. N. GORDON WAS HOST TO CITY COUNCIL AND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Civic Problems Discussed by Representatives of Both Bodies -- Ryerson Ritchie Outlined Civic Planning.

URGED CO-OPERATION

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, last night entertained at an informal dinner in the Empress Hotel the members of the Peterboro' City Council and the executive of the Chamber of Commerce. The object of the dinner, the host said, was to bring into closer co-operation these two important bodies that they might work more successfully toward the betterment of the city.

Besides Mr. Gordon, who outlined his plans in his usual genial and constructive style, the speakers were Mayor J. J. Turner, Ryerson Ritchie and J. J. Duffus, all of whom expressed faith in the future of Peterboro' and appreciation of the advantages of co-operation.

All of the members of the City Council except Alderman Walter Stocker, who is absent on city business and Alderman M. Turner, were present, Alderman R. Morrison, N. Phalen, J. Crowe, M. McIntyre, J. W. Meyers, J. O. Fife, M. J. Maher and R. N. Jones accepting the hospitality of the distinguished Peterboro' member. S. R. Armstrong, without whom no civic function is complete, was also a guest. The members of the Chamber of Commerce who attended were J. J. Duffus, president; J. Wells Fraser, treasurer; Leon Frazer, secretary; G. A. Gillespie, C. G. Graham, R. A. Brown, D. Reid Wren and Thomas Barrie.

Mr. Gordon referred to the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce as representative bodies, the one elected by the people, representing the people, and the other members voluntarily banded together to work for the good of the community. The City Council administers the affairs of the city under its charter to which it must adhere in carrying out its duties and obligations. The Chamber of Commerce is a consultive body. "In Peterborough, it seemed to me," Mr. Gordon said, "that the Chamber of Commerce was not giving as complete service as a consultive body as it might, and that the City Council might use the Chamber of Commerce more."

During the Easter recess, Mr. Gordon said, he hoped to bring to Peterborough a town planner of note who would outline the needs of the city. The beginning of town planning need not necessarily cost a great deal, since much could be done by the citizens if intelligently led in beautifying the streets and gardens.

Introducing Mr. Ritchie as a fellow townsman who had travelled widely and studied municipal affairs in many parts of Canada and United States, the host expressed his hope that this function would be the beginning of frequent conferences between the two bodies represented, not with the idea of influencing the policies of either but of gaining information and knowledge.

Ryerson Ritchie

Mr. Ritchie explained the aims and scope of town and civic planning by using as an illustrative case the making over of Kansas city from "the roughest and toughest place in all the west" to "a city that stands among the peers in all America." The town was unattractive, he said, and dingy. Then the Board of Trade took up the question of making it a decent place in which to live and when five or six years had served to educate the public mind to the possibilities in the plan an energetic campaign and programme were launched which cleaned up the city and completely transfigured it. Parks, boulevards and city ponds now form spots of beauty in the midst of artistic homes and blocks where squalor was once rampant, and the once undignified town is now one of the distinctive cities in the United States.

In choosing the committee to carry through the plans for the rehabilitation of Kansas City, Mr. Ritchie said, the originators of the plan were careful to take men because of their fitness. They were men with big ideas and a wide conception of the possibilities behind their plans. "You must have big ideas before you can do big things," he said. "The man who has a small idea is likely to accomplish a small job."

"I believe that in Peterboro' we have just as good men as in any city I am acquainted with and just as fit for big projects. It is not the size of the city that counts, it is the quality."

Mr. Ritchie expressed confidence in the ability of men to put across big projects successfully if they co-operate. Co-operation, in his opinion, is the bed-rock on which success in civic projects must be built.

Mayor J. J. Turner

Mayor J. J. Turner thanked Mr. Gordon personally and on behalf of the City Council for the invitation, and in remarking on the timeliness and practicability of Mr. Ritchie's address, drew attention to the debt of gratitude Peterboro' owes him for putting the Chamber of Commerce in its present commanding position in the community.

"There is a great deal in what Mr. Ritchie said about co-operation," His Worship continued, citing instances of lack of co-operation in the city which had come to his attention recently. "If we seek the city's welfare we must have common sense and co-operation. That is one of the things we lack—the spirit of co-operation. We want to stand on our own and gain the glory for ourselves, but by standing together we can build up a better and a larger and happier place to live in."

J. J. Duffus

Mr. Duffus expressed his pleasure in the occasion and said he believed the discussion would be for the good of the city.

"The Chamber of Commerce," he said, "is a body of men who work entirely voluntarily with no administrative or legislative authority. They are public-spirited citizens who work from that which is within their hearts without any self interests but only for the good of the community. They have no ideas of politics, nationalities or creeds, and include in their numbers farmers, laboring men, manufacturers, business men of all classes, professional men, contractors and men who are occupying positions of importance in the industrial and merchandizing concerns in the city. These men constitute the experience and brains of any community and it is obvious that for them to bring forward valuable thoughts and ideals without any selfish motives would be productive of a great amount of good. The Chamber of Commerce can only function from an advisory standpoint. The executive council and members of the Chamber of Commerce are only too willing to formulate ideas and pass them along to those who have executive powers. They are willing to do that without consideration of personal credit or glory."

The President reported that the Chamber of Commerce in Peterboro' has 330 citizens of all classes as members, and is working quietly, effectively and successfully. When any one phase of life in the city is benefitted, he said, it is to the advantage of every other part of the city.

"I don't think any place in the Dominion has better advantages if we would get the right spirit. I have in mind that we as individuals should be economical and as organizations and as provincial or dominion governments we should be economical, but nevertheless there are things which would not cost much money and which would assist materially in our civic advancement. The city should do everything in its power to bring to Peterborough the mooted extensions to the Canadian General Electric Company's plant. Certain streets in the city should be kept in good shape as driveways on which visitors could be taken around the city. The ferry from Charlotte to Cobourg for motoring tourists would do much for central Ontario and Peterboro' especially. United States citizens are looking for a place to spend their money and they have lots. Everything possible should be done to develop the canal, since immediately it is complete we have competing rates on all roads to and from the city. I would suggest too that the Little Lake might be filled in at Crescent and Lock streets and in four or six years an attractive beach could be made there for the citizens of the southern part of the city. The Ontario Government could be prevailed upon to finish the road from Frazerville to Port Hope, which would add materially to the tourist traffic to this city.

This takes money, but we should aim at having it done in three or four years if we cannot commence now. The money will be spent in any event—let us get our share of it."

Mr. Duffus concluded by saying the local Chamber of Commerce is the most complete and the best functioning organization of its kind in the Province.

Note of Optimism

In bringing the function to a close Mr. Gordon said the citizens of Peterborough can look forward with a great deal of optimism to the future.

He assured the gathering that the City Council is doing much toward bringing the C. G. E. extension to Peterborough and from his own personal efforts and observations everything seems very encouraging in that direction.

There is no whisper of death, he remarked, in the increase of export trade from the Dominion in the last decade, or in the fact that Canada is now the fourth exporting nation in the world and the second in per capita exports. Taxation is still high and the sales tax is proving annoying in some departments, and there is still need for economy in all government circles as in past years.

"We cannot expect men to agree with our opinions in every way," Mr. Gordon concluded. "But there is an average view and an average opinion which can be followed, and if we can agree so far as civic betterment is concerned it will be a benefit to the city which will grow according as all civic groups are co-ordinated toward that end."

Refused to Leave Poorhouse to Get $1,000,000 Estate

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Feb. 7—(British United Press).—Gustav Salomez refused to leave the poorhouse to-day to claim a $1,000,000 estate he has inherited.

"I don't want the money—I've been dodging it for thirty years," said Salomez, who went to the alms-house when he was unable to earn a living painting houses.

John Salomez, a nephew, came here from Louisville and identified the heir by a tatoo mark on his body. He told his nephew to go back to Louisville.

"You can have the million—I don't want it," he said.

Salomez has been known here as Steve White, and has been in the poorhouse for some time.

The fortune to which he is heir is real estate worth $1,000,000 in Toronto, Canada and France, his nephew said.

VETERANS HEAR PARRY ADDRESS G.W.V.A. WORK

Association Performing Service in Maintaining Comradeship and Especially in Protecting the Interests of Disabled Ex-Service Men.

G.W.V.A. Still Needed.

At the regular meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association last evening a striking address on the Workings of the Federal Appeal Board on Pensions was given by Comrade W. W. Parry, of Toronto, president of the Ontario Veterans' Alliance of Ontario.

S. Whatley presided at the preceding business meeting. It was decided that two guards would be appointed to see that only properly qualified members of the G. W. V. A. be allowed to enter into the meetings. R. E. Layfield said that ever since the men returned home the G. W. V. A. had fought hard for a grant of a plot of ground in the Little Lake Cemetery in which all returned men could be buried. A plot large enought for one hundred graves has been granted to the association. A vote of thanks was tendered to the Little Lake Company for this grant.

The rate of the present fees was also discussed and it was decided that the fees in the future be paid half yearly. For new members, for the first three months the fees will be $1.25 per month and for the next three months till the second six months 25c per month.

The Boxing Association will be notified that they will have to see that the hall is cleaned up after their bouts and that they will be responsible for all damage done to the floors.

An instrumental solo was given by several returned men of the Salvation Army, followed by a solo by Comrabe Cooper and an instrumental solo dy Messrs. Parkins, Haggard and Parkins.

Association's Progress

Mr. Parry stated that the Great War Veterans' Association in Canada is going ahead and that it is expected to broaden out more in the future. The veterans of Ontario had every reason to be grateful to Dr. N. H. Sutton who had stood up for them and fought for their rights.

"No doubt the question is asked you daily: 'what need is there of the Great War Veterans' Association now that the war is over and there is peace in the country?'" In answering that question you have to ask yourself, have five years been enough to forget the bloodshed and hardships that you have gone through?

From 60 to 75 per cent. of the returned men are disabled in some way, some of these not being able to work more than a couple of days a week, and some none at all. No employer wants men who cannot work steadily and these men have a hard job finding employment and in fact they have to wander from coast to coast doing any kind of work they can obtain. If their pension is taken away what would they do; they would simply die of need, of care and food."

Mr. Parry then read several editorials pertaining to this subject that appeared in the Hamilton Spectator and other papers. He stated that the Veterans' Alliance now has a representative from all G. W. V. A. organizations and is growing stronger.

One of the first moves of this organization was to go to the Federal Government and ask for a grant to care for the returned men. The Prime Minister gladly granted them $10,000 for the purpose of carrying on their work.

He said that the association was endeavoring to reach every part of the province and would advise any men who wish to be helped or advised. Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, he said, was a wonderful place and the men were looked after and cared for the best possible, but after some of the men were turned out of the hospital, nobody knows where they go or what becomes of them, and this Veterans' Alliance was to help look after these men when they leave the hospitals.

Facing a Crisis

Mr. Parry stated that they were facing a crisis in the veterans' affairs and that in September, 1924, all ex-service men's pensions would be cut down one-third. The bonuses are also likely to be taken away, but if Ontario fights for it the same as British Columbia and Alberta did they will likely still get their bonuses. He said that the government had given the veterans an appeal board in the province but that so far things had not turned out very satisfactorily. The appeal board has been known to have turned hundreds of disabled men and taken away their pensions. He assured the local branch of the G. W. V. A. that the Veterans' Alliance Association would do everything in their power to assist them in the future. He also stated that if the veterans came to power in Canada that nobody would regret it and that the country would be safe in the hands of the ex-service men.

Community singing took place and the meeting was brought to a close.

LAUNCH A CAMPAIGN TO UPHOLD CHARTER

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—A great National Campaign on behalf of "unemployed workers charter" is to be launched jointly by the Council of the Trades Union Congress and the unemployed workers committee. The charter which is said to comprise the minimum demands of British Labor for measures dealing with the problem of unemployment asks for work or effective maintenance for all unemployed, immediate development of government schemes for employment at union wages, establishment of state work shops, reduction in hours of labor in order to absorb the unemployed, the establishment of training centres for workers and housing accommodation at reasonable rents.

MacDONALD WELCOMES ANOTHER CONFERENCE

LONDON, Feb. 7. Canadian Press. —Prime Minister MacDonald would welcome a convocation of another conference, similar to the Washington conference, having as its object a further diminution of the naval and military equipments of the nations of earth, it was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon.

"Don't get tired—drink Bovril"

CONTROVERSY SWEEPS ALL LEADING NATIONS

Lloyd George Asserts, Clemenceau Denies, MacDonald Apologizes and Washington Will Refer to Wilson's Private Letters.

CAUSED A FURORE

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(By Webb Miller, British United Press.)—Bristling savagely one minute, naturally good-natured the next, old George Clemenceau, "Pere la Victoire," gave the lie direct to a statement credited to Lloyd George in an interview in the London Chronicle to the effect that "the Tiger" and Woodrow Wilson signed a secret pact during Versailles days.

"I never signed a secret treaty with anybody. I cannot understand Lloyd George's object in saying so," Clemenceau growled.

Then the veteran statesman laughed in his white moustache.

"Why," he explained, gesturing expressively with his hands, "let anybody show me any secret treaty signed by me and I will engage to pay all the reparations myself."

Clemenceau declared that the affair is "inexplicable."

"Evidently," he said, "Lloyd George didn't reflect that Wilson was the only one who could not have signed a secret treaty. He was dependant on Congress. He repeatedly reminded us of that during the negotiations.

"Besides, what aim could a secret treaty have had?" he asked. "It would have been futile. Was it concerned with the occupation of the Rhineland? You cannot occupy such a region and hide your troops.

"Consequently such a treaty, had one existed, would have been public property quickly."

Foreign Office Busy.

A despatch from Lloyd Allen of the United Press in London says a tremendous furore swept the British Isles and the continent on the heels of the charge by ex-Premier Lloyd George that Woodrow Wilson and Clemenceau, during peace conference days, fixed up a secret pact behind his back, whereby the American President agreed to the occupation of the Rhineland by French troops for fifteen years. A sensation such as the teapot dome oil scandal created in the United States, involved one after another of the prominent figures who helped to make the Versailles treaty.

The French and British foreign offices were busy as bee hives. The former issued a flat denial of Lloyd George's charge. The latter put the matter up to the former Prime Minister for further explanation.

From Paris came an interview with "the Tiger," Clemenceau, denying Lloyd George's assertion. Andre Tardieu, who played a prominent part in the peace conference proceedings, did not know of the pact.

The British press to-day printed at length everything Washington, New York, Paris and London had to say in connection with the alleged secret pact.

Meanwhile Lloyd George was pressed to produce the pact, or at least to answer the indignant denial of the French foreign office. He procised a statement later to-day:

What It Is All About.

What happened, in a nut shell, was this:

The French foreign office intends to publish a series of "yellow papers" or a "yellow book" dealing with the making of the peace of Versailles, and the British foreign office sent Lloyd George some proofs, asking his permission to publish them. These were sent "out of courtesy because in conjunction with President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau he had been concerned in a discussion of the matter."

The "yellow book" presumably was to be France's apology for the occupation of the Rhineland and Ruhr. It was to show that Wilson and Lloyd George agreed.

Controversy sweeps Take 3 ....

Whether or not this is what the Yellow Book proofs contain, Lloyd-George, upon receiving them, coincident with the death of Wilson, stated to a newspaper conespondent that the secret pact agreeing to the occupation of the Rhine had been made while he was away from Paris.

Then the storm broke.

The Manchester Guardian took Lloyd-George's side and gave a version of the affair in which Wilson not only signed the written secret agreement on Clemenceau's behalf, but immediately thereafter the French press ceased its violent and scurrilous attacks upon the American President, attacks which had affected him cruelly.

The British Foreign Office has asked Lloyd-George to reply to the French denials of his charge, and announced it will probably give the consent of the MacDonald Government to the publication of the Yellow Book.

Appeal to Letters.

From Washington the hope is expressed that Woodrow Wilson's private files may yield up an answer to the controversy now raging between London and Paris over Lloyd-George's charge that Wilson and Clemenceau arranged a secret pact on the Rhineland occupation while Lloyd-George's back was turned.

While Mr Wilson left no memoirs, he had a voluminous file of private letters which he planned to use in preparing a purely historical and impersonal volume on the war and post-war periods.

MacDonald Apologises.

It is announced in Paris that Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain has written Premier Poincare, expressing regret for the incident caused by the Lloyd-George interview in the New York World recently asserting the discovery of an agreement at the Paris peace conference between Woodrow Wilson and Premier Clemenceau regarding the occupation of the Rhineland.

The letter points out that the fault is not Mr. MacDonald's.

CALGARY COUNCIL DENOUNCES I.W.W.

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).— Declaring that the Government should immediately take steps to stop the agents of the industrial workers of world from endeavoring to disrupt and destroy industrial life, the welfare and prosperity of Canada, the Council of Calgary Board of Trade yesterday passed a resolution pointing out those facts and requesting the Government to declare the I. W. W. an illegal organization.

The resolution went on to state that in the opinion of Council the present agitation in eastern British Columbia lumber camps was not for the purpose of adjusting any difficulties between employees and employers, but was simply a part of the declared objective of the I.W.W. namely, to break down the present government of the country and establish communistic regime.

GERMAIN GRAHAM GAVE ADDRESS TO LOCAL ENGINEERS

He Explained Thoroughly the Construction of Asphalt Roads From Start to Finish.

At a meeting last evening of the local branch of the Engineers' Institute, Germain P. Graham of the Asphalt Association, Albany, N.Y., gave an interesting illustrated address on the construction of roads. He stated that the greater part of asphalt used in this continent was taken from the Island of Trinidad and petroleum asphalt, which is mostly used, was found in Mexico. The speaker said that this substance is found in springs or beds in sand and rock.

It first came into use in the United States in 1876 and there is still some of this pavement being used.

It was said by the speaker that Trindad petroleum is mined in large beds where it is dug out in sheets. He explained the process of the refining of this substance thoroughly, and stated that a 600,000 gallon still was used in the work. It is necessary to have a high class sub-grade to receive the best results from this type of paving.

Mr. Graham said that in the construction of these roads, the builders first put on about 2 inches of wearing surface, roll it, put on petroleum, then add lime stone and roll it again.

When asphalt first came into use it was applied to the road by kettles and hand power, next a large tank with a hose and nozzel attached to it and later it was spread by a team of horses drawing a tank with a row of nozzles attached to the tank. The latest device is, the petroleum is drawn from the refining company in tanked cars to a siding where it is pumped into large trucks that carry from five to eight thousand gallons to the place wanted and distributed. This should then be rolled and key stone applied and the road is rolled again and is ready for use. The speaker said that if too hard, petroleum is applied, or if too many chips are used the road will not prove as successful. He said that some of the States have built many miles of this construction, the older ones being about 6 or 8 inches in thickness.

Roads built the same as described outside of Rochester in 1902 now cost only several hundred dollars per year. These roads can be built, said the speaker for a cost of about $12,000 per mile. When the Asphaltic cement is mixed with gravel it makes the cost very normal and stands up well.

A reel of pictures showing the construction of these roads from start to finish was put on the screen and described by Mr. Graham. Asphaltic cement can be made as hard or as soft as needed and when applied by a machine the best results are received from using 1 1-2 gallons to the square yard.

The best results are obtained when stones, sand, asphaltic cement and dust are used. The correct proportions to be used are: Stones 250 pounds, sand 580 pounds, mineral filler 85 pounds and asphalt 85 pounds, the whole mixture amounting to 1,000 pounds.

Sheet asphalt paving is dumped, spread, raked, rolled, covered with petroleum and then dust. Mr. Graham stated that it was thought by some of the leading men in this line that building roads like the ones described upon the old type of road would be very cheap and successful.

Mr. K. D. McDonald, of the Imperial Oil Plant, also advised those present, among whom were the following: Aldermen Crowe, Jones, McIntyre, Morrison and Fife, and also E. F. Mason, of the Utilities Commission, what should be done with George street south from Charlotte to the C.P.R. station, which is full of holes. He said that he knew no reason why this pavement should be in such a state if it had been laid in the proper manner, with the proper proportions of each substance, it would not have gone like it did. And he said that there would be little use in trying to repair the road by filling the holes, as the pavement is pretty old, and the best thing to do would be to tear it up and lay new asphalt on the foundation which was formerly laid.

Mr. Graham stated that there was two million five hundred thousand miles of road in the United States that will have to be paved and this will be the method used.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Graham by the local Engineers for coming to Peterborough and lecturing to them on such an interesting subject.

MAVOUREEN CAME BACK

Went the Way of a Maid In Love — Banished — Excluded—and Died.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Back in County Sligo, Ireland, Mary Brennon, 18 years old, blue of eye and bright, with the blarney of the ould counthry, went the way of a maid in love. And the boy she loved went the way of many another.

So Mary, fearing the searing lash of gossiping tongues, sailed for America, hoping there to cover up what a conventionally inclined world brands shame. Even her parents didn't know Mary's secret. Only to an aunt here in New York did she dare confide. The aunt bade her come, for she knew and her heart went out to the little Irish girls over the seas.

As the ship sailed out of Queenstown and the green shores of Erin faded on the horizon Mary cried a bit. Then she went below, buried her head in her pillow and cried some more. None aboard knew her secret; she kept it well. Five days and with the rest of the passengers Mary lined the rail and smiled a wee bit as, through the mist of the early morning, the welcoming hand of the Statue of Liberty seemed to beckon "come."

Then all bustle and excitement, and she found herself loaded into a little steamer and landed at Ellis Island. A keen-eyed immigration inspector sized Mary up. He guessed her secret and a woman inspector confirmed his guess. Another official took a big card and marked it "L. P. C."

A kindly faced woman asked if she were married. Mary, with blushing cheek and bowed head, whispered, "No." Then to the notations on Mary's card was written the words: "Excluded on moral grounds."

Waiting for the next boat to be sent back to County Sligo, Mary grew despondent. She saw the scarlet brand that the village would place on her name. She saw the raised eyebrows of the village matrons, whose men they had loved had "done the right thing." In her worried state she took cold.

The Baltic sailed and a heart-sick and body-sick Mary sailed with it. This time she did not look back as America faded in the distance.

A stewardess found her tossing feverishly in her bunk.

Marys' baby came and died the same day. The next day, just as the green hills of Ireland rose on the horizon, Mary died.

In the great salon the ship's band played softly—

"Come back to Erin, Mavourneen, Mavourneen—"

BRITISH INTEREST IN COLONIZATION.

Group Settlement Plan Is Successful — French-Canadians Are Returning to Quebec.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—(Special to the Examiner).—Considerable interest is being expressed in Great Britain in the colonization plans of the Canadian National Railways, according to a report of Dr. W. J. Black, European Manager of Colonizatoin and Development of the National system in London, England. The report which was received by W. D. Robb, vice-president in charge of Colonization and Development sets forth that a great many enquiries have been received at the London office since Dr. Black returned there last month, and that the policy of limited group settlement apepars to be appealing quite strongly to prospective settlers.

The limited group policy of the Canadian National Railways has been drawn up to prevent large communities, difficult to assimilate into the national life of Canada, being formed, but at the same time to permit of the settlement of sufficient numbers of the same race of people in a community to give them freedom of religious and social exercise, according to their custom. Dr. Black has practically completed his organization and expects to send large numbers of adaptable immigrants to Canada during the coming year.

From United States.

In connection with immigration from the United States, and interesting statement was made by Mr. J. E. LaForce, General Agent of Colonization and Development of the Canadian National Railways at Boston. Mr. LaForce, who was in Montreal yesterday, states that an average of 150 families of French Canadians are returning to Canada from the New England States weekly.

The majority of these families are settling again in the Province of Quebec.

GREAT STONE COFFIN IN WHICH TUT LIES DISCLOSED FOR FIRST TIME IN 3200 YEARS

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—For the first time in 3200 years the great stone coffin of Tutenkhamun stands today in all its majesty, shorn of its protective ness of golden shrines.

The fourth casket proved, in Howard Carter's experienced hands a less formidable problem th was first surmised, and a few hours' work sufficed to disengage the sarcophagus. Then it was seen that the enthusiasm evoked by the glimpse obtained four weeks ago of one end of the sarcophagus through the open doors of the inclosing shrines was justified.

As massive in construction as it is chastely simple in design and as untouched by the tooth of time as it is inviolate from the hands of tomb-robbers, this grandoise stone chest, gleaming pink beneath the glare of the electric lamps, must be acclaimed as unique specimen of the coffin with wings outspread to shield the dead monarch from the forces of evil, are boldly and deeply incised—full-breasted, with slender arms and powerfully winged, each withone hand grasping the key of life, which figures in the dead Pharaoh's name. The lid is massively solid and inscribed in bands with lines of hieroglyphics.

The scarcophagus is thought to be even larger than the massive coffin of Haremheb in an adjoining tomb, which itself is a fine specimen of Eighteenth Dynasty sculpture, roughly six feet high, five broad and seven long.

It was an emotional moment for the excavators when they first gazed upon this royal coffin, unseen by mortals since the undertakers of ancient Thebes set about their long, difficult task of inclosing the sarcophagus in its four ornate, florid castings.

For Mr. Carter the occasion was particularly poignant, for in his long years of experience in excavating many important tombs it has never before been vouchsafed him, nor, in fact, any excavator in the known records of Egyptology, to gaze upon an Egyptian royal sarcophagus unscathed by pilagers or marauders.

All the members of the party now are anxiously looking forward to the solemn moment in the near future when the lid shall be raised and the mummy of Tutankhamun exposed to view.

The Decline of the Spat

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(United Press).—The well dressed business man of New York—the man one sees on Wall Street as well as on Forty-second—is discarding the gaiters or "spats" which he used to wear with his oxfords on winter days. Men of the cities are gradually breaking away from the habit of wearing high shoes. The oxfords are too comfortable to dispense with altogether.

The reason for this is that the producers of hosiery are manufacturing an excellent line of wool socks. Some are of pure wool and others among the better class are a combination of silk and wool. The socks are good looking and both warm and comfortable. The vogue of the woolen sock has brought forth a great variety of colors and styles this winter. The dominating colors, as in most socks are browns and blacks, but tans, greys, heather mixtures are very popular. They can be secured plain, drop stitched, ribbed, clocked and unclocked. In the silk-and-wool class, a popular combination is the speckled brown and white or black and white.

The winter overcoats this season show that men's styles do change. Last year the huge ulster was being worn to the exclusion of practically every other type. But this year, men, if New Yorkers may be taken as the American standard, tre wearing a diversified variety of overcoats. The single breasted overcoat, made of material just a little lighter than that put into the ulster, is being favored and has secured quite a hold on those men whose daily activities do not take them into the cold outdoors too frequently. The men who own and operate their sedan or coupe automobiles prefer the less bulky overcoats for the reason that while driving their closed cars, they are practically indoors. Then, too, the lighter coat provides them with more freedom in the operation of their cars. However, a majority of New Yorkers prefer comfort in their winter overcoats, and while the heavy ulster is not so prominent as it has been, a compromise between the light and heavy has been struck and the double breasted half belt is popular.

Browns and dark greys are the prominent shades, with light grays and tans enjoying popularity among the youger men. Pockets these days are large and patched, and add an air of lavishness to the better quality coats. In the higher priced coats, the blue "guards" coat is attracting some attention. This coat is an imported style, patterned on the ulsters worn by British guardsmen, and is made of close-nap chinchilla.

PETES ARE OUTLUCKED BUT NOT OUTPLAYED ARE TWO GOALS DOWN

Belleville Win 5 to 3 on Their Own Ice and the Round Depends on To-Morrow Night's Game Here.

When the Petes go into action against Belleville at Brock Street Rink to-morrow night they will have a deficit of two goals to overcome as a result of last night's game at Belleville when they were outlucked rather than outplayed and lost a hard fought lightning fast battle by 5 goals to 3.

The word outlucked is used advisedly—for it is the simple truth that the blue shirts got nary a break in the game. Not only did they lose a counter because Referee Jacobi failed to notice the goal umpire's signal but Belleville's fourth marker was a fluke, a wild slash by Finkle that accidently knocked the rubber into the nets and their fifth was scored with only three seconds left to play to the last period and the Petes two men short because of penalties.

On the play the Peterboro crew had a margin all the way and undoubtedly earned a better final score than 5 to 3 against them.

They should pull down that small lead here to-morrow night. At the same time the Belleville gang are a bunch of battlers who keep on fighting and the local engagement will be what Lou Marsh delights to describe as a wow. Belleville's are not to be underestimated but the Petes can get in their fighting and snatch the round away from them and every man jack who wears a blue shirt says they are going to do that very thing.

To get back to last night's game the Petes scored the only goal in the first period and on the hockey in that first twenty minutes should have had a bigger lead. Belleville rallied in the second period and ran in three goals before the Petes got their second and it was 3-2 in favour of the Quinte gang at the breathing spell. Early in the last session came Finkles joke goal, putting Belleville two in front and they held that margin until three minutes before the final bell when the Petes on a three man combination made the score 4 to 3. It looked as if it would end that way but thirty seconds before the end Collins and McMartin were penalized almost together and with a two man advantage the red sweatered outfit swept in and registered with only three seconds left to go.

The Petes started the same eight men as played in Belleville a year ago the only difference being that Halpin started on the defence while McMartin was a sub. Belleville on the other hand had only Weir, Hagerman and Frechette of last year's crew. Crook, the two Holways, Goyer and Mallen being absentees. The defence trio were replaced by Nurse, Finkle and Green while Whelan and Canning were the subs.

In the exchange Belleville has lost little or nothing this year's defence being stronger than last year, while the advance guard counting in the substitute, is probably a little weaker, at least it looked that way last night.

On the forward line the Petes had much the better of the battle. Collins, Ranger, Burgess and Rose out skated their checks either with or without the puck played their positions better and showed much more inclination to play combination although unfortunately a lot of the passes were offside and Referee Jacobi was calling them as if he had a tape measure at work. Belleville's chief punch came from their defence Green getting three of their counters and Finkle the other defence man bagging another leaving only one for the forwards to get. The rear guards is the strong end of the Belleville crew and did the lion's share of the work last night.

Both goalers did nice work especially in close-in-plays and beat the opposing attack time after time. For Belleville Green was easily the most effective man. He used his body to good advantage on the defence and hb rushed nicely getting three smart counters. Finkle was also good. Of the forwards Frechette although he loafed a lot was dangerous when he got the rubber in Peterboro territory much more dangerous than Weir and Hagerman although that pair worked hard and did some effective checking.

For the Petes the rushing of Ranger in the first two periods and the consistent back checking of Collins all through the engagement were features. Burgess and Rose were also great going guns at all stages. Halpin and McMartin alternated as defence mates with Parker and all three were useful although not as effective as usual on the attack. It was Parker's first time on skates in nearly two weeks and the game will do him a lot of good.

Referee Jacobi handled the game very strictly but impartially. He took no chances of the match getting beyond control and if he erred at all it was on the side of being too exacting, the stoppage for offsides being so numerous as to greatly delay the game.

Petes Scored First.

Belleville had the first dangerous rush and a Weir to Frechette play right off the reel looked like a goal, but Frechette shot wide. Parker relieved the pressure with a rink length rush, but Nurse's pads were in the way. It was fast hockey, with the back-checking close and hard and nether team getting many opportunities in the first ten minutes. Hagerman got inside once for Belleville, but Dwyer made a beautiful stop. The Petes' forward line broke away three abreast and looked to be on their way to a counter, but they were pulled up for an offside.

Parker drew the first penalty of the game for tripping Hagerman, but there was nothing doing while he was off, and a penalty to Finkle for tripping Burgess did not benefit the Petes either.

Fifteen minutes had elapsed and the teams were at full strength when Parker and Ranger got away fence man's neat pass close in, beat fence mans' neat pass close in, beat Nurse for the first marker of the game and the only tally in the first period.

The success acted as a spur on the Petes and for the balance of the period they carried the battle to Belleville, coming close to counters three or four times in succession.

The Second Period.

Early in the second period Ranger was benched for tripping. When he came back he pulled off one of the outstanding rushes of the night, when he stick-handled through the Belleville defence, only to have Nurse block his shot. It looked like a sure goal. Honours were even for the next few minutes, and then Hagerman was chased for tripping. Playing a man short, Belleville evened up the count when Frechette slipped down the side and surprised the Petes by shooting from well out, his quick drive catching the top corner of the net.

Penalties for minor offenses came thick and fast at this stage. Frechette and Collins were chased together, the latter for holding and Frechette for taking a slash at the Petes' centre man.

A little later Belleville took the lead when Canning, one of the subs, broke away and Green took his pass and scored. The Petes claimed the gaol was kicked in, but it counted just the same.

Hagerman drew a penalty and Finkle followed for tripping. With the red shirts two men short, it looked like a golden opportunity for the Petes, but Green upset the dope by slipping aawy and scoring on a neat side shot, putting Belleville two in front.

Then Rose was benched for loafing and Halpin for taking a slash at Nurse, as the latter held the puck after making a stop. That left the teams four men aside and Ranger sent the Petes 'stock up by a neat rush that he converted into a goal by picking the corner accurately.

Hagerman and Finkle came back and for nearly two minutes the Petes had to battle four men to six, but they held Belleville out, the period ending, Belleville 3, Peterborough 2.

A Fluke Goal.

The Petes set the pace in the early part of the last period. Collins, on a combination rush, apparently scored, and although Goal Umpire Templete held up his hand his signal was missed and play went on. Frechette was penalized for tripping Parker, but nothing of consequence happened while he was off.

Then came a lucky break for Belleville. Finkle started a rush but lost the rubber and Parker recovered and started out from the end of the rink. When he was fifteen feet from the net Finkle slashed at his stick and the puck was deflected past Dwyer. The Petes declared the rubber did not go into the net, but the goal went nevertheless.

For the next ten minutes it was even going and no sign of a let-up. Then Whelan was benched for slashing and while he was off Rose scored on a swift side shot after a pretty combination with Collins and Burgess. That left it 4 to 3 with three minutes to go.

The Petes were fighting hard to sew up the game, but with half a minute to play Collins was benched for loafing, although he had been tripped and was getting back into the play as fast as possible. When McMartin a few seconds after got the gate for crowding Frechette into the boards the Petes were two men short and Belleville came down with a combination rush that enabled Green to score at close range, the final bell coming immediately after. The teams and summary.

Third Period.

A Few Notes.

An episode that Referee Jacobi missed was in the second period. Dwyer gave Green a jolt when he came in on the nets and the Belleville defence player made a slash at the Petes 'net guardian that would have decapitated him if it had landed.

Collins skated the proverbial million miles last night, while Weir and Hagerman, the "60 minute" men, had to have several rests.

JACK LEBARR IN GOAL WAS STAR

Stopped Flock of Shots and Counted Largely In St. Peter's Defeat of the Collegiate.

St. Peter's School and the Collegiate Institute clashed in their second game Wednesday afternoon, the former winning by the score of five goals to one, after a two-period game in which the St. Peter's aggregation showed more form and skill and worked in closer for their shots than the P.C.I. boys who lagged behind when Harry Cheu who made most of the rushes for the collegians broke away. He was the hardest worker and his backchecking was a feature, while N. Collins, who did not seem to take the game as seriously as his adversary Cheu succeeded in scoring more goals. The St. Peter's boys can thank Jack Le Barr, in their nets, for keeping the score down, as his playing was one of the outstanding features. He blocked well and cleared quickly while Chambers, in the Garnet-and-Grey boys' nets, did not show up as well as Le Barr, and his failure to clear quickly caused him many exciting moments when the St. Peter's forwards were in on top of him.

The game started off at a fast clip, St. Peter's forcing the play. One minute and 15 seconds after the first face off N. Collins scored the first goal for St. Peter's after a lone rush in which he broke through the defence and closed in on Chambers who was fooled.

The Collegians fought hard to tie up the score, but they could not put the puck past LeBarr, who was nipping off shots that looked like sure goals. A few minutes later Holland got away for a nice rush and slipped another one past Chambers making the score 2 to 0, and the game had hardly got started. Harry Cheu made rush after rush but it was useless to try and score with LeBarr stopping them the way he was. Woods, the big defence man of the Collegiate, drew the first penalty for tripping V. Rishea. Three minutes later, when Woods had returned from his trip to the bench, Cheu scored a neat goal on a fast corner shot that tore past LeBarr like a bullet. Pete Milloy for St. Peter's was hurt when he went headlong into the boards. Five minutes after Cheu's goal, L. Rishea scored on a shot that should have easily been saved but Chambers misjudged it and it soared past him.

Milloy was benched and while he was off the Collegiate boys, after a combination rush between Pogue and Cheu, succeeded in landing the puck in their opponents nets, only to have the goal referee fail to raise his hand as he did not see it go in. Both teams battled hard for the rest of the period but when it ended the score stood, St. Peter's 3, Collegiate 1.

Soon after the gong sounded L. Rishea was warned for mixing it with Cheu. Milloy was chased for two minutes for slashing Outram on the back of the leg. Milloy had been on the ice about fifteen seconds when he was waved once more to the penalty box for upsetting Cheu. Pogue made a neat rush but he failed to raise the puck off the ice when he shot and this was easy meat for LeBarr, who cleared nicely before Woods, who dashed in, could secure the rebound.

Cheu and Ash combined in a nice rush, Ash taking the pass and boring one at LeBarr who coolly saved, passing the puck to N. Collins who dashed down the ice at a fast pace and slipped another counter past Chambers. Outram rushed nicely but the ice was too fast for him and he took many tumbles on his own accord throughout the game. Thirty seconds before the bell sounded Milloy scored, after a lone rush from outside the defence, making the score 5 to 1 for St. Peters.

Chris. McCarney, who handled the bell, was very good except that he handled the boys too leniently in the line of penalties.

The teams lined up as follows:

St. Peter's—Goal, J. Le Barr; defence, V. Rishea and N. Collins; centre, L. Rishea; right wing, Holland; left wing, Milloy; Subs., H O'Brien and T. LeBarr.

P.C.I.—Goal, Chambers; defence, Woods and Outram; centre, Ash; right wing, Pogue; left wing, H. Cheu; Subs., Doughty and Baird.

Goals and Summary:

1 St. Peters, N. Collins, 1.15 minutes.

3 Collegiate, Cheu, 7 minutes.
4 St. Peter's, L. Rishea, 12 minutes.

"Y" BASKETBALL QUINT DEFEATED BELLEVILLE

Won First Game in Local District of O.A.B.A. By 35 to 17—Visitors Checked Hard and Combination Was Flashy in Spots

The local Intermediates took a comfortable lead in their section of the O.A.B.A. race when last evening in the first game of the schedule they defeated Belleville quintette 35 to 17. In the van throughout they were up 18 to 9 at the end of the first period and they were always on top in the play.

The game was a close checking affair with Belleville hanging like leeches around their own basket and depending mostly on long shooting and they showed cleverness and skill at long range shots puncturing the basket regularly. The Bay of Quinte lads had also snappy combination which flashed forth at intervals. The Petes were a little off colour and in their usual form the score would have been even greater. Their shooting was away off but their team work was good.

Roland Doughty, a Peterborough boy now playing for Belleville, was very effective, scoring their first basket and starting lots of combination plays.

POLICE STOPPED AURA LEE FIGHT

Twin City Seniors Kept in Running By Defeating Aura Lee 5 to 3 in Rough Game.

KITCHENR, Ont., Feb. 7. Canadian Press. — Twin City O.H.A. Seniors kept in the running for the play off in Senior Group No. 1 last night by defeating Aura Lee 5 to 3 at the auditorium, in the wildest game of the year in which there was action galore and two fights, the final one nearly starting a riot and needing police intervention.

The teams checked closely and hard, and on slow ice. As the game progressed feeling became quite marked, with Dinsmore seeming to get peeved frequently. Early in the third period he took a swing at "Tee" Hillman when the latter was arguing with Bill Marsden, who was complaining that Referee Farrow was not allowing him time to get subs on the ice. Hillman claimed that he was and that Aura Lee was stalling.

With less than three minutes to play ill feeling broke out in earnest. Dinsmore tried to rough it with Hiller but the Kitchener centre evaded him, and he and Gerald Schnarr got into a mix up.

Dinsmore came out with a bleeding face from a cut, and he went after Schnarr with his stick, and there was nearly a free-for-all.

The Police had to pull the combatants apart. Schnarr was lucky not to be badly hurt. Both were chased from the game.

ROUGH HOUSE WAS BAD FOR ST. PATS

Hamilton Defeated the Irish 6 to 4 in N. H. L. Battle—Major Penalties

HAMILTON, Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press.)— Hamilton is keeping St. Patricks company on the second rung of the N.H.L. ladder last night following their 6 to 4 victory over the Irish in as wicked a battle as has been seen here in many moons. There was good and bad hockey dished up by both teams, but a little too much of the rough stuff and for this the St. Patricks were to blame. Everything went along swimmingly until Jack Adams crosschecked "Shorty" Green in the second period and the feud commenced. Unfortunately for Adams, he suffered for his mistake as he was struck across the face by a stick in a scramble in front of the Hamilton net and rendered unconscious. The slash opened up a cut on his left eye and robbed him of much of his playing power.

Bert Corbeau, with ten minutes of playing time left in the final period, dropped his stick and piled into "Shorty" Green without any cause. For this he was given the major penalty and Green, who retaliated, was treated likewise.

RACE DISALLOWED.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, February 7 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — Last Saturday's sculling race for the championship of Australasia, in which Hannan beat McDevitt by nine lengths, has now been declared no race.

Hannan did not keep his course and McDevitt did not cross the line.

The race will be re-rowed at some future date.

NEEDS SECOND SACKER

Unless Detroit lands a capable second sacker, there is hardly a chance for Cobb to finish as high as second this year.

RECORD CROWD TOMORROW NIGHT

Second Game of Belleville Series Will Be a Wow.

With the Petes needing a two goal margin to tie the round and three counters to win to-morrow nights battle with Belleville looms up as the biggest event of the hockey season. It will be fire works from the drop of the hat for the lead is just big enough to make both teams work their heads off and the fans should see some wonderful hockey in this engagement. Brock Street Rink will not hold the crowd that will want to see the hockey classic of the year. The reserved seat plan opened this morning and the ticket, went with a rush while standing room will be at a premium to-morrow night.

Belleville will bring a bunch of rooters along and the red shirts are confident of holding their lead. If they do it will not be until after a battle that will long be remembered. Both teams came through last night's game without casualties and they are in the best of shape for the crucial game. H. H. Jacobi of Toronto who refereed last night's game will handle the bell.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press.) —Before a crowd that smashed all attendance records for hockey matches in Ottawa, Canadiens of Montreal and Ottawa Senators last night staged another torrid battle with the home team winning by 4 to 0. The contest was replete with excitement from start to finish and while interest lagged in the second period it was because the winners were content to play a waiting game, saving their energy for the last period rally.

The story of the game may briefly be set out by stating that Ottawa took two well earned goals in the first session, played careful defence style in the middle period and finished up the performance by boosting their total by two more in the final twenty. Canadiens never let up in their attack and carried a fair share of the play but their chances to break into the score column was minimized by the faultless display given by Benedict in the local nets.

LINDSAY PRAISE FOR THE JUNIORS

"Post" Admits the Better Team Won and Peterboro Showed Great Improvement.

In a spirit of resignation the Lindsay Post's sporting editor pays tribute to Peterboro's juniors and compliments them on the dash they displayed Tuesday night. Chastened by the defeat of their Tankard rinks the Post recognizes that their horoscope was inauspicious with all the stars set against them. The Post's heaping measure of praise may not affect any of the junior hockey team, but it would be heady stug for some of the younger gentry in sports who would thrive best on the bitters of knocks and criticism.

Says the Post:

On last night's play the Petes deserved to win. They played a wonderfully brilliant game, were on their toes all the time, were lightning fast and back checked like fiends. The score should have been 10 to 1 on last night's play, but the Petes were wild in their shooting.

As Peterboro fans were heard to remark: "The way the junior Petes are playing tonight they would throw a scare into the intermediates." They certainly showed wonderful class for juniors and they have improved fifty per cent. over their last performance. Every man was good, while their subs were equally as good as their regulars. The two McDougall lads, new players on the Petes line-up wtre speedy and clever. The subs were used at all stages of the game and were shot out much like as if the kids were playing professional class at Toronto arena. Cheu, the Chinese player, was Peterboro's best worker and got results.

Ed Walsh, famous pitcher of other days, will probably be used by Manager Frank Chance of the Chicago White Sox as coach for the young pitchers.

KINGSTON FANS ARE DELIGHTED

Inclusion In the Central Ontario Baseball Circuit an Assurance of High-Class Games Next Summer.

The news that the Kingston baseball team had been admitted to the Central Ontario Baseball League for the coming season was received with delight by the fans, who expressed satisfaction as this decision. The Kingston representatives at the Port Hope meeting on Saturday, Messrs. W. L. Kennedy and Bert Booth, speak highly of the reception accorded them by the other representatives, and it now looks as if the city is well away for a good baseball season.

The grouping with Belleville, Peterboro and Oshawa is just what suits the local management and fans. This assures of good baseball, as those teams are known to be strong and able to provide the highest class in the sport. Last year's best players seen here on each line-up will be seen again, and there will be a few extra ones thrown in for good measure, while the Oshawa team, which was not here, their record speaks for itself. It will be remembered that they beat Belleville in the play-off between the two groups of the C.O.B.L., but were later thrown out over a technicality. The team that defeated Belleville last year, and that can show an improved line-up this coming season, will surely be well worth looking at during the summer.

The entrance to the C.O.B.L. gives the local executive the same degree of satisfaction that it does the fans, and though it means a great deal of hard work between now and the date of opening, the members are enthusiastic and determined to send forth a team which will do credit to the city. They expect the co-operation and assistance of the fans, and also of every baseball player good enough to catch a place on the senior team. Without the support of the players they will not have much chance, so it might as well be understood here and now, that unless the players co-operate the executive cannot do much. The honors and the responsibilities belong as much to the one as to the other.—Kingston Standard.

MANY GOLFERS IN FLORIDA TOURNEYS

These Three Tournaments Will Be Played on St. Augustine Links During the Next 60 Days.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—Golfers from many parts of the north and east are expected to participate in three tournaments to be played on the St. Augustine links during the next 60 days. The eighth annual spring tournament will open February 19 and play will continue through February 25. After that will come the women's third annual tournament, March 5-8, which will be followed by the Florida winter championship tournament March 18-22.

Wilfred Reid, professional in charge of the course which was one of the favorite places of recreation for the late President Harding during his visits to Florida, pronounces both greens and fairways in almost flawless condition. He has recently negotiated the 18 holes in 69 and followed that with a 71 on an unusually windy day.

Mrs. Ella K. Banning of Cincinnati, state champion, and one of the crack women golfers who visit St. Augustine, has announced her intention of entering the woman's tournament in March.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"THE COVERED WAGGON."

A packed house for the evening performance and a fair-sized afternoon audience, greeted the initial performance yesterday at the Grand Opera House of "The Covered Waggon," the picture whose fame has been heralded by the success it has met with wherever it has been shown. The slogan of the advertisers: "This picture wasn't acted, it was lived," expresses well the fascination of a memorable production that enchains the interest from start to finish. One watching the unfolding of the drama that makes the story of "The Covered Wagon" is transported to another bygone age that has in it an atmosphere rendered familiar by stories handed down from generation to generation. A foreign audience, watching this picture, might see in it only novelty. To those in whose blood flows the strain of the pioneers who made this country livable it is like the recurrence to life and motion of some well known loved tale of childhood; the story of the men and women who conquered the wilderness and passed on their heritage of indominable courage to generations that still respond to the thrill of their struggles and defeats.

An epic of pioneer days, an epic of the men of the plow, that most ancient of implements, that formed the emblem of the men and women of the Oregon Trail, is the story of "The Covered Wagon." In it there are thrills and danger, there is romance and humor and pathos, but the charm of the picture lies in its humanness, in the absolute reality of the figures that tell the story. It seems as if the modern veneer of luxury and excitement, the mad race for pleasure and change, the declining physical strength of the present generation had been stripped away, and the bed rock of character, and nationhood exposed, in the real virtures and failings that characterized the makers of a country, three quarters of a century ago.

The blood of a pioneer race, filtering down through three quarters of a century, still responds to the lure of the open road, and the trail-making of a continent. In this probably, lies the charm of 'The Covered Wagon."

The cast is a splendid one, every character a notable figure, all marked by the sincerity of the story. The music accompanying it is appropriate in every instance, and the picture itself is one of those clear white films that enhance the effect of reality and bring the characters into marked prominence.

On the 24th of May, 1848, thelargest caravan ever known of prospective settlers commenced its journey from the middle states to Oregon, a thousand-mile trek across the valley of the Platte, captained by Jesse Wingate, played by the veteran Chas Ogle, the long line of prairie schooners, with their openings gathered by draw strings like a woman's white cap, start out. In every detail, the manners and customs of those days is carried out. Not a hint of modern usage is permitted to mar the picture. The women are pioneer women, helping their men, full-skirted, smooth-haired, washing and cooking and attending to the children. Molly Wingate, (the charming Lois Wilson), is the heroine, and is the main cause of enmity between two rivals, Will Banion, captain and leader of the Liberty boys, whose caravan is absorbed with the Wingate train, and Sam Woodhull, a handsome bully, with a craven heart. Warren Kerrigan makes a wonderful hero as Will Banion, the army captain, who has been cashiered on a false charge, later cleared up, and his acting of the role is one of the high lights of a uniformly good picture. A likeable character is the fierce, hairy old Bill, the tall ruffian, who accompanies Banion, and the old nomad trader of the prairies, with his two squaws waiting at the fort; "Blast Your Hide!" and 'D'ang your Eyes." The old trader requires to get "lickered up" to enable him to recollect an extremely important message and his timely intervention at the right moment prevents a wedding between Molly and the unpopular Woodhull.

The adventurous scenes of the picture include a tense portrayal of the difficulties of crossing a deep and treacherous river, where the heavy wagons are almost submerged, with their oxen and horses; an attack by Indians on the caravan, saved by the action of the little, tobacco-chewing Jed, riding in haste for Banion and his men, and the prairie fire that menaces their forward march. Realism and faithful adherence to pictured and narrated history are in every episode. In the various scenes, the pages of old story books live and move on the screen. The buffalo hunt shows the shaggy animals racing acros the plain, with a half naked rider bringing down his quarry with a bow and arrow, another using a carbine, a third knifing and skinning one of the big brutes.

In the early snow, in late October, the goal is made. Unknown to the weary pioneers, Oregon has been reached, and the heart-breaking trail ended. They fall on their knees to thank God, and the plow is requisitioned immediately to turn the first sod of earth. Far away in California, one of the gold seekers of '49, Banion, gathers ore from a rude cradle. In a characteristic episode, old Bill brings him the glad news of Molly's relenting and rids him of his enemy, Woodhull.

The music is descriptive and adds greatly to the interest of the production. An augmented orchestra which brings up the total of players to eleven, renders the music of the big picture, and runs the gamut of the Indian warhoop to the strains of "Pop Goes the Weasel" for the Virginia reel, and the trumpet notes of "The Last Post" for the weary old pioneer mother, laid to rest during the long trek.

AT THE REGENT

FIREMEN; REMARKABLE TRIBUTE TO THEIR WORK

In adapting the story, "Andy McGee's Chorus Girl,' by Richard Harding Davis, for screen purposes, William Fox called it "Cupid's Fire man" and dedicated the picture to "the men who risk their all for the lives and property of others." It is fitting that the production should be thus dedicated, according to opinions expressed on its completion by veteran firemen in New York and elsewhere. The picture comes to the Regent Theatre to-day for three days.

Charles Jones, erstwhile player of Western parts, has the role of the bashful firemen detailed to stand watch in the wings of a theatre. How he meets the girl of all girls, rescues her from death and overcomes, the obstacle of a worthless husband, all go to make a terrific story of romance and action.

Marian Nixon has the leading feminine part opposite Jones and a capable cast gives them admirable support. In strong character parts there appear Brooks Benedict, Eileen O'Malley, Lucy Beaumont, Al Freemont, Charles McHugh, Mary Warren and L. H. King.

William Wellman, the director, filmed actual fire scenes, which add materially to the realism of the picture as a whole. The Los Angeles fire department took away and every effort was made to produce a story which really told the life of the typical fire fighter in an average city. This realism is the thing that seemed to win the hearts of New York fire men instantly.

AT THE ROYAL

HISTORICAL PLAY AT THE ROYAL TONIGHT

"The Hero of Ladysmith" With Owen Nares in Leading Role

The feature for the last half of this week at the Royal will be G. B. Samuelson's big dramatic spectacle, "The Hero of Ladysmith," with the famous London matinee idol, Owen Nares, supported by Lillian Hall-Davis and a big cast.

"The Hero of Ladysmith" is a big historical spectacle the story of which begins at the Reindeer Hotel, Southampton, in 1898. Here is where the romance starts between Waverley, who later becomes "The Hero of Ladysmith," and a young English girl known as Blackie, daughter of the inn-keeper at Southampton. The setting of this romance, England in 1898, is colorful in the extreme and the interiors help to round out the beauty of this love story back in Victorian days.

Then the story takes strong dramatic twists and we see the black genius of the Transvaal, Oom Paul Kruger, thrown the gauntlet down to the British Commissioners with the declaration "Then it shall be War, and War that will stagger the British Empire," and then we find Great Britain plunged into the famous struggle on the veldts, and rapidly from England and her colonies come the responses of the volunteers to upgold Britain's prestige, and in Southampton, Waverley hears the call and embarks for South Africa.

And then we see on the screen staged spectacles of the South African War, Magersfontein, Stromberg and Colenso, and the English power trembles under the onslaught of the wild Africanders, and even then Ladysmith and Mafeking are hemmed in and subjected to the horrors of a siege lasting long and weary months.

And here, Britain calls upon her national heroes, Lord Roberts and Kitchener of Khartoum, to save the day, and with the arrival of these two great leaders on the scene, the tide of battle swiftly changes and we find the Boers giving way to advance after advance on the part of Roberts, till we finally see the great day of the surrender of General Cronje on the Modder River.

And here in the story is where Corporal Waverley comes through with spectacular colors to save the day. Waverley forms one of the beleaguered garrison at Ladysmith and volunteers to carry word through the Boer outposts to General Buller at Pieter's Hill; and here we see the romantic and adventurous exploits of this Englishman going through the entire Boer forces and carrying the message that is to save Ladysmith.

From this point on the story of the picture takes a number of dramatic twists wherein we see the unexpected turn of the romance between Waverley and Blackie, the story carrying us right through until twenty years later when Waverley, the man who saved Ladysmith, is found in the arms of another girl in a London drawingroom on the day that the German Zeppelins are shelling London, and here we also see in the picture a wonderful spectacle of the air raid on London, the huge monsters in the air, the sky flooded with the spotlights of the English, the atmosphere resounding with the boom of anti-aircraft guns and then the swarming of the skies with English airplanes giving chase to the German monsters and here and there glaring bright bursts of flame where a Zeppelin was hit, and then the sensational nose-dive of a glowing meteorite which plunges down to death and destruction and lands with a sickening thud.

The story of "The Hero of Ladysmith" is based on the famous English play, "The Faithful Heart," which ran for years in London with that popular English matinee idol, Owen Nares, in the leading role of Corporal, and later Colonel Waverley, and now in the motion picture production, G. B. Samuelson has gone out and secured the same famous star of the legitimate stage to take the part of Waverley in the picture, and the part of Blackie Gattiscombe is taken by the talented English screen actress, Lillian Hall-Davis, who will be remembered for her stellar work in "A Royal Divorce," "The Game of Life" and other big attractions.

MINE CONFERENCE HAS BROKEN DOWN

Consternation Caused by Failure of Parties to Reach Agreement.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 7—"The next move, if any, towards solving the situation which has shut down the mines in Cape Breton, must come from the British Empire Steel Coropration."

This statement was made this morning by provisional President Barrett, of the Nova Scotia miners.

The representatives of the miners who took part in the wage negotiations abruptly terminated yesterday without the impasse being broken, were still in Montreal to-day.

Caused Consternation.

A Glace Bay despatch says:

There was something like consternation here to-day when it was learned that the British Empire Steel Corporation-United Mine Workers' conference at Montreal has been broken off, with small chance of it being resumed. Officials in both company and union circles are reticent. They have little more information on what is going on at Montreal than appears in the press reports. Officers of the mine workers union here merely reiterate their determination to stand by their demand for a wage raise approximating the scale of 1921.

BONEHEAD PLAY SAY EMBASSIES

BERLIN Feb. 7. — (British United Press).—The German Government did its best to-day to convince everyone concerned that no ill will toawrd the United States was intended by the flag incident at the embassy in Washington, where the German emblem was not at first displayed at half mast during Wilson's funeral.

It was a plain "boner" one heard on every side to-day.

Government officials make Ambassador Wiedfeldt the "goat" but the Foreign Office spokesmen merely shrug their shoulders when asked if the minister to Washington will resign or be recalled.

Theodor Wolff, influential editor of the Berliner Tageblatt, declared the affair Dummheit," (in current American parlance "dumb bell"), accusing Wiedfeldt of lacking of either initiative or courage while he held that the foreign office had erred by failing to tell the Ambassador either to use his own judgment or to follow the cours, set by other plenipotentiaries.

The people who subscribed for the first round game got first crack at the plan yesterday, as promised before the season opened, and next year it is expected that the fans who are accustomed to holding off for the big games will take advantage of the subscription plan.

Lindsay Curlers Won the Governor General Trophy

TORONTO, Feb. 7. Canadian Press. — Lindsay Curlers this afternoon won the Governor-General's Prize, a handsome silver trophy presented by Lord Byng of Vimy, by defeating Orillia by ten shots in the finals of the competition.

Although popularly considered as second in importance to the Tankard (which was won last night by the Galt club) the Governor-General's prize takes second place only as regards the length of time that it has been up for competition.

The competition has been a feature of Ontario curling associations' annual tournaments since 1896.

WEATHER.

Beginning about the time of the birth of Christ, the world had very wet weather for several centuries. Then came a dry spell that lasted 600 or 700 years. Weather fluctuates in long cycles. At present it looks as if at least the middle latitudes of our Northern Hemisphere are slowly passing out of a dry period that has prevailed for the past 200 years or more. So says the authority, Dr. Willis Luther Moore, in "The New Air World."

Much of our weather originates somewhere in the Far North. So weather observations up there will be the most valuable feature of the coming airplane and dirigible flights over the North Pole.

RECREATION CENTRE SOUGHT AT VOLCANO

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—A recreation centre and summer school almost on the brink of Kilauea on the island of Hawaii, the largest continuously active volcano in the world, will be provided for members of the Hawaii Education Association through plans now under consideration by the organization.

The camp site desired is near the trail which leads to a large, apparently bottomless pit known as the Devil's Throat, from which steam arises constantly. The crater of Kilauea-iki is to the right of the site, and Halemaumau, (House of Ever-Lasting Fire) the pit proper of Kilauea, is approximately a mile away.

A tract of five acres will be requested from the Government. The Hawaiian Department of the Army maintains a military camp near the crater to provide rest and recreation for officers and enlisted men, the place affording relief from the humid atmosphere of the lowlands.

HAROLD SPENDER TAKES BLAME AS GOVERNMENT SENDS PARIS REGRETS

Newspapers Storm at Lloyd George and Accuse Him of Acting Unworthily While He in Turn Acknowledges Loyalty of Wilson, Says Agreement Was Not Secret, and Ridicules the Offending Article.

CRITICIZED BY MACDONALD.

PARIS, February 8 (Canadian Press). — Sir Eric Phipps, counsellor of the British Embassy, and Acting Charge d'Affaires, during Lord Crewe's absence, called at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon and expressed the regrets of the British Government at the Lloyd-George incident.

A few hours later, upon receipt of further instructions from London, Sir Eric communicated to the Quay D'Orsay, Mr. Lloyd-George's declaration that he had not authorised the interview for which Harold Spender had assumed entire responsibility.

Branded as No Gentleman.

Sir Eric's explanation was received with satisfaction in official circles, but a storm of anger against Lloyd-George already had broken out in the public press. The former British Premier was subjected to a flood of violent epithets, even the staid Temps practically branding him as no gentleman.

"When a man has had the honour to be Premier of Great Britain, he should not behave in this manner," was the editorial comment of this semi-official organ this afternoon before it had word of Sir Eric Phipy's explanation.

CONDEMNED BY PREMIER.

LONDON, February 8 (Canadian Press). — The four-cornered controversy between Lloyd-George, Clemenceau, Poincare, and Premier MacDonald over the alleged existence of a secret agreement by Woodrow Wilson and M. Clemenceau, respecting the occupation of the Rhineland waxed warmer yesterday.

Mr. MacDonald criticised Mr. Lloyd-George's indiscreet handling of the whole matter, condemning his attitude as indefensible and contrary to diplomatic usage.

This has been followed by a frank statement by Mr. Lloyd-George saying it was ridiculous to describe the agreement as secret, and acknowledging that Mr. Wilson acted with perfect loyalty.

Mr. Lloyd-George denies that he gave the interview to Harold Spender, the writer of the article in question, and states that he has informed the British Foreign Office that he has no objection to the publication of the documents.

LLOYD-GEORGE'S DENIAL. KNEW OF AGREEMENT.

LONDON, February 8 (Canadian Press).—Mr. Lloyd-George, through the Daily Chronicle, has issued the following statement concerning the interview printed in the New York World on the alleged secret Rhineland agreement between President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau at the Paris Peace Conference:

"I did not give the interview referred to, and was more than surprised when my attenton was called to it by telephone messages. I cannot accept the views attributed to me as accurately setting out the facts of what happened at a critical moment in the Peace Conference. As to those facts, the official statement issued by the French Foreign Office is substantially correct."

Then, alluding to how he was called to London at the time in question, Mr. Lloyd-George proceeds:

"I found on my return to Paris that during my absence an agreement had been arrived at between Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau on two very important issues. One was the military occupation of the Rhineland and the other a guarantee by the United States of the French frontier against acts of aggression by Germany.

Wilson Was Loyal.

"To describe this agreement as a 'secret compact' between Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau is ridiculous. Mr. Wilson, I need hardly say, acted with perfect loyalty, and it cannot be imputed as a blame either to the late President or to M. Clemenceau that I was called to England at the time these grave matters were under discussion.

"The fact that the late President and M. Clemenceau had arrived at an agreement during my absence was communcated to me on my return, and the agreement regarding the occupation of the Rhineland was, after some madification, ultimately incorporated in the Peace Treaty."

Expressing regret that any public reference should have been made to a communication sent to him by the British Foreign Office, Mr. Lloyd-George says:

(This communique was issued by the Forcign Office on Wednesday night.)

Reply Was Delayed.

The former Premier then explains that the communication from the Foreign Office was not signed, and, owing to this fact, these was delay in replying to it, which he regrets. He adds that of the documents thus proposed to be distributed by the French Government, one is headed: "Articles concerning the guarantees of execution of treaties." Another is headed: "Treaty between France and the United States." Both of these documents, says Mr. Lloyd-George, are footnoted identically thus: "As approved by President Wilson and Clemenceau on 20th April."

"These documents," he writes, "must, I imagine, now be published. They will tell their own story.

No Longer Secrets.

The former Premier observes that he had no intimation from the Foreign Office to the effect that it was considered disadvantageous to publish the documents and that he had already sent a reply to the Foreign Office that he could see no harm in the publication of the documents, adding:

"Premier MacDonald will probably find that most, if not all, of these documents have already been published by Tardieu in France, or Baker in America. Both of these gentlemen have between them published most of the secret documents of the Paris Conference."

United States Urged to Support Control of Arms Traffic

COMMISSION OF NATIONS LEAGUE INVITE AMERICA

Disarmament Commission Anxious to Secure the Co-operation of United States — Proposed Convention Will Otherwise Fail—Minister Present.

Need Universal Accord.

GENEVA, Feb. 8. — Joseph C. Grew, United States' Minister to Switzerland, who is acting as unofficial observer at the sessions of the Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations, yesterday stated anew the position of cordial sympathy of the United States Government for the control of the traffic in arms.

Mr. Grew explained at the session that the laws of the United States were rigorous and that United States was shipping no arms to any extent to the South American countries. He added, however, that the United States objected, among other things, to the St. Germain Treaty, because this treaty would prevent the United States forwarding arms to Latin-American States which had not signed the convention.

All Must Agree.

Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, representing Great Britain, replied that although the United States was not shipping any considerable amount of arms, it was also true that all States must sign the proposed convention before any single State would consent to enforcing its terms. There was necessity for obtaining universal accord, including the United States—in spite of that country's fine record— so that the other countries would feel easy in mind.

Viscount Cecil emphasized the need of the United States attending the Paris meeting of the Disarmament Commission, saying it was vital that the United States be represented.

Signor Schanzer, Italy, supported Viscount Cecil's arguments. He added that everybody was desirous of making the convention suitable to the United States.

Stop Manufacture.

The meeting concluded after European labor, as represented on the commission, issued a forceful claim that the increase in rivalry between arm manufacturers constituted a grave menace of war which must be dispelled. Labor came out flatly for a total suppression of all private manufacturing countries, who took the position that the private manufacture of arms should not be submitted to international control.

DOHERTY GIVES NOTICE OF U.F.O, GROUP PROTEST

Claim the Constitutional Right to Be the Official Opposition As Largest Group In Legislature Outside the Government Benches--Belford Moved Debate.

CONSIDER FARMERS.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—At the opening of the first business session of the Ontario Legislature yesterday Hon. Manning Doherty, leader of the United Farmer group gave notice that on Tuesday next he would protest that the U.F.O. had not been recognized as the official opposition. He declared that it was the constitutional right of the U.F.O. to be the official opposition claiming it to be the largest group on the left of the Speaker. Premier Ferguson started to reply but was cut off on the ruling of the Speaker that a notice of motion was not debatable.

The reply to the speech from the Throne was moved by E. F. B. Belford (East Northumberland) and seconded by W. S. Haney "West Lambton. The debate was adjourned on motion of W. E. E. Sinclair (South Ontario) Liberal leader until Tuesday and Premier Ferguson moved that the House adjourn until tomorrow when private and other bills will be considered.

Mr. Belford's Speech

Mr. Belford expressed his appreciation of the fact that the troubles of the farmers were fully recognized by the Government in the appointment of a special committee to consider the economic difficulties of the agricultural industry. He wanted to see a greater sympathy of the town people with their country cousins. He declared that on the Ontario Temperance Act that the pre-election pledge of the Premier was quite clear.

"Personally" he said "I have faith in the people and their rights and power to settle such matters for themselves."

He thought that Premier quite right in declaring that when the people desired to vote on the question that the government was ready to give them the requested right. He went on to speak on the Ontario population as a people to be entrusted with the development and proper care of their country. The war had shown that the Canadian race had not gone back. The problems of the peace could be met he maintained with the same vigor and success with which the problems of war had been met.

The Youngest Member

Mr. Haney praised the government for its action in making insulin for diabetic treatment free to those who could not afford to pay for it. Reductions in the cost had been made, he said, so that now treatment cost from 45 to 65 cents a day. Mr. Haney dwelt at some Neighbor Accused of Instigating Murder.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Feb. 7—The second stage of the Yakim-Tratch murder case, for which his widow was convicted and sentenced to be hanged yesterday, commenced in the Court of King's Bench to-day when Theodore Oleskew, a neighbor of the Tratch's, was arraigned for murder.

Oleskew is reported to be a wealthy landowner and prominent in public affairs at Fish Creek.

In her confession made at the time of her husband's death, Mrs. Tratch implicated Oleskew, alleging that it was at his instigation she had poisoned her husband, and that Oleskew had provided her with poison for the purpose.

Two Labor Members Will Sit Together

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—It is quite likely that next week there will be a change in the seating of the two Labor members of the Legislature. Following the protests of Peter Heenan (Labor (Kenora) that labor members should be seated together the Speaker said that he believed the matter could be arranged. It means that Mr. Heenan and Mr. Callan, Rainy River will sit together. Of course the protest by Hon. Manning Doherty will become a matter of discussion. The attitude of the Liberals cannot be told. They are now opposition officially. If the U. F.O. group succeeeds they will become the secondary opposition.

CANDLER OF COCA COLA WINS HEART BALM SUIT FROM WOMAN HE JILTED

New Orleans Society Beauty's Claim of $500,000 For Breach of Promise Dismissed By Jury at Atlanta, Ga., After Half Hour's Deliberation.

He Married Another.

ATLANTA, Feb. 8.—It took the jury only 30 minutes to return a verdict for the defendant in the suit of Mrs. Onezima de Bouchel of New Orleans against Asa G. Candler, Sr., the Coca Cola king, asking $500,000 damages for breach of promise to marry. The verdict was reached on the first ballot.

Neither principal was in court when the verdict was returned. Mrs. de Bouchel was in a restaurant with her attorney when notified. He said she would make no statement.

Mr. Candler, notified in the lobby of his office building, only said :"I have no statement to make, other than I am very happy. I didn't expect anything else."

Attacked Decree.

Mr. Candler's attorneys attacked the validity of the Reno, Nev., decree of Sept. 21, 1921, which granted Mrs. de Bouchel a divorce from her husband, Adoph Rocquet, of New Orleans, contending that she did not establish a domicile in Nevada. The decree being invalid, they contended, she could not become engaged to marry Mr. Candler, and therefore any engagement existing for that purpose was not legal. They asserted that there was not sufficient evidence presented to give grounds for recovering damages.

Mrs. de Bouchel's counsel upheld the validity of her divorce, and said she had in every way complied with the Nevada laws. They contended she had determined to divorce Mr. Rocquet before she met Mr. Candler in Atlanta during the Confederate Veterans' Reunion, in 1919. She has offered to release him from the engagement they continued, when it became apparent that there was opposition to the marriage on the part of his family, but that he refused to listen to the offer, and insisted on her marriage.

Trousseau Made.

The wedding plans were all arranged, trousseau for the bride-to-be had been made, announcement cards printed, Mrs. de Bouchel had shipped her furniture to Mr. Candlers' home in Atlanta, and the wedding itinerary agreed on, when, two days before the wedding, her petition declared, she received a letter from the Atlanta millionaire saying he could not marry her because it had been told him that two men had visited her room in the Atlanta Hotel at night, while she was attending the reunion.

Mrs. de Bouchel said she demanded the names of the two men but Mr. Candelr declined to give them. She came to Atlanta finally she asserted, in an effort to learn their names, but he steadfastly declined to make them known. Finally, she said, she entered suit for $500,000 to force the information from him.

Plaintiff's reply to Candler's last letter read:

"My attorneys inform me that yesterday you refused to divulge the names of the men in Atlanta who, you say, claim to have visited me. Do you expect me to let this hideous slander go unanswered?

"If such men made such accusations as you described they were paid to do it. It is a clumsy conspiracy and imposes on nobody but yourself. Why did it come up in Atlanta just in time to prevent our plans? Why did it come up at all?

"A Defenceless Woman"

"You say one of the men is a traveling salesman. That is a respectable occupation. I'll call on the traveling salesmen of the South to protect a defenseless woman against slander.

"Unless you divulge the name of the person, I'll act on the assumption there is no such person.

Dr. Albert T. Rocquet stated he was a brother of Adolph Rocquet, former husband of Mrs. de Bouchel; that he had known the plaintiff as "a perfect lady and have received and continue to receive her in my home." He called Mrs. de Bouchel's reputation excellent and that nothing had occurred to change his opinion of her.

Dr. Oscar Dowling, president of the Louisiana State Board of Health, deposed that he knew Mrs. de Bouchel as a leader in the social life of New Orleans and that she was a constant attendant at the Mardi Gras festivals, to which only the "best people" were invited.

Would Broadcast From Parliament

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press) —While the broadcasting of speeches in the Dominion Parliament by radio is a probability for the future, it is understood that it will not be undertaken at the coming session. It has been suggested that important speeches in debates of widespread interest should be broadcasted by means of microphones installed in the Commons Chamber connected with a broadcasting station. It is understood that the suggestion will not be acted on this sessions, however.

BRITISH PREMIER HOPES TO ADOPT OPEN DIPLOMACY

Desires to Establish Basis of Confidence and Friendliness in Foreign Relations — MacDonald Declares Soviet Propaganda in Britain Must Stop.

KNOWS WORKINGS.

LONDON, Feb. 8.— (Canadian Press)—In dealing with Europe the new British Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, intends to depart from the devious path of secret diplomacy and contentious argument and adopt a frank, open, man-to-man relationship with the premiers of other countries He believes that most of the evils and suspicions which at present afflict Europe can be removed by the establishment of a friedlier, franker and more neighborly feeling among the nations.

It was made clear in official quarters yesterday that the Prime Minister is utterly without faith in the efficiency of armaments in settling disputes of preserving peace. The solution of Great Britain's present difficulties with France, the Premier holds, rests deep in human nature and can be attained only by appealing to France's better self.

"Convince your neighbor that you have reason, justice and unselfish motives on your side, and you have won him," is the language to describe in broad outline Mr. MacDonald's future method in dealing with France and other European countries.

Desires Meeting.

In pursuit of this aim the Premier is anxious to have a personal meeting with M. Poincare, but this will not take place until it is possible for the two premiers to discuss definite propositions based upon the reports of the two commissions of inquiry which are now examining Germany's finances. Mr. MacDonald has received the most encouraging reports from Paris that the broad liberal policy he is now formulating will be acceptable to France. This policy will be one of neighborly sympathy and moderation, but, withal, firm and unequivocal in prosecuting the legitimate international interests of Great Britain.

It was indicated yesterday that Russia would accept most of the conditions stipulated by Mr. MacDonald as a prelude to full diplomatic recognition. The Premier is particularly insistent that Soviet propaganda shall stop. He has already made it known that he is fully aware of the existence and the extent of this subversive campaign of publicity in England, not officially as Prime Minister, but as a member of the Socialist Party, intimately acquainted with the inner working of the Soviet regime.

Reduce Armaments.

It was also indicated in the same authorative circles that the Premier is eager to do everything possible to facilitate the settlement of such questions as the re-opening of the American consulate at Newcastle, ratification and faithful execution of the terms of the Anglo-American Liquor Treaty, a further reduction of armaments, in line with the principles of the Washington Conference, the conclusion of further arbitration agreements with the United States, extension of the powers of the League of Nations and the admission to the league of Russia and Germany, early adjustment, or even remission, of the inter-Allied debts in conjunction with the reparations settlement, and the extending of advice and assistance to South American countries in the formation of a friendly association of nations among themselves.

The Premier has already appointed expert committees to deal with the main problems in Russian recognition and he is prepared to advocate the extension to Russia of commercial credit in England if the Moscow Government gives satisfactory pledges for the settlement of outstanding British claims.

FIVE PERSONS DRIFT ON ICE WITHOUT HOPE

NEAR CATASTROPHE

QUEBEC, Feb. 8.—(By Canadian Press)—No lives were lost in the breaking of the ice bridge which formed in the river St. Lawrence from Quebec to Levis shores yesterday. While hundreds had narrow escapes and five people drifted up stream on the cake of ice and were given up, as lost this morning check up by the authorities revealed, the fact that everybody had got safely to shore.

The five people, when they disappeared into the darkness were given up as lost and it was not till eleven this morning that the authorities were able to announce they had got ashore.

The ice fortunately flowed up stream to a point where the river narrows to the spot which the Quebec bridge hangs across it. The ice was jammed together again by the tide and the drifting people were thus able to make shore. The dramatic story of how five people who drifted for hours gave up hope and after prayer waited for the end was told by Phillip Couture. He said he worked in Levis, but lived in Quebec. He was walking home with about eight people, and was near the Levis' side of the river when the jam broke.

Mr. Couture said "all evening we three men and two women were governed by the caprices of the tide and must have crossed the river 20 times I used my flashlight to signal and others lighted matches. All called for help and could hear the people on shore inquiring. Our anguish increased as we realized that we had only a little hope. Kneeling down we prayed and asked Almighty God to save us.

"The night was not too cold but the suspense was awful and we began to think we had been given up as dead.

"As we were studying a means of escaping a large portion of the ice we were on cracked and we were separated, one of the ladies being alone on one section and three others on another. We managed to jump and reach her. Then we had to leave that portion also and cross to another one.

"Minutes became centuries and our hopes were quickly diminishing.

Then we noticed we were not moving any more. I flashed my light and saw the ice jammed on shore. We had reached Atkinson yards. Christopher Columbus had nothing on us when we saw land."

LETHAL CHAMBER IS USED IN EXECUTION

First Man to Be Executed by Sleeping Death Was Chinaman--Took Three Minutes.

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 8. — (United Press.)—Gee Jeon, Chinese, died to-day by lethal gas, the first man to be executed by the new "sleeping death."

At 9.37 a.m. three guards marched with the Chinaman from the condemned row of the State Penitentiary here, forty yards across the prison yard to the lethal chamber.

He walked quietly, with practically no sign of nervousness.

The door was closed behind him and he was bound hand and foot to a heavy metal cot.

The process, all of which had been thoroughly rehearsed, required but a moment.

When the death chamber door was locked the three guards spun the wheels which turned the valves.

There was a hiss of the poison gas rushing under pressure through the conduits and into the cell.

Watchers at the death house window saw only a slight tremor of the body and then the man's head fell suddenly to the right and the doctors declared he was dead. Three minutes elapsed between the time the gas was introduced into the death chamber and the time the physicians made their preliminary announcement of death, but it is believed that death came even more quickly than that.

THE ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT FAVORED

What You Lose in Shipping Will Return to You in Development of Hinterland.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The St. Lawrence to lakes waterway project has been favored by formal resolutions and appropriations from 18 States, representing forty per cent. of the population and 77 per cent. of the wheat producers of the United States, while the opposition is confined to New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Montreal, James P. Goodrich, the former Governor of Indiana, stated yesterday before the New York State Chamber of Commerce.

"Whatever you may lose in shipping will return to you in the development of the hinterland," he said, in stating the arguments of the Western shippers. "The farmers of the Middle West are not content to rest on the mercy of the Erie Canal and rail rate for grain per ton mile is seven times the water rate. The cost of transporting grain from Buffalo to New York is greater than that of the water haul from Duluth to Liverpool."

He said that the value added to the grain by the construction of the waterway would pay for the project within ten years, and that its entire construction cost would be realized in fifty years by an electrical development scheme, which is an adjunct of the waterway.

NOT DISAPPOINTED WITH CALIFORNIA

Mr. W. H. Barry Likes Los Angeles and its People, He Writes.

In a letter to the Examiner, Mr. W. H. Barry, of Los Angeles, and formerly of Peterboro, denies the statement made about him by a speaker at the recent fire brigade banquet in Lakefield to the effect that he was disappointed with California, and had made up his mind to return. On the contrary, Mr. Barry speaks in the highest terms of the conditions in Los Angeles, and says that he does not know of a better place in which to live. He is, of course, looking forward to visiting Peterboro and renewing the many pleasant acquaintances he made here, but has no intention of leaving Los Angeles permanently. The people there, he says, are too busy and contented to meddle in other folks' affairs, and every one of them is an enthusiastic booster for Los Angeles. The credit for this spirit he ascribes to the Chamber of Commerce, which is a live, aggressive organization.

Mr. Barry says that anyone willing to stick to one line is sure of success. The only failures are those who, lured by the prospect of big returns, drift from one thing to another and eventually fail.

DELORA NEWS OF INTEREST.

DELORA, Feb. 8. — The Junior Women's Institute gave a very enjoyable dance in the hall on Tuesday evening. Good music was furnished by the Marmora Orchestra, and the dancing was continued until 3 a. m. Several novelty dances were introduced and the prize for the Balloon dance went to Miss C. Burns and Mr. I. Meighan, and for the cracker dance to Miss K. Ceoffrey and Mr. W. Buskard. The proceeds which amounted to $65, will be used for welfare work in the community.

The ladies of the Women's Institute met at the Company House on Wednesday evening and packed a box of clothing which will be sent to the Children's Shelter at Belleville.

Mr. W. Regan left on Wednesday for New York to attend the wedding of his sister, Marion to Mr. Timonee of New York.

Mr. W. Terrion, of Grand Seminary, Montreal, is spending a holiday at his home here.

THIEVES ENTER CHURCHES.

THREE RIVERS, Quebec, February 8 (Canadian Press). — Thieves who are thought to have robbed the Church of St. Pierre De Shawinigan some time ago of relics and poor boxes, entered the church of Almaville, a small parsh near here, last night, and finding nothing to steal, soiled the tabernacle and other sacred objects, with cigarette butts.

ENGLAND HAS A SCIENTIST FOR PRIME MINISTER

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Lord Haldane and Other Distinguished Guests Attended a Science Meeting.

LONDON, Feb. 8. — (British United Press). — "Fancy having a Prime Minister of England who is actually interested in science," exclaimed George Bernard Shaw, following a lecture at the India House by Sir J. Chandra Bose on "Plant Life."

Ramsay MacDonald grinned broadly and made a little speech of thanks to the lecturer, saying: "I have keen recollection of some of Dr. Bose's lectures which I heard in Calcutta. I remember one in which he proved he could make an iron bar drunk."

"I suppose the science of that experiment is perfectly sound, but I've always questioned its morality."

JOHN BROWNLEE GETS A FIFTY YEAR JEWEL

He is the Fourth Man in This Lodge to Receive a Fifty Year Jewel.

A very pleasant meeting was held last night in Peterborough Lodge No. 111, I.O.O.F., when the presentation of a 50 years jewel and a gold-headed cane was made to Bro. John Brownlee. A large gathering of lodge members and visiting brothers heard Bro. Brownlee make a happy reply, and listened with great interest when he related some old-time episodes of the lodge of years long ago.

This ies the fourth 50 years jewel given by Peterborough Lodge to veterans, other members who have received the jewel being Bros. W. J. Green, A. J. Johnston and D. H. Moore. Bro. Andrew McFarlane will arrive in July.

After the degree team had conferred the initiatory degree on four members, adjournment was made to the dining hall, where a banquet was held, the repast being prepared and served by the Daughters of Rebekah, Golden Link Lodge No. 8. Bro. T. C. Elliott, P.G., presided and carried out the duties of chairman in an able manner. Short speeches were made by Bro. W. Madill and Bro. McFarlane, P.G. The main speaker of the evening, Bro. G. N. Gordon, explained to the gathering the make-up of the new British Parliament, dwelling on the merits of the new ministers. This address was not only well given, but most instructive.

Songs were given by Bros. D. Fantham, Hendry and Smith, all of which were encored, adding much to the enjoyment of the evening. Mr. M. Chenhall, accompanist.

District Deputy Grand Master Bro. R. R. Ford, also Guardian of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, Bro. H. Turner were among those present.

The meeting dispersed after the singing of God Save the King.

LUMBER CAMPS STRIKE.

VICTORIA, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—That the I. W. W. movement is behind the strike in the lumber camps in the Cranbrook district of British Columbia and that the fight inaugurated by the loggers for better working conditions and higher wages is likely to be a long drawn-out one, is the opinion of J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor, who returned to the city yesterday, following a two weeks' investigation of trouble in the strike area.

CAMPBELLFORD SCHOOL IS A CREDIT TO TOWN

References Made to New Institution at Commencement Exercises Last Evening-- Certificates Issued.

By Staff Reporter.)

CAMPBELLFORD, February 8.—Campbellford's academic cupboard has been purged of the skeleton that has found haven there for the past ten years or more. The spectre has been laid to rest, at least until it may rise again to torment a future generation. The new High School is an assured fact, something that less than a year ago was only a dim possibility and a spirit of satisfaction marked the proceedings at the annual commencement exercises last night. There were two references to the new institution last night by those who took part.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton congratulated the citizens because now they will soon have a school building worthy of the students and teachers.

Dr. O. C. Watson, member of the Board of Education, who rarely indulges in sarcasm, took a parting fling at the High School Junta when he predicted greater success in secondary education when the new building, "situated in the sunken garden," is occupied.

Well Trained Students.

Principal Greig and his staff of assistants had worked with untiring energy to prepare the students for the annual event, and the result is their best possible reward. Parents and friends had an excellent opportunity of seeing for themselves the all-round training that the students of the Campbellford High School are receiving. They are not only proficient in every subject on the curriculum, as the examination records show, but are receiving instruction in the finer arts, in music, praceful folk dancing, rifle practice, and drill.

The Presentations.

Dr. O. C. Watson had the stage to himself when he appeared to present the diplomas to the graduates, as all of these have left for other fields.

Of the 18 who graduated last year, 10 are at the Normal School and 3 are taking a University course.

Helen Armstrong, who is at Queen's, has won a scholarship in Latin, valued at $170, and Dr. Watson remarked that her success in the higher institution was due in a large measure to the excellent training she had received in Campbellford. The following is a list of the graduates:

Helen Armstrong, Owen Brahaney, Helen Bygott, Paul Bailey, Eva Coveney, Margaret Dickson, Ethel Hall, Evelyn Hermiston, Richard Honey, T. B. Horkins, Exa Inkster, Marion Inkster, Hazel Mason, Lillian Melklejohn, Helen McKeown, Perry Sanders, Olive Stephens, and J. D. Thompson.

The I.O.D.E. Scholarships.

Mrs. W. H Ashton, last year regent of the Senior Chapter of the IO.D.E., presented the scholarships which that organization gives annually to the High School students. Mr. Ashton said that the I.O.D.E. stood for the unity of the Motherland and the colonies, and that the best influence to foster this spirit, was education. In a recent address Attorney General Nickle had stated that education was what was requirquired to cure the ills of the present generation.

"Perhaps," continued Mrs. Ashton, "Mr. Nickle knows just what is wrong with the present generation, but I confess that I do not. However, the prescription is all right."

The winner of the I.O.D.E. scholarships were: Roy Elmhurst, first in English; Everett Thomas, first in British History, and Cecil Longmuir, first in Mathematics.

Entrance Scholarships.

Mrs. A. (Dr.) Haig presented the entrance scholarships. Margery Ackerman, the bright little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackerman, took the highest stand of the entrance examinations last summer; Cherrie Turner was second, and Elsie Carter third. The latter is now living with her parents in Toronto.

A Favorite Wins.

Principal Charles Haig of the public school awards a medal to pupil in the Junior Fourth class, who makes the best record at the entrance examinations. Miss Mary Watson is teacher of this department, sent up ten candidates last year and every one was successful. The winner of Principal Haig's medal was Allison Moffatt, the 11 year old daughter of the former principal of the High School who now holds a similar position in Tweed. The success of Allison is especially noteworthy because her studies were interfered with by her waiting upon her sick mother, who has since passed away. She passed the entrance examination at Ottawa, while her mother was in the hospital, and the honor she won was especially pleasing to a large circle of friends.

Board of Education Scholarships.

D. W. Douglas, who up to Wednesday night had been for two terms chairman of the Board of Education, presented the Board's scholarship. The winners were: First Form, Alex Little 1, Bertha Hardy 2. Second Form, Edwin Grills 1, Douglas McComb 2. The value of the first prize is $15 and of the second $10.

Dr. Peake's Generosity.

Dr. Peake, a graduate of the Campbellford High school, who left here when he began the practice of his profession, gives a medal every year to the student taking the highest stand in the middle school. Roy Elmhirst was the winner last year, and the medal was presented by Trustee J. L. Hoover.

Field Day Cups.

Trustee George O'Sullivan presented the handsome silver cups won by competitors in the athletic events held on the field day last fall. Helen Black has won the senior girls' trophy three years in succession, and the cup is now her permanent possession. Helen McDonald won the junior girls' cup, Jack Cowell the senior boys' and Thornton Ibey the junior boys' cup. The latter was a distinguished winner, as he was first in every event in his class.

Certificates of Standing.

The certificates of standing in the upper and middle school were presented by J. A. Irwin and those to the lower school students by Major J. M. Bygott, who this year is vice-chairman of the Board of Education. Trustee J. M. Arnold, who was on the programme to present the middle school certificates, was unable to be present.

On behalf of the Board of Educatoin, Major Bygott thanked Fred Wigglesworth for the trouble he had taken in training the students in the chorus. Thanks was also due A. G. Watson & Co. for loaning the furniture used in the play.

Other Features.

The opening number on the programme was a well rendered soldiers' chorus by the students, who marched on and off the stage with military precision. They had been carefully trained by Fred Wigglesworth, who played the accompaniment. Later in the evening they rendered "We're a Band of Mariners" and "The Land of Hope and Glory."

The I B girls, wearing handsome white uniforms, embellished with the ace of diamonds, gave a well executed folk dance, for which they had been trained by Miss K. O'Shaughnessy, teacher of moderns. The pianist for this number was Cherrie Turner.

Another folk dance, "Sleigh Bells," was given by a number of girls in fantastic costumes, and so popular was this number that the audience insisted on a repetition. The dancers were trained by Miss E. Dafoe, teacher of classics, and Mr. Crosson acted as pianist.

Irene Davidson, Kathleen Bygott, Helen McDonald and Cherrie Turner rendered a quartette, "The Royal Queen."

Ten boys, with the true military spirit and looking like real soldiers in their handsome uniforms, and with their weaopns of warfare, gave a fine exhibition of rifle drill, so strenuous that it was a severe test of physical endurance.

The One Act Comedy

Everybody looked forward to the one act comedy "Tangles," which was the last number on the programme and the audience was treated to a fine exhibition of dramatic art that would have done credit to professionals. Six students took part the different characters being as follows: Jack Janeway, Gerald Bailey; Phil Tracy, Jack's college chum, Arthur Loucks; Bill Tracy, Phil's second cousin Jack Twigg; 'Enry Jenkins alias X.Y.Z., Bill Tracy's chum, Howard Fairman; Mrs. Jack Janeway, Jack's bride, Evelyn Reynolds; Elsie a maid in search of a husband and who advertises for one, Dorothy Ackerman

The play was rich with sparkling comedy and every member of the cast was perfect. Perraps Dorothy Ackerman had the most difficult role of all, as she was called on to really act a part but she was equal to the occasion. She was required to speak a cockney dialect and never once lost her feet amid the unfamiliar pronounciation ior forgot herself, when it came to ignoring an article or placing one where the rules of modern orthoepy say it should not be used. Howard Fairman and all the others were perfectly at home in their parts, each being ready to simulate surprise or indignation as occasion required.

The plot was interesting. One deception led to another, complication followed complication. The tangled web became more intricate as the story was unfolded. Bill Tracy, unacquainted with the Janeways, receives a telephone invitation to dinner from Mrs. Janeway, who gets the wrong number, and who mistakes him for his cousin Phil. In a spirit of adventure he accepts and arrives at the house on time.

Elsie, the maid in the Janeway home, has advertised for a husband under the name of "Bright Eyes," and has received an answer signed "X.Y.L." Bill Tracy arrives and Elsie mistakes him for her unknown suitor. Expecting that her mistress will spend the evening out, Elsie has prepared dinner for "X.Y.L." Mrs. Janeway returns home unexpectedly and orders dinner for herself, Jack and Phil Tracy. Elsie passes herself off as Jack's sister, and gets Bill Tracy help her wait on table, telling him that she is serving in the absence of the regular maid. When Jenkins arrives Mrs. Janeway mistakes him for Bill Tracy, and he jumps at the conclusion that she is 'Bright Eyes.' For Jack's sake Mrs. Janeway tolerates with remarkable grace the ill-manners and gross familiarity of Jenkins, whose very costume, including a flaring and flowing red tie, is an offence to good taste.

Bill Tracy acts the part of butler and recognizes Jenkins as his valet. When Jack and Phil arrive the one is indignant at finding Jenkins in his home, and Phil is surprised at seeing his cousin acting as waiter. Explanations follow, the tangle is straightened out, "Bright Eyes" and "X.Y.L. come into their own, and the ending is happy.

Miss K. Ferris, teacher of English, and Miss M. Smith, commercial teacher, trained the actors in this play, and had excellent material upon which to work. The instruction, too, showed excellent judgment in the allotment of the various parts.

CAMPBELLFORD I.O.D.E. HELD GOOD MEETING

Excellent Reports Presented By Officers—Officers Elected and Memorial Discussed.

OTHER ACTIVITIES.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8.—The tenth annual meeting of the I. O. D. E. was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Public Library, the Regent, Mrs. W. H. Ashton, presiding.

The secretary's annual report was read as follows:

"Another year of work has been left behind us; if successful, all credit to the ones who have made it so; if not, the best we can do is make good resolutions and stay with them. These are sometimes easily made, but much more easily broken. Such was the case last year, for, with a few new names on the roll, we have a smaller average by two this year. In all we held ten regular meetings with an average attendance of sixteen, and four executive meetings with an average attendance of eleven, the total membership for 1923 being fifty-seven.

"At the annual meeting a year ago we made note of the fact that a substantial memorial fund was in existence. In the last twelve months this fund has doubled itself, being now slightly over fourteen hundred dollars. This has been accomplished in various ways and by several contributions. The only thing staged for the memorial was the Flag Day held in September on the last day of Seymour Fair. But out of all monies realized, the Chapter tried to set aside some portion for the memorial, keeping only in the general fund what would meet its obligations.

"Since organization we have had the use of this library building in which to hold our meetings or entertain, which has been a financial gain to us. So as a slight recognition of this privilege we have from year to year contributed the sum of twenty-five dollars. Last year we followed the usual custom, and sent a cheque to the treasurer of the Library Board.

"At the April meeting a committee was appointed to meet Mr. Greig, Principal of the High School, in reference to the re-arrangement of the High School scholarships. The committee met, and after much discussion and suggestion, the matter was left with Mr. Greig to talk over with his staff. As a result, the scholarships for 1923 are to begin in English, British history and mathematics.

"During the month of April, in the absence of the First Vice-Regent, Mrs. Archer, the Chapter decided to present her with a primary life membership, as a token of esteem and appreciation of her years of untiring service. This was done at the May meeting.

"In May, on behalf of the 'Twelve O'clock Club,' Dr. Murphy, president of the club, wrote the Chapter, suggesting that a community hall would be a fitting memorial to the fallen heroes of the Great War, and accompanying the suggestion was a cheque for fifty dollars.

"The Girls' Cricket Club sent a donation, as did also the Bemersyde Chapter, to the memorial fund. In June the Men's Club of Christ Church also sent a contribution of one hundred dollars for the same fund. To all of these organizations we tender our thanks.

Chautauquas Unwelcome.

"From year to year we have been bothered with some person, or persons, asking the Chapter's co-operation for either a summer or winter Chautauqua. So to deal with the matter once and for all, at the call of the Regent, an executive meeting was held, when it was decided that at no time would we entertain the proposition of a Chautauqua promoter.

"During the first week in December a very successful bazaar was held in the Public Library, part of the funds being turned into the memorial account.

"Your executive was often discouraged, but in spite of this the year just closed has been very successful.

"A donation was given to Miss H. Campbell, who spent a couple of hours every Saturday morning for several months, reading to the small children gathered in the Library."

We had Decoration Day on the morning of 24th May, when each soldier's grave was decorated with a flag, and also the graves of the departed members.

ORLAND HOVEL AGAIN IN USE

Mr. and Mrs. Ash Return to Scene or Recent Disclosure.

ORLAND, Feb. 8. — Mike Ash and Mrs. Mary O'Brien, or Mr. and Mrs. Ash as they prefer to be known since their marriage in Campbellford last November, have returned to this place after a short sojourn in Corbeyville, and are again living in the now notorious hovel by the roadside on the outskirts of the village. Probably neither of them knew that the legal machinery of the province had been set in motion to clean up the neighborhood.

Crown Attorney Kerr of Cobourg, has had the case before the provincial police and officers from that department are expected here daily to make a thorough investigation.

PRINCE OF WALES FELL FROM HORSE

Suffered a Broken Collar Bone, Doctors Report

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(British United Press.)—The Prince of Wales suffered a broken collar bone when he fell from his horse at the Billington steeplechase to-day.

His doctor said it was a simple fracture, and that the Prince would probably be able to ride again in a few weeks.

At first it was believed he had only a minor injury to his shoulder and he was taken to a local physician, then motored to his hotel with his arm in a sling.

At York House, the London residence of the Prince, it was announced he was returning immediately to the capital.

BY-LAW GOVERNS BUILDING PLANS

Campbellford Committee Will Not Sanction Breach of By-law.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8. — Mayor Meyers, Deputy Reeve Dorie, and Councillor Johnston, the special committee appointed to consider the request of W. G. Fraser for permission to erect a garage on Tice street met in the Mayor's office, Building Inspector Mitchell having been called in for consultation. It was decided that nothing could be done unless Mr. Fraser revises his plans and puts up a building to conform to the fire limits bylaw. This bylaw provides that when a building of corrugated iron is put up within the fire limits the walls must be at least one-eighth of an inch thick and no such corrugated iron is manufactured to-day. Much as the members of the committee would like to encourage building operations it was felt that so long as the by-law stands in its present form it is only right to enforce its provision and to uphold the building inspector who is charged with its enforcement.

A BENEFIT TO THE NORTH.

The appointment of a Legislature secretary for Northern Ontario, as indicated in the Speech from the Throne on Wednesday, is a step that will be appreciated by the people of that section of the Province if the appointment goes to a man who has the necessary qualifications for the position.

It is expected that the secretary for Northern Ontario will act as a connecting link between the Government and the citizens of the North, saving the latter much time and trouble in trooping down to Toronto, as they have had to often to do in the past, when they had grievances to be adjusted or matters of importance to be taken up with the Government.

Many of such pilgrimages have been necessary in the past, and it is felt that with a representative of the Government easily available to the people of Northern Ontario who can hear their case and place it before the Government the result of the appointment will be a great benefit to the North.

It is an experiment that seems well worth while trying, and it may do a lot to bring about a better understanding between the older and newer parts of the Province.

RECOGNIZING THE U.F.O.

Hon. Manning Doherty, leader of the U.F.O. group in the Legislature declares that his party is determined to put up a strong fight for recognition under the Act which stipulates that a group with at least 15 members is entitled to be regarded as an opposition and to have its leader paid a salary.

Outside of party affiliations altogether there is a strong measure of public sympathy with the U.F.O. Party in this protest, and a feeling that as the remnant of the late Government and the second strongest group numerically in the House the Farmer members have every right to feel that they have been discriminated against by the Government.

In the election of the Speaker the Government recognized only the Liberals on the opposition side, an incident that showed no inclination on the part of the Premier to give the U.F.O. group the place that it claims and to which fair-minded people have considerable difficulty in deciding that it has no right.

Considering that in the last Legislature the Conservative and Liberal groups were both recognized as official opposition groups and the leader of each was paid a salary, there seems little justification for the Premier's persistent refusal to give the U.F.O. group the same consideration as he himself received.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

The Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature does not foreshadow much new legislation of major importance, although there is a list of measures of some moment and a number of amendments to existing acts.

Among the subjects touched upon were alterations in the courses of study in elementary schools, better school facilities in rural communities, the appointment of a House committee to study agricultural conditions, further progress in the co-operative marketing of farm products, more protection to the public on the highways, the encouragement of county and township road systems development, and the appointment of a Legislature secretary for Northern Ontario.

Acts to amend the Companies Act, the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Education Act, the Mining Act, and other existing measures are also forecast in the speech.

From the viewpoint of interest, the special feature was to the reference to the submission of a bill "to make provision to enable the Government to secure an expression of opinion from the people with reference to Provincial liquor legislation."

That, of course, will pave the way to a referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act when the Government considers that public opinion demands such a referendum.

The Premier has said that his administration will be able to tell when that time comes, and that there will be no necessity of petitions or deputations to convince the Government.

There are many who believe that Mr. Ferguson will not be long in concluding that the people of the Province want another chance to vote upon the Ontario Temperance Act.

WORLD COURT VS. LEAGUE.

Senator Hiram Johnston of California, one of the prospective candidates for the Republican presidential nomination next June, has put his party on record in a recent address as between its preference for a World Court or the League of Nations as an agency to preserve the peace of the civilized universal. It is apparent that this choice is based not on judgment, but on the shifting sand of political expediency. The Democrats, true to the teachings of ex-President Wilson, appear to stand for the league, a fact all sufficient to force their opponents to take an opposite attitude.

Perhaps there is no race on earth so given to tradition-worship as the Americans. George Washington's parting message when he retired from the presidency was a warning to the Americans to live to themselves and to keep out of all entangling alliances with foreign powers. That precept has been as revered for over a century as any article in the American Constitution.

But things were different in the days of Washington. The European countries of that time did not possess navies that could stand off from the shoreline of the United States out of range of the heaviest American guns and blow their most strongly fortified towns off the map. Recent experience should have taught the Americans that, in the interests of their own safety, they must take a hand in the attempt to preserve the peace among European nations. The Americans, through no fault of their own, were forced into the late war. In every future war or rumor of war in Europe the United States is certain to be a factor in the reckoning.

No one doubts the desire of the Americans for peace at home and abroad. Their record ever since they became a nation is all in their favor. It is only natural to conclude that the best means available and offering to preserve universal peace should receive their hearty support.

In theory the World Court would answer the purpose in view. It would be founded on the assumption that the findings of that court would be final, that it the court declared for peace then peace would prevail.

Unfortunately, history shows that nations are not always bound either by cast-iron treaties or by the decisions of arbitrators. Force is required to validate the edicts of an international court, just as it is necessary to give effect to the rulings of civil or criminal courts in every-day life. It may be seldom that such force is appealed to, but the fact that it exists, ready to be called into action, is sufficient.

The League of Nations approaches most nearly the courts that have proved so effective for the upholding of law and order in civilized countries. It has behind it the power necessary to enforce its decrees. A World Court would not have been sufficient to prevent a breach of the peace in 1914. A nation like Germany, mad for war, would not have been bound by arbitration.

And yet no one believes for a moment that the Germans would ever have fired a gun could they have foreseen that the entire civilized world, in defence of the common principles of humanity, would eventually rise up against them.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY'S TASK.

There is a reason for the philosophy with which the London Stock Exchange takes the advent of a Labor Ministry to power. There is always a danger in the Englishman's desire to "play cricket," as his unreciprocated chivalry to the Germans throughout the war conclusively demonstrated. The danger in this case, however, need not be a great one, because Premier MacDonald cannot go far. Anything spectacular in the extreme socialist way will bring him up with a round turn. He must pass his budget before the termination of the Government's fiscal year on March 31, now less than two months away. That is a business accomplished, for the most part, by the House of Commons in committee of the whole House. The House of Lords does not amend a money bill. The budget, therefore, will be eminently conservative, because it can be passed only by the consent of an overwhelming majority, of which only 145 Liberals of sorts out of 424 can be said to be even partially in sympathy with MacDonald's radical aims.

To throw out his opponents Mr. MacDonald's 191 members out of 615 were enormously effective, but his position is far weaker than that of Baldwin was. The philosophic English temperament decides, in effect, to let the Labor members have a taste of responsibility. Three or four of the Cabinet have held office before, and the largest unit in the party membership consists of men who have been salaried union labor leaders. There is a residuum with a potential ferment enough to wreck any party, which may give Mr. MacDonald far more trouble between now and the end of March than his Conservative opponents and his Liberal critics.

The extreme socialist does not trouble himself with any of the average Englisman's conceptions of "cricket," sportsmanship or fair play. His theory is to tear down any Government or established order, trusting, as the Bolsheviks did, to the fortuitous evolution of something better out of the ruins. It may be said to be almost an even bet that the inevitable general election will be precipitated by the extreme wing of MacDonald's own following rather than the routine process of a vote of no confidence passed by the House of Commons on the first attempt to institute a capital tax or like confiscatory measure.—Barron's.

"EFFICIENT MACHINE."

Now that the protection scheme of the Conservatives for dealing with unemployment and restoring prosperity to British industry has been rejected, the Government and people are turning their attention to alternative methods. The new Labour administration has made a good start, but what steps may be taken to meet the serious internal situation is a matter of speculation. The searchlight has been turned upon the currency policy which has been successful in driving down prices, and, if so, whether that has assisted towards a restoration of normal conditions, is a question engaging the attention of the economists. In a recent article Sir Leo Chiozza Money reviews the present position of the Mother Land, and comes to some optimistic conclusions regarding the economic outlook.

It is pointed out that before the war the United Kingdom numbered about 46 million souls, and that, in spite of the hundreds of thousands of lives lost in that struggle, the population has grown to 48 million. To support so large a number in so small an area means an intensified system of trading. "We have continually to work to win from overseas the wealth which nature has denied us," as Sir Leo puts it.

There are not within the country the commodities necessary for the sustenance of the people. The products of work have to be sent out in exchange for imports to sustain the people and supply the factories. It is estimated that the real national income (which, it is explained, is the "quantity of wealth available for consumption, as distinguished from its monetary value") has been reduced, as a consequence of the war, by about 15 or possibly 20 per cent. The national income when the war broke out was about £2,100,000,000, or approximately £45 per head. Low as that per capita revenue seems, it represented a great improvement over conditions earlier in the century. For last year the national income is placed at £1,800,000,000 or £37½ per head of the 48 million population.

What of the accumulated wealth, the "capital"? The nation is regarded as just as good a productive machine as before the war, probably a better one. Though dwellings and railways and mines have suffered depreciation, manuacturing plants have been improved. "Our manufacturing industry is at the present time much better equipped as a whole than it was in 1913. The land stands where it did, and many farmers improved their methods during the war. Altogether, the British working machine has improved."

The only thing lacking is the demand from abroad for the goods thus produced, or rather the ability to pay for those goods. As to this, the distinguished economist sees "no good reason to believe that we shall not win back, within a reasonable period, to the output and exports of 1913." In fact, it is stated that, notwithstanding the temporary loss of some of the biggest markets an export trade has already been secured comparable in quantity to that which was enjoyed before the war—Hamilton Spectator.

Col. J. A. Currie announces that he will on Friday move for an immediate referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act. He was elected on a "wet" ticket and has to make good.

FAMOUS EDITOR SOLVES HARD PROBLEM

Lately our trousers have been bagging so at the knees we found taking them off at night becoming very difficult.

Three weeks ago we could remove them by imagining they were boots, and tugging accordingly.

Two weeks ago we were forced to start using a bootjack.

One week ago the bootjack broke.

Then, by nothing less than inspiration, we remembered a "home help" we wrote last summer. We put the trousers on backward.

After wearing the trousers backward three days the bag at the knees was gone. Now we plan to alternate, one day the trousers will be on right and the next day on backward.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—The exporters were buying a little stuff for next weeks shipments. Some stores were bought fro 6½ to 7¼ cents, and cows in one and twos at 4 1-4 to 5 cents. Six loads of Western stockers came in this week, and three were still on sale today. These weigh 950 lbs. each, and are held at 6 cents. On the price of butchers this is thought to be a little high. For heavy weight steers, $7.40 a cwt. was paid today, and some choice medium weight butchers sold at 7 and 7¼ cents.

With a larger run than usual for a Thursday, trading was not too satisfactory, and prices were somewhat easier, and most of the good calves did not sell over 12 cents, and good mediums were two cents a pound lower. Best calves are quoted at 14½ cents in Buffalo, and this will hold prices from declining here.

There were no really choice lambs on sale today, and a few sold at 14 cents for the ewes. Heavy lambs are draggy. Choice light sheeps are steady.

Hogs are quoted unchanged today at $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and this price will carry over the week end, but some of the packers are only bidding $7.25 a cwt. on next week's contract.

TRAVELOGUE BY REV. GEO. E. ROSS

JANETVILLE, Feb. 7.—On Wednesday evening last a most interesting and enjoyable evening was spent in Janetville Methodist Church under the auspices of the Tuxis Boys organization.

The main feature of the programme was a travelogue, entitled "Over the Sea To the Motherland," given by Rev. G. E. Ross, pastor of the church. This was interspersed with some excellent numbers by members of the Tuxis Boys.

For an hour and a half Mr. Ross held the wrapt attention of his audience by descriptions of his ocean voyage, Liverpool, its docks and great landing stage, the run to Scotland the way England by moonlight Glasgow and his meeting with his mother after twenty-eight years, Edinburgh and its hundred points of deepest interest, London with its innumerable places of historic value, and many items of great educational worth.

Mr. Ross has promised to give another lecture in the near future, entitled "How I Made the Grade." This will be rendered under the auspices of the C.G.I.T. A large gathering is expected.

Y. P. S. Rally.

The Y. P. S. of the Methodist Church had a wonderful outing last Friday evening. More than fifty youngsters went in sleighs from Janetville, and when this crowd was augmented by the Mount Horeb young people there was a gathering of seventy-five in all.

This happy, rollicking bunch met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson, of Mount Horeb, and spent a glorious evening. Rev. Mr. Ross went with the young folks on their invitation, and much regret was expressed by the young people that Mrs. Ross was unable to go also.

Every minute of the entire evening was filled with interest, and the Mount Horeb Y. P. S. are to be congratulated on the splendid entertainment of games, contests and music which made up the program. Refreshments were served about 11.30 p.m., and the party broke up with a few words of appreciation by the two presidents, R. J. Burn and Isaac Skuce, recognizing the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson in opening their home to the young people. The visit will be returned by Mount Horeb Y. P. S. on February 29th.

Communion Service.

Sacramental service was conducted at Janetville last Sunday, when about one hundred persons partook of the Lord's Supper. The service was characterized by the deepest spiritual influence and power. Two touching and impressive features of the service were the reception of a young man of eighteen years of age into full membership of the Church, and the coming of the whole choir in a body to the Lord's Table. The fellowship meeting was full of profit and power.

A Great Storm.

One of the wildest storms of twenty years raged over the Township of Manvers Saturday. Traffic is held up, the roads are full, and scarcely a living thing is to be seen outside. The blinding, cutting snow, and the shrick of the tempest shut out all other sights and sounds. The delivery of mail beyond the village is out of the question, so people must wait and be thankful that they are alive.

Mr. Ben. Magill, of Peterboro, is visiting friends in Janetville and vicinity, and attended service twice last Sunday.

Mr. W. W. Stinson has been suffering from a sore throat, but is recovering slowly.

Mrs. Thomas Stinson has been very ill since last Saturday, but is some better, and it is believed she is now out of danger.

Mrs. H. Blatherwick fell last week and broke her arm, but is doing as well as could be expected.

OMEMEE CORRESPONDENCE

OMEMEE, Feb. 7.—Police court was held in the Council Chamber, Coronation Hall, on Monday. Two cases were on the docket before Judge Swayze, of Lindsay.

The first case for trial was Mr. T. G. McConnell vs R. J. Cornwall, the former suing the latter for a quantity of wood which was, the defendant claimed, paid for in hay. The plaintiff, Mr. T. G. McConnell, disputed the amount of hay and the defendant the quantity of wood.

After many witnesses had given evidence, the case was dismissed, each paying his own costs.

The second case was J. Turner vs P. McConnell. The plaintiff sued the defendant for damages to his property when an animal belonging to the latter broke through a fence on his farm causing considerable damage.

Owing to the late hour, the case was adjourned.

Lawyer Fulton, of Lindsay, pleaded the case for Mr. T. G. McConnell, while Lawyer I. E. More acted for R. J. Cornwall.

Snow-plow Rests

Some years ago the town fathers saw fit to purchase a snow-plow and for a number of winters it was kept in use when needed, but alas! after doing a good work faithfully it has been carefully set aside and with the snow piled two or three feet high on many places on the sidewalks remarks are being passed as to the extreme need of its resurrection.

An unusual number of strangers have been in town this week owing to the inquest, division court and about forty passengers on the C.N.R. who took refuge at the Commercial House when the flyer and nine o'clock trains were held up by the wreck on Tuesday. Many of these visitors may never have an opportunity of visiting the village again, and will carry away anything but pleasant recollections of the village streets in winter.

Guild Meeting

The Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church met in the Sunday School room on Monday evening. The vice-president, Mr. W. Brockley, conducted the meeting in the absence of the president, Mr. H. Lamb. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Crystal Courtney.

The contest for new members which has been going on for several weeks was closed with the "Reds" having a total of 65, while the "Blues" number 51. Thus in all the membership totals 116.

The meeting was in charge of the Missionary department and the topic was taken by Miss Ilein Black, who gave a splendid paper on the life and work of Rev. Dr. G. Leslie, an ex-student of the Omemee High School. School. A missionary story was given by Miss Emily Mitchell. The roll call was responded to by a verse of scripture from each member.

Final arrangements were made for the Valentine social to be held on February the fourteenth, at which a splendid programme will be given.

EXHAUSTED WOMEN WIN NEW STRENGTH AND NERVE POWER

Quickly Relieve Body Vitality by a Home Treatment Costing Few Cents a Day

Rich, red blood is the driving force of life. If the blood is weak, watery, impure we know nothing of the joys of success and accomplishment that come with abundant strength and nerve power. Red blood feeds the body tissues, nourishes the nerves, makes our systems tingle with the pulsing of life.

Those women, and men as well, who are quickly exhausted, nervous, sleep fitfully and awake unrefreshed, who have not the vital nerve force to succeed and who must have new energy, should think first of their blood.

Nourish the blood. Enrich it. Get from your druggist today a generous size bottle of Wincarnis, the blood builder. Start the Wincarnis home treatment at once. It costs less than ten cents a day. No need to be pale, weak, haggard. Wincarnis will quickly give you new strength, vitality, nerve force.

VESTRY MEETING OF ST. AIDAN'S CHURCH

Gratifying Reports For Stoney Lake Mission's Year—Frank Bell Elected People's Warden.

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 8.—The annual vestry meeting of St. Aidan's Church was held in the rectory on Wednesday evening last and was well attended.

The financial statement for the year was read by Mrs. Hughes and showed a total income of $272.16 which included the sum of $31.42 brought forward from 1922. Expenditures for the year totalled $247.01, leaving a balance in hand of $25.15.

Mr. Frank Bell was elected Peoples' Warden; Mr. A. Wilson being re-elected Incumbent's Warden. Mr. Philip Dykes of Toronto was elected Lay Delegate to the Synod.

The Sunday School report was very encouraging, the children being most regular in attendance. The rector expressed his appreciation of the help given by Dorothy Wilson.

The Rev. J. L. Hughes stated that he was now in his fourth year as Incumbent of the Stoney Lake Mission. A gratifying feature in his report was that of the communicant life of the congregation. Out of 21 confirmed members 19 made their communions during the past year. There had been 36 Sunday celebrations and 17 week day celebration. The average number of Sunday communicants was six.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Hughes for the very efficient manner in which she has filled her position as secretary-treasurer of the parish during the past year.

There will be no Sunday evening service held in St. Aidan's Church next Sunday, February 10. Morning prayer will be said at 10.00 a.m.

length of the resources of Northern Ontario. Both in timber and in pulp wood production there had been an increase is 1923, he said, the pulp wood cut from crown lands increasing from 325,000 cords in 1922 to 400,000 cords in 1923. He stated that the government intended to take much more vigorous action is defence of the forests against fire. Speaking of mines he said that every thing mined meant new wealth. He commended the government for proposing a bounty on iron ore, and also the Premier for his efforts to get the National Railways to carry coal cheaply from Alberta. He believed that the development of the north country would be the means of remedying one of the evils that had befallen the country — namely the continuous exodus of Canadian youth to United States.

Loss in Population

"To my mind," Mr. Haney said, "it is folly to spend huge sums on immigration schemes in order to procure immigrants who cannot possibly by any stretch of imagination be deemed to be anything like the type of Canadian youth we lose by the attraction of the industrial activities in United States. These men know they will be welcome in the States for there is a premium on the word 'Canadian' there.' However, what United States gained Canada lost. "The remedy he thought was in Northern Ontario and an attractive setting forth of its possibilities' "There must be some point of contact established between the individual boy and the opportunity awaiting him in the north." He thought government and people should unite to get a flow of people and wealth into the north.

Bills Introduced

Before the debate started several bills were introduced by members of the government. The Premier introduced a bill to amend the Ontario Public Service Superannuation Act. He informed the House that no important principle was involved. He also introduced a bill to amend the school laws. It embodies a plan to distribute the annual grant of $60,000 to rural schools on a basis of aiding those school sections which contribute proportionately out of their own taxes to educational facilities The Premier gave the startling information that some school sections depend entirely on their county and provincial grants for their education matters and do not raise a penny on their own account. The government he said, proposed to be generous to those who were generous to themselves in the matter of education. The Premier also introduced a bill to provide for a Legislative secretary for Northern Ontario.

Hon. W. F. Nickle introduced a bill to amend the Master and Servants' Act increasing the jurisdiction of justices of the peace to try actions involving up to $100 instead of $40.

NO HOPE HELD FOR THOSE ON FLOATING ICE

Two Hundred Persons on Levis Ice Bridge a Few Minutes Before it Broke Away — Two Believed Perished--Eleven Others Taken From Water.

MOSTLY VISITORS

QUEBEC, February 8 (Canadian Press). — When the ice bridge which spans the St. Lawrence between Quebec and Levis parted about 6.30 last evening, fifteen persons were trapped and of these three residents of Levis are missing, and it is supposed have perished.

There were some 200 persons on the bridge twenty minutes before it broke, but the majority had been warned of their danger by the police.

No one is reported missing from Quebec City, but it is not known if all visitors are accounted for.

It is stated that there is no hope of saving anyone else who may be on the floating ice.

There were about fifteen people on the ice bridge when the break occurred.

Seven were rescued on the Levis side of the river, three of them being helped out of the water.

Four others who were thrown into the water by the snapping of the bridge managed to get back to the ice and thence to land.

Those missing are two sisters, whose name is not available, residing at Levis.

For the first time in twenty-five years the ice bridge extending from the vicinity of this city at Sillery Point to St. Joseph De Levis, covering the entire width of the river, formed with startling suddenness yesterday morning, necessitating the immediate cancellation of the winter ferry service between the two cities. It was regarded among those more conversant with Quebec weather conditions that the temperature, while below freezing point, was not sufficiently low to render the holding together of the ice bridge a matter of complete security, and fears were expressed that it would have been perhaps more in the interests of the citizens of the two cities to have forbidden the passage over the ice.

FEAR REIGNS IN BERLIN CABINET

Republicans Overawed By Nationalistic Swashbucklers Says Socialist Paper — Denounces Message to Washington.

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press)—The Vorwaerts denounces the instructions which the German Foreign Office sent to Ambassador Wiedfeldt not to take official recognition of Mr. Wilsons' death as "foolish," and says it is typical of the atmosphere in which Germans have been living for several months, because of fear of a renewal of propaganda by German nationalists and their followers who denounced the Government for sending expressions of sympathy to France over the los of the airship Dixmude.

"Fear controls," says this paper, "fear of nationalistic swashbucklers, fear of Bavarian beer hall politicians and of reaction in uniform as well as in civilian clothes. Germany, indeed, has reason to fly its flag at half-mast in the face of this tragedy of which the Washington flag incident is only a part."

MEMORIAL TO SONG WRITER

Indiana to Honor Dresser, Who Wrote Sentimental Song About Wabash.

In Era of Heart Throbs.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 8.—"On the Banks of the Wabash" isn't so much of a song as it is a feeling and to have that feeling one doesn't have to live in the neighborhood, say the leading of the Paul Dresser Memorial movement.

Rivers have always carried a strong appeal to song writers as well as to song singers, and they have formed the theme for countless plaintive melodies.

The Mississippi has furnished plenty of inspiration, as has the silvery Colorado, the beautiful Ohio and the Potomac, but for sheer worth the "Wabash" has survived and bids fair to become a classic along with the "Swanee" among river songs.

It is a sort of left-over from those days of sentimental tendencies of a quarter of a century ago—one of the dreary, hopeless out-pourings which perhaps often became maudlin rather than genuine, the kind which caused a gulp—not always superinduced—between lines and verses.

Almost contemporary, if not quite, with such "heart touching" melodies as "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me"—also by Dresser, which became a saying among smart young men of that day, according to Theodore Dresser, in his biography of Paul—were many others which furnish an odd contrast with the present-day syncopations.

"Just as the Sun Went Down," "She Was Happy Till She Met You," "She Was Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" and "After the Ball" were some other "real ballads" which went the way of some of the frivolous songs of today, but which can be recalled with ease by many whose memories are not very long either.

Much has been said on the history of how "On the Banks of the Wabash" was written. Theodore Dresser said he composed part of the words and his brother the music.

However, Indiana is preparing to pay suitable tribute to the man who scaled the heights as the greatest composer of popular music of his day and gave Indiana what since was made the State song.

The Paul Dresser Memorial Association will have the body of Dresser removed from an obscure burial ground near Chicago, where he died "unhonored and unsung," to a site on the "banks of the Wabash," near Terre Haute, Indiana, his old home.

Originally it was proposed to place a huge boulder, with a bronze plate on it, and have engraved on the plate the story of Dresser and the State song So much interest was manifested in the movement that the association has now decided to do something more worthwhile in honor of Dresser.

Suggestions are being received as to the form of tribute from native Indianians throughout the United States and also gifts toward the memorial.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

576 S. Middleton St.,
Huntington Park,
Los Angeles, Cal.

To The Editor of The Peterboro 'Examiner':

Dear Sir,—

In your report of the Banquet to the Lakefield Fire Brigade in your issue of Jan. 23rd, Mr. Stock, one of the speakers is reported as having stated in his address that "W. H. Barry, the architect, who recently left Peterboro to make his home in California and who regrets the move and intends to return." As I have a large number of friends in the territory reached by your valuable paper, and as the above statement is entirely false, I wish to take this opportunity of correcting it. I do, however, look forward to the day when I will be able to return to Peterboro to meet my old friends, and see again the old familiar scenes, but I do not regret the move. This place is better situated for my business, and if there is a better place on earth to live, I have not heard of it. The people here are content. They are too busy with their own affairs to meddle with their neighbours', and they are 100% boosters for their own city. The climate is wonderful, living is cheaper, and I have found the people here to be excellent friends and neighbors. The opportunities are many for those who will stay with one thing until they make a success of it, but there are so many who, seeing fortunes in the making on every side, drift from one job to the other and finally quit, beaten by their own greed and impatience. This is not the fault of the country. It is my opinion that the phenomenal growth of Los Angeles is due entirely to its Chamber of Commerce, and I feel sure that if Peterboro were to organize its Chamber of Commerce on the Los Angeles plan, make it possible for its best citizens to offer themselves for Aldermen, by abstaining from unfair criticism which has been the practice for years, make it possible for working people to invest their savings in homes, instead of automobiles, by modifying the building by-law, the plumbing by-law (which is the most costly to the owner of any on the continent), and the electric wiring law of the Hydro E. P. C., there would be no need to print such small-town articles, with large headlines, to induce the people to stay at home.

Yours very truly,
W. H. BARRY.

PEOPLE WHO CAN TALK AND WON'T.

Are Almost As Scarce As Those Who Can't Talk and Do Are Plentiful—A Few of Them.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(United Press).—Behind the guarded doors of a Washington hotel lives the mystery minister."

Oriental mystery and and air of secrets pervade the place. The sounds of the city coming up from the street seem far off and vague in that silent place.

S. Yousry Pasha, first Egyptian minister to the United States and first minister plenipotentiary sent out by Egypt in modern times, believes in Oriental seclusion.

A hotel employee stands constantly outside the door of the suite the minister is occupying temporarily as a legation. Within the suite, the visitor is inspected by two sets of attaches before being permited to see the minister.

In one wing of the suite houses in cloistered silence is the family of the diplomat—his wife, and Egyptian princess, his two children and a Mohammedan priest.

Yousry Pasha, himself, has every diplomat in Washington beaten when it comes to being politely silent under questioning. He is cultured to his fingertips—radiates Oxford and the air of exclusive English clubs, in fact. But he simply will not talk.

The fact that the American people might be interested in Egypt's first diplomatic representative here fails to move him to an expression regarding his mission, his impressions of America or anything else.

He politely declines to discuss Egypt as a land of tourists. Efforts to draw him out on the explorations in the Valley of the Kings, where Tut-ank-ahmen lies, are futile. He simply smiles and murmurs something polite, but expresses no opinions, makes no statements.

Yousry Pasha is a good looking man, whose age it would be hard to guess. You might mistake him for an Englishman of the outdoor type—an English aristocrat.

It is quite natural, in view of his "masterly silence" under the questionings of many Washington correspondents, that Yousry Pasha should, in his few short days in Washington, have earned for himself the not inappropriate title—considering the land he comes from—of The Sphinx.

Men who wont' talk are not uncommon. There is "Silent Cal" Coolidge, to cite a notable example. But women who won't talk—

Well, there is Mrs. Mae Nolan of California, to cite another notable example.

Mrs. Nolan is a representative in Congress. She succeeded her late husband.

She does not crave the limelight of publicity, Mrs. Nolan says. She does not believe people are hankering to know what she thinks about women who smoke cigarettes. She does not believe a single woman would be influenced either for or against cigarette smoking by what she thinks of the habit.

Nor has she views to voice about Washington social lobbies. She has no theories of legislation to project. She feels no yearning to see her name or her picture in print upon the pages of the press.

And so Mrs. Nolan doesn't talk much for publication. She is even averse to saying that she believes there is too much talking by members of Congress.

But it is reliably reported that she thinks so.

FILIPINO LULLABIES GIVE WAY TO JAZZ, LEGISLATOR AVERS

In Japan the Girls Are Taught the Civilization of the Occidental.

MANILA, Feb. 8.—(Associated Press).—The tendency of the present generation to imitate foreigners instead of preserving what is best in local customs was deplored recently by Representative Serafin Hilado, member of the Legislature from the Province of Occidental Negroes, in an address before students of the University of the Philippines.

"In Japan," said Mr. Hilado, "the girls, for example, are taught the civilization of the occidental but the manners and customs of that country are also taught with a view to preserving what is good in them. Filipinos instead of preserving what is best in the local customs prefer to adopt what is foreign, in contrast to the practice of the Japanese. No wonder that Japan in the short span of a few years has become one of the leading nations of the world.

"Instead of committing to memory sayings and phrases of our leading men and heroes we are prone to learn by heart the sayings and phrases of American poets and authors. Instead of singing our children to sleep with our beautiful lullabies, our mothers now prefer the jazz. Instead of preserving our native dances we prefer the imported fox-trot.

"But the greatest of our mistakes is our tendency to spend beyond our means. Our old farmers used to boast of the money they saved, but some of our present-day farmers believe that the more debts they have in the Philippine National Bank the greater they become."

Decatur White

When a man must believe a certain thing in order to save his pride, he will begin by pretending to believe it; and after he has lied to himself and his neighbors, many, many times, he will end by believing the thing in fact.

Decatur White got three months of schooling when he was fourteen years old, and that was all he ever got. He was a hard worker, however, and possessed a brilliant mind, and by the time he was thirty-five years old, his check was good for fifty thousand dollars. He was a great talker, and his favorite theme was education. He said he didn't believe in it; that he had made a fortune without it, and that he could hire little college-trained whipper-snappers at fifty dollars a month. He said hard knocks could teach a man more than all the college professors in the world, and he was glad he hadn't wasted the best part of his life learning to rah-rah and smoke cork-tipped cigarettes. He said it so many times, and so emphatically, that in the end he believed it without reservation.

Then he got married and became the father of a boy. At once the boy became Decatur's universe. A friend asked him one day what he expected to make out of the boy, and he said he hadn't decided yet, but of one thing he was certain: that his son would receive the best education the world could afford.

Famous Guys

BOB EVANS: All sane persons must hate the business of war and rejoice in the making of peace; but while the need of fighting endures, all normal people will give three or more rousing cheers at sight of a fighter who delights in concentrated trouble and doesn't know when he is licked. Wherefore, we salute the shade of Robert Evans, rear admiral, better known as "Fighting Bob."

While at the naval academy he tacked up a picture of his mother. Decorations were forbidden, and the authorities promptly vetoed his plan to make the place homelike. Mere authorities couldn't awe him, however; and when the dust of battle cleared, the picture was still in place.

He once demanded an apology of a foreign gentleman who commanded a ship. The foreign gentleman temporized. "If this messenger doesn't return with an apology," wrote Evans, "I'll sink your damned ship." Very rude of course; but he got the apology.

It was on Evans' recommendation that steel was first used in our battleships. Steel is a good thing in a fighting ship. So, also, is sand. Evans had to ask for the steel, but he furnished the sand himself.

THE BUTCHER BOY AND HIS BRIDE

The Girl Fights Hiram's Battle

"This hat is one I made over, and it's a fright."

The girl across the street came over this morning as we were finishing breakfast and asked for a frank opinion of the new hat.

"But don't say it," she added quickly. "Cuss words always make one nervous. This hat is one I made over, and it's a fright. I hate it. There was one at the Emporium I wanted so bad I could taste it, and when we got all our bills paid this month there was thirty dollars left, and I said something about the hat and Hiram reminded me of another little job that thirty dollars had to do.

"You know Hiram borrowed fifteen hundred when we bought our car; and then when Papa gave us the lot, he loaned us three thousand to build a house. That made forty-five hundred hanging over us, and thirty a month interest on it.

"When the house burned we got fifteen hundred insurance, and we have been keeping that in the bank to start building with in the spring, but I told Hiram yesterday I was sick of paying interest and I made Papa take back that much of his money.

"I don't begrudge the money we spent for the car, for we've had a million dollars' worth of fun out of it; but we're not going to build a house in the spring or any other time until we get out of debt. I've learned my little lesson, and folks that have money to lend will have to hunt up somebody else to support 'em. Borrowing money is just borrowing sleepless nights and acquiring the privilege of making over last year's clothes, and I don't want any more of it."

Well, well; it's a lesson we all learn in time; and the sooner we learn it, the fewer beggars there will be on the street with touching stories to tell.

TURKEY TO FACE WOMEN SCARCITY IF HAREM LIVES.

ANGORA, Feb. 8.—(Associated Press).—Polygamy and the harem may disappear from Turkey, if the recommendations made by the Turkish Parliamentary Commission are adopted by the National Assembly. On the grounds of economy, and because of the growing scarcity of marriageable women, members of the commission believe that the modern Turk should be content with one wife. They believe that if each man were to avail himself of the four wives permitted by the Koran there would not be sufficient women in Turkey to make possible one wife for every man.

The commission recommends also the granting to women of the right to divorce, as well as giving them recourse to the law courts for separation proceedings, instead of the present method whereby the husband has only to return the wife's dowry and say "Begone," and the wife is cast adrift.

These principles in favor of monogamous marriages and modern diborce will be urged by Deputies when the project comes before the Assembly. It is certain to meet with determined opposition by peasants to whom four wives, which is the maximum number allowed by the Prophet Mohammed, may be often a source of wealth because they are all forced to work on the farm.

The modern Turk of the city finds it impossible to maintain such a harem because he has learned that Turkish women of the better class are fond of expensive dresses and pretty things. Silk stockings for three or four wives cost a lot of money. He has also found that if a man takes more than one wife, he must take three. Two are impossible, he says, because they quarrel all the time and the husband is bound to be unhappy; each will ask him to take her side and there will be no peace in the home.

But with three wives, it is explained, there is harmony because the wives keep their quarreling to themselves, and if one becomes too strong the other two will unite against her.

Again, it is asserted, the modern Turk of education is very little influenced by the religion of his forefathers. Priding himself on his western ideas and education, he is content to leave his wavering belief in the laws of the Koran to the untutored masses and the peasants.

Finally, there has been a great change in the status of Turkish women since Mustapha Kemal built up the new Turkey. They now go about unveiled, speak to foreigners, ride on street-cars and appear at public dances. Most of them are well educated and read American and French novels. Only recently a young Turkish priest named Ibrahim Effendi was arrested for publishing a pamphlet against the emancipation of women and the abolition of the harem. The public prosecutor demanded that he be sentenced to two years imprisonment for obstructing the application of liberal laws.

How Other Cities Settle Problems

Bridgeburg's vexed question as to whether or not the municipality will have a single Assessor or an Assessment Commission this year has been settled by the Council, by the naming of a body of three, Edward Morningstar, Charles W. Vahey and Charles Davis. The first named will be Assessor and the two latter valuators, the three comprising a commission.

An entire new valuation will be made of Bridgeburg realty, a percentage struck for assessment purposes, and the 1924 assessment will be based on the two. The issue was to the fore in the 1923 election fight.

Utilities Increase Profits

Owen Sound's Gas and Waterworks Departments, run under a Civic Utility Commission, both show a healthy increase in the past year's business. Assets in the Gas Department have increased $5,668.65 over the 1922 figures, and show a total of $210,597.76. The profits in 1922 were $2,805.44, as compared with $5,285.84 in 1923. In the Waterworks Department assets have increased by $9,742.26 in 1923 over the preceding year, and the profits, $2,599.90.

BUSINESS OR PLEASURE.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Some indication of the hold the Football Association Cup games have on the people of this country was given at the meeting of the Leeds City Council. It was a regular business meeting of the Council but a number of the members desired to witness the Cup match between Leeds United and Westham and they moved the immediate adjournment of the Council.

COLLEGIATE EXTENSION.

TILLSONBURG, Feb. 8.—Woodstock, Peterboro, Ingersoll and other educational centres may have cause for worry in regard to overcrowded conditions in their Collegiate Institutes and High Schools, but if rumor is correct, there is such an amplitude of floor space at the local High School that a section is to be converted into a dancing pavilion and parties may be soon tripping the "light fantastic" in the building supposedly consecrated for educational purposes.

At a rather heated session of the Town Council, something of a sensation occurred when ex-Councillor George Patton, also a former chief of police, demanded an explanation from the councillors to account for rumors that the new $40,000 addition to the High School was to be converted into a dancing pavilion and card-playing auditorium.

Big Profits Growing Mushrooms in Cellar

Canada imports practically all of the mushrooms she uses from the United States. Occasionally there is local production, but this is so small as to make no dent in the trade conditions.

There is no reason for this except that Canadians have not realized how much money there is in this business, which can be large or small according to circumstances. Growing mushrooms in quantity means that there must be an investment of at least five hundred dollars. Growing mushrooms for the local market means that the investment need not be over twenty-five dollars. For higher investment there is a return away over that given by most other industries.

The operation of a mushroom bed is very simple. It is made in a shallow box, and consists largely of manure. In this, after the first sweating of the bed has subsided, the "spawn" is planted. Mushroom spawn comes in compressed bricks and the price is about $1 each. From personal experience I can say that one dollar's worth of spawn will yield five dollars' worth of fine "button" mushrooms.

There is only one important thing about the culture and that is the keeping of the bed in an even temperature. Light is not wanted, therefore a cellar, in either summer or winter, is an ideal place, and as the boxes can be put one above the other, tier fashion, the amount of mushrooms that can be raised in an ordinary cellar is surprising. A woman in Toronto, who began mushroom growing last year, on my advice, has a cellar 20 by 30. Summer and winter, last year she averaged about thirty dollars a week from the sale of her mushrooms. She invested $50 to begin with.

The secret of making money in mushroom culture is to have a steady outlet for the product. If you live near a good sized town, you will find all the market that you need right there, provided that there is a fair amount of wealth in it.

Have some inexpensive little cards printed telling of the fact that you are raising mushrooms, approximately how much a pound they will be and that you will deliver any quantity over, say, two pounds. Mail these out to the well-to-do, to clubs and hotels, and in a week follow them up by a personal canvas. My word for it, you will have all the customers that you can supply.

If there is no local market, write to the Board of Trade secretary of the nearest large town and ask him for the names of several reliable commission firms. When you receive the information (as you surely will if you enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope) write to those firms, state what you have and ask if they will handle your product. Mushrooms are packed for transport in baskets, heavy paper being securely tied over the top.

The local market, however, should be carefully looked to. Any hotels, summer resorts, fashionable camps, summer colonies, roadhouses, restaurants in railway stations, etc., should be canvassed.

Another woman to whom I recommended mushroom growing because she had an exceptionally large cellar under her old farmhouse, sells all her product of the beds for six months of the year to the motorists who go past her gate. A sign and a pretty basket full of mushrooms are all that is needed. For four of the other months she ships to Toronto, and for two months, January and February, she does not grow.

As an experiment get three bricks of spawn and grow them. They require almost no attention. A busy man or woman could raise a cellarful without losing time or money at other needful pursuits.

What is more, Canada ought to produce a thing like this for herself. Every dollar that stays in the Dominion is a dollar for some Canadian.

CHANCE IN 1924 FOR HAIRLESS GIRL

(By HEDDA HOYT)

PARIS, France, Feb. 8 (United Press)

Man is no longer
Considered the "goat,"
If his little wife
Finds blond hair on his coat.
Tho' her own hair be brown
With a tinge that is mellow,
Sewed fast in her hat
Is a false fringe of yellow.

The "shorn lamb" appearance caused by these small hats and the extreme short "bob" has proven so distressing that the Parisian has adopted a false fringe of curly hair which she sews into her hat bandeau. The false bob is attached to a ribbon the exact size of the hat band. When the hat is removed, off comes the hair with it.

So popular has this fashion become that no one looks the least bit astonished when the cloak room girl takes Milady's hat, scalp and all, to the check room. With her hat removed, Milady is again the sleek haired woman of the fashion books.

Many of the younger women prefer fringes of different color from their own locks and it is not unusual to see a fluffy tea time blond turn into a sleek ball room brunette. For motoring and ocean voyages, this fad has its advantages.

Parisian Hats

There's nothing newer for street wear than the small head fitting felt hat. By reducing the brim of last season's cloche one inch, we have the correct style for 1924. Narrow brims that turn off the face with a slight peak in front are also popular.

Black felt is more popular than colors at present and perhaps the most frequent trim is the cluster of ermine tails placed perkily at one side. Pipings of black patent leather about the narrow brim are also seen a great deal. While metal trimmings are still used they have about exhausted their stay. Rhinestones and silver ornaments and monogram effects are among the newest trims for millinery. Usually they are made in fob effect—that is, attached to a black ribbon which has a rhinestone barpin at one end and the pendant at the other. Again one sees these same little fobs worn on the vest pocket of a smart little camels hair or printed cravat. They are even worn on the pocket of a boyish suit.

For resort wear felt hats matching the dominant color of the sport attire is the thing. Sometimes it is the stripe of the skirt that is matched or the shade of the jacquette.

A glance into the future displays for summer assures us that dyed leghorn is to have its day. Already one sees them at the resorts of southern France. High colors such as rose, green and lemon are trimmed with appliques of silk flowers or embroidered in wool. The silk flowers and cluster effects are not as effective on leghorn as are more blatant trims.

Fashion Notes

Gowns made entirely of Spanish shawls are among the smartest of Parisian displays. These drape about the figure very much as the Spanish women drape them.

Colored marabou trims many dance frocks this season. Light shades such as pink, orchid and yellow are used on chiffons of like shades.

Mah Jong handkerchiefs with characters, winds, dragons, etc., embroidered in the four corners are being used as bridge prizes.

Small neckpieces are worn with the new boyish suits for spring. Two animal mink skins are as popular as any.

NEW DANCE FROCKS.

Changeable taffeta frocks in pastel shades having a certain frosty appearance are the very latest word in dance frocks.

ST. PAUL'S REGRET OLYMPICS PLAYED GAME ON SABBATH

Canadians Had to Either Play the Game on Sunday or Forfeit it to United States.

The members of the Session of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterboro, have noted with pleasure and pride the success of the Canadian Hockey Team in the Olympic Competitions but desire to express their regret that the final game was played on the Sabbath. In view of the world-wide interest taken in these games, it is the opinion of the Session that this marked desecration of the Sabbath cannot help but strength en the influences that are seeking to break down Sabbath observance in this country and elsewhere.

The Session desires to commend the action of the Scottish athlete who has declined to participate in any Olympic events held on the Sabbath, and would request that the Canadian Olympic Committee, as well as Premier Mackenzie King, and Premier Howard Ferguson could use their influence to see that the Sabbath shall not be desecrated in this way in connection with the Olympic sports. Canadian athletes and others who have been brought up to observe the Sabbath, should not be placed in a position, where they must choose between breaking the Sabbath or injuring the standard of their country in the Olympic sports by refusing to participate on that day.

It is because the Session of St. Paul's church desires to see worthy sport supported and because it feels that thousands of people will be led to withhold their approval from the Olympic sports if the Sabbaht day is to be desecrated, that it has deemed it advisable to call attention to this important matter.

PROTECTIONIST POLICY IS TO BE ELIMINATED

LONDON, Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — It is understood that yesterday's meeting of the Unionist Leaders resolved, in view of the verdict of the electorate, to eliminate the full protectionist policy from the programme, and to advocate a tariff to protect the particular industries where necessity is shown to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade.

A Birthday Tea.

The Birthday Tea held yesterday afternoon in the reading room of the Young Men's Christian Association, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, was a very successful and well-attended affair. The ladies went to a lot of trouble in their preparations for the birthday party, sending out three hundred and sixty dainty little bags with an enclosed verse, to be returned with enough money to commemorate the years of life of the recipient. The funds derived are used by the ladies for purchasing dormitory linen and supplies for the association. The decorations, supervised by Mrs. G. H. Roper, were in an attractive color scheme of pink and white. An immense simulated birthday cake, covered with white and pink icing centred the tea-table, its base wreathed with pink tulle and fine green ferns, its top surmounted by a vase of pink sweet peas. Large individual ophelia roses in pale pink were in silver candelabras at the corners of the table; there were pink roses and pink crepe on the mantelpiece and bright pink carnations on the piano. The guests were received by the president of the auxiliary, Mrs. E. F. Mason, and Mrs. J. J. Turner. Mrs. F. L. Robinson was the convenor of the birthday bag committee, assisted by the treasurer, Mrs P. Fitzgerald, and Mrs. C. White. Mrs. G. L. Stevens and Mrs. J. Garbutt, presided at the tea table. Mrs. Thomas Brown was convenor of the social committee, and Mrs. T. Barrie and Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle had charge of the tea room, assisted by Mrs. B. F. McNeely, Mrs. D. Jordan, Mrs. G. H. Roper, Mrs. R. Martin, Mrs. S. Clegg and Mrs B. H. Poole. During the afternoon, enjoyable vocal and instrumental music was rendered by Mrs. W. R. Widdiss, Mrs Gerald McClelland and Mrs. P. P. Westbye. The convenor of the committe in charge of the birthday bags is anxious that those who were unable to attend the tea should return the bags as soon as possible.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. — (United Press). — Nothing developed in the overnight news to account for the selling movement in yesterday's late trading. This lack of an index to the heavy selling makes it appear certain that the movement was an automatic corrective to the uninterrupted advance covering the last ten days.

The appearance of the weekly Federal reserve statement showed another improvement in the combined ratio which stood at the highest figure since August, 1917. In spite of this, the general list opened unsteady and weak. In the early dealings Steel Common, American Can., Studebaker and other industrial leaders receded fractionally from last night's close.

Trading lapsed into dullness at the end of the first hour, when professional traders found they were making no headway in their attempt to start a general re-action. Too many people were awaiting an opportunity to buy stocks on the recession to permit of pronounced bear development.

Steel Common proved a bulwark against which the bears hurled themselves in vain. Its action suggested that many traders, who had missed their market on the rise from par were taking a long position on the current irregularities.

Since steel declared its last dividend many operators have sold short on the general theory that the market is due for a re-action. An increase in the investment buying of steel has taken up most of the floating supply, and when a temporary halt was called on the march in yesterday's final dealings the shorts found themselves so limited in their selling ability that they could not break down the market to-day in spite of the relatively weak opening.

HORTICULTURAL CONVENTION IS NEARING CLOSE

Today is the Last Day of the Eighteenth Annual Convention With 200 Societies Represented.

TORONTO, Feb. 8. Canadian Press. — At this morning's session of the second and concluding day of the 18th annual convention of the Ontario Horticultural Association, comprising approximately 200 societies scattered throughout the province, J. E. Carter of Guelph, vice-president of the association, presented the report of the Canadian Horticultural Council's activities during the past year. The treasurer's report for 1923, showed the Association to be in a healthy condition financially, was preesnted by C. A. Hesson of St. Catharines, while S. J. Moore, of Toronto, gave an illustrated address on the cultivation and uses of perennials.

The reports of nominating committees and five minute talks from members of local societies on matters of interest to Horticultural Societies in general, completed morning's activities.

Mr. Carter in his report on the activities of the Canadian Horticultural Council during the past year, said the council had functioned in a manner beyond the most optimistic hope of those who were responsible for its organization two years ago.

A MOVIE ACTRESS FOUND DEAD TIED TO HER BED POST

Police Believe That the Murder Was Committed by a Man Supposed to Be an Expressman.

NEW YORK, N.Y., February 8.—(Canadian Press)—Found dead, bound hand and foot to the bedposts of her bed, with her mouth gagged, Miss Louise Larson, a young movie actress to-day, was found dead in her rooms in a fashionable apartment house here.

The police believe that the murder was committed after 8 this morning, as a man who stated that he was an expressman, called at the apartment, and entered, according to the tenant of the adjoining room. Nothing more was heard.

The body was attired only in a night gown.

According to the physicians the girl had been strangled to death after she had been attacked.

NO SMOKING AT HOCKEY MATCH

Policemen Will Be on Hand to Eject Those Who Break Rule.

Patrons at the hockey game tonight are requested to refrain from smoking, as the crowd that is expected to be on hand to see the game will heat up the rink, and towards the latter end of the game, the ice may be sticky.

In addition to that, if smoking is carried on, it causes great inconvenience to the players, and to those who want to see the game.

Policemen are to be on hand tonight to eject any man who is found smoking in the rink.

Poincare started out of the Chamber, followed by his Cabinet, and the session was suspended by the President.

There was an uproar in the Chamber. Finally, the Premier returned and the session was resumed.

Lang, Collector of Customs in Peterborought, and Mr. Roy Irwin, of Brimmell and Irwin, were introduced by Kiwanian Isaac McNabb, as a trio of new members at to-day's gathering of the Kiwanis Club. President John R. Marshall was in the chair. A pleasing feature of to-day's meeting was the presence of Miss Florence Scott, who contributed two vocal solos and was the recipient of a bouquet of carnations. Kiwanian Martin Chenhall officiated at the piano. The booster to-day was Kiwanian E. Warne and in his absence President Marshall delivered a booster speech. Miss Scott drew the lucky numbers and the prize winners were President Marshall, Kiwanian Carl Browne and Kiwanian Harry Boyle.

The speaker of the day was Rev. A. J. Vining, secretary of the Canadian Armenian Relief organization, who was introduced by Kiwanian Ray Scott as "his father-in-law." Launching into his subject, Dr. Vining referred to the martyrdom through which Armenia has passed over a period of hundreds of years. In latter years the flower of the Armenian race has been slaughtered by the Turks because of their religious convictions. The European powers have been appealed, too, on several occasions, but they were too busy playing the game of nations. One thing, to remember, said the speaker, is that the Armenians were our allies in the late war. At the present time two hundred and fifty thousand Armenian children are homeless and an effort is being made by the Canadian Armenian Relief Association to bring a number of healthy young Armenian boys to Canada. To do this and maintain them until they are eighteen years of age requires an expenditure of one thousand dollars each. Many individuals, societies and municipalities throughout Canada are adopting one or more of these boys and making it possible for a number of them to be rehabilitated. One year ago the Canadian organization stopped sending money to New York for Near East relief work and turned their attention to bringing young Armenian boys to Canada with the object of making farmers out of them. Pressure was brought to bear on the Federal government and permission obtained to carry out this project. In this connection Peterborough has done, said the speaker. Fifty boys were brought from the danger zone to Canada and established at Georgetown. Dr. Vining related many touching instances concerning the boys since their arrival here. When it comes to singing the National Anthem which they do each day, they go right through the several stanzas. "That is more than any of you men can do," challenged Dr. Vining. Each morning at eight o'clock they salute the British flag and they have even gone so far as to have their names changed so as to facilitate their permanent establishment in this country. This was done with the permission of the boys themselves, whose loyalty to the land of their adoption is unquestioned. It is not the intention of the organization to bring tradesmen to Canada, but tillers of the soil. The speaker closed with an appeal for the support of the Kiwanis Club in the work that is being carried on.

Kiwanian J. I. Allen moved a vote of thanks to the speaker that was heartily endorsed.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION HAD A GOOD MEETING.

The February meeting of the Central Home and School Association was held at eight o'clock last evening in the Kindergarten Room of the Central School, the president, Mrs. F. Miller, in the chair.

The meeting was open to the public, the main feature of the programme being a very interesting travel talk, illustrated with lantern slides, given by Miss Vera Watt, who was one of the Canadian teachers who went to England on the exchange of teacher's system and who toured, during her stay in England, Ireland, Scotland, Italy, France and Switzerland.

Among the many places illustrated and described were Paris, Venice, Brussels, Rome, Pompeii, and the Catacombs.

The talk was much enjoyed by the audience, and the thanks of the Association were extended to Miss Watt for her lecture.

A musical programme consisted of pianoforte solos by Misses Ketcheson, Erskine, and H. Burns, a violin selection by Robert Wyllie, accompanied by Carl McCarthy, a reading by Miss E. Miller, and community singing, led by Mr. O. Steer.

The service of light refreshments concluded the evening.

CHIEF WANTS TEN CONSTABLES ADDED

Request Will Be Made to Police Commission Today--No Wage Increase

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 8.—The police commission of Hamilton meets today. Asked this morning if he would take up the matter of a general wage increase with the commission, Chief Whatley replied in the negative. "I will not deal with either a wage increase or promotions," he said, "but I will make application for the addition of ten new men to the force. This application will be for the consideration of the commission."

The chief declined to say whether traffic officers would be included in this new squad, remarking that he had ideas of his own on that matter.

Salary Question

Although Chief Whatley would make no reference to a possible wage increase, it is a well known fact that a large percentage of the force would welcome one. In a comparative statement, which has been drawn up, Hamilton ranks nearly last among the large cities of the Dominion in respect to chief constable's salary per annum. Toronto, Ottawa and other cities are all paying larger amounts to their chief constable. The comparison is practically the same for the other ranks.

BULPITT HANGING AROUSED FARMERS

Colborne Township Farmers to Ask Attorney General to Release J. Benson Cox From Two Months' Term.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press)—The petition said to be signed by nearly every farmer in Colborne township is being presented to the Attorney General of Ontario asking that the two months' sentence imposed on J. Benson Cox for the assault on Charles Bulpitt, a home boy who hanged himself near Goderich, be remitted.

John Feagan of Colborne, township writes an accompanying letter in which he states that the entire population is of the opinion that Mr Cox should be released imediately.

"They state" he writes, "that unless this is done they will on no account accept any more home boys and these who have boys will send them back to the homes from which they came. You can see that this is going to hurt immigration."

Attorney General was not at his office this morning and no one in the department would comment on the petition.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir,—In regard to providing slides for the public there is no better place to have slides than on the exhibition grounds on the south side a slide could be erected on the west end at Park street and another at the east end at Lock street with toboggan tracks with a dividing center so as when you slide down one you return by the other. These are the kind they use in Montreal and Quebec and are enjoyed by crowds every day. These slides are looked after by caretakers and a fee of 10c is paid for an evening's slide if you have a toboggan if not you pay 25c for the rent of a toboggan or sleigh and slide. There is no danger of accidents in having such slides. By all means don't allow our council to permit street sliding. These are dangerous.

Thanking you for your space.

THORNTON HAS BROAD IDEALS

In Message to Employees of C. N. System He Urges Courtesy and Service — Wants $10,000,000 Increase.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8. — (Special to the Examiner). — The necessity of treating the travelling public with all courtesy and respect and of placing their comfort before all other considerations was stressed in an address by Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, broadcast by radio last night from Station CHYC, Montreal. Owing to the absence from the city of Sir Henry, the message was delivered for him by W. G. Robb, vice-president.

The occasion was the third of the radio programmes to be broadcasted from Montreal by the Canadian Railways.

"I feel it is equally important that you should know the things that we are doing well and the things upon which we can improve," Sir Henry said, "so my talk to you to-night will be more of a conversational nature than an address.

Must Continue Service.

"I know it will be a matter of interest and satisfaction for you to hear that I continue to receive unsolicited and favorable reports of the service rendered to the public by those of you who come into contact with passengers. This is all to the good, but it is the kind of thing we must all keep after eternally to avoid slipping backwards. If each employee of the company starts his day's work with the intention of losing no opportunity of performing useful acts for the comfort of the traveller we should have gone a long way towards retaining that reputation for service which we now enjoy.

"I especially want to ask ticket examiners, gate-keepers and trainmen to extend a kindly hand and leave nothing undone for the comfort of the aged women travelling with children and those who may not have been unduly blessed with this world's goods. This is not intended for criticism, for I have heard nothing upon the subject. I am only anxious that a high degree of courtesy be extended equally to young and old, rich and poor alike.

"Much of our success this year will depend upon the amount of business we can get," he continued. "We have something like a hundred thousand employees working for this railway system. Can you imagine the irresistible effect of all of that army putting forth, individually and collectively, its best effort to secure more freight and more passengers for the system? It is true that the traffic department is responsible for getting business. That is primarily the function of that department, but everyone of us can do something. If each employee succeeded in getting only one passenger a year, or a ton of freight a year, it would mean a hundred thousand additional passengers and a hundred thousand tons of freight.

Optimism With Energy.

"The month of January was not up to our expectations from a traffic point of view, due largely to traffic conditions that were beyond our control," the President said. "I believe we will more than make it up within the next few weeks, but it is a sufficient indication for me to send a warning throughout the railway that we must be up on our toes and hustling for business. Our net earnings last year were a little over twenty million dollars. We want thirty million net this year. We shall have our hands full to get it, but with a little luck and the support of our men I have no doubt of the result.

"Railroading in Canada, during the winter, is a man's job, and sometimes the weather conditions try the patience of Job. I have much sympathy and a great deal of admiration for all of our men who are battling with the weather to keep our trains on time. Therefore, I can only thank you for your good work in the past, with the knowledge that you will keep it up in the future.

"Now I must say good-night to all of you," he concluded. "I feel that, in a measure, I have been sitting with you at your fireside and having a pleasant little friendly talk, not so much as president and employees, but as a number of good friends who have confidence one in the other, and all of whom, no matter what their position in the service may be, are trying to make a success of the people's railway and also to make life comfortable and agreeable for each other."

ALL ARRANGED.

She—Oh, I wish the Lord had made me a man!

BABY CAME TO EARTH CLAD IN A HAIR SUIT

PRAGUE, Feb. 8.—The medical profession here has been much interested in a baby born recently which was covered with a growth of hair. The child has been exhibited only to physicians and scientists by Dr. Benda who attended the mother during confinement.

Both the parents are quite normal, according to the doctors, who as yet have been unable to account for the strange freak of nature.

VITAL FACTS FOR WOMEN

Sooner or later almost every woman is brought face to face with the fact that she is a victim of some weakness or ailment peculiar to her sex. It may be the young woman suffering from pain or irregularities, a mother who has brought on some weakness or displacement from overwork, or the middle aged woman pasing through the most critical periods of her life. For each of these trying periods Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved the greatest boon ever given to women, and there are women living in every town and city in the country who testify to its value.

REV. J. ROLLINS FOUND THE DESERTED VILLAGE

RENFREW, Feb. 8. —(Canadian Press.)— At the annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's church on Wednesday night a suggestion was offered that a "drive" be made for the raising of funds to wipe out the few thousand dollars of debt on the church. Rev. James Rollins, the new minister, formerly of Peterborough, expressed the hope that if this were done the town would not resemble a deserted village. He had, he said, learned a few days ago what a deserted village was. It was a Scottish village on a tag day.

EXPLAINED METHOD OF SAMPLING GRAIN FOR BENEFIT OF FARMERS

Royal Commission Heard Complaints That Cars of Oats Had Been Graded as Wheat and Merchandise Mistaken For Grain — Inspector Said Possibility of Error Remote.

TWO INSPECTIONS.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8.—Keen interest was displayed by spectators and numerous legal lights in the first session of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission in Winnipeg Thursday. It developed early that there will be much contentious matter considered especially when Chief Counsel S. B. Woods' suggestions concerning the scrutiny of the co-operative marketing propositions was challenged.

Mr. Woods in his lengthy address on the evidence adduced and that which he anticipates, mentioned that the pool idea might have some considerable attention paid to it and that he had already conferred with H. W. Wood, of the Grain Growers.

Invite Sapiro.

Isaac Pitblado, K.C., representing termianl elevators and other marketing interests, told the commission that he had not been advised that the pool would be a subject of the body's probe. He was asked for information. If, however, the pool was to be the subject of investigation Mr. Pitblado said he was sure the trade generally would welcome a discussion at this time. He had noticed that Aaron Sapiro, who had been put forward as the greatest authority on the grain pool was to be in the west soon and he would like to have him present his views on co-operative pooling to the commission. He therefore suggested that the commission invite him to appear before it when he next visits western Canada.

Chairman Turgeon said the commission would take the idea under consideration.

The entire afternoon session was consumed with the evidence of Chief Assistant Grain Inspector J. B. Fraser. He will continue his evidence to-day, while a number of other members of his department will follow him after which there will be an adjournment to Fort William, probably next week.

Faulty Inspection.

During the sessions on the Prairies at many rural points farmers have suggested that the inspection department at Winnipeg is faulty in that mistakes occur in the taking of samples, the grading and especially in the handling of cars that are loaded so full that inspectors cannot enter them to properly extract samples. Instances have been given at several points where farmers have claimed that cars of oats have been graded as wheat and one instance was given but not authenticated, where it was claimed a car of merchandise was mistaken for a car of grain and a grade actually given.

Counsel Woods therefore asked the assistant chief inspector to describe to the commission precisely what happens when a car of grain arrives in the Winnipeg yards. Fraser carried the car through its various stages, explaining the system in detail. His view was that mistakes rarely occurred and that the cross-checking was too complete to permit of costly errors. The possibility of getting tickets and samples mixed, he said, was very remote.

Method of Sampling.

The inspector explained that an automatic sampler was used, and that seven samples were taken from each car, under the supervision of a foreman. The sample was then placed in a bag. Only one bag is opened at a time by the grader and he cannot know the name of the man from whom it comes nor the section. His record does not expose these facts as the bags are only numbered. This is important since it is evidence that many farmers believe their grain loses a grade sometimes if there are reports of showers in their immediate section even though their grain was threshed after the rains.

If a car is too full for a man to enter, a sample is taken from the door only and a provisional certificate issued. The car goes on to Fort William where it is re-inspected.

Six Men Discussed.

Some six men had been dismissed from the service during the several years of the witness 'connection with the service for carelessness. One he recalled was let out because it was disclosed by a secret check that he had not put the automatic sampler to the bottom of the car in each case as required by the practice. This careful sampling was necessary to prevent what the witness termed "plugging," that is the loading of the car part of the way with inferior grades and placing good wheat at the top. There was not much of this practice, however, for many years, but the service guards against the possibility constantly. All the samples from each car are mixed and the result is the average of the car. Thus is the grade given.

Pressed by counsel as to the minute details of establishing the difference in grades under the Act, Mr. Fraser provoked mirth by remarking: "You have got to use a little common sense with the Canada Grain Act."

TWO BATTLESHIPS TO BE DISMANTLED

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 8.—To the dirge of a chorus of steam whistles, two American battleships, the Nebraska and the Vermont, arrived here recently from their last voyage, a sail of 2 miles from the Mare Island navy yard. They were the largest vessels ever to enter the inner harbor here.

They are consigned to the scrap heap. It will require a year and a payroll of about $1,000,000 to dismantle them. The scrap metal from the men-of-war will be sent to eastern steel works.

The Nebraska, with a length of 435 feet and a displacement of 14,948 tons, was a training ship during the world war. The Vermont, 450 feet long, with a tonnage of 16,000, was in company with the Nebraska on the cruise around the world in 1908. The Vermont was in Vera Cruz harbor when the Americans captured it in 1914. In the world war she was a troop-ship.

GAVE POINCARE INCREASED VOTE

Majority Fifty More Than Expected On Higher Taxes and Economies Measure — Amenities Exchanged.

PARIS, Feb. 8. — Premier Poincare won the first phase of his battle with the Chamber of Deputies for administrative economics and higher taxes yesterday by a majority of 128 votes. The moderates and Conservatives, after another violent session in which Socialists and Communists and Radicals repeated their obstructive tactics, rallied around the Premier and gave him about 50 more votes than the Government had counted upon after Wednesday's tumultuous debate.

More Partizan.

From the very outset the discussion took a more partizan turn than ever, deputies on both sides of the House obviously sparring with a view to the elections. The introduction by M. Ferdinand Engerand of an amendment which was a textual reproduction of one of the documents found in the safe of M. Caillaux in Florence during the war, raised a storm of protests from the Socialist and Communist seats. M. Moutet, who was Caillaux's attorney before the High Court, increased the turmoil by trying to reply to M. Engerend from gallery. The article voted yesterday comprises only a general power to effect economies in administration by decree for four months from the date of promulgation of the law, the rest of the details remaining to be acted upon as well as the proposed increase of 20 per cent in taxes.

The Cabinet, in agreement with the Finance Commission of Chamber, decided to limit the authorization to four months so as not to appear to bind the new Chamber to be elected in May. The general opinion now is that the Chamber of Deputies will vote all the measures the Premier demands, but that it will be harder to get them through the Senate.

Appeals to Passion.

M. Herriott and M. Poincare exchanged amenities yesterday, the former charging the Premier with having discredited Parliament., M. Poincare retorting that "the tactics employed by Deputy Heriott and his friends had brought parliamentary regime into disrepute," and waving a copy of the Communist paper, Humanite, shouted: "Appeals to the passions of the people such as are contained in this paper are responsible for disorders." M. Maginot, the Minister for War, picked up the paper, and threw it on the floor with a gesture of disgust, whereupon M. Laffont, a Communist Deputy, flung another copy of Humanite in a general direction of the Premier, causing great tumult in the Chamber.

EXPECT TODAY SOVIET REPLY

Premier MacDonald Believed Main Conditions For Diplomatic Agreement Will Be Accepted By Moscow.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The Government expects to receive a reply from Moscow regarding Great Britain's offer of recognition to the Soviet Government to-day or Saturday. It is believed there that the Soviet Government will accept in the main the conditions advanced by Premier MacDonald.

When normal diplomatic relations have been established the British Premier is prepared to consider the question of establishing commercial credits in this country in order to assist Russia's rehabilitation. This, however, will be predicated on a satisfactory adjustment of the British claims against the Soviet.

Tchitcherins' Comment.

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.— Russia considers the British recognition of the Soviet Government as complete and final, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin told the newspaper correspondents in an interview Thursday. He said he was at first suspicious with regard to the questions of debts, propaganda and the renewal of old treaties mentioned in the recognition note, but these nodw had been explained satisfactorily from an official source.

"As regards propaganda," he said, "it is now clear that the British meant only normal, mutual obligations, not to interfere in internal affairs. As regards debts there are two possibilities of settlement; either the private claims can be included in the official government lists, or a channel can be provided for individual, private claims. The principle of reciprocity should enable us to find a compromise and guarantee a settlement."

Credits and Claims.

M. Tchitcherin emphasized his opinion that the question of credits was interwoven with that of claims, as credits were necessary to create a situation which would enable an effective settlement.

As to treaties, he said the trade pact of 1858 was annulled by the Kerensky Government. He hoped the British would consider certain treaties void, especially those relating to the East, which were not in conformity with present conditions, "as the Soviet Government cannot yield its principles regarding the eastern peoples."

Lindsay-Peterboro Highway Proposals.

LINDSAY, Feb. 8. — A joint deputation from the town and county will wait upon the Minister of Highwaysi in Toronto at an early date relative to the designation of the Lindsay-Peterboro Road as a Provincial Highway.

That stretch of the road from Lindsay to Omemee is Provincial Highway, but the deputation hopes to have the entire stretch designated and work started with a view to eliminating or reducing the grades between Omemee and Peterboro.

ARCHBISHOP TO ISSUE WARNING

Pastoral Letter In Montreal Diocese Next Sunday Not Accusatory But Instructive of Dangers of Dancing.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8. — In all churches of the diocese of Montreal there will be read next Sunday a pastoral letter written by Archbishop Gauthier, Apostolic Administrator of the Dioese, which will bear upon the same subjects as those touched on in the pastoral letter of Cardinal Begin read in the Quebec diocese churches at the end of December last.

According to La Presse of Montreal, the pastoral letter will not be long, but will be very grave. Archbishop Gauthier will commence by saying that he does not wish to make a general accusation, but rather to enlighten and instruct. He will remind the faithful that anything evil is forbidden even though the church does not specifically censure it. Opportunities of sin and scandal are always forbidden and His Grace observes that all sane-minded people admit that modern dancing falls under this category by reason of its improper familiarities and indecent dress.

His Grace, in conclusion, will ask that all Christians will check tendencies towards excessive worldliness and above all he will implore parents to be more watchful of their children.

A characteristic quotation in the pastoral will be the words of Pope Benedict XV to the effect that "We speak only of those exotic and barbarous dances imported into social circles which are shocking to us."

His Grace will say that the abuses of dancing may be found in private homes as well as in public places. He will also make a reference to the abuse of alcohol at balls.

BALDWIN HELD PRATY CAUCUS

LONDON, Feb. 8. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Nearly all the cabinet ministers in the late Conservative government in addition to Lord Balfour, Lord Birkenhead, Lord Crawford, Austen Chamberlain, Commander Eyres Monsell, chief Conservative whip and Colonel Jackson, chairman of the party organiztaion attended yesterday afternoon a meeting called by former Premier Baldwin at his London house when important decisions were taken relating to the future policy of the party.

It is understood that protection was among the principal issues, but no authentic information regarding the deliberations is available beyond the authorized statement that "absolute cordiality prevailed."

Mr. Baldwin will preside at the unionist party meeting at the hotel Cecil on Monday next. He is responsible, as leader of the party, for the calling of this meeting. The ex-premier's speech will deal comprehensively with the party's policy and then will follow, it is understood, a vote of confidence in Mr. Baldwin as leader. This resolution will be moved by a member of the house of commons and will be seconded by a peer.

MEASURE YOUR CHILD'S BRAIN WITH YARDSTICK!

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(United Press).—Measure your child's brains with a yardstick, not by the heigth of his forehead.

This is the advice of Prof. Howard R. Mayberry, of the department of psychology, University of Chicago, after three years' experiment with 6,000 children.

"The child's brain power," Prof. Mayberry said, "can be measured accurately (from the outside) by only one sure method—the distance from the ears to the top of the head."

This measurement, according to Prof. Mayberry, "gives the relative cranial capacity from which intelligence can be calculated."

He adds that the relative size of the forehead— "highbrow"— has nothing to do with intelligence.

Prof. Mayberry has used 26 different systems of measurement and concluded the tip-of-the-ear-top-of-head system is best.

ENGLAND REPORTS LOWEST DEATH RATE ON RECORD

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(Associated Press).—Sir Walter Kinnear, controller of the National Health Insurance Department, is rather optimistic about the health of the people of Great Britain.

In a recent speech Sir Walter said that despite the fact that during the last few years they had been passing through the greatest wave of depression the country had known since the Napoleonic era, the health of the people was steadily improving. Last year, he added, the death-rate was the lowest on record and the infant mortality rate was about one-half of that of 15 to 20 years ago. It was a cheering fact to remember, the speaker concluded, that a child born today had an expectation of life 12 years longer than had his grandfather.

NO FLAG FLIES YET ON GERMAN EMBASSY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.— The German Embassy continues to refrain from displaying the German national colors at half mast.

Throughout Washington the flags of many other nations, in fact those of all other embassies and legations are still half-masted. As a mark of respect for the late President Woodrow Wilson, their colors were so displayed immediately after the death of Mr. Wilson was announced on Sunday. The colors of the German embassy were displayed only for a brief period on Wednesday afternoon from 12.30, when work ended in government departments, until the funeral was over. Yesterday the flagpole on the German embassy was entirely bare.

LLOYD GEORGE DENIES STORY

Refers Public to Statement Issued by French Officials.

LONDON, Feb. 8. Canadian Press.—Mr. Lloyd George, through the Daily Chronicle, has issued the following statement concerning the interview printed in the New York World on the alleged secret Rhineland agreement, between President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau, at the Paris peace conference:

"I did not give the interview referred to, and was more than surprised when my attention was called to it by telephone messages. I cannot accept the views attributed to me as accurately setting out the facts of what happened at a critcal moment in the peace conference. As to those facts the official statement issued by the French foreign office is substantially correct."

PSEUDO TRAINMAN WORKS FLIM-FLAM

Man From Divide, Saskatchewan Handed Over His Roll.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — Wearing part of a trainman's uniform, Edward Fleming, who comes from the United States, was arrested last night by detectives, charged with "flimflam." Fleming, it is alleged, extracted $160 from Bracken Borrough of Divide, Sask., by the old age method of matching coins.

Borrough was on his way from the west to visit his daughter in St. Marys Ont. While in the Union station he met a man whom he claims to be Fleming. Fleming, it is alleged, suggested they go out and see the results of an automobile accident.

They met a third man, an alleged accomplice of Fleming, and it was suggested they "match coins" for cigars, "odd man" to buy.

Fleming then turned to Borrough and, it is claimed, said: "If you have any money hand it over to me and we'll show him what real sport is. The westerner put $160 in the man's hand, he claims, whereupon both strangers took to their heels.

Retail Coal Prices Doubled in Decade.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Prices of coal to the small consumer throughout the United States have advanced on an average of 93 per cent. since the pre-war month of July, 1914, according to a survey just concluded by the National Industrial Conference Board. New York was in the foremost of cities of the country in so far as bituminous coal prices increases were concerned with an increase exceeding 100 per cent. between the time of the start of the war and the 1923 holiday season, the report said.

"Nevertheless the prices of this class of fuel declined an average of more than 3 per cent. since last July, while anthracite prices in the same period rose between 4 and 6 per cent," the report added.

ADDRESS TO BE GIVEN ON CANADIAN TRADE

Mr. C. Howard Smith, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who will address the Chamber of Commerce on Monday evening next at 8 p.m., has had a considerably wide experience in trade conditions in Canada, which is his topic for his address. He was brought up amid the surroundings of a printing office in St. John's, Que., and at the age of fifteen went to Montreal, and after obtaining employment with the Canada Paper Company subsequently went into his own office as selling agent for a number of paper mills, where he became an important factor in the life of the city.

He later resided in Toronto for two years, where he held the position of director and sales manager of the Kinleith Paper Mills of St. Catharines.

Returning to Montreal he established the first Howard Smith Paper Mills at Beauharnois, and the firm now operates paper mills at Crabtree, Beauharnois and Cornwall, with adjacent pulp and bleaching plants.

Mr. Howard Smith comes to Peterboro on Monday with this wide experience as employee and employer, and it is expected that a large attendance of interested citizens will be on hand to hear of the prospects of trade in Canada.

HASTINGS DEBATES HOLDING REUNION

HASTINGS, Feb. 8.—A large meeting of the citizens was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening to discuss the holding of an Old Boys' and Girls' Re-union on July 29, 30 31 and August 1st and 2nd.

Mr. Alex. Wilson called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and the following speakers were called on: Rev. Father Bretherton, Rev. Mr. Thompson, Messrs. J. F. McCarthy, T. A. Coughlan, Dr. W. E. Wilson, W. A. Baker and Reeve W. M. Fowlds.

Mr. Wilson, the president, in his speech said it was really up to the Council to give a grant of $1500 to help pay expenses as it was not fair to leave it to a few to "pay the whole shot."

Reeve W. M. Fowlds said he was sure the Council would do its part by giving a grant of $300.

A lot of discussion then arose as some of the citizens did not think it advisable to hold the re-union this year as the times were hard, while others thought on account of this being Hastings' fiftieth anniversary it was the right time.

A committee was then appointed to make a canvass of the town and see what funds could be raised. The following gentlemen were named on the committee: Chairman, Reeve R. M. Fowlds, Messrs. J. F. McCarthy, R. C. Doxsee, W. J. Warner, C. B. Plant, T. A. Coughlan, M. J. Baker, C. P. Dwight, Neil McDonald, C. Jones.

Rev. M. L. Hinton and Mr. C. Jones were appointed Honorary Presidents.

Roland Jones was elected president and was invited to the chair, the retiring president, O. Cruickshanks, demanding a speech from the newly-elected president. The following officers were elected:

Stewart and O. Cruickshanks; Welcome and Fellowship Committee, Alan Sherwin, O. Cruickshanks and Everett Hess, with the total membership.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7. — The choice of a successor to W. A. Bowden, Chief Engineer in the Department of Railways and Canals, who died suddenly last Sunday, is exercising the serious attention of the Department just now. Mr. Bowden was Canada's representative on the St. Lawrence Waterways Conferences, and his successfor will be called upon to carry a big responsibility in any further negotiations on the subject.

FOUR MINERS BURIED IN FALLING GALLERY

INVERNESS, Cape Breton, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Four miners were crushed to death in a cave-in at No. 1 mine at Inverness, when they were buried without warning under a deluge that blocked the tunnel for over 200 feet. The dead men are: Neil McIsaac, Dan MacDougall, Dan C. McIsaac and Archie A. McIsaac, the last two brothers. All were married men with families.

Says North Pole Has Nice Summer Climate.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—The airship Shenandoah, on the United States navy's expedition to the North Pole next summer, will not find temperatures as low as those this winter on the Atlantic seaboard, is the belief of M. B. Summers, weather observer here, who established the Government Meterological Station at Point Barrow, where Alaska juts farthest north into the Arctic Ocean. Mr. Summers was transferred to Seattle from Juneau, Alaska, several months ago.

Mr. Summers said that the coldest June day recorded at Point Barrow, which is 1,117 miles from the pole, was 12 degrees above zero and the coldest July day 26 above. The range last June was from 23 degrees above to 56 above. In this month only two days were classified as clear.

The Shenandoah is more likely to encounter rain than snow, in the opinion of Mr. Summers. "Toward the Pole it will naturally be colder than at Barrow," he said, "considerably so, if there is no large body of land between Alaska and the Pole. If there is an Arctic continent or a large island, radiation from the sun's rays will make it warmer and more nearly the temperature of Barrow. But in any event I do not believe that there will be zero temperatures at the Pole in July or late June."

NEW MODEL SHOES LIKE OLD-TIMERS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.— (United Press).—The evolution of footwear, dating back several thousand years, will be depicted at the thirteenth annual convention of the National Shoe Retailers Association here Feb. 11-14.

Fifteen thousands pairs of shoes—no two alike—will be exhibited. The first will be a pair of Roman sandals, bearing close resemblance to an ultra-fashionable model for the spring clientele.

Straps will be the vogue for women next spring. A shoe that belonged to Catherine de Medici, was the model.

One of the earliest shoes in existence, belonging to an Egyptian princess 4,000 years ago, will be exhibted. It is fashioned of green leather and gold laces and resembles footwear seen in the streets in the summer.

Experts to teach efficient methods of keeping shop will be sent to the convention by the School of Business Research, Harvard University. More than 10,000 shoe retailers are expected to attend.

EXCITED TORONTO CITIZEN TRIES TO ARREST ANOTHER.

TORONTO, February 8. — Nathan Crysial became so excited when he met a man on Queen Street for whose arrest he had sworn out a warrant eight months ago, that he tried to effect the arrest himself.

Eugene Pacquette, for whom the warrant had been issued, resisted, and both men were scuffling when Constable Quigley happened along and took them both to Dundas Street West Station.

Crysial related his story, and Pacquette was locked up on a charge of fraud.

PEOPLE ALL OVER THE STATE PRAISE DR. THACHER'S SYRUP; LARGE NUMBERS ARE HELPED

BUILDS UP SYSTEM; INCREASES VITALITY

With praise coming from the lips of men and women in all walks of life, there is little wonder that the vegetable syrup used by Dr. Thacher has aroused such widespread interest here and that large numbers in Peterborouph are now using it with such pleasing results.

In numbers of actual test cases of record it has been demonstrated that such symptoms as Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Gases that press against the heart, Nervousness, Colds that hang on, Constipation, tired out, run-down condition of the system, and other symptoms are quickly relieved by this vegetable prescription, now known as Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup.

Gives Quick Relief!

This quick relief is now explained! In his private practice Dr. Thacher demonstrated that symptoms such as those described above are very often the result of a sluggish liver. And relief in such cases comes quickly when the Liver is properly cleansed and toned and the system is working again as Nature intended.

How Nature Helps.

Science now knows that when your Liver is working properly it does three things necessary to keep you feeling your best. First, it purifies your blood, every drop of which filters through your Liver every fifteen minutes. Second your liver furnishes the essences that are essential to perfect digestion. Third, your liver supplies the secretions Nature uses to lubricate your intestines so that your bowels can move gently, naturally and regularly every day.

But, when your liver is not working properly it cannot do these three things. Consequently you may wake up mornings feeling dull and tired. Often your head aches and you frequently suffer from gases, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart and other symptoms of indigestion. Still other symptoms are nervousness, constipation and a general run-down condition of the system that sometimes leaves you too weak to throw off a lingering, stuffy cold.

The minute your tongue is coated or you feel any of these symptoms, give your Liver intelligent help so that you may quickly feel your best again.

DR. H. S. THACHER, A.B., Ph.G., M.D.

Celebrated American Physician who demonstrated that symptoms such as those described in the column on the left can be relieved quickly with a Vegetable Syrup and without the treacherous use of dangerous or habit-forming drugs. His prescription is giving health and happiness to large numbers here in Peterborough.

Use Vegetable Syrup.

Science has now come to the aid of Nature in offering quick relief! Dr. Thacher perfected a vegetable syrup (Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup) which is pleasant to take and is carefully designed to help Nature cleanse and tone the liver—to improve appetite and digestion — to soothe the tired and overtaxed nerves—to gently correct the cause of constipation—to nourish and strengthen the system so that you can throw off and avoid colds and feel your best again.

REPORTS FROM TEST CASES SHOW VEGETABLE SYRUP HELPS HUNDREDS

Test after test has been made of the vegetable syrup perfected by Dr. H. S. Thacher. Reports in hundreds of actual tests of record show the benefits his prescription has actually produced in cases similar to those described in the article above.

Put To Many Tests.

Following are reports taken at random from these tests. We have no desire to exploit these people, although names and addresses will be furnished to those seriously interested.

All statements are founded on the statements of those who actually used Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup and are passed on in the hope that their success in gaining quick relief may be helpful to others here:

Indigestion.

"I had tried tablets, pills and medicines of every kind, but I had not been able to get relief. Food soured on my stomach and I would feel bloated with gases for hours after meals. I took a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's in a wine-glass of water after meals for a few days and noticed a great improvement from the very first dose.

"My appetite is now hearty, my nerves steady and my digestion is in top notch condition. I can eat the heartiest kind of meal without the slightest trace of indigestion. I no longer wake up mornings feeling dull and tired, but pounce out of bed with the strength, vigor and energy of younger days. I heartily recommend Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup to those who feel the need of it, as it certainly proved its merits in my case."

Nervousness.

Another says: "I had been suffering from nervousness and stomach trouble and did not seem to get the full nourishment from my meals. One day I decided to try Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. I began to notice a quick difference in my condition. I feel fine now; my nerves are steady and my digestion is splendid. I can now do all of my housework and walk to the market without getting the least bit tired or upset. When the family comes home nights I still feel fresh and cheerful after a hard day's work."

Biliousness, Constipation.

Still another states: "My bowels neither moved often nor thoroughly enough. My liver was sluggish and I simply could not get relief. I became bilious and suffered from sick headaches so much that I felt like flopping down on a bed instead of going to work. I had suffered so long I decided I would give Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup a trial as they told me my money would be returned unless I was satisfied.

"Well, I certainly am more than satisfied now. This vegetable syrup struck the keynote of my troubles. I am never bilious, headachy or feel dizzy now. My bowels move naturally, and regularly and I feel so much better. I never knew how much good health meant before I got sick, but I can surely appreciate it now."

Feel Fine Again!

Go to any of the druggists listed in the guarantee coupon above and get a bottle today. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is pleasant to take and is not expensive. You, too, will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists are authorized to refund the small purchase price.

MALAY TRIBE MAY SUPPORT DARWIN.

All Races of the World Have Shown More or Less Predilection Toward Civilization.

HEIDELBERG, Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—All races of the world have shown more or less predilection toward civilization, excepting a tribe of Malays in the wilds of one of the Celebes islands in the Dutch West Indies, asserts Professor Baseler, an anthropologist of Vienna, writing in a German medical journal. These natives, living in unexplored sections of the islands, are gradually slipping backward, says Prof. Baseler, and if their decline continues it may go to prove eventually that Darwin, after all, was right.

These natives are all left handed, chew their food with a grinding motion of the jaw, like an ape, have long arms, live in trees and use their feet as well as their hands in nearly everything they attempt to do. It was at the beginning of the bronze age, avers he professor, that man began to use his right hand, a sure sign of civilization, but the natives of the Celebes are much farther removed today from any social development than they were in the stone age when man began to open his eyes to all about him.

They descended into lower and lower altitudes until the air grew intensely hot, physically depressing after the cold wind of the mountains; finally, ten minutes ahead of time, they drove into the doubly depressing village of Huntersville. It was no uglier than thousands of other villages and small towns that look as if built to demonstrate the American contempt for beauty, but the fact mitigated nothing to eyes accustomed to the picturesqueness of mountain villages in Europe, where the very roofs are artistic and the peasants have the grace to wear the dress of their ancestors.

There were a few farms in the valley, but if Huntersville had not been a junction of sorts, it is doubtful if it would have consisted of anything but a "general store," now that the saloons were closed. There was one long crooked street, with the hotel at one end, the store at the other (containing the post office), and a church, shops for automobile supplies, two garages, a drug store, and a candy store; eight or ten cottages filled the interstices. Men were working in the fields, but those in Huntersville proper seemed to be exhausted with loafing. Campers going in and out of the woods needing shelter for a night, and people demanding meals between trains, kept the dismal looking hotel open and reasonably clean.

The situation was very beautiful, for mountains rose behind and there was a brawling stream.

Mr. Dinwiddie having ascertained that "Mr." Hohenhauer had received his message and gone for a walk, leaving word he would return at ten o'clock, Mary went into the hotel parlor to wait for him. The room was seldom used, patrons, local and otherwise, preferring the Bar of happy memories, and it smelled musty. She opened the windows and glanced about distastefully. The walls were covered with a faded, yellow paper, torn in places, and the ceiling was smoked and fly-specked. The worn thin carpet seemed to have been chosen for its resemblance to turtle soup squirming with vermicelli. Over the pine mantel, painted yellow, were the inevitable antlers, and on a marble-topped table were badly executed water lilies under a glass dome. The furniture was horsehair, and she wondered how she and the Austrian statesman were to preserve their dignity on the slippery surface. Then she heard his voice in the hall as he stopped to speak to Mr. Dinwiddie, and she glanced out curiously.

She had not seen him since a year before the war, but he was little changed; improved if anything, for there was more color in his formerly pale face. He was as straight and as thin as ever, his fine head erect, without haughtiness; his dark eyes under their heavy lids had the same eagle glance. He was still, she concluded dispassionately, the handsomest man she had ever seen, even for an Austrian, the handsomest race on earth; he combined high intelligence with a classic regularity of feature, grace, dignity; and when the firm lips relaxed he had a delightful smile. If it had not been for his hair, very thick white hair, he would have passed for little over forty. He wore loose gray traveling clothes, and every detail was as quietly faultless as ever.

She went hastily to the speckled mirror beneath the antlers and surveyed herself anxiously. Her own traveling suit of dark green tweed, with its white silk shirt, was as carelessly perfect as his own, and the little green turban, with its shaded, drooping feather, extremely becoming. No color set off her fairness like green, but she turned away with a sigh. It was not the eyes of the past three days that looked back at her.

And then she remembered that he had not seen her since the renaissance. The moment was not without its excitements.

Their meeting was excessively formal.

"Frau Grafin."

"Excellenz."

And then he drew back and looked at her with penetrating but smiling eyes.

"I had heard, of course," he said gallantly "but I hardly was prepared. May I say, Frau Grafin, that you look younger than when I had the peasure of meeting you first?"

"I assure you that I feel many years younger," she replied lightly. "May I add that I am delighted to see that you are in the best of health? Your rest in Switzerland has done you good, although it would have been better for Austria had it been shorter. Shall we sit down?"

Two tall dignified bodies adjusted themselves to chairs both slippery and bumpy. He had closed the door behind him.

"Now that the amenities are over, Excellenz," she said with the briskness she had picked up from her her American friends, "let us come to the point. I infer you did not take a day's journey and put up with this abominable hotel to tell me that you are forming a Federation of Austria and the South German States. You were sometimes kind enough to ask my help in the past, but I have no influence in Washington."

"No, dear Grafin. I do not need your assistance in Washington. But I do need it in Austria, and that is why I am here."

"But it is—was—my intention to return to Austria almost immediately. Surely Judge Trent must have told you."

"Yes, dear Grafin, he told me, but he also told me other things. I shall not waste the little time at our disposal in diplomacy. He told me that you have the intention to marry a young American." There was the faintest accent on the young.

Mary was annoyed to feel herself flushing, but she answered coldly. "It is quite true that I intend to marry Mr. Clavering."

"And I have come here to ask you to renounce that intention and marry me instead."

"You!" Mary almost rose from her chair. "What on earth do you mean?"

"My dear Marie." He renounced formalities abruptly. "I think you will be able to recall that whether I wrapped my meaning in diplomatic phrases or conveyed it by the blunter method, it was always sufficiently clear to the trained understanding.

"'And I have come here to ask you to marry me instead.'"

I have never known a more trained or acute understanding than yours. I wish you to marry me, and I beg you to listen to my reasons."

She gave the little foreign shrug she had almost forgotten. "I will listen, of course. Need I add that I am highly honored? If I were not so astonished, no doubt I should be more properly appreciative of that honor. Pray let me hear the reasons." Her tone was satirical, but she was beginning to feel vaguely uneasy.

Neither her words nor her inflections ruffled the calm of that long immobile face with its half-veiled powerful eyes.

"Let us avert all possible misunderstandings at the beginning," he said suavely. "I shall not pretend that I have fallen in love with you again, for although my gallantry prompts me to such a natural statement, I have not the faintest hope of deceiving you. What I felt for you once can never be revived, for I love you more than I have ever loved any woman; and when such love burns itself out, its ashes are no more to be rekindled than the dust of the corpse. You thought I fell in love with my pretty young wife, but I was merely fond and appreciative of her. I knew that the end had come for us, and that if I did not recognize that sad fact, you would. My marriage, which, as you know, was imperative, afforded a graceful climax to a unique episode in the lives of both of us. There was no demoralizing interval of subterfuge and politely repressed ennui. On the other hand, it did not degenerate into one of those dreary and loosely knit fiaisons, lasting on into old age. We left each other on the heights, although the cliff was beginning to crumble."

"Really, Moritz! I hope you have not come up here to indulge in sentimental reminiscence. Why rake up that old—episode? I assure you I have practically forgotten it."

"And I can assure you that I never felt less sentimental. I wish merely to emphasize the fact that it was complete in itself, and therefore as impossible of resuscitation as the dead. Otherwise, you might naturally leap to the conclusion that I was an elderly romantic gentleman—"

"Oh, hever! It is obvious that you are inclined to be brutally frank. But, as you said, time is short."

AN ANCIENT COPPERHEAD.

Probably the Oldest One In World Was Recently Found By a Houghton County Farmer.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—The largest and probably the oldest "copperhead" in the world, recently discovered by a Houghton County farmer, is now in possession of the University of Michigan. It is a nugget of "float" copper weighing 483 pounds. The nugget is 42 inches in height, 32 inches wide, and about three inches thick.

The facial outline of an Indian has been formed along one edge of the nugget. To this likeness, some one in the centuries past has added a human touch by bending back parts of the edge, in the opinion of Dean Edward H. Kraus, professor of crystallography and mineralogy.

The nugget was obtained by the university at the market price of copper. It was believed at the time that it was simply an exceptionally large piece of "float" copper and it was not until it was photographed that its full value was learned. In turning the copper to get the best light, the "face" was observed for the first time. Investigation showed the hammered down edges.

Dean Kraus hesitates to estimate the approximate date of the hammering because of the excessive oxidization. Especial interest is attached to the piece of copper itself, Dean Kraus said, because it shows the effect of the wearing of glacial stones. Long scratches across the surface indicate to the mineralogist the passage over the nugget of pebbles embedded in glacial ice.

DOUBLED ROLES IN FIVE-REEL DRAMA.

Jilted Caveman Was Betrayed By a Game of Kelly Pool.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 7.—"The Affairs of Louie" might well be the title of a five-reel thriller, built around the experience of Louis Little, 22 years old, of Inkster, Mich., who, doubling in the roles of hero and villain, encountered no serious setback in his action until he met Judge Harry B. Keidan, in Recorder's Court.

Reel 1.

Little began providing material for the various reels by courting Carrie Dunn, the daughter of a wealth landowner of Inkster. In his arguments for her hand he gave her many long rides in his automobile, one of which, however, was disastrous. On this particaulr ride his car turned over and both suffered broken arms.

Louis, with his one good arm, drove to the home of Ross Peters, a friend, near Howell, Mich., and left Miss Dunn in his charge.

Reel 2.

When he returned two weeks later he discovered that Peters and the girl were married.

He tried to kidnap her and did carry her over his shoulder for some distance, but she proved to be too heavy for that style of abduction, so he gave up the idea.

Reel 3.

Then he came to Detroit, obtained a revolver and began laying plans for a complete obliteration of all memory of his faithless sweetheart. But before taking his life he decided to play a few games of Kelly pool.

Reel 4.

While he was chalking his cue in a pool room, at 1312 Cass avenue, the police raided the place, found his revolver and placed him under arrest on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Reel 5.

Before Judge Keidan he told his story and pleaded guilty. The judge sentenced him to two months in the Detroit House of Correction.

CONTINUANCE OF BROADCASTING DEPENDS UPON PAYING TALENT

David Sarnoff Says Consumers Will Not Have to Pay If Only Three Super-Stations Entertain the Entire Country—Radio Industry Can Support Broadcasting.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—At least 3,000,000 people in the United States have spent more than $200,000,000 for radio receiving apparatus. They have purchased the instruments and made a huge investment so that they might hear entertainment broadcast through space. All this has been done without any assurance whatever that the broadcasting of entertainment would be continued. The broadcast listener has never been cautioned that a condition might develop where broadcast service might fall far short of the quality toe buyer expected, and might even de discontinued altogether.

What will be the future of broadcasting?

E. C. Mills, Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, in an interview during the past week said: "Service to the receiving sets at the present time depends upon the charitable inclinations of publicity hungry artists and musicians, or upon the willingness of advertisers to finance entertainment in order to have their names and the names of their products dinned into the ears of the radio audience.

"The broadcast listener," continued Mr. Mills, "can be assured that as long as profits flow to manufacturers from the sale of apparatus sufficient to justify continuance of broadcasting the service will be continued. The purchase of apparatus will be in direct ratio in volume to the quality and merit of the programs. The standing of the talent will be dependent upon the compensation to that talent. Radio is a niggardly buyer, as now organized. It expects free service from its talent and proposes that the advertising it gives will compensate the entertainer. Radio must pay its way as do other enterprises of which it is the actual and active competitot, such as thousands of theatres, dance halls and cabarets. Music is the foundation upon which the structure of radio in its popular aspects rests."

It was pointed out by Mr. Mills that representative radio interests present the following arguments against payment: That radio stations do not pay the entertainer and therefore the composer should not be paid; that a broadcasting station receives no compensation for the service it renders, and, receiving nothing, it should not be expected to pay for talent; that broadcasting renders a great service by creating a demand for compositions.

Stations operated by universities are considered non-commercial by the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers, and they are granted a free and unrestricted license.

Mr. Mills added: "It is true that since receiving sets have been installed in many homes, phonographs and pianos have been unused. Sheet music sales and phonograph record sales were never in the history of the business at as low a point as now. Royalties have depreciated because radio is now the source of furnishing music. Music can exist better without radio, but can radio exist without music?

"In 1921 citizens of the United States purchased $600,000,000 worth of musical merchandise. In 1923 they purchased $200,000,000 worth of radio apparatus. Approximately 8,000,000 phonographs have been sold in this country, and a survey shows there are in excess of 3,000,000 radio receiving sets. It is thought that 10,000,000 people listen to the radio every evening. Moving pictures entertain about 20,000,000 people daily. The 10,000,000 people listening to radio used to do something else—play their pianos, phonographs, go to the movies, dance halls, theatres or ride in their autos. It can be seen that radio is a competitor of other means of entertainment which "pay their way."

When singers appear at broadcasting stations not holding a license to radiate compositions controlled by the Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers they are handed a long list of compositions which cannot be impinged on the microphone. One singer who appeared at WJZ last week said: "I received a number of requests by telephone to sing special selections, but it was against the rule of the station. Before long the restrictions will be so heavy that it will be difficult to sing favorite compositions over the radio."

Contrary to the opinion of men prominent in the radio industry, Mr. Mills does not believe there will ultimately be three great stations and that the radio audience need never pay for programs. He said: "The radio audience will never permit monopoly to limit the stations to three. If properly approached, a practical plan can be devised whereby broadcasting stations may render superior service for payment instead of inferior service free."

H. P. Davis, Vice-President of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, believes that in the future broadcasting will be greatly advanced through relay stations, that is, central stations will broadcast programs which will be intercepted by repeater stations, at which point the waves will be amplified and rebroadcast. This system will enable owners of simple crystal sets to hear concerts played thousands of miles away. Such a plan is now being developed by KDKA, at Pittsburgh. Programs are now broadcast from KDKA simultaneously on 326 meters and 100 meters. The short wave signals are picked up by a relay station in Hastings, Neb., and in England, where the music is rebroadcast. Listeners using crystal sets in the Middle West and in Great Britain hear the Pittsburgh programme as clearly and as loud as auditors living in the vicinity of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Davis said: "This is the first step of a comprehensive system of radio rpeeating which will in time cover not only the United States but the entire world. The system is so flexible that it is susceptible of indefinite expansion without excessive cost. When completely worked out, the owner of a crystal set, no matter where located, can listen to selected programs in which the best from every quarter of the globe can be included. The primary broadcasting stations need be but few in number, but will be located where the best of program material is available. This system will materially strengthen the quality of programs, heighten the interest of radio broadcasting and increase its value to the public by enormously increasing the scope of the program and the availability of simple receiving sets."

Speaking of the future of radio, David Sarnoff, Vice-President and General Manager of the Radio Corporation of America, says: "The radio industry will be worth within the next few years a half billion dollars a year in consumers' prices. The vacuum tube business is now equal to 20 per cent. of the entire incandescent lamp business in the United States.

"We may expect," continues Mr. Sarnoff, "within a period of three to five years to be speaking to practically 50,000,000 people in the United States through the agency of radio. Our friends in South America and ultimately in Europe will be listening to us. I believe that most of the present stations will go out of business in time. In my judgment there will be erected possibly half a dozen or three high-power broadcast stations suitably located, one on the east coast, another on the Pacific Coast, and a third in the Southwest or thereabouts. These super-power stations will be joined together by wire or by radio, preferably the latter, and will constitute a national broadcast service. Each station will radiate the same program with a power sufficient to reach every home in the United States, and with power sufficient to give enjoyable loudspeaker operation."

Mr. Sarnoff pointed out that a great many people believe that the future of broadcasting depends upon a solution of the problem whereby the consumer will pay for the entertainment which he receives.

"It is my firm conviction," said Mr. Sarnoff, "that sueh a solution of the problem is not necessary. Broadcasting can be made commercially practicable without any means being found for collecting from the consumer. Just as soon as the freedom and universality of radio is destroyed and it is confined to only those who pay for it the fundamentals of the whole situation will be destroyed. There must remain and be preserved that element of the broadcast situation which makes it possible for opera to go into the districts of the poor as well as the rich, everywhere in the world without charge.

"If we have a chain of super-power stations covering the entire country, then an entirely new problem is created as to the question of copyright music and the paying for talent. If we have a national broadcast station and we have to pay for the talent, we will do it. An industry of half a billion dollars could support it if the burden were equally and equitably well distributed even if it became necessary to spend two million to five million dollars a year for talent."

There's Nothing to Equal 'Dr. Wood's" Norway Pine Syrup For Coughs and Colds

Mrs. David Thompson, West River St., Paris, Ont., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For myself and children I use nothing else.

My little girl, five years old, has had bronchial trouble ever since she had the "flu" a few years ago, and, now, whenever she gets a slight cold she develops a very nasty cough, but all I have to do is to give her a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Also for myself, and the other children, I can find nothing to equal it, in fact, it was only a short time ago that I gave it to my ten months old baby, and could immediately see the difference it made in her. Now, I always keep Norway Pine Syrup in the house, as I feel there is nothing to equal it."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A BRIGHT, NIGHT RIDDLE

Is the Moon Man your big brother?

"You'll guess this riddle first crack out of the box," said the Riddle Lady. "But we have had so many hard ones I thought this would be nice for a change. This isn't a summer riddle or a winter riddle. It's a fair weather riddle, though, for unless it's reasonably fine weather you can't see the thing the riddle is about. Listen now everybody. Nancy and Nick, come up close beside me where you can hear:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little light,
High above the world at night.
Singing to the silver moon,
A magic tune.

"You are just a tiny spark,
Hanging up there in the dark,
Like a cinder from the sun,
When day is done.

"You play peep-oh with the clouds,
That chase each other by in crowds.
Clutching with your tiny fingers,
One that lingers.

"All your sisters, then, and cousins,
Come a crowding out by dozens,
Just to see what makes you merry!
Jolly fairy!

"As they wink and blink and twinkle,
All the sky looks like a sprinkle
Of white sugar on a cake,
That fairies bake.

"Is the Moon Man your big brother?
Or is Lady Moon your mother?
Does she keep you in all day,
And make you play?

"I have seen you run a scooting,
Clear across the sky a shooting,
Who brings you home, I'd like to know,
When you go?

"Do Uncle Mars and Auntie Venus Say 'We'll get him home between us!"
And lead you 'long the Milky Way,
When it's day?"

"It's a star!" cried everybody.

"Well, well, well!" laughed the Riddle Lady. "I should say you did guess it."

But just then a new voice spoke up. It was the Man in the Moon who had tumbled down and was about to ask his way to Norwich.

"That's a very nice riddle," he declared. "But some day when I have more time I'll come and tell you all about stars and why they run off sometimes and everything like that. And I'll tell you all about the Milky Way, too, for you know it really isn't made of milk at all. But I must not stay. I really must go to Norwich to find out when I get get back to the Moon. There won't be anybody there to run it tonight if I don't get back. And it's likely to run off its track and wreck a thousand little stars."

Mother Goose spoke up then. "No need for that," she said. "I'll take you back on my magic broom."

"Better still!" put in Daddy Gander. "I'll take you on my magic dustpan and the Twins can go along."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

Have you ever been guilty of a tirade of anger and abuse against friend wife, if she should happen to be a little late serving dinner? The consequences of such action are far reaching, much more so than generally supposed.

The eyes and eyebrows contract, the eyes seem to flash fire, something rises in your pharynx, you try to swallow it and can't, hoarse angry words cause you to cough and produce a throat irritation which increases your anger, your heart-beat quickens, your face flushes, the teeth are clenched and the notrils distended. And to cap the climax your wife faints or fights, and you are so upset that you can't eat. All, for what?

Without a doubt a distinct shortening of your life span, terrible strain on your nervous system and intense glandular action that weakens your digestive powers, resulting in toxic influences that affect the blood stream to a marked degree.

It is indeed bad enough, if you are a real h ..lthy animal, to let anger disrupt your physical health and peace of mind. But if you have begun to harden up along the artery route, that before-dinner outburst may cause apoplexy (paralysis from a cerebral hemorrhage.) Anger of this sort also stops the stomach in its work of secretion. This is why you experience pain and distress from eating when angry.

Out breaks of this sort, or at any other time and place for that matter, are perilous to your mental health and efficiency. The breakdown of mentality and poise in brain organizations of more than usual ability is always rapid and devitalizing under the continued attacks of anger.

Anger is a sure sign of weakness. The facial expression assumes the mark of frequent fits of anger and you cannot hide it. The mind is so often affected that real insanity comes as a result not infrequently.

Avoid the visits of any anger "germs" and remember that good health waits on good appetites and good cheer.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

By A. H. FREDERICK.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 7.—Aristocracy of San Francisco's loaferdom temporarily disappears from outdoors with the coming of the rains.

Cold it can brave as its members shift with the sunlight around the ledge of the public library, which gives them sitting space. But rain is too much for them.

Loaferdom of lower Howard street transfers its meeting places from the curbstone to interior of employment offices. That of the city's parks also disappears, no one knows just where.

But aristocracy largely goes inside the library. Here, rules of silence forces it to reading, gives it new aristocratic polish as it pores over weighty volumes, and new topics of serious conversation for the long sunshiny months ahead.

San Francisco, not proud of its place as second among large cities in auto traffic fatalities, is again in the throes of "solution."

Three remedial measures have been contemplated.

1. Engagement of a traffic engineer.

2. Organization of a schoolboy "traffic squad."

3. Erection of a billboard "monument," bearing a huge city map upon which will be indicated by red stars each place of an auto fatality. This, of course, is designed to warn drivers to be more careful.

Picture the Hall of Justice here, home of the city prison, police department and courts, alive with policemen, judges, court clerks and other human paraphernalia of the law. The lobbies are crowded as court time approaches and in more than small minority are those with badges of authority, badges which designate them the terrors of crookdom.

Police are investigating.

Drinking of near-beer as an instigator of frank fellowship has come under criticism by the W. C. T. U. here.

Their censure fell on the "taproom," where male students of the University of California simulate pre-prohibition days in everything save alcoholic exhuberance.

Defender of the "taproom" is Professor Joel H. Hildebrand, dean of men at the university and a consistent voter for prohibition.

"Drinkin— of near-beer, either alone or in company, has nothing to do with prohibition," declares the dean. "Also I have visited the 'taproom' and found the conversation very elevating."

SHOCKED AT THE SHEIKS

By HAROLD E. SWISHER

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8.—(United Press).—Rudolph Valentino is coming back to the pictures to find the character he made famous desecrated in the eyes of his multitude of fair admirers.

There are no nice sheiks! Rodolph's portrayal of the part was a gross exaggeration, says Claire Windsor, another prominent member of the motion picture profession.

Miss Windsor is in Algeria and the desert of Sahara, getting a first hand impression of sheiks, while co-starring in Edwin Carewe's "The Son of the Sahara."

The actress is shocked at the sheiks.

None Miss Windsor has seen are by any means in line with Valentino's portrayal of the character, the star details in letters to her friends here. Whiskers and dirt make up their chief complement, she has found. Romance does not seem to exist within them.

Leaving the sheiks and talking about the strange country in which she is working, Miss Windsor stated that she has found the only place on earth more beautiful than Southern California. This is the country around Algeria, on the northern coast of Africa. Biskra, the oasis town in the Sahara desert, impressed her with its mysterious, romantic beauty.

While the company was in Biskra, a native sheik took Miss Windsor and a group of friends to one of the famous Arabian religious ceremonies.

"A man had been hypnotised and was lying, stiff as a board, on a dirt floor of the hovel where the affair was being held," she wrote. "All of a sudden he sprang to his feet, as limber as ever. In the center of the floor a coal fire was burning with a white heat glow. As the fanatic began to dance a weird ritual he edged nearer the coals and finally completed the dance in the center of the fire.

"Then he ignited two bunches of dry grass and when they were burning fiercely, placed them in his armpits and danced some more. When this was over, he took one of the still burning coals and placed it upon his tongue, mumbling some chant. Then he stuck long pins in his body and through his tongue.

"Extracting these, he lay down on the floor, and became stiff again. Some native priests clapped their hands in peculiar fashion, and the dancer slowly emerged from his trance."

LEAP YEAR FOR SHE-WOLVES TOO.

They Vamp Domestic Dogs in Western States and Lure Them From Home.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 7.—(United Press).—Domestic dogs are being "vamped" by she wolves in a number of western states, according to information to the biological survey.

Poisoning campaigns under supervision of the survey have so reduced the number of adult wolves that the remaining animals have been driven to that extremity, declares Dr. A. K. Fisher, who is in charge of the economic investigations of the survey.

In one instance, the adventures of "Old Three-Toes," an especially destructive she wolf, were detailed by a rancher in Colorado.

"We hold a private grudge against this old gray wolf," the rancher stated, "as she mated with our pet collie dog, even going so far as to dig him out of a pen. He heard the 'call of the wild' and answered it, going off for a few days at a time, sometimes coming home. At last he finally went away for weeks and was eventually poisoned by a government hunter. This was a good thing, as a collie hearing 'the call of the wild' kills for his young, too."

Ten Commandments for Those Who Wed

By JUDGE JOHN B. COX
Justice of the Peace of Santa Ana, Calif.

SANTA ANA, Calif., Feb. 8.—Keep your mother-in-law in the next country. Absence makes the hearth grow warmer.

The automobile has been the cause of more divorces than all the quarrels combined. These days the prospective bride asks her John, "Have you a car?" If the answer is in the negative, he seeks another bride. Lucky man!

Give prohibition a chance in the home. Thou shalt not make home brew. Not so long ago people filled their church basements with wine. We have been wet for thousands of years. Don't condemn prohibition in a few short years.

Short hair does not necessarily mean the owner is short in brains. It seems to be more comfortable. Like rolled hose, I'm for it.

Where there's a will there is not always a way. Don't spend your youthful days of wedlock waiting for papa and mama to die and leave you the pile. Dig while the digging is good. The will may have failed to mention your name.

The home seems to be the last consideration of the modern bride and bridegroom. Instead of "Have you a bungalow?" it is: "Can you dance old dear?"

Let your conscience be your guide, but pay your bills first. Your own self-respect is half the battle.

* * *

Judge John B. Cox, justice of the peace here, who admits, when it comes to speeders, he is a "hard-boiled egg," rounded out his thirteenth year on the bench by giving out the following "Ten Commandments" for those who contemplate marriage:

"Thou shalt not own an automobile until thou hast bought a house."

"Thou shalt not harbor thy mother-in-law in the same house with thee."

"Thou shalt not spend more for hair oil and lipsticks than for baby shoes and groceries."

"Honor thy father and thy mother, but keep them at a distance, that both your days may be long in contentment."

"Thou shalt not covet, but probably will."

"Thou shalt not throw away thy life in discontent. Get a divorce."

"Stop, look and listen when danger arises."

"Use thy noodle and save grief."

ILL, DESERTED WIFE FORGIVEN IN COURT

Stricken Husband Returns to Farm To Seek Health.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 8. — Bursting into tears at the sight of her husband, who several months before had deserted her and their three children, Mrs. Jacob Schaffner pleaded with Judge Franklin Taylor to dismiss the indictment returned by the grand jury on her testimony. Schaffner was in a critical condition from tuberculosis. Although carefully dressed, his eyes were hollowed and surrounded by dark circles, his face was drawn and wan.

Keeping from his family knowledge of his malady, Schaffner secretly left home and went to live on his brother's farm at Williamstown, Mass. He had no money for the family and was unable to work longer to support them. After a futile search for him, Mrs. Schaffner appealed to the district attorney.

Taken to jail after his appearance in court, Schaffner was examined and the next day, after the indictment had been dismissed, went back to the farm, where, physicians said, he has a fighting chance to recover. Mrs. Schaffner, prostrated at her husband's condition, said she thought he had left home merely to avoid family responsibilities.

January 8, 1679—Rene Robert Cavelier, Sieur de La Salle, the noted French explorer in North America, on this date lost his vessel, the "Griffon," which was wrecked supposedly through the treachery of the pilot, and on which La Salle had sailed up through the Great Lakes to Green Bay (Lake Michigan). The "Griffon" was probably the first boat built by civilized man in Canada. La Salle, who was a native of Rouen, France, was intellectual and well educated and who became one of the most noted explorers of the North American continent, received from the Seminary of St. Sulpice in Montreal a grant of land on the St. Lawrence, about eight miles from Montreal, where he built a stockade and established a trading post. This post was called La Chine because of La Salle's belief that it lay in the route of a western passage to China. He also established a post above Niagara Falls. La Salle was assassinated by his own followers in 1687.

TRIANGLE PASTOR HAS "PAST," IS CHARGE

Court Told He Was Forced To Leave Other Churches

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Charges that the Rev. Carl D. Case, pastor of the Oak Park Baptist Church, named by Arthur Leland, a parishioner, as corespondent in his action for divorce, left churches in Brooklyn and Buffalo when faced by similar accusations, and that Leland himself was engaged to marry his stenographer when he started divorce proceedings, were made before Judge Charles M. Foell yesterday.

As a result of the charges and counter-charges, Judge Foell continued the case until Feb. 19 and declared "the door is wide open to testimony, as far as the court is concerned. Let's have all the evidence." It had been expected that closing arguments would be made and a decision handed down.

William R. Moss, attorney for Mrs. Leland, made the charges against the minister and announced he will leave for the east today to take depositions. The Rev. Case characterized the accusations as "a cheap trick" and madde a enial of them just as he denied charges of misconduct which Mrs. Charlotte Leland related to the witness stand. The Rev. Case's attorneys made little objection to the introduction of new evidence but Leland's counsel maintained that any evidence obtained in the east had nothing to do with the case.

THIRTY THOUSAND ARE HOMELESS FROM FLOOD

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 8.—(British United Press). — Thirty thousand people are homeless from the flood of the River Parahyba, which yesterday inundated the city of Campos, in the State of Rio De Janeiro, according to advices here to-day.

The floods are reported from many parts of Northern Brazil owing to the recent heavy rains.

DRINK WATER HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

ENGLISH NOVELIST CUT HER THROAT WITH RAZOR

WHITLEY BAY, England, Feb. 8.—(British United Press).—The celebrated English novelist, "Queenie Scott Hooper," committed suicide here by slashing her throat with a razor because she was unable to "think up any new ideas for stories."

THIS LITTLE WORLD

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—A deadly dull blight has settled upon London theatres, probably until April. It's an annual disease called "pantos," British for pantomimes.

Because in the days of their great-grandfathers, the theatres used to be given over in the Christmas season to the pantomime form of entertainment, the managers do the same now. Dramas, operas, comedies are swept off the boards.

The pretense here is that the pantos are put on for the delight of the children because Christmas is their season. But the pantos go on and on seemingly forever and they draw packed houses nightly—of adults.

* * *

There is one phase of tipping that is unknown in the States because Uncle Sam wouldn't tolerate it. Here, when Christmas comes, your faithful letter-carrier doesn't rely on your generosity. He practically demands it.

The men who serve you delegate one of their number as collector. He enters the names of all the people on their joint beat. Then he presents the book to the various people and they are supposed to write down the amounts of kale they are willing to contribute to the postman's Christmas box.

And the British postal authorities don't even bat an eye.

* * *

I ran across Sinclair Lewis, famous American novelist, the other day in Fleet street. Lewis by now knows his London and Paris as well as, or even better than, he knows New York. He told me he had to spend the summer at Fontainebleau near Paris and is now living here.

We went to the place where his next novel is being written. It's a delightful room in the Temple, that enclosure sacred to the legal profession of London. Many people wouldn't think it delightful, because the room is not particularly bright and it is heated by a little grate fire. But it has something you could get nowhere else in London and not at all in rushing New York or any other big American town—absolute quiet and isolation.

It's a perfect retreat away from the people who want to buy Lewis a meal or want him to buy them one.

Away from the panhandlers and the gossips.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. — Washington's first touch of real winter, when the mercury dropped close to zero, caused Mrs. Grace Coolidge, who leads a sheltered life in the White House, to chafe at the restraints traditionally surrounding the nation's "first lady."

The sun shone brightly, but the stiff wind out of the northwest put a sting and snap into the air that must have savored of the invigorating zephyrs of New England. The lure was too much.

Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied only by her two sons, went for a Sunday afternoon hike through downtown Washington. Probably few of the hardy pedestrians who braved the cold recognized her. But those who did could not fail to have noted her evident enjoyment.

At least for the period of that walk, Mrs. Coolidge was only a native New Englander, getting a sniff of bracing wintry air.

When Representative John Philip Hill of Baltimore, who proposes to repeal of the Volstead law, appeared before Congress the other day to answer the demand of Upshaw of Georgia that Congress become personally as well as politically dry, he carried two suspiciously thick brief cases of the type affected by the classiest bootleggers.

Members strained forward anxiously, as he undid the fastenings, but relaxed in their seats when he produced only dry legal tomes.

* * *

It took William Shakespeare, through the medium of John Barrymore's presentation of "Hamlet," to lure Calvin Coolidge from his White House study to that frivolous place, the theater.

Unlike Wilson and Harding, Coolidge has neither time nor inclination for anything but classical drama. His attendance at a performance is sufficient to brand it as beyond all cavil a sanctioned literary masterpiece.

Hamlet had to fight hard to hold the attention of his audience, however. For in the box across the pit from where the Coolidge family sat was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, resplendent in cloth of silver and in the orchestra, between the two, the rotund, smiling physiognomy of the Chief Justice, former President Taft.

* * *

The best smile official Washington has had in a blue moon was occasioned by the loudly whispered explanation of a young sightseer to the girl on his arm —evidently his bride—as they watched the carriages rolling up to the White House portico with guests to the diplomatic reception.

As dignified, gray-whiskered, plug-hatted Henry Cabot Lodge drove up the young man grew quite excited.

"Look, dear, look!" he exclaimed. "There goes General Sawyer."

Boston Bulls Pay Their Breeders Well

The Boston Bull was not so popular in Canada until a dozen years ago, when the finer examples of this breed began to be exhibited here. At the present moment they are just about to become a prevailing fashion in the dog world, and anyone who will start breeding them at once ought to be able to secure good high prices by next winter.

The best way is to begin with a bitch, and the price you pay for her ought not to be under fifty dollars. You will pay a hundred for some of the best strain, but by using care in the choice of the pup, fifty dollars ought to bring a good example.

The points to observe in the Boston Bull are:

Breadth of the head between the eyes, fatness of the head between and behind the ears; a short, wide nose; very prominent eyes, lower jaw slightly protruding; ears, when cut, very erect and pointed.

The tail should be short with a slight screw formation. A tail which has been cut marks a poor dog. The chest should be wide and the front legs very slightly bowed.

The shoulders and head are heavy in proportion to the hind parts, which should be very graceful, the flesh of the belly hollowing in over the ribs.

The marking must be as even as possible. Freak markings, such as one half of the head being white and the rest dark, or a white circle around the eyes, or one eye, or blotches of white scattered over the coat, will disqualify the dog for the show ring.

Twenty-two pounds is the maximum weight for the heavyweights, while the smaller sizes, much favored in Canada, run to fourteen and less. The "toy" Boston is a difficult dog to raise and should not be used as a money maker.

Stud fee for the bitch ought to be at least ten dollars. Be sure the stud dog offered you is really what he seems to be. When the first batch of pups are born, keep the finest of the males to breed with the mother, or keep a male and a female—a brother and sister—for it is in inbreeding bulls that you get the finest specimens. This inbreeding should not continue over three generations without the introduction of different blood, and then the inbreeding should begin again.

Be sure that you get a registered bitch and that the studs are registered. You will, of course, take all precautions as to having all pups registered.

Teach all your dogs to "show"—that is to be ready for exhibitions. As soon as the pup begins to know you, stand it on a table, push the front legs out a little and the back legs back a little, throw up the head, and with the hand poised before the dog, seek to make it hold this posture. Do not be discouraged if you fail to do so until the pup is four or six months old. A dog a year old, at a signal which he knows, ought to stand all but rigid until released by the master or mistress. Giving a small piece of meat or some delicacy as a reward for a good pose will do much to help in this training.

Ordinary Bostons, with pedigrees but of secondary points, will bring $25 each if sold when they are six months old. The same dog brought to a year, house broken and taught to be a good watch dog (something which all Bostons are, naturally) will bring $50. A litter of four, brought to a year of age, should bring about $150. Say that you keep the first bitch and begin breeding one of her female pups, and that you keep the pups of both litters, you will have quite a respectable income as well as the time of your life, if you love dogs. If you don't, you have no business breeding any kind.

The Boston is exceptionally lovable and intelligent. He has a better sense of humor than most dogs and is one of the most valiant of souls in defending those he loves. He is not apt to be a scrapper except in unusual cases.

The worst feature of the Boston is a delicate stomach. He must be fed more substantially as a puppy than most dogs, but is ruined quicker than any of them by being fed sweets or by irregular meals. Do not accept the statement, given by nearly all books on dogs, that the Boston should be fed on puppy biscuit for his first six months. He needs soups, with carrots and onions, a bit of garlic in meat and rice mixed, a boiled egg once a week, no milk, and a quarter of a pound of raw, chopped beef once every ten days. He must not be allowed to gobble his food, as he always wants to. With these precautions Bostons may be raised with success. Two bitches ought to bring their owner a good income.

CHESTERTON TILTS SHAW OVER BACON

LONDON, Feb. 8.— Gilbert K. Chesterton and George Bernard Shaw, who recently battled over the question of beer, are now tilting their lances because Peggy O'Neill this week pleaded for more variety in the English breakfast.

The debate opened when Chesterton declared:

"Breakfasts are unknown in the United States, and Americans should not raise the subject of breakfast in the presence of Englishmen. They sleep in hot houses and awake so thirsty they are obliged to devour quantities of fresh fruit and drink gallons of icewater and alcohol.

"That is not breakfast. If there is one glorious thing in England which must never die it is the breakfast bacon and eggs."

To this, Shaw at once takes exception, demanding:

"Why bacon? Do Jews never enjoy breakfast? Methuselah could hardly have been expected to go on eating pigs and pullets every morning for 969 years.

"If Chesterton had attacked buckwheat cakes and molasses instead of fruit, I should have sympathized."

METHANOL.

More than 700,000 gallons of wood alcohol (methanol) is being manufactured each month, reports the government.

Wood alcohol is a deadly poison—and the only deadly poison that is sold openly, without restrictions, to all comers. Sales of all other virulent poisons are safeguarded by registration.

The public should be protected from unscrupulous bootleggers. Government is extremely negligent in not furnishing that protection by some method such as coloring wood alcohol a permanent red.

WATCH FOR KNOCKS IN HUMAN MACHINE

Hygiene Expert Advocates Overhauling the Body Like a Car — 40 Is the Critical Age.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Our bodies, like our automobiles, need annual overhauling and constant care to escape breakdowns at the critical time of life, declares Dr. John Sundwall, professor of hygiene and public health.

"Most people break down or run down at 40, or thereabouts, and I call that the critical age for adults," he said. "The chief cause is ignorance and neglect of the body machine. If we would take the machine attitude, the automobile attitude, toward our bodies, then the millennium would be a hand and everyone could confidently expect to live the Biblical three-score-and-ten years on all four cylinders, with a health span of 20 to 30 years, instead of hitting on 2 or 3 cylinders, as at present, with an average health span of only 11 years, from 20 to 31."

Fear Doctor's Advice.

Prof. Sundwall pleaded for an intellectual not an emotional interest in structure and functions of the body, pointing out that North America last year spent $340,000,000 on patent medicines, more than was spent for education in all the schools and colleges.

An annual overhauling is the remedy Prof. Sundwall urges. He sketched the faulty habits that hinder the sound, vigorous and harmonious development of the body; failure to select the proper food in proper proportions; failure to exercise and failure to develop a sane, intellectual mind that reacts intelligently to things that come before it.

Most Valuable at 40.

"Mental interests are a great asset in carrying one through the dangers of life," he concluded. "At 40 the adult is most valuable to society. It takes that many years of living to fit us to serve humanity. Youth depends on us then for guidance, and our democracy and all the institutions of the nation are in our keeping. Yet, though the average length of life has increased from 22 years in the days of the Roman Empire to 56 years in 1923 by the conquering of communicable diseases and lowering of infant mortality, little progress has been made in saving people at the critical age of 40.

"This situation can be changed, not by following fads, but by looking after the requirements of our body machines just as we select with care the gas and oil for our automobiles, watch for knocks and squeakes make repairs and keep 'looking 'em over' for invisible troubles."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

A screen version of one of Kathleen Norris' popular novels is the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre this week end, in "Flaming Passion,' the 'stage name' of "Lucretia Lombard." The story has been changed somewhat in the filming. It is the recital of the woes and struggles of the characters involved in a double triangle of passion and love. Lucretia Lombard is the beautiful heroine with an invalid husband. He purposely changes the powders by his beside, substituting a deadly mixture for the aspirin, and she gives him the wrong dose by mistake. The charge of intentional homicide laid by the coroner is deflected by the action of the District Attorney, Stephen Winship, who gives a guarantee that everything is in order. Then Stephen forgets Mimi, the girl to whom he has became engaged and falls in love with the dark fascinating widow. Stephen's father is accidentally shot and requests that Stephen and Mimi marry at once, to satisfy his old desire for their union. Lucretia has just helped Fred, Stephens brother, with money to save him from the clutches of blackmailers, and returns to the summer lodge of the Winships to find Stephen married. In the ensuing scenes, Mimi discovers Stephen's infatuation for Lucretia.

A forest fire fortunately intervenes at the right moment and clears up the atmosphere. Lucretio and Mimi, left alone in the Lodge when Stephen takes his father to the hospital, are trapped on a blazing trestle, which is shattered when the powder house nearly blows up and bursts the dam. Stephen arrived in the nick of time to save the two from the flood, but Mimi dies later, leaving the two to be happy together. There is some fine screen work in the scenes depicting the fire and the rescue of the two women from the mad waters.

There is a double comedy offering with the big picture; a small picture; "Go West," and "Speejack," the enliv ening recital of the adventures of a millionaire on a hectic honeymoon journey.

AT THE GRAND

"THE COVERED WAGON."

Another big house greeted "The Covered Wagon" at the Grand last night, and the wonderful picture was thoroughly enjoyed. The trek to Oregon and California in 1848 forms the basis for this huge film, and the adventures of the pioneers as their wagon train crawls over the 2,000 miles of plain and prairie between their goal and Kansas City, the rendezvous from which they started, are depicted with a realism that holds the audience rigid. The fording of a flooded river, a sensational fight with Indians, a buffalo hunt, and half a dozen other spectacular features, each of which in itself would be enough to make "The Covered Wagon" notable, are shown. The acting of the large cast is worthy of the score of the picture. There is plenty of humor as well as action in "The Covered Wagon," and no funnier character has been seen on the screen in a long time than that of Ole Bill Jackson. A large orchestra supplies a score that is of great assistance in creating a realistic atmosphere.

"The Covered Wagon" will be seen at the Grand to-night and tomorrow with matinee. It should not be missed.

AT THE REGENT

THRILLS GALORE IN PICTURE TALE OF CITY FIREMAN.

Charles Jones Aided By Realistic Effects in "Cupid's Fireman," From Davis Story.

If you like the excitement and confusion, the flying of sparks and the caving of walls, all the shouting and screaming and crash and roar that means a big fire, then you'll find a thrill in the picture at the Regent this week. It is a William Fox production and is called "Cupid's Fireman." It has been dedicated to the firemen of the world and, in order to make it technically perfect, a committee of New York firemen was invited to pass upon it before it was released. They said it rang true at every point. After such an endorsement is it small wonder that less hardened spectators grip their seats and hold their breath as the apparatus dashes madly down the street, as buildings totter and fall and terrified men and women leap into nets spread to receive them?

Charles Jones, as Fireman Andy McGee, makes a very satisfactory and convincing hero, especially in the scene where he rescues the girl he loves from the flames. Strong and fearless in such situations as these, he is tender and sympathetic in his scenes with his old mother, with the little girl he adops and finally with the chorus girl with whom he falls in love.

The film was adapted from the Richard Harding Davis story, "Andy McGee's Chorus Girl," and is exceptionally well cast. Marian Nixon, who plays the show girl role, never looked prettier, and little Eileen O'Malley did a very nearly perfect bit of juvenile acting. Brooks Benedict, as the drunken husband, has resisted a very natural temptation to overdo the part. He is thoroughly a cad at all times, but never the unreal villain of melodrama. In fact, the whole film is consistently realistic throughout.

It closes at the Regent on Saturday, which leaves just two more days to see it.

AT THE ROYAL

"HERO OF LADYSMITH" AT THE ROYAL

Patrons who remember "A Royal Divorce," "The Sporting Earl" and other big Samuelson British productions will be pleased to know that "The Hero of Ladysmith," now playing at the Royal, was made by the same producer. The picture is British to the core and has considerable patriotic appeal. The numerous adventures of the hero takes us through the Boer war and later we get glimpses of big battles and Zeppelin raids of the last war. Many spectacular scenes are introduced and a pleasing love story. The production, while not as elaborate as "A Royal Divorce," is very entertaining and is up to the standard of British films screened here lately. The children should be sent to see it Saturday as it is historically correct and as we said before, British, and with the film market flooded with American productions, a picturt like this once in a while is a welcome relief.

TEN YEAR LAD STAR AT THE ROYAL

Juvenile entertainers who have performed in this city have been numerous indeed, but it is doubtful if ever one so accomplished as Billy Thompson, of the Thompson-Berri Trio performing now at the Royal. He is now on his way to Los Angeles, where a big motion picture contract awaits him. If ever thert was a ten yearold "professional," little Billy is it! His dancing alone is worth the admission price.

The programme the last three days consists of four vaudeville acts and they are all up to the high standard maintained by the Royal. Little Billy is the shining star. Thompson and Barry have a cleverly conceived line of clever chatter and songs which went over big. Lussiana La Tour, a Parisian novelty, who sings soprano just as easily as baritone, is a decided novelty. Gilmore and Fox, singing, talking, dancing black face team are very good. You cant' go wrong in visiting the Royal tonight or Saturday.

WHITBY 5; COBOURG 2.

WHITBY, Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — Chief Lavery's Whitby kids finished their season's engagements with a win in a junior O.H.A. fixture here last night, having little difficulty in defeating Cobourg 5 to 2. The game had no bearing on the group leadership. It was a ding dong affair from start to finish, all the players giving everything that they had. Cobourg scored the only tally of the first period, but in the second Whitby's combination netted them three goals. The county town sextette added two more in the final stanza to the visitors' one goal, making the final score 5 to 2.

Smith, Maw and Hawes in goal were the best for Whitby, while Brennan and Rollins starred for Cobourg.

"Abie's Irish Rose" apparently is going to be the most financially successful theatrical production since "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Along Broadway the showmen figure that Anne Nichols, who wrote the Abie show, will pull down a total of two million dollars in royalties. It ran, for instance, 29 weeks in Pittsburg, where was a tradition that no Broadway production could last more than a week.

The highbrow critics in New York panned the tar out of "Abie's Irish Rose" when it was first produced. The more fruit in the branches, the more clubs a tree gets.

LURE OF VIOLIN ENDED THE HUNT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8. — The haunting wail of a violin conjured out of the shadows for Carl Oscar Schulze, violinste, the face of the woman he loved, and brought to an end a search of months that had taken him across the continent. It was the face of Lillian, his wife, who had left him in Boston.

He found her in a Main street picture show where he played in the orchestra. He found her and that was all. She refused to return to him.

Schultze told his story in Judge Shaw's court. It was a story tense with life and human appeal.

Twelve years ago the two were married. Schultze had wooed and won her by the magic of his bow. She had loved the way he played the "Ave Maria." He played it for her as they sat on their porch in the evening in a New England town. Two children came, a boy and a girl.

Finds Note on Table.

On the boy's tenth birthday they had a party. The next night Schultze returned home and the house was dark. On the kitchen table was a note from his wife. He showed it to Judge Shaw. It read:

"Dear Oscar: I'm sorry I must hurt you, but I have gone away. I have been planning this for a long while, but only waited until Ralph was ten years old. He will now make a companion for you. I will take the girl. Do not try to find me. We are not mated and our paths must lie in different directions."

Schultze testified:

"It was a blow that nearly killed me —totally unexpected. I love her dearly. I never dreamed she was unhappy. I searched for her all over New England. Then I took my son and came to California to heal my hurts."

Schultze found a job in a Main street picture show. There he played night after night. Memories haunted him.

Plays "Ave Maria."

He never lost a chance to play the "Ave Maria.' 'He seemed to believe that some time and some how Lillian Schultze would hear his music and come back to him.

It was about six months ago. The last note of the "Ave Maria" had scarcely died on his violin strings when he heard a voice calling softly "Oscar, oh, Oscar." He started and was startled. There in the front row sat Lillian Schulze.

She waited for him at the door. For along time they talked it over. He pleaded for her to return but she was obdurate. She had come to California with the girl, found good work and enjoyed her freedom. She wanted further freedom —freedom of divorce.

So it was agreed that they would not re-unite. She filed suit for divorce and she charged him with proffigacy and idleness. The charge touched Schulze to the quick. He told Judge Shaw that he resented it. He always had worked hard. He had done his best.

So filled with a sense of injustice he had filed a cross-complaint, charging her with desertion.

When the case was called for trial Mrs. Schulze failed to appear and the decree was granted to Schulze.

GRADUATE NURSES HELD A SUCCESSFUL MEETING

The Peterborough Chapter of Graduate Nurses' Association held a meeting in the doctor's room at the Public Library yesterday afternoon, when they were addressed briefly by Dr. J. B. Mann, on the subject of artificial infant feeding. Dr. Mann's talk was instructive and proved most interesting to the twenty or more nurses who comprised his audience. He went into, in thorough fashion, the underlying principles in the composition of artificial infant feedings, the construction of which has undergone a complete change in recent years, confining his address to the use of cow's milk in artificial feeding of the normal infant, and giving, by blackboard illustrations, the component parts in the feedings and their preparation. Miss F. Dixon presided at the meeting.

LOCAL BOXERS HAD THE BEST END OF BOUTS

Lorne Combe Won Decision From Dullage and G. N. Graham Declared Tony Minnicola Won on Points Over O'Donnell—Visitors From Toronto.

GOOD EXHIBITION.

Peterborough is noted for its hospitality, but two visitors from Toronto last night were not received with open arms. They were Roy Dullage and G. O'Donnell of St. Helen's Club who came to grips with Lorne Coombe and Tony Minnicola in a boxing tournament under the auspices of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Assocaition and were worsted all the way. Both put up game fights, and before the judges had a chance to rule against them they had given the fans an excellent exhibition of the fistic art. Full of pep and packing mean punches in hands that knew where to hit, with feet that went the right place at the right time and heads that ably directed their attacks, they gave the Peterborough men all they wanted and forced them to the limit.

Both boxers, Roy Dullage, 135 pounds and O'Donnell in the 118 pounds class were ruled against.

The main bout of the evening was fought between Lorne Coombe and Roy Dullage. Coombe had the best of the bout in most stages of the battle while his adversary showed signs of speed on his feet and also packed a hard hitting pair of dukes which collided with Coombe's head many times and which often had him groggy. The local boy fought a good battle but his wind got him in the second round. He out-pointed his opponent in every round and his aggressiveness proved of good advantage.

The first round started fast with both boys hitting hard and often. Coombe drove home a left to Dullage's jaw which rocked him a little After several seconds of in fighting Combe was floored when he tripped on a piece of the mat which was loose. Dullage forced the battle landing lefts and rights to Combe's head and body. This slowed Combe up for a minute but he soon came back and landed one on Dullage's jaw that sent him into the ropes. When the bell rang both boys were showing signs of fatigue.

Second Round.

A few second after the second round started Coombe backed Dullage across the ring and landed an uppercut to his chin that sent him into the ropes, only to rebound and rap Coombe one on the forehead Coombe returned with a left to the side of the head that stopped Dullage who clinched. Coombe then drove rights and lefts to Dullage's head and face which had him pretty groggy and only the bell and one hard punch saving him from going down for the count.

Third Round.

The third round was fast with plenty of punching and foot work. Coombe led with a right to the body and Dullage retaliated with a right to Coombe's face. It was at this stage that the gruelling battle began with both fighters handing out many hard punches whose thuds could be heard all over the hall. Dullage had a little better of the fight for a few seconds when he handed Coombe many stiff straight arm punches to the body. Coombe came back and after putting Dullage into the ropes several times he began to show signs of fatigue as did his adversary. Many clinches took place and Dullage was tottering in his footsteps when the final gong sounded. The bout was awarded to Lorne Coomeb who well deserved it.

Minnicola Won Decision

The other main bout of the evening was a hard fought battle between O'Donnell of St. Helens and Tony Minnicola of Peterboro, the later winning on points. One of the judges gave the decision to Minnicola, the other two declaring a draw while George Graham, refereeing gave the decision to Minicola who was the aggressor throughout and had O'Donnel's head hanging low several times in the last round. O'Donnell showed signs of fatigue in every stage of the battle while Minnicola appeared as fresh when he left the ring as when he entered.

When O'Donnell entered the ring he had a black eye which he had received in a former fight and when he left the room he had other marks about the face with which Minnicola decorated him.

Preliminaries.

The next bout of the evening was a gruelling encounter fought between Ray Millard and L. Minnicola who put up an exciting battle the result, after an extra round, being a draw. These boys fought in the 118 pound class and they both showed lots of gameness and foot work while their punches were like kicks of a mule. Millard hit the floor in the first round but he also put Minnicola to his knees in the same round. Both boys clinched freqeuntly and used many body punches which proved effective and when the gong sounded at the end of the third round they were both dragging their feet. Another round was requested by the judges and this round was full of pep in which they both gave and received equally, the bout ending in a draw.

Hunt Won Decision.

In the bout between Red Thompson 112 pounds and Desmond Hunt 118 pounds, Hunt had it over Thompson in size and reach but Thompson's gameness in the first two rounds carried him a long way. Thompson hammered punches at Hunt in the first two periods that looked as if they were coming from a machine gun, but in the final round Hunt won the decision after he had battered Red around the ring for about a minute, after which Thompson refused to fight any longer declaring Hunt was too heavy for him.

Murray and Lynch in the 115 pound class battled three rounds to a draw. Murray who is much the smaller of the two boys was the aggressor in the first two periods while Lynch warded off his blows. In the third round Lynch showed more aggressiveness and made enough points to equalize the bout.

In the flyweight class Cole and Cleminson put on a good show, the former receiving the decision after a bout in which both boys showed signs of coming champions.

Henry Smith and John Toby, boys under 15 years of age, also put on a scrappy bout in which both showed gameness and good foot work. This bout was satisfactorily decided a draw by the judges.

TALENTED YOUNG MEN TURNING TO BASEBALL

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—Boys who were too young to enter the World War are going to be the major league baseball stars within a year or two, in the opinion of Judge Emil Fuchs, one of the owners of the Braves.

"There will be some careful scouting for this material," he said, "because the big leagues are crowded with veterans who are fading fast.

"I believe the time is fast approaching when there will be many Frankie Frisch's in baseball. The war shut off the natural flow of talented young men to big league baseball, but now many of those boys who were below the draft age are coming along."

FIRPO PUT HIS COUNTRY ON MAP

When He Came to United States to Fight Jack Dempsey He Found the People Ignorant of Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 8.—That Luis Angel Firpo, who was defeated by Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight title, has done more than any other man to make Argentina known to the American public, is the opinion of many persons recently returned from the United States. They tell extraordinary stories of the vague ideas the average American citizen still possesses about conditions and customs prevailing in the land of the pretender to the world championship in boxing.

Firpo himself has declared that on several occasions he was asked, while in the United States, if he arrayed himself in feathers when he was home and if was true that raw meat was the staple article of diet of Argentina's millions. Questions such as if he had taken part in many battles with Indians, whether bands of bloodthirsty bandits roamed around the city of Buenos Aires, and if travellers herded together for mutual protection when setting forth upon long journeys, were fired at Argentina's boxing champion by enterprising American newspapermen, it is stated, while other travellers declare many Americans are still firmly convinced that after battle, the Argentines invariably cut the throats of their prisoners so as not to be burdened with them.

It is considered here that if Firpo wrests the world title from Jack Dempsey next year, his mighty right paw will have done more towards a better knowledge of Argentina by Americans generally than all the Pan-American conferences and consular or business reports put together.

THE ART OF "SMOKING UP" FIGHTS

Jeffries Wouldn't Help Firpo Much But He Would Fire Fans' Imagination.

You read some days ago where Jim Jeffries had been signed for $75,000 to teach Luis Firpo how to use his left hand.

Later the story was denied. It was all news to Firpo. "Not out of my money will Senor Jeffries get $75,000," exclaimed the extremely frugal Mr. Firpo. Jeffries expressed a willingness to accept the assignment at the terms quoted but confessed no one had consulted him.

The insiders were not surprised that the idea had failed to materialize. They sensed in the beginning that it was the bunk. All major tistic attractions must perforce be subjected to a certain "smoking-up" process. And the best way to "smoke-up" a return Dempsey-Firpo fight is to emphasize the strengthening of the senor's left.

Corbett Smoked It Up.

Fripo's right speaks for itself. His left, though, is as useless as a sponge in a sun bath. If he is to perform with greater credit against Dempsey when they meet again he must develop a least elementary skill with his left. Whether Jeffries, as a teacher, would do him any good is a question. Jeff's presence in the training camp, however, would stir the fans' imagination.

Jim Corbett was the instrument through which interest was "smoked up" to a fever heat in Jeffries' fight against Jack Johnson. Tex Rickard, the promoter, had Corbett come out to Reno to teach Jeffries foot work, and speed him up. Corbett was all in himself at the time and the boiler-maker, awkward as he was, easily outstepped him. However, the mere fact that Corbett was in the old champion's camp was an added touch that heightened the excitement.

Ryan Won For Jeff.

Through Ryan's teachings Jeff acquired the skill with which he knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons and won the title. Jeff hit Fitz on the jaw with a left in the second round and knocked him flat. Fitz managed to get back on his feet but was all at sea and Jeff finally brought him down for keeps in the eleventh.

This suggest that Ryan would make a better teacher for Firpo than the docile, uninspired Jeffries—a better teacher, no doubt, but not a more viivd theatrical poster.

And it so happens that the theatrical posters are what the promoters want.

A BIG RECEPTION TO OLYMPIC TEAM

At a Meeting Last Night in Toronto Preparations Were Made.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—An informal meeting of the representatives from the ctiy council, sportsmen's patriotic assotiation and Ontario hockey association was held here last night with the object of arranging for the home-coming reception to Canadian Olympic hockey team which Sunday defeated the United States at Chamonix, France, for the amateur hockey championship of the world.

Controller J. J. Gibbons was elected chairman and E. S. Jackson secretary. F. W. Lyonde suggested that with a view to making the participants in the reception thoroughly representative, all sporting organizations in the city and other citizens interested meet at the city hall on Friday, February 15th.

A committee composed of Controller Gibbons, James Summers, Chas. Soadey, Jerry Shea; President W. A. Fry of the O.H.A., and Sheriff J. F. Paxton, treasurer of the O. H.A., was formed to make the necessary arrangements for welcome to the victorious players. The Olympic team, in charge of W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., is expected to reach Toronto on or about March 6th, and the arrival will be timed, if possible, to permit citizens to take part in the reception at the City Hall.

LOST WRESTLING BOUT TO CANADIAN CHAMPION.

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Augusta Jokenen, Finnish champion, lost his wrestling bout here last night to George Walker, Canadian champion. Walker won two falls in twelve and five minutes. Jokenen, who is a Graeco - Roman grappler, put up a real argument under catch-as-catch-can rules, but leg holds bothered him. Walker beat him the first time with a toe hold, and took the second fall with a hammer lock and body hold. The winner knew too much under the catch-as-catch-can code for Finn, who is a very powerful fellow.

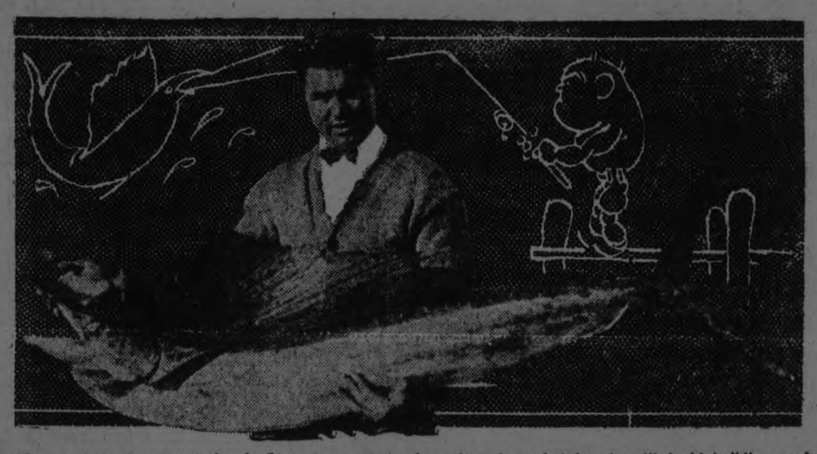
Two people in every five in Great Britain bet on racing—and the statistics show that at least 7,000,000 bet every day. Many street bookmakers in London accept bets of five cents.

DEMPSEY LANDS A BIG FISH

What! Another Firpo? Don't Be Funny, the Champion, We'll Have You Know, Is a Real Angler



You see here the great and only Jack Dempsey (prolonged applause led by the allied shipbuilding crafts of the world) as he appeared a few minutes after gaining the decision over a sail fish in the ocean just off the Miami Beach.

We are assured that the sea monster gave the heavyweight champ ion a terrible fight before succumbing finally to a volley of rights and lefts to the body which sent Gibbo ns staggering against the ropes under the blazing Montana sun—

Now, what the heck are we writing about! Shux! Dempsey just went fishing down in Florida, and caught a fish, and here's the dern thing.

PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The Peterborough Male Voice Choir held its weekly rehearsal in the J. M. Greene Music Studio, with another splendid attendance.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the musical director, Mr. M. B. Chenhall, the choir voted Mr. Harry McKeown as deputy. Several selections were sung, and more new music was given out, two hours of real study proving very profitable.

From now until the date of the annual concert (28th March), the choir will have to practise with patience and perseverance with the difficult and varied scores in their possession, to make this event the outstanding one of all the Male Voice Choir achievements.

The executive held a meeting at the close of the practice, and arrangements will soon be completed for the annual concert in the Grand Opera House on 28th March.

There was an unique event in St. Paul's Sunday school room last evening, when the choir of St. Paul's entertained the choir of St. Andrew's church, thus dissipating the old idea that two musical organizations can't get along together. The visitors were welcomed in a neat speech by Mr. D. H. Moore while Mr. John Crane replied on behalf of St. Andrew's. The evening was very pleasantly spent in games and music and enjoyable refreshments were served.

OBITUARY

JOHN MENZIE MILLER.

After a prolonged illness the death occurred of "Jack," only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Otonabee, at the age of eight years and one month. Although everything that medical aid could do for him had been done, he passed peacefuly away on Monday, Feb. 4th, at 4:30 p.m..

The deceased was a general favorite with all who knew him, and will be greatly missed in the home and community.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, Feb. 6th, at one o'clock from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Mr. Archibald conducting the services.

CATHERINE AGATHA CROUGH.

(Contributed.)

Death claimed a bright young life in the person of Catherine Agatha Crough, who departed this life fortified by all the rites of the Roman Catholic Church, of which she was a faithful member. Her kind and faithful pastor was at her bedside to console her, and surrounded by all the members of her family, her pure spirit passed to its eternal reward at half past six o'clock on Saturday evening, Feb. 2nd, 1924.

She was the second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy, H. G. Crough, Ennismore. She was a graduate of Ennismore high school, and Peterboro normal school, and had been teaching in Bedford, when overtaken with a serious illness which lasted seven months.

The deceased is survived by her parents, two brothers, James Joseph of Enismore, and William Urban, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Peter S. Moloney, and Mrs. Ignatius Lyola Moloney, of Douro, and Mrs. Francis Leo Kearns of Emily.

The funeral, which was largely attended took place from her father's residence on Monday to St. Martin's church, where requiem high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father McCauley.

After Mass the funeral proceeded to St. Martin's cemetery where interment took place.

The pall bearers were her two brothers, James and William, three brothers-in-law, P. S. Moloney, I. L. Moloney, F. C. Kearns, and her first cousin Joseph Quinlan.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Crough, in their sad bereavement. May she rest in peace.

BELLEVILLE CREW ARE VERY COCKY

Say They Will Win Round if They Score Three Goals Tonight.

The ice will be fast and hard for to-night's big game with Belleville at Brock Street Rink, so that the only thing needed to ensure a lighting game has been provided . Belleville, are confident of holding their two goal lead, the Petes on the other hand although they realize the calibre of the opposition are just as sure that they will overcome the margin and go through to the next round

The Belleville papers while admitting the speed of the Petes claim the red sweatered gang will win out. The Ontario in a seven column screamer says: "If we score two goals at Peterboro the round is ours."

Well that remains to be seen and every fan in Peterboro and the district who can pack into Brock Street Rink to-night is going to be there fighting for the blue shirts to climb over the visitors.

It will be a memorable battle easily the most wildly exciting of the year.

THE WHOLE TOWN OF INVERNESS MOURNING

INVERNESS, N.S., Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Inverness coal mines are idle to-day and the whole town is mourning for the four miners who were crushed to death in the colliery yesterday when, without the slightest warning, a portion of the roof caved in burying the men under tons of rock and stone. SUSPENSION OF FRENCH SESSION CAUSED FLURRY

Deputies Thought Premier Poincare Had Resigned Over Crisis in Debate That Injected Bitter Personalities and Recalled Old Scandals.

OVATION ON RETURN.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—The partisan tendency of the debate in the Chamber of Deputies on economies and new taxes developed a crisis Friday afternoon, in the course of which it was thought for a few minutes that Premier Poincare would resign. Indeed, the Premier and the entire Cabinet withdrew from the Chamber for a short time.

The decision reached a very high tension soon after the opening of the afternoon session, when M. Klotz, a former Minister of Finance, endeavored to draw the Premier out as to what economies he intended to make, striving especially for a declaration as to whether the Government planned to slow up on the construction of submarines.

Flung Recriminations.

Several Moderate and Conservative Deputies interrupted to say that M. Klotz had never before shown any particular interest in national defence and that one of the Cabinets to which he had belonged failed to supply France with heavy artillery, which she entirely lacked at the beginning of the war. This turned the debate into a duel of recriminations, in which both sides endeavored to place on the other the responsibility for France's lack of preparedness in 1914.

The Premier showed plainly his annoyance at the turn the debate had taken and fidgeted restlessly in his seat until Deputy Tapponnier of the Bloc National made a personal allusion to the late Camille Pelletan, who was involved in the naval scandal of 1909. Then M. Poincare arose and voiced his indignation at the introduction of personalities as well as the obstructive tactics of the Opposition and appealed to the Chamber to return to the subject in order.

Suspended Session.

M. Tapponnier descended at once from the Speaker's stand, the President of the Chamber at the same moment suspended the session, and the Premier, followed by the other Ministers, left the Chamber.

The entire Chamber, confusing the sequence of events, was for a few minutes under the impression that the Premier had let in disgust and would resign. However, he and the other Ministers returned twenty minutes later and received a long ovation from the majority.

Japan Completes Loan From Morgan Syndicate

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Negotiations for a loan of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 to the Japanese Government were completed to-day by an international banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan and Company which will make a public offering of the bonds next week, probably Wednesday, in New York, London, and the Continent. The proceeds of the loan will be used by the Japanese Government for reconstruction necessitated by the earthquake last fall and for the refunding of the unpurchased portion of a Sterling loan maturing early next year.

Settlers Depend on Export of Pulpwood.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8.—Settlers in north-eastern Manitoba would starve if an embargo upon the export of Canadain pulpwood were established according to several witnesses before the Royal Pulpwood Commission sitting here to-day. Vigorous protests against the embargo, with the commission is considering were placed.

One witness in entering a petition against the embargo signed by a large number of residents of the north-eastern district declared that hundreds of small agricultural settlers endeavoring to clear land for farming would be deprived of their living by the embargo.

SOVIET REPLY TO MACDONALD

Ready to Discuss Questions Involved In New Diplomatic Relations — Hope For Friendly Settlement and Agree With British Views.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The reply of the Soviet Government to the British recognition, a four hundred word note, which M. Rakovsky, the Russian Charge D'Affaires handed Premier MacDonald Friday is a conventional diplomatic communication couched in the established terminology of chancellories. After taking cognizance of the contents of the British note, the Russian reply states

Expressing the will of the Second Congress of the United States of Soviet Russia, which proclaimed that cooperation between the peoples of the United States of Soviet Russia and Great Britain remained one of the first cares of the Government of Union, the latter declares its readiness to discuss and settle in friendly spirit all questions arising directly or indirectly out of recognition."

The Soviet Government declares it is in full accord with British views that mutual confidence and non-interference in internal affairs remaining dispensable conditions for strengthening the friendly relations between the two countries.

Pleasure is expressed at the appointment of Robert M. Hodgson as British Charge D'Affaires at Moscow. M. Rakovsky announced to the Premier his new status as Charge D'Affaires at the Court of St. James.

BOLSHEVIKI TO MAINTAIN ARMY FOR PROTECTION

Lenine's Policy of Meddling In Near Eastern Affairs Will Be Carried On, Premier Rykoff Announces — Need Foreign Aid to Revive the Industries Destroyed By Communism.

PEACE ON HIS LIPS.

MOSCOW, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Alexis I. Rykoff, President of the Council of Commissars, will carry on the policy of the late Bolshevik leader, Nikolai Lenine, with regard to foreign affairs, and also will seek to improve Russia's internal condition.

This information was vouchsafed yesterday by M. Rykoff in the first statement he has made since he was chosen Premier in succession to Lenine.

According to Rykoff, the Soviet never has sought to rule other peoples and desires to maintain peace; but he asserted that while the international situation remained complicated by the Versailles Peace Treaty, Russia must keep up her Red Army as a weapon of defence. The new Premier added that he hoped the recognition of Soviet Russia by the British would lead to peaceful relations between the peoples of the East and the West.

Have Hand in East.

Rykoff emphasized that he would continue Lenine's policy of united aid and complete sympathy for the peoples of the East in their efforts to gain national, economic and financial re-birth. This would strengthen Russia's relations with Afghanistan, Persia, China, Turkey and other countries of the East.

Internally, said M. Rykoff, the principal task would be an improvement in national economy, particularly with relation to trade between the cities and the peasants, and also an improvement in the budget and currency system. The upbuilding of industries had proceeded to a considerable extent during the past year without much foreign assistance, and now the improvement in relations between Russia and Great Britain, Italy and Germany, presaged the possibility of foreign aid in the shape of credits and concessions.

Improve Peace.

In a special statement regarding Great Britain and Italy, Rykoff said their recognition of Russia was proof of the stability of the Soviet power and that it would lead to an improvement of peaceful relations in Europe.

THE BISHOP WILL CONTEST ACTION

Objects to Inclusion in Home Bank Proceedings

TORONTO, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Right Rev. M. J. Fallon, Bishop of London, has filed notice a the office of the official referee in the Home Bank liquidation that he contests the entry of his name on the list of contributors in respect of double liability on shares of the bank registered in his name.

Bishop Fallon filed his notices on the following grounds:

1—Assets of the Home Bank have not yet been liquidated, and it is impossible for the liquidators to say what sums, if any, will be required from the shareholders to enable the depositors to be paid in full.

2—In the event of the assets not proving sufficient to pay the depositors in full, it is understood that the Dominion Government, considering its responsibility in the matter, has under consideration a scheme of co-operation with the Canadian Bankers' Association to pay the depositors in full.

Rev. M. D. O'Neill, of Parkhill, and Albert Hanley Murphy, barrister, of London, contest the entry of their names on the same grounds.

WOMEN'S ARRIVAL IS NOW ACCEPTED FACT

Honor List of Baldwin Cabinet Includes Two Women.

LONDON, Feb. 9. United Press.—The arrival of women in politics is definitely recognized in the honors list published following the resignation of the Baldwin cabinet.

The title Dame Commander of the Empire, which for women corresponds to knighthood, was granted to two prominent women members of the Unionist party.

Mrs. Caroline Bridgeman, chairman of the women's organization of the unionist party, received the title, as did Mrs. Beatrix Lyall a member of the Central Unionist council.

It has been expected that Lord Curzon would be made a duke, but the title was not given. It was rumoured that the forfer foreign minister did not receive a dukedom due to the fact that King George wishes all the dukedoms reserved for the Royal Family in the future.

England's Footmen Wanted in Movies

LONDON, Feb. 9.—England is experiencing a famine in six-foot footmen. An advertisement in a newspaper on behalf of "a royal household" has brought only two applicants, and one of them was several inches short of six feet.

Employment agency managers explain that American millionaires and movie directors snap up the best of England's footmen and take them off to the United States.

AMERICAN BARS AWAIT CONVICT

Completes Five-Year Term at Kingston and Faces Twenty-Year Term in Pittsburgh — Has Black Record.

KINGSTON, Feb. 9. — Convict John Washkalis, one of the most notorious inmates of the Portsmouth penitentiary, and who, on more than one occasion has given trouble in that institution, was deported at noon to-day, leaving the penitentiary for Niagara Falls where he is being handed over to American authorities. The convict was very heavily shackled and seemed to be rather downhearted at the prospects of serving more time in the States. He is being taken to Pittsburgh from Niagara Falls and it is understood he is to serve a 20 year term on the American side.

Washkelis was sentenced at Montreal in December 1919 to five years for breaking into the home of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and for other robberies. He was first sent to St. Vincent de Paul, but was later transferred to Portsmouth Penitentiary. In October, 1920, he was found to have been the ringleader of a gang of convicts in the penitentiary, who incited others to almost riot, resulting in a general strike on the part of over 150. It was found that there was a general delivery plot of which Washkalis was the ringleader, assisted by "Cigarette" Brown; Symonski, the notorious convict who escaped a few years before; Johnston, from Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, and another named Cole. Later discovery was made that Washkalis had sawed the bars of his cell door and was preparing to make good his escape and to liberate others. The plot being found out, all five of the ringleaders were placed in solitary confinement and later Washkalis was given six months additional for sawing the bars of his cell door.

CLARENCE TOPPING GUILTY OF MURDER

Jury Rejected the Plea of Insanity—Death Sentence

LONDON, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—For the third time in five days, jurors at the Winter Assizes of the Supreme Court last night rendered a verdict of guilty against men accused of murder and as a result Clarence Topping, a former Strathroy youth, who murdered his sweetheart, Geraldine Durston, in a York street boarding house, may only hope for executive clemency to save him from the gallows.

The jury deliberated just an hour on the question of Topping's sanity and at midnight reported to Judge Lennox that the prisoner is guilty of the crime. The jurors rejected the plea of insanity and made no recommendation for mercy.

The Death Sentence.

Sydney Murrell, Henry J. Williams and Clarence Topping, all convicted of murder charges during the last five days, were sentenced this morning at 10.15 to be hanged on April 10th.

Sydney Ernest Murrell, 26 years old, was convicted of killing Russell Campbell during a hold-up of the Melbourne branch of the Home Bank in April, 1921. Henry E. Jack ("Slim") Williams, 25 years old, was convicted of murder for the part he played in the same crime, and Clarence Topping, aged 23, last November shot and mortally wounded his former sweetheart, Geraldine Durston, aged 18, because she refused to listen further to his love pleadings.

Executive clemency is expected to be requested to save Williams from the gallows.

Justice Lennox, in a brief address to each of the prisoners, called attention to the fact that all had fair trials, and every chance to defend themselves against the charges which the Crown had preferred.

Sessional Indemnity In Alberta Unchanged.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 8. — There will be no change in the sessional indemnity of $2,000 now paid to members of the Alberta Legislature, Premier Herbert Greenfield announced to-day.

There had been no call for a cut, the Premier stated, consequently no action will be taken at the present time. In this view he is supported by both sides of the House.

INSPECTION OF FLAX MIXTURES WAS EXPLAINED

Farmer Contended That Flax Should Be Separated From Wheat or Oats in Fairness to Producers — Opposed to Guesses in Sampling Cars.

GRAIN ENQUIRY.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.— Efficiency of the Winnipeg inspection department, possibility of collusion between owners of grain and employees to obtain a grade not warranted, and the possibility of injustices to producers when one man gave an average of but two seconds to each sample in determining a grade, were features stressed before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission Friday afternoon.

E. J. Murray, for the Manitoba Producers, asked J. B. Fraser, assistant chief inspector, if he thought higher pay for the samplers would not have a tendency to improve the service.

In answering Mr. Murray's question, Mr. Fraser said that while he personally would like to give the men higher wages, he thought they were as efficient as could be obtained.

It was disclosed at the conclusion that it is unlikely the commission will get to the head of the lakes Monday as some seven more witnesses must be examined here.

Mixed Grain.

The system of handling cars loaded with wheat and flax or oats and flax came in for criticism. The samples are taken in the usual way and the graders show the percentage of each grain in the car. This is important because flax may be worth $2.50 a bushel while the oats in the car would be worth but 36 cents.

While samples are taken as usual in Winnipeg, settlement is made on the basis of samples taken at the point of unloading, the terminals. It would be called "mixed." Attention was called to the Act which did not fix such a grade and the witness said it was established under the instructions of the Chief Inspector, in writing, but the inspection at Winnipeg was subject to the final inspection at the unloading point.

Specific Complaint.

G. W. Stockton, a farmer of Carlyle, Sask., took the stand to voice complaints of a specific character against this particular system. He said there was much sowing of oats and flax together in his section. In one case he had shipped two cars of this mixture. One graded 18 per cent. flax and the other twenty. He was dissatisfied and said he did not believe the system was correct that would give this result.

He claimed the act did not give shippers of mixed cars proper protection and claimed he was protesting more against the Act than the inspection department. He wanted a system by which such a car would be cleaned and the contents separated.

He was informed that this could be done under the present Act, but asserted he had written two different firms at the time and they told him there was no such provision. What he did not want was any guesses, he said. "We don't mind a gamble, but we don't want a bad gamble."

Verify Inspections.

Fraser again took the stand and was asked as to the Stockton complaints. He maintained there was nothing wrong with the inspection here of the mixed cars since the inspection results obtained at the terminals when they were unloaded seldom varied one-half per cent, with the Winnipeg certificates.

Asked about complaints of farmers that their grain was too low or too high in grades, the witness said that unless a shipper moved his grain over a loading platform it was impossible for him to retain its identity, except of course in special bins and therefore he could not be sure it was his particular grain that was being graded or merely grain of similar grade to his received in the country elevators.

Minister's Wife Danced

Their Tastes Opposite, They Part As Friends.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—She likes to dance. She enjoys theaters, and she like hotel suppers occasionally.

But she was a minister's wife.

As such Mrs. Helen West was expected to apply to her life the conventions dictated by a church congregation for the conduct of a pastor's wife.

And so the shadow of intolerant criticism fell between the Rev. James S. West, orator who delivered the funeral oration over the body of the late president Harding, and the woman he loved.

In the end Mrs. West rebelled—left him, in fact, that he might have proper grounds for a divorce action.

"I felt that I had to sneak out every time I wanted diversion, or stand the criticism of the congregations," she explains.

Rev. West found the spiritual life his only call.

Such a different polarity of taste makes reconciliation impossible, they seem to realize.

Yet each holds the other in highest regard. The pastor, broken-hearted over the finale of their drama, lies quite ill, heart broken and disconsolate.

"Yes," she admits, "she wanted to dance and go to theaters and to hotels for supper—all the things in which I could not bring myself to participate."

DENIES FRAUD IN OIL LEASE

Doheny Announcing the Dissolution of Company Says Lease Was Beneficial to United States.

NEW YORK, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Dissolution of the Pan-American Western Petroleum Company, formed to develop the California Naval Oil Reserves, was announced last night by Edward L. Doheny, chairman of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company.

The action, he said, resulted from the attack on the validity of the leases in the Senate's investigation.

In a letter to stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum, Mr. Doheny announced the withdrawal of an offer to subscribe for 525,000 shares of the western subsidiary at $20.00 a share and cancellation of a $12,000,000 bond issue which was sold last fall.

At the same time Mr. Doheny declared to Pan-American stockholders that the leases and contracts were not procured or obtained by fraud, corruption, or illegal acts on the part of the company's officers or representatives.

Asserting that the leases promoted the national defence, he said that instead of being harmful to the United States, they were fair and beneficial to the country.

MEXICO SEEKS RECOGNITION

Unlikely to Meet With Russia's Swift Success in Dealing With Britain's Labor Government.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Mexico is following Russia and seeking full recognition from Great Britain before settling the outstanding claims, but Mexico, unlike Russia, has not been a campaign issue in British domestic politics and therefore is not likely soon to meet with Russia's success, it is learned at the Foreign Office.

The preliminary investigations being conducted by Rafael Nieto, Mexican Minister to Sweden, and the permanent officials of the Foreign Office are making progress, despite a threatened breakup when Senor Nieto asked the British why Mexico could not be accorded complete recognition without the delay of establishing a claims commission, the Mexican Minister citing the case of Russia, in which all claims and other differences will be settled after plenipotentiaries are exchanged. The British reply was that the Labor Government was ready to take up the question of de jure recognition of Mexico, but that if the Mexican delegate desired he could continue his conferences with the permanent Foreign Office officials looking toward complete recognition later.

SAYS SMUGGLING HURTS INDUSTRY

Goods Worth Hundreds of Thousands Evade the Customs on the Quebec Border--Imported Goods Are Undervalued.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—The statement that hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of goods were being smuggled into this province every year, especially in such lines as silk goods, was made at a meeting of the executive of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association held here Friday.

A similar difficulty complained of was that imported goods were being entered for customs duties and appraise at values much less than those obtaining in the United States. It was pointed out that this system of evading the customs and making a dumping market of Canada constituted a condition of affairs with which Canadian manufacturers could not compete and trade in some of the lines affected was being completely destroyed.

The executive consequently decided to commence immediately a campaign to secure information in individual cases, not only with regard to smuggling but also as to the undervaluation of imported goods. Information thus obtained would be sent to the Dominion Government.

An invitation was extended to the executive council of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to hold their annual convention at Montreal on June 3-5 next. It is expected this invitation will be accepted.

Milling Co. President As Fielding Successor.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Rumors were current in political and grain circles here yesterday, according to the Winnipeg Free Press, that feelers have been sent out to ascertain whether or not James Stewart, President of the Maple Leaf Milling Co. and head of several line elevator companies, would consider entering the Dominion Cabinet should Hon. W. S. Fielding be forced to retire owing to ill-health.

Should the indirect overtures which, it is understood, being made at the present time be successful, Mr. Stewart would likely be asked to take over the Department of Public Works.

Sir Montague Barlow Only New Peer Created

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The most interesting thing about the list of honors bestowed by the King yesterday on the occasion of the retirement of the Baldwin Government, is that it falsifies the rumor which predicted a dukedom for Lord Curzon of Kedleston. Only one new peer is created, Sir John George Butcher being made a baron. Sir Montague Barlow Minister of Labor in the Baldwin Cabinet, is made a Baronet, and Sir Harry Britain is made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George for his services in connection with the Imperial Press Conference.

JUDGE COMMITS DRY LEAGUER TO TERM IN PRISON

Indefinite Sentence of From One to Two Years In Sing-Sing Prison Imposed on Wm. H. Anderson For Forging Anti-Saloon League Books.

HAS APPEALED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—William H. Anderson must go to Sing Sing Prison for from one to two years for forging the books of the Anti-Saloon League, of which he is superintendent, unless his conviction by a jury on January 29 is reversed on appeal.

Imposing sentence today Supreme Court Justice Tompkins said: "This crime was deliberately committed," and "aggravated by some of his testimony which was obviously untrue."

The sentence followed an impassioned plea for clemency by former Governor Charles S. Whitman, Anderson's chief counsel, and an appeal by Ferdinand Pecora, assistant District Attorney, that the punishment "be such as to satisfy the public that justice has been done and that the law is no respecter of persons."

Anderson was freed in $5,000 bail, on a stay of execution to permit Mr. Whitman to seek a certificate of reasonable doubt which the trial court refused to grant. Arguments for a certificate will be heard by the court on February 15.

As he left the courtroom Anderson was served with papers in a $105,000 libel suit brought against the league, of which he still is superintendent, by Francis Cortwright of Corning, N. Y., who has alleged the league libelled him in literature distributed throughout the district in which he was a candidate for the State Assembly in 1922.

A stiff fight, it was asserted today, will be made to keep William H. Anderson, who has resigned as State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, from going to Sing-Sing Prison, to which he was sentenced yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins for forging the books of that organization.

Arguments will be heard next Friday by Supreme Court Justice Wagner for a certificate of reasonable doubt which former Governor Charles S. Whitman, chief of Mr. Anderson's attorneys began to seek immediately after sentence had been pronounced. The move for a certificate was the first towards an appeal.

A DRY FORCE LEADER GETS A TERM IN PEN

NEW YORK, February 9 (Canadian Press), — In the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and leader of the dry forces in this State, was sentenced yesterday by Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, to from one to two years in Sing-Sing Prison on a charge of forgery in the third degree, of which he was convicted ten days ago.

MAH JONGG'S HISTORY.

As some readers would like to know a little more of the history of Mah Jongg I will conclude this series of articles with some facts which will interest every player of this fascinating game.

In the Shoeay 'Hoo, a book of Chinese legends written about a year 1180 and dealing with the revolution in the Sung Dynasty, we have a description of the fight of 106 revolutionaries, under their leader, Sung Kiang, to a mountainous island, Ling 'Ho Bab.

These 108 men became national heroes in the eyes of the Chinese, and so that their fame might live and their heroic deeds be passed down to posterity, their names were applied to the individual cards of an ancient game which had been played in China since the days of Confuscious, and which still remained a popular pastime.

The cards used in the old game became from that date onward the number of the revolutionaries—108—only.

The modern game of Mah Jongg of the old cards, and the names of Ivory Carvers. These workers first started making tiles to take the place the revolutionary heroes were engraved upon tiny ivory dominoes. Here, also, the game received its name of Mah Tsiong, meaning sparrows, from the bird pictured on four of the tiles.

It was an English engineer, named Walker, who, fascinated by the game, himself conceived the idea of indicating the essential denominations by Western numerals and letters, thus making the game comprehensible to all Europeans.

WILL INVESTIGATE ORLAND CASES

Merchant Says Residents Owe the Examiner Vote of Thanks for Helping to Clean Up the Place.

(By a Staff Reporter)

ORLAND, Feb. 9.—Provincial Officer Cousins of Cobourg arrived here yesterday to investigate the conditions of which the residents complain and which have been reported in recent issues of the Examiner. Officer Cousins visited the Ash hovel during the day and stated afterwards that it was the most sordid human habitation he had ever seen. No arrests have yet been made but the provincial officers was in communication by telephone with Campbellford to assure himself that Mike Ash and the O'Brien woman were really married last November in that town as stated the other day.

Another official visit to this village yesterday was Rev. Dr. J. T. Daley superintendent of the Children's Shelter at Port Hope, an institution that devotes special attention to the care of girls that have gone astray. Dr. Daley came here to look into the recent tragedy here and it is likely that when the unfortunate O'Brien girl recovers some suitable home will be found for her.

George Gifford, the young man who on Wednesday was given 24 hours to leave the township, is said to be still in the neighborhood.

W. J. Latimer, merchant of this place, yesterday received a telephone call from the authorities at Cobourg, asking for information concerning the press reports that have appeared recently. When assured by Mr. Latimer that conditions were as represented the promise was given that there would be a thorough investigation.

"This community," said Mr. Latifer last night, "owes The Examiner a vote of thanks at the very least for the assistance it has given in cleaning up the situation here."

HASTINGS OUTFIT DID NOT TURN UP

Campbellford Managed to Put on Game for the Fans.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9. — For some reason unknown to the management of the local hockey team, Hastings failed to put in an appearance for their scheduled game here last night. The first inkling of the state of affairs was handed out from the local telephone office, and the Campbellford management telephoned Hastings, but could not locate any one connected with the hockey club, but were informed that Hastings were not coming.

Rather than disappoint the followers of hockey the management collected material for two teams and gave the small crowd present a good exhibition of Canada's great winter pastime, perhaps not as exciting as if played against an outside team, but cleverly played and with the teams evenly matched it was pronounced by local fans as the best contest of the season.

The regular team, with Sanders in goal, had a narow escape from defeat, only winning by the odd goal in thirteen. The regulars went fine in the first period and by some nice combination had a lead of 4 to 1 at the end of that frame, and looked like sure winners. But when the seconds bagged three goals while the Yannigans took a brace, and by persistent back checking, demoralized the attack of the regulars, who only baged three goals while the Yannigans planted the rubber behind Saunders five times, making the score 7 to 6, and there it remained, neither team scoring in the last period, although both sides had numerous chances. The goalers were right on, especially Stewart, who made some wonderful saves in the last period.

It is likely the locals will pass up the Trent Valley League and confine their activities to town league hockey and exhibition games with nearby towns. Line-up:

ALMOST HELPLESS AFTER INFLUENZA

Left Weak, Nervous and Broken Down—Health Regained.

"A few years ago," says Miss Frances Hankla, of Plenty, Sask., "my mother, Mrs. Walter Hankla, was stricken with influenza which was then epidemic, and for a time was in a critical condition. She appeared to get over the prominent symptoms of the trouble but did not regain her strength. Some weeks later her weakness developed into sinking spells in which she would almost smother. Notwithstanding medical aid these spells continued and she was constantly growing weaker, until she was practically reduced to skin and bone. Her lips and gums were colorless, she was nervous, and suffered from indigestion and palpitation of the heart. At this stage a friend of mother's, who lived at a distance, came to see her and strongly advised her to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which, she said, had greatly helped her in a critical illness. We got these pills and mother began taking them. The improvement was slow at first, but we could see that the sinking spells were growing less frequent, and that strength was returning. The treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was continued, and day by day health and strength returned, until she was again able to go about, and help with the work of the house. The improvement this medicine made in her case was simply remarkable.

"I may also say," adds Miss Hankla, "that in my own case these pills were of the greatest benefit. Last winter I was in a badly rundown condition, and very nervous. My appetite failed and I had no color. Knowing what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done for mother, I began taking them with the result that they soon made me as strong and full of vigor as the other girls of my age. I may just add that I think we owe morther's life and my good health to the pills and I hope our experience will be of benefit to some other sufferer."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RECORD EARNINGS OF DOMINION LIFE

Excellent Progress in 1923 Reported at Meeting

The thirty-fifth annual report of the Dominion Life Assurance Company was presented at the annual meeting held yesterday at the head office, Waterloo. This report shows that the year 1923 was one of unexcelled progress.

Business issued during the year amounted to $13,903,185, and the total insurance in force at the close of the year stood at $65,796,389. The premium income amounted to $2,091,582, an increase of $211,357 over that of the previous year. Very satisfactory interest collections were reported, the total amount collected in 1923 amounting to $554,669, or $100,700 more than the collections of 1922. The rate of interest earned during 1923 was 7.09 per cent. The investments of the company are in an enviable position and consist for the most part of gilt-edged mortgages and Government and municipal debentures.

The careful selection of the company's risks is evidenced by the fact that the cost of mortality for the year was only 33 per cent. of the expected. A record in surplus earnings was established, the amount reported for the year being $473,143.

If the Campbellford players win then the other 12 rinks, as originally entered, will play off for the cup and prizes. If the visitors win then all the rinks from outside, whatever their number, will play off for the trophy.

This contest will begin at 8.30 on Wednesday morning and the skips are asked to see that their players are on hand at that time.

There are three trophies to be played for, the Victoria Cup, the Campbellford Cup and the handsome cup that has been donated by A. L. Riendeau for competition at this bonspiel.

In Memory of the Fallen.

A. H. McKeel, who was the prime mover in the campaign which resulted in the erection at Trent Bridge of the handsome soldiers' memorial which was unveiled with imposing ceremony last summer, is taking an active interest in the movement to have erected in Campbellford some form of memorial in honor of the young men from this town and Seymour township who lost their lives in the Great War. So far this movement has been erected by the I.O.D.E., who have on hand a considerable fund for the purpose. The council of 1922 made a grant of $500 and a similar amount was donated last year, but aside from this the town fathers took no action although frequently urged to do so by ex-Reeve J. R. Wilkinson, himself a returned soldier.

In order to get matters under way it is now proposed to call a special session of the council, at which a definite programme could be mapped out, this to include, probably, the holding of a mass meeting to get the sense of the people as to the nature of the memorial most in favor.

Mr. McKeel, however, has still another idea—to rename some of the streets of the town, calling them after the martyred heroes. The necessity for a revision of the street names has for a long time been a topic of discussion. The necessity is admitted. Bridge street, for example, has four different names, and the appellations of other thoroughfares are suggestive of the pioneer days when local conditions suggested the designations.

This would be one form of memorial that would cost the residents nothing, the work having to be done sooner or later, and it would combine sentiment and utility.

An Explanation.

When the senior chapter of the I.O.D.E. offered prizes to the three pupils making the highest stand at the Entrance examination, the officials say, that this applied only to the pupils of the Public school. At the last Entrance examination Rosina Clarke, who was trained in the Separate school, stood third in the list, but the third prize was awarded to Elsie Carter, a Public school pupil, who was fourth, not third, as the printed programme at the commencement exercises would make it appear. This explanation is made at the request of the two sides interested in the matter.

AT HOME AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9. — The 'at home' held by the Holy Name Society in the Lawless House last night attracted a good crowd and abundantly rewarded the efforts of the committee, composed of J. Coughlin, J. J. McFadden and A. G. Lawless.

Hendren's orchestra supplied the music for round and square dancing, and the euchre prizes were won by Miss Martha Garvey and Mr. Dennis Garvey.

FRENCH GLYCERINE DRESSING

You apply the dressing with the sponge. It dries instantly with a fine glossy shine—no polishing. It only takes a minute, and the shoes are kept bright, soft, pliable and waterproof. All this preserves the leather and makes the shoes wear much longer. Some of the largest institutions buy this labor-saving polish regularly—to keep the children's boots in good condition. Any good dealer can supply you.

GREAT REVIVALS

"And when He was demanded of the Pharisees when the kingdom of God should come He answered them and said: The kingdom of God cometh not with observation; neither shall they say, Lo here! or lo there! for behold the kingdom of God is in the midst of you."

If we of this generation cannot read the signs of our own times, we are not different from any generation that has preceded us. That was the point of some of the famous sayings of Jesus. You are very skillful in reading the signs of the skies. He said. You see the red of the heavens and you say it will be fair weather. When you see a cloud rise out of the west you say there cometh a shower. And when you see the south wind blow you say there will be heat, and it cometh to pass. And then follows a biting censure:

"Ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky and the earth, but how is it that ye do not discern this time? Yea, and why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?"

And you remember how poor John Baptist, lying there in prison, had his doubts and sent a delegation to inquire whether everything was all right; and Jesus told them to go back and tell John what they saw.

The last man in the world to know what is going on in the world apparently is the man around whom they are going on. It is true of men and nations. There were great scholars, legislators, poets, lawyers, orators and emperors at the beginning of the Christian era as at the present hour. Pilate knew his Rome. He did not know the Man who stood there in his court in the early dawn of the crucifixion morning. The Elder and the Younger Pliny lived in the midst of the New Testament days, but neither of them knew that Rome was going out and another and greater Rome coming in.

Plutarch wrote forty-six incomparable "lives" during the days that Jerusalem was crumbling under the heel of the Empire; and Plutarch was what to-day we would call a great secular preacher. Morals and culture were his topics. But Plutarch picked for his celebrities men who live now only in books on the shelves with the classic dead. He saw nothing to write about in Peter and Paul and Jesus of Nazareth.

And it has been always so. The expressed sentiments of men who have looked toward this ideal have set up gravitations of moral and spiritual force that are swinging all the nations of the earth into new orbits of friendship and co-operation. There is only one way to learn what the world around you is saying—to look in hushed and meditative silence over the country and listen. You cannot go down on the market and hear what Canada is saying. The traffic on George street will not tell you. The voices of orators and statesmen may not tell you much. Only the man with something of the mystic in his nature can gaze in lonely solitude over the seething world and hear what the heart of Canada and the world is saying.

A RADIO WARNING.

An intimation that the speeches in the House of Commons at Ottawa may be broadcasted may have the effect of checking the ever-growing popularity of radio which has survived bedtime stories, health talks and Boy Scout propaganda, but is likely to find the strain of Ottawa oratory too great a burden.

There is no sound reason why this ordeal should be inflicted upon radio enthusiasts, or why "listeners-in" should be discrimated against in such a manner.

Hardly anybody listens to the ordinary Ottawa speech, the few members in the House pay little attention and the press gallery is half deserted.

Of course, the whole speech gets into Hansard, but then Hansard doesn't have to be read—and isn't.

So why pick on the radio audience as craving for oratory as it is known in the House of Commons?

It is true that there is a half promise that only "important" speeches will be broadcasted.

But who is going to decide the vexed question of which particular address can be so described?

MAKE THEM PERMANENT.

The Amputations Association, composed of over one thousand men who lost one or more limbs or who were blinded during the war, is engaged in a campaign that should receive the favourable attention of the Government and that will certainly command popular support.

The association is endeavouring to have the present pension made permanent.

As the matter stands just now one-third of the pensions now being paid is a bonus which might be terminated this year by the Government.

The disabled soldiers who are members of the association believe that the bonus system should be discarded and that a permanent pension should be established in its place.

Bonus and all it is none too large, but the recipients are not complaining of the amount. They merely ask that they be assured that they may count on the whole amount and not be left in a position in which one-third of their income may be unexpectedly cut off.

That seems a reasonable request which should be acted upon.

These men have sacrificed much for Canada and their minds should be set at ease as regards their pensions.

TO ADVOCATE ECONOMY.

A movement to give voice to the steadily growing demand on the part of the people of Canada for greater genuine economy on the part of Dominion, Provincial and municipal Governments has been launched in Toronto, and the services of Boards of Trade and other business organizations will be enlisted in an effort to make the drive nation-wide.

That there is need of such a movement cannot be gainsaid.

It should serve to make articulate the feeling of the majority of taxpayers in this country who are convinced of the necessity of retrenchment, but have not had an opportunity of showing their opinions in a manner that would carry conviction.

Business men everywhere recognize that the present volume of taxation is crippling business, especially in view of the fact that the trend of taxation in the United States is downward.

Emigration to the United States from Canada is increasing as a result of the burdensome effect of the Canadian levies, and the situation will not adjust itself until the Canadian taxation is materially reduced.

And it is certain that that reduction cannot come until a slashing reduction in expenditures has been made.

Hence the new movement, which is founded on business and not politics, and which should enlist every Canadian who realizes the seriousness of the present situation and the urgent need for municipalities, the Provincial Legislatures and the Federal Government to face the conditions as they exist and to take the only action that is consistent with such conditions.

A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT.

Fault is being found, and the Examiner believes rightly so, with the Council of Chatham for making a grant of $750 for "the encouragement of baseball."

In Chatham, as in every municipality in Ontario, much was heard of the need of economy during the municipal elections, and the Chatham Council in spending the money of the ratepayers in financing the town baseball club is showing little regard for pre-election promises.

Under ordinary conditions and were the grant to have been made for providing a recreation ground or something of a permanent nature, there would not be much ground for criticism.

Apparently, however, the $750 is not to be used in helping to provide grounds that would be a civic asset for years to come, but merely to help baseball—possibly to be devoted towards importing a few ball players.

There is no justification for such a grant, and a dangerous precedent is being created by its passing, for football, tennis, lacrosse and hockey interests have every right to demand similar consideration at the hands of the Council.

The Chatham case is much the same as if the local Council turned Riverside Park over to the Baseball Club free of charge and paid for the services of a caretaker for the benefit of the ball players.

The Peterborough Aldermen did nothing of the kind, and quite rightly made a business proposition out of the lease of the park, securing a revenue of $1,000 and requiring the Peterborough Baseball Association to keep the grounds in shape.

DETERMINATION NEEDED.

There are fears expressed now that the Government will go ahead and put into effect many of the economies for which the country has clamored, says the London Advertiser.

There were those who for political effect called for action, and, now that action is likely, seek to stop the idea from taking effect.

A member of the Ottawa Journal staff has been writing articles in MacLean's Magazine showing overloading in the Civil Service; he has accused many of the employees with loafing and killing time. While this is going on the Journal itself is busy showing why the Civil Service should be left alone. It is Ottawa's outstanding industry.

Ottawa despatches claim that it is possible to do away with the Department of Secretary of State, handing the work done there over to some other department. The work of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment is also becoming less, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the not overworked Department of National Defence could absorb most of the duties of the D. S. C. R., which was never intended to be of a permanent nature.

Naturally this would leave two Cabinet Ministers, Dr. H. S. Beland and Hon. A. B. Copp, without a position in the Ministry. No Government would be justified in keeping a department going in order to provide a position for a Minister at its head, and there is nothing to indicate that the King Government would try such a course.

The suggestion is made that there are two vacancies in the Senate where these Ministers would be taken care of. That might be an easy way out, but it would not be a step toward Senate reform or Senate abolition.

Unless all signs fail, the Government at Ottawa has set its face toward a policy of cutting out all unnecessary material in the Civil Service, and if it finds that it has two departments that can be absorbed by others, then it is its plain duty to proceed with the work of centralization.

LABOR AND THE NAVY.

The predictions that the new Labor Government of Great Britain will seriously cut the naval estimates and entirely abandon the project to establish a naval base at Singapore, have elicited no more than a perfunctory spatter of protest from the traditional champions of sea power. There has been no blazing, blaring, drum-thumping campaign against "gambling with the safety of the Empire." No attempt has been made to alarm the nation and so compel the House to exercise its admitted power to force a change of policy or a change of Ministers.

The inferences from this are plain. No one imagines that the well-informed leaders of public opinion on this subject would be silent if either the navy or the nation were really in danger. The truth probably is that the Conservative Government—knowing that only under Conservative rule or Conservative pressure are the real advances in naval strength usualy made—drafted a forward program which was more ambitious than existing conditions actually demanded, and probably more costly than would have been carried through. So they are in fact largely relieved that the British taxpayer will, in these trying times, get a respite.

The position as regards Singapore has been somewhat changed since the proposal was first made. We might as well be frank about it and admit that the terrible tragedy of the Japanese earthquake postponed any menace of a pan-Asiatic movement against European and American investments in Asia of which Japanese preparedness would be the spear-head. The weight of the thrust—if it ever comes—will probably be all-Asian; but in this generation it can hardly break through the iron ring of white control unless the fine Japanese Navy leads the way. And "the hand of God" or whatever power launched the earthquake practically disarmed this danger for at least a few years. Consequently the defensive operations at Singapore can be safely delayed for the same number of years.

A Conservative Government could not very well have suggested this delay. That would have been either to stultify their Singapore policy or to declare with undiplomatic bluntness that the Japanese earthquake was "a British victory." They must have gone on, though they would have well known that the money could be better expended just now at home. Labor, however, is in no such awkward position. It has always been against Singapore and can openly drop the project for the pacifist reasons so dear to its insular heart and so ready to its lips. And the men who really rule Great Britain can smile and rejoice at their lower tax schedules and see their inner wishes carried out.

But when and if the need for Singapore revives—and there are evidences that that revival will be felt at Washington quite as soon as in London—no Government, Labor, Liberal or whatnot, will be able to block the way. Then the drum-thumping campaign will be started if necessary; and the British people will not be able to "sleep o' nights" for fear their floating bulwarks are no longer impregnable.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Chatham Town Council has voted $750 for "the encouragement of baseball." The Chatham team must have located a good pitcher.

The United States and Canadian hockey teams are to play an exhibition game in Paris. It is to be hoped another Treaty of Versailles will not be necessary as a result.

One class of immigrants that Canada should not encourage is made up of I.W.W. agitators.

Quebec farmers are complaining about some of the cities adopting summer time, ignoring the fact that the majority of the residents of such cities want daylight saving.

There seems to be a lot of law about the Home Bank case. What is really needed, however, is not law, but justice.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—The disorganized railway service and the easy prices of last week caused fewer cattle to arrive at the Union Stock Yards this week. For the four days this week receipts were only 4,600, but 300 more were carried over from last week. Considering the light run the price improvement was not material and was limited to 25 cents a cwt., except in a few instances. Packers were not at all keen for supplies and some of the smaller killers did not make a purchase of beef cattle for the week. The demand for beef has not been good and the abattoirs were well filled during the past two weeks.

Good handyweight steers and heifers were firm at $6.50 and occasional bunches made $6.75. Medium to good butchers were up in spots to $6.25 a cwt and common butchers were $5 and a little better.

Buchers cows were not much changed from the week before. A few extra good cows sold as high as 5½ cents, but the average good cow did not bring above a nickle a pound. Medium cows were 4 to 4¼ cents and common cows 3¼ to 3½ cents. Bulls were in light supply and heavy exporters brought up to 5 cents. Good fair bulls sold at 4¼ cents and some bolgona bulls were a little over 3¼ cents. For any good feeders 6½ cents had to be paid. Higher prices were asked fro fleshy stockers and sales were reported at 5½ cents.

Choice calves are down to around 12½ cents a pound here. Good medium calves are 10 cents, and heavy calves about 8 cents.

Lambs are also easier for the week although the supply is beginning to give out. The light 90-lb. lamb is the wanted kind and these will still bring 14 cents or a little better. Heavy lambs are not wanted much if any above 12½ cents. There is still a good market for handyweight sheep at 7½ to 8 cents.

The slump in hog prices was stopped on Monday and an advance of 25 cents followed with $7.50 a cwt. paid f.o.b. Some sales were made during the week 10 or 15 cents a cwt. higher, but on Thursday packers talked of reverting back to the $7.25 next week.

EARLY FRUITS LOCAL MARKET

Strawberries Among the Newcomers at 85 Cents a Basket.

The first pale strawberries from Florida, at 85 cents for a quart box, are the latest arrivals in the fruit store of the city. Bitter oranges too are an early visitor, all the way from Messina, Italy, and selling at 50 cents a dozen.

Some fine mottled red and yellow table apples are on sale, at a nickel apiece, the big Roman beauties and the pear-shaped Delicious.

Cauliflower is up in price slightly. Other vegetables are stationary in price. Reports from outside markets indicate an advance in potato prices within the next week or ten days.

Butter and egg prices remain unchanged also, and hog prices at the wholesalers are the same as last week. The nut market is unusually strong for the season, prophesying a rise in the spring demand.

Retail holders of oleomargarine are striving to get rid of their stocks, as the retail sale is prohibited by a Government order after the twenty-ninth day of February. Users of the oleo are buying in large quantities. Harris and Swift's concerns are unloading rapidy. The only recourse for firms caught with a supply at the first of the month is to sell to the lumber camps.

Sugar during the past week has advanced 60 cents per hundredweight in wholesale prices, which are now firm at $10.72. It is said that the advance is due in a large measure to the corresponding advance in the price of raw sugars, owing to the fact that the United Kingdom has been a heavy buyer of raws in the markets of Trinidad, the Barbadoes and Demarara. The world production of cane and beet sugar this season is estimated at 18,877,677 tons, or an increase of 871,915 over last years' total of production.

A large pineapple pack for this year, an increase over the past year, is predicted by the growers. The introduction of a hardy dwarf lemon from China may result, so officials of the United States Department of Agriculture declare, in extending the zone in which lemons may be cultivated, and may prove of value for house culture.

Prices on some teas are up from 1 to 3 cents on the pound. Reports from England show a decrease in stocks on hand on December 31st. This year's total was 160,577,000 packages, as compared with 160,776,000 packages in 1922, and 205,420,000 packages in 1921.

Valentine novelties are in many of the windows. One florist has a big red heart of everlastings, festooned with narrow red ribbons dripping with pasteboard hearts. The old-fashioned Valentines are back again this year, the flowery, lace-paper adorned plaques, with Cupids and bows and arrows wreathing sugary sentiments of love and devotion.

MACDONALD REALIZES PROPAGANDA OF REDS

Britain's Labor Premier Knows Activities of the British Communists and Will Insist on Russian Envoy Keeping Clear of Internal Politics.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — With the Soviet Government's acceptance of the British proposals regarding recognition in Premier MacDonald's hands, a solid foundation for the settlement of all Anglo Russian differences is ready, and upon it the Laborite Premier hopes to erect the superstructure of a general European settlement.

Mr. MacDonald intends Russia to be the keystone of that structure, but he is not so optimistic as to assume the building is already completed. He knows there are great difficulties afead and that there will be many problems at the conference table.

The foremost of these, it is authoritatively stated, is the question of propaganda.

As an old Socialist, Mr. MacDonald knows the propaganda game from start to finish, and therefore he believes that he knows about dealing with it. He is very familiar with the activities of the Communist party in Great Britain, and will not interrupt their activities as long as it is a British organization financed with British funds, but he will not tolerate a Communist political party in England which is financed from Russia or any other country.

The Premier knows just how many Communists there are in Great Britain, and he also knows the extend of their legitimate financial resources, which he does not consider to permit the expenditures which are being made for publishing, speech-making and campaigning.

This is one question which he personally will take up with the Soviet plenipotentiary, who will be told that if the Soviet envoy does not conform to recognized diplomatic usage, in steering clear of internal politics he can expect no diplomatic immunity here.

Experts commissions, which will deal with Russian questions at the forthcoming London conference are in process of formation at the Foreign Office.

BOUNDARY ROADS BLOCKED MAILS FOR THREE DAYS

John Mitchell, Mail Carrier on R. R. No. 1, Cavan, Complains Pathmasters Neglected to Shovel Drifts on Route.

WAS "LAUGHED AT."

CAVAN, Feb. 9.—Since the last heavy snow Mr. John Mitchell, mail carrier for R. R. No. 1, Cavan, complains that he cannot get the path-masters to shovel out the roads on his route. He says the ninth line is clear, also the tenth, but the boundary between Cavan and Manvers is full. Mr. Mitchell states that he phoned Mr. C. Sisson, Manvers, path-master, telling him of the condition of the boundary road, but Mr. Sisson refused to do anything. He then called Mr. Greer, Baillieboro, who is over these highways, and asked him to see about the opening of the road, but Mr. Greer told him to go through the fields. He was unwilling to do this as he would have had to cut two new wire fences. He again asked Mr. Greer to open the road, but, says the mail carrier, "he merely laughed and hung up his receiver."

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Jas. Douglas have written to the Postmaster General, but so far have received no answer. The result of unopened roads was that for three days the people on his route were without mail.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The Cavan Ladies' Aid held their February meeting on Thursday afternoon in the basement of the church. There were nine ladies' present. Plans were made for the social evening to be held in the near future at Mrs. Archie Kennedy's home.

Mrs. Lloyd Sutton has returned from her visit to Toronto.

Live Stock Train.

F. C. Patterson, Port Hope, District Representative, has notified the Cavan Junior Farmers that the Ontario Live Stock Improvement Committee has made arrangements for a better live stock train to be run through part of the Province, commencin March 10. This train will be at Millbrook on April 12 all day. There will be a competent selling staff on that train. Breeders of good thoroughbred stock in the locality are asked to bring in their animals which come up to the required standard and there offer them for sale. The assistance of the selling staff of the train will be at their service to help dispose of them.

Farmers will do well to keep this date in mind and visit the train. A similar train, which was well received, was run through the northern part of the Province last year. No doubt this will be well advertised before that date. The object of this campaign is to gradually raise the grade of Canadian cattle by substituting thoroughbred animals in place of scrubs.

"Hard Times" Party.

On Thursday evening, February 7, a very successful "hard times" progressive euchre party was held in Cavan Community Hall. Nearly one hundred people were present. There were sixteen tables, run under the supervision of Mr. G. Gow.

The party commenced at 8.30. The prize winners for playing were:

Lady—Mrs. Isaac Wood.

Gentleman—Master Malcolm Newton.

Ladies' Costume — Mrs. Creighton Carr.

Gentleman's costume—Mr. John Mitchell.

Mrs. Carr had a delightful costume made of unbleached Reindeer flour sacks.

Mr. Mitchell was clothed in a well tailored suit of jute sacks, sewed with large stitches of white lapping cord. His rubbers were mismated, and were also tied with cord. His hat was also made of jute and he wore a very cheap looking red bouquet. On his back was a large sign, "Love Me," pinned on with a three-inch nail.

The games were played progressively, the winning lady moving up and the losing gentleman down.

At 10.30 the prizes were awarded. Mrs. Wood received a beautiful jardiniere; Malcolm Newton, a pack of playing cards; Mrs. Carr, a jewel case and tray, and Mr. Mitchell, a shaving set.

Dancing was enjoyed for a short time, the music supplied by the Howden family, on violin, piano and auto-harp.

In an out-of-the-way corner, checker champions of different neighborhoods gathered to witness close contests on one board. Mr. Reginald Sutton won one game from Mr. George Gow, while Mr. Emery Smith and Mr. G. Gow were tied with one game apiece.

The party broke up at 1 o'clock. Among those who attended were two sleigh-loads from Millbrook, one from Cavan Centre and several from the north.

Personals.

Mr. Albert Tinney returned to Toronto on Tuesday to take further treatment for his leg. Since beginning the treatments he notices great improvement.

Mrs. (Col.) Earchman, Carleton Place, is visiting her sister, Miss E. Hutchison.

Master Kelly and Master Joe Munroe went into Peterborough on Thursday to spend a couple of days with their mother, Mrs. Bertha Munroe, who is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Hooton returned on Thursday to her home at Fairmount. Mrs. N. M. and Mrs. Jas. Douglas accompanied her. Mrs. Jas. Douglas will remain for a week or ten days to recuperate after her recent illness.

AUSTRIA NEXT

VIENNA, Feb. 9.—Austrian recognition of the Soviet Government is under consideration, Chancellor Seipel stated at Budapest, according to a despatch to the Neue Freie Presse.

THORNTON SEES END OF BURDEN

National Railways Will Have Lifted Themselves From the Taxpayers' Shoulders In Three Years, Says President.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9. — Addressing the Westmount Women's Club here this afternoon, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, predicted that within "three years with any sort of luck, I anticipate that we will no longer be a burden upon the taxpayers of Canada and within ten years we will be as efficient a railway system as can be found anywhere in the world."

Stressing the need of population to the Dominion, Sir Henry said that if Canada had 25,000,000 people, the Canadian National Railways systems would be no problem, and it would be an asset to the people of this country because there would be sufficient traffic to support its large mileage.

With respect to the ten years period referred to, he explained that the change would mean training the personnel and the employees to the desired pitch of efficiency. Ten years was not too long to accomplish what other railways systems had taken 50 years to do.

In regard to immigration, Sir Henry considered that it would be safe to bring to the Dominion any individual who was sound in mind and body; who was willing to live under the laws of the Dominion and under our conditions of society in tranquility, was of Caucasian race, and who would respect other races. Bolshevists and Communists were not wanted, in his opinion.

ESTIMATE $210,000 MAINTAIN DEFICIT

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8.— Forecasting a net deficit for the current fiscal year of approximately $210,000 Hon. F. M. Black, Provincial Treasurer, made his second Budget speech in the Mantioba Legislature this afternoon, adding that with continued economy in expenditures he expected to close the year "if not with a surplus, then with a deficit which will not be of serious proportions."

The Government anticipated additional revenue this year from the three new taxes passed at the last session of the Legislature, amounting to $760,000, the principal contributor being that of the income tax, which the provincial treasurer expects will total $500,000. Receipts from the gasoline and grain futures taxes will total $260,000, he predicts.

Reduction in the unoccupied lands tax to the extent of $225,000 is forecast.

18 COOKING HINTS—from one tiny suburban section

Mabel R.'s story of a day spent in a charming village

MOST of the following is taken almost word for word from the notes of Mabel Ransom, a young girl who recently called on hundreds of women in order to keep us, the men who make Crisco, in sympathetic touch with the day-to-day cooking problems of the women who use it.

"First," she comments, "I approached the charming home of Mrs. Thomas. 'I came to see you about Crisco,' I said, in explanation of my unusual errand.

"'Well, isn't that surprising!' said Mrs. Thomas. 'I use it, and everyone in this whole block uses it, as we all learned one day when Crisco happened to come into the conversation at a neighborhood club meeting.'

"After a friendly chat with Mrs. Thomas I called upon Mrs. Drake, an Englishwoman whose house was overflowing with children. Only two were hers—the rest were a party. She met me at the kitchen door from which came the aroma of good things to eat, and invited me in.

"'Yes, indeed, I use Crisco, in fact I am using it now,' said Mrs. Drake in answer to my question. 'Why do I prefer it? Well, because it makes such good things, that's all. Such tender cakes and pie crusts that are ever so flaky. And when you fry things with Crisco the food doesn't take up the fat but cooks to a nice, crispy brown.'

Versatile! Digestible! Delicate! Fresh!

"Across the street from Mrs. Drake lives Mrs. Williams, another Crisco enthusiast. She prefers Crisco because it is the one shortening she knows of that she can use for any kind of cooking—for such simple things as frying eggs and also for the most elaborate cakes or pies. I asked Mrs. Williams for some of her favorite recipes and she gave me several, all neatly typed on cards. In handing them to me she said, 'Whenever they call for butter I just use Crisco.'

"Next I went into the home of Mrs. Lee—a woman who divides her time between her profession (food chemistry) and her delightfully managed home. From her scientific training had come a special knowledge of Crisco's digestibility and a special appreciation of its purity.

"Just next door to Mrs. Lee lives a charming old lady. We talked of many things and finally of Crisco, whose loyal friend she was—'because,' she said, 'foods cooked with it have such nice, delicate flavors—the real food flavors, not the flavor of the shortening; because you don't have to put it in the ice box to keep it sweet and fresh. And,'—(she attached a lot of importance to this) 'because in deep frying it is free from smoke and from the unpleasant odor which sometimes clings to draperies for days.'"

And so, through several long pages Miss Ransom's report tells of similar interviews. "Nowhere," she remarks, "could a more capable group of cooks and housekeepers be found." As a general rule Miss Ransom found that a Crisco home was the best type of modern home run by an alert, intelligent woman.

Made in Canada
Sold throughout the Dominion

Yes, in the homes of this suburban village and in 2,000,000 other homes Crisco is helping to make foods more convenient in the preparation and more delicious in the eating. We suggest that you ask your grocer for a can and try it in the recipe given on this page or use it in your own favorite recipes. In effecting the welcome economy of using Crisco in place of butter you will, of course, add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each cup of Crisco.

Mrs. Williams' Jelly Layer Cake

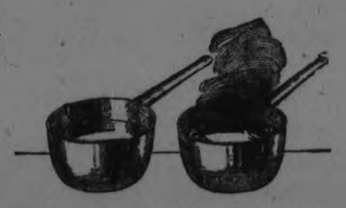
1 cupful Crisco	1 cupful milk
2 cupfuls sugar	4 eggs
1 teaspoonful salt	4 cupfuls flour
4 teaspoonfuls baking powder

Cream the Crisco, salt and sugar together. Add eggs well beaten. Sift flour and baking powder together and add alternately with milk. Bake in Crisco'ed layer cake tins in a moderate oven about 20 minutes. When cool, spread currant jelly between the layers and cover the top with white icing.



Avoid Smoke and Unpleasant Odor

By using this fat you can keep your whole house fresh and charmingly free from odor yet still enjoy French Fried Potatoes, Doughnuts and all the delicious foods which require deep-frying.

GHOSTS OF DEPARTED GREAT STILL INSPIRE A FEW SERIOUS GREENWICH VILLAGE WRITERS

But Most of "the Villagers," Quite Indifferent to Rich Tradition of a Glorious Past, Give Themselves Up to Queer Clothes and Weird Eateries.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Perhaps there is a real literary atmosphere permeating the section of Manhattan Island which centers at Greenwich Village. If not, there should be when consideration is given the collective permanent influence of the past literati reflected upon that particular segment of the city, a segment often sarcastically maligned because of the literary carpetbaggers who came in blowing clouds of cigarette smoke, full of free verse and worse.

It was not always a region of long-haired men and short-haired

Speaking theosophically, the akashic record of the Village, including the karmas of the many of the noted personalities in American literature since the birth of the republic, is 100 per cent excellent.

How much of this karmic condition remains lodged in the old stones of the sidewalks and buildings or invisibly shoots around in the sky above is problematical.

"I get flashes from unknown spiritual sources very often," today said a serious writer who lives down there, "and I attribute these helps to what I describe as 'The Ghosts of the Village.' Of course, I might throw out my chest and label them 'inspiration,' which I believe is the modern practice with intellectuals. But I would rather give the credit for these 'flashes' to long-departed men and women of letters; some of their unfinished earthly work radioed back to a mind kept open for just such outside help."

Orbiculate an imaginary circle with a diameter cutting Washington Square at its center, taking in the region for twenty blocks round about—this is the Village of the yesteryears we shall scour for literary landmarks. The total of personalities at one time or another domiciled within this boundary is staggeringly impressive.

Washington Irving for a time lived at 428 Lafayette street, in Colonnade Row, formerly La Grange Terrace. Later he tarried at Irving place and East Seventeenth street, where in a large room on the ground floor he wrote portions of "Oliver Goldsmith" and the "Life of Mahomet," and arranged the notes for his last work, the "Life of Washington."

No. 309 Bleecker street is where Tom Paine, author of "The Age of Reason," spent his last years. He died in a small wooden house at the rear.

A brown-stone building in Tenth street east of Sixth avenue is where Henry Tuckerman wrote "The Criterion." Richard Harding Davis did his "Van Bibber" stories at 108 Waverly place. No. 18 West Eighth street was the home of R. H. Stoddard and Bayard Taylor, and is where Paul de Chaillu wrote "Ivar the Viking." Georges Clemenceau, later Prime Minister of France, once occupied a hall bedroom in that neighborhood.

In West Eighth street George Lathrop Parsons wrote "Behind Time' and his wife, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, "Along Shore." Richard Watson Gilder was a close neighbor. No. 142 East Eighteenth street was Bayard Taylor's home.

Horace Greeley once lived at 35 East Nineteenth street, Theodore Roosevelt at 28 East Twentieth street and Phoebe and Alice Carey, the spiritualist sisters, at 55 East Twentieth street.

Clement C. Moore wrote "'Twas the Night Before Christmas" in Ninth avenue near Twenty-second street. John Masefield, the English poet, once washed beer glasses in a saloon on Christopher street.

In the Campanile of the Judson Hotel overlooking Washington Square Frank Norris wrote "The Octopus." O. Henry (Sidney Porter) did three of his first stories of New York life in a six-room flat in Waverly place. Later he lived for a time at 55 East Seventeenth street.

In the same street at No. 330 lived Henry Cuyler Brunner when he wrote his "Steam-heated Tales," other tenants of the building being Richard Grant White and Brander Matthews.

At 21 Fifth avenue Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) lived, and is where he completed "Adam's Diary." Thomas Bailey Aldrich when a clerk wrote his "Ballad of Babie Bell" in a hall bedroom at 33 West Eighth street, and his friend, Fitz James O'Brien, did the famous "The Diamond Lens" short story there.

Edgar Allan Poe lived with his invalid wife, Virginia, at 113½ Carmine street, where he wrote "Arthur Gordon Pym." He also once lived at Sixth avenue and Waverly place, where he wrote "Ligeia" and "The Poes were boarding at Broadway and Eighty-fourth street when he wrote "The Raven," and continuing northward they eventually reached the Poe cottage on the Fordham road, in the Broux.

David Graham Phillips wrote "The Great God Success" at 42 Washington Square. At No. 61 once lived Alan Seeger, the poet who wrote "Rendezvous With Death," and kept it in the World War.

Nathaniel P. Willis, another poet, lived on the Square; also W. D. Howells, Henry James, F. Hopkinson Smith, Edward W. Townsend and Julian Ralph, Robert W. Chambers is another writer of that neighborhood; also James L. Ford when he was launching into the short story field.

Enough of the past greatness in our literary of the village. That it ought to be inspirational is convincing enough in theory. Away out in the little home towns enchanting tales have been spread of what environment might do to the brains of those who came to write in the Village, the mantles of greatness that were there waiting for new shoulders to fall upon.

But this legacy of literature has dwindled until it has become a state of mind. True, there are intermittent restorers of past grandeur who invade a street in a sort of colony. Not for long. These "restorers" soon give up the fight against the new collective influence of the new disciples of revelry, sex stuff, pink principles and dirty linen and necks.

Here and there in some quiet corner an individual works on, his or her eyes blinded to the garish scenes around about. These are the exceptions, strong characters themselves, who would turn out normal thoughts anywhere, even from the Latin Quarter of Paris. More power to them.

The majority of the "Villagers" belong to the neurotic class and have little in the greatness that once lodged in the district. Their delights center in queer clothes worn to such strangely named eateries as "Down the Rabbit Hole." "The Red Bird Tea Room," "The Blue Horse," "The Garret Coffee House." "Ye Pig and Whistle Inn" and the like. Greenwich Village with its environs has seen its best literary days.

WOULD CHANGE LOCAL SYSTEM

Dr. Sutton Outlines Scheme to Replace Municipal Health Officers With One Man for Entire County.

To change the entire system of Medical Health Officers in the county, appointing a full time M.O.H. instead of the individual ficers now appointed by the municipalities was the proposal put to the Peterboro county council here by Dr. N. H. Sutton, district health officer.

At present, Dr. Sutton said, it is recognized that local medical officers of health is the weak spot in the health organization of the province, and the officers say themselves that their position works against them in private practice by making bad friends in the carrying out of their duties. "Others," he said, "have avoided making bad friends by not carrying out their duties."

"It has been felt by the provincial department of health," said Dr. Sutton, "that the system might be changed with advantage, since the public health work carried out by many medical officers of health forms the weak spot in the public htalth work of Ontario. The results obtained in England by the full time M.O.H. show a decreas in mortality from communicable and other preventable diseases. As an inducement to the county councils to adopt this full time system, half the salary is paid by the ministry of health in England. In the United States 214 counties have appointed full time officers of health."

Peterboro county, he continued, is now spending $7,000 annually in dribs and drabs for part time officers. It is probable that if this change meets with the approval of the right number of counties in Ontario the provincial government will provide part of the salary of the full time M.O.H. Peterboro county lends itself quite favorably to the appointment of a county M.O.H.; Hastings would not be quite so suitable in its entirety; Victoria would be quite suitable.

The appointment of these full time officers Dr. Sutton intimated would be by nomination of the county council and approval of the provincial board of health, which would give aid up to $2,000 a year. A full time man could not be obtainde for less than $4,000.

The present system, with the M.O.H. receiving a retainer fee of in some cases $10 and further remuneration according to the services he renders, is bringing good results in some places and in other localities no results at all.

Dr. Sutton said this proposal was made by the reeve of Belmont and Methuen, and he took it up with the provincial board of health, who approved of the proposal. Reeve J. F. Breckenridge denied having made the proposal and said he merely asked if there could not be a closer co-operation between the medical health officer and the private practitioners in the municipality.

Dr. Sutton said his proposal to the provincial board of health was based on the complaint of Reeve Breckenridge, and the system, he though would give much better results than that now in force. "I think it is a step in the right direction."

Present Officers Unqualified

"I think the medical officers of health in the county will be glad to be rid of the work which is not paying them. They are making a certain number of enemies and in many cases they avoid making the enemies the proper enforcement of their duties would mean.

"The part time medical officer of health cannot take up the education al work that could be done by a full time man, and much might be done in the schools and in other ways by the full time M.O.H. to prevent disease by education. The full time M.O.H. could also get some satisfaction out of the sanitary inspector that, by gosh, he can't get now.

"There has been a lot of overlapping in the work. None of the medic al men who are municipal medical officers of health have had the training in public health work such as a full time man would have. By adopting this system you would get vastly more efficiency for less money."

No action was taken by the County Council.

THE KU KLUXERS ON THE RAMPAGE

One Life Lost and Others Injured in Shooting Match.

MARION, Ills., Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— The Ku Klux Klan was in complete control of Herrin at 3.40 o'clock this morning, allowing no one in or out of the city that was not a Klansman. They paraded back and forth on Main street armed with firearms of all kinds. The city hall was established as their headquarters and the agitation is said to be centred about the disappearance of three members of the Herrin police force who, Klansmen allege, were spirited away by sheriff's officers. The trouble started last night when Justice of the Peace Caesar Cagle of Herrin, was shot and killed near Jefferson hotel and shortly after Deputy Sheriff John Layman was shot and placed in the Herrin hospital in a serious condition.

Sheriff Galligan arrested three Herrin police officers, including Chief John Ford, took them to Marion and from there to some point which is not known.

Nine companies of the Illinois State Militia were ordered out by Adjutant General Black on request of Sheriff Galligan, who said the situation was beyond his control and demanded aid from the troops to cope with the situation. Troops arrived in Herrin early this morning. Later the town was taken over by State troops to-day as a result of a near riot last night between "wets" and "drys" in which a constable was killed and deputy sheriff was wounded seriously.

AMERICAN TAKEN BY THE MEXICAN BANDIT

State Department is Endeavoring to Secure His Release.

HALIFAX, Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— C. G. McKenzie, son of Archibald McKenzie, River John, Pictou county, who has been in Mexico for the past ten years, and occupies the position of manager of the Mexico Northern Power Company at Boquilla, in the State of Chipuahua, is held captive by the Mexican bandit Hippolita Villa, who demands a ransom of $200,000, according to word received here today. Villa proved impervious to the pleadings of the catpive's wife, Mrs. McKenzie, a daughter of the late B. F. Parsons, of this city, who visited him last Sunday, imporing for her husband's release.

The British Embassay at Washington and the Charge D'Affaires in Mexico city, have full particulars of capture and holding for $200,000 ransom of T. George McKenzie by the Mexican bandit, Hippolato Villa. This was stated in advices received here to-day from El Paso, Texas, by relatives of Mr. McKenzie. It was also stated that the State Department at Washington and President Obregon of Mexico, are making every possible effort to secure Mr. McKenzie's release.

BUD HARDING, A WELL KNOWN JAIL BREAKER

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 9.—Shackled to two detectives, Bud Harding, well known in Pittsburgh and New York police circles, was brought across the border here last night, after having served four years in the Kingston, Ont., penitentiary for having robbed the home of the Canadian premier at Ottawa.

He was lodged in the city jail over night and an extra guard was placed about his cell.

Before his Canadian escapade Harding escaped from a prison in Pittsburgh, and previously had made a getaway from Governor's Island, New York.

SUNSHINE LURED FISH VENDOR OUT

Products Down a Little --The Farmers' Market

There was a slow movement in the basket section of the farmers' market Saturday morning. Supplies were fairly meagre. Eggs were sold out at an early hour, at a general price of 45c a dozen, and butter retailed at 43c a pound. Chickens ranged in price from 25 and 28c a pound to 38c for the milk-fed birds, and geese and turkeys were very scarce, the former at 25c a pound, the latter at 35c for the three or four specimens on view. In calculating the price of pounds and fractions thereof in selling her birds one lady used a rapid calculator book for quick reference.

The bright sunshine of the morning lured the fish man out of the enclosure where he has sheltered during the past two Saturdays and he once more sold his frozen finny wares under the shelter of his awning. Fish are two or three cents cheaper on the pound he declared quoting 10c for herrings, 17c for pickerel, and 18c for salmon and white fish.

There was much wood on the open market. Good hardwood loads in three foot lengths, could be purchased for $12, cut and split for $13 and $14; and mixed wood was as low as $7 a load.

Meat was plentiful at the usual prices, and potatoes, warmly wrapped up in cutter rugs, were selling at $1.60 per bag. Roots and onions were unchanged in price.

One of the auctioneers had a heckler in his audience, and the interchange of light badinage amused the crowd. The orator did a brisk business in galvanized iron pails and whiffletrees; he also disposed of a cutter for the sum of $1.80. The other auctioneer had horses for sale. A pair of team mates will go separate ways hereafter. They took their last drive together on Saturday morning, a couple of dark bays, with coats that hadn't been curried for many a day. One brought $70, the other $17.

The admirers of the humorous style of one of the silver-tongued orators of the open market, will have few more chances to form an appreciative audience for the Saturday morning session. It is reported that his translation to another, possibly more arduous, sphere of endeavor, takes place shortly.

FRESH BAKED CAKE

A cake will not stick to the pan if, when you remove it from the oven, you chill it on the bottom by placing the pan for a few moments on a cloth saturated with cold water.

TASTY TESTED RECIPES.

Griddle Cakes.

1 Cupful Borden's St. Charles Milk.
1 Cupful water.
2 Tablespoonfuls melted butter or butter substitute.
1 Egg, well beaten.
3 Cupfuls white flour.
1 Teaspoonful salt.
4 Teaspoonfuls baking powder.
2 Tablespoonfuls sugar.

Combine the milk and water, add the shortening, sugar, and the egg, and beat in the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Beat thoroughly and fry as usual on a slightly oiled gridle, or on an unoiled aluminum or soapstone gridle. If very thin cakes are desired, add two more tablespoonfuls of evaporated milk and water.

Halibut Baked in Milk.

Order two pounds of halibut steak cut half inch thick. Lay it in a dripping pan, or large shallow baking dish. Dust it lightly with a little flour, salt and pepper and a sprinkling of minced parsley and barely cover it with one part of Borden's St. Charles Milk diluted with one and one-half parts of boiling water.

Bake in a moderate oven until the fish is tender—about 25 minutes. It should be somewhat browned on top and the liquid will be thickened by the flour and act as a delicious sauce.

One of Our Most Valued Foods

The first food that we take on coming into this world is Milk, and it should be remembered that Milk is the most nearly perfect food furnished by Nature.

Milk contains the three fundamental elements—protein, fat, and sugar—together with the most important minerals and vitamines in such proportion as to render it an exceedingly desirable food.

Milk made into nourishing soups, creamed vegetables, puddings, and cocoas is a good way to serve it for the cold months.

Milk is more easily assimilated when taken with bread or other foods. For many ailments the curative powers of Milk are unrivalled. They act on the nervous system, the liver, the blood vessels, the heart, and circulation. Milk is an excellent sedative and is valuable in nourishing the body in many conditions affecting both old and young.

CAMPBELLFORD PAVING SCHEME NOW ON PAPER

Unless Present Plans Miscarry Town Will Do Paving This Summer.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9. — Property owners in this town are evidently in favor of having the main streets paved with modern material, if the signatures attached to a petition now in circulation can be taken as an indication of public sentiment. Further than that, tenants, too, are declaring their willingness to bear a part of the cost by paying into the paving fund each year the amount which they are now charged for oiling the streets.

Paving Company Acts.

J. M. Bullas, representing the Standard Paving Company, of Ottawa, is here circulating the petition. He comes as the result of an agreement made between the town council at its last meeting and J. F. Driscoll of the Paving Company, who offered to send a man here to circulate the petition and explain the matter to the taxpayers, free of all cost to the municipality.

Mr. Bullas, who set to work immediately after his arrival, informed the Examiner last night that he is making encouraging progress and that the residents are ready to listen to his explanation. The stretch which it is proposed to pave, all of which are included in one petition, are as follows:

Bridge street, from Front to Ranney.

Mill street, from Front to River street.

Grand road, from Alma to Garry.

Tice street, from George to Canrobert.

oSme confusion arose when it was found that several tenants had signed the petition under a misunderstanding, Mr. Bullas not being familiar with the situation. The citizens occupy rented business premises on the streets to be paved, but own theri homes on thoroughfares that are not included in the plans. Several of the leading property owners interested and the owners of one of the largest industries in town are in fvaor of street paving and have signed the petition.

The style of pavement put down by the company which Mr. Bullas represents is known as the standardite and carries a five years guarantee. The width of the proposed roadway varies from 28 to 46 feet. The money for the work, if it is decided to go ahead, will be raised by the issue of 15 year debentures. The cost is estimated at $3.25 a square yard, with an additional charge of $1 a lineal foot for the combined curb and gutter.

As the portion of Grand road which it is proposed to pave, forms part of the county provincial highway, the Ontario Government will pay 40 per cent. of the cost of 20 feet of the roadway. Mr. Bullas has figures to show the probable cost of the paving to each property owner, his estimate being based on a lot with a 30 foot frontage. For a road 28 feet wide, the owner of such a lot would apy $7.50 a year for 15 years, the cost of the work being figured at 25 cents per foot front. For a 46 foot road the charge against a property with a frontage of 30 feet would be $12.30 a year.

Another petition is being readily signed by tenants who pledge themselves to pay for t he paving the same amount as they are now charged for oiling the streets.

By way of relieving the dull monotony of financial calculation, Mr. Bullas occasionally drops into poetry and quotes to the residents the following stanza:

"Hordes of autos now remind us
We should build our roads to stay,
And departing leave behind us
Kinds that will not wash away;
When our children pay the mortgage
Fathers made to haul their loads,
They'll not have to ask the question,
Here's the bonds but where's the roads."

Annual Sleigh Ride

Ten or twelve sleighs loaded with happy children, scholars of St. Andrews Sunday School left the church shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and for two hours the little people enjoyed a delightful outing. About 6 o'clock they returned to the school room where six long tables, laden with dainties had been spread. Covers were laid for 205 and every place was taken and then a number had to wait until the first banquetters had finished. The provisions were provided by the mothers and friends of the children and the supper arrangements were in charge of the ladies of the Sunday School Association, Mrs. William Hume being convenor of the committee. The occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by everybody. After the supper there was no set programme but the little people were allowed to seek out their own diversion and they made the most of their opportunity J. A. Anderson, superintendent of the school, could not bring himself to the point of calling for order so that he take this opportunity of thanking on behalf of the school the farmers and others who donated the use of their rinks, the ladies who furnished the provisions and those who served ahe supper.

JUST A STRAW.

The fact that New York got the Democratic convention doesn't necessarily mean much in connection with the presidential nomination. Still, the choice of a convention city generally IS regarded as weighing a little. If New York's success counts at all, politicians consider it a point in favor of an eastern candidate.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Missionary Auxiliary Met at the Home of Mrs. W. Larmer.

MILLBROOK, February 9.—The February meeting of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. W. Larmer, 7th Line, Cavan, on Wednesday evening, about 70 members and visitors being in attendance.

The chair was taken by the vice-president, Miss A. Hampton, and Rev. S. T. Tucker led in the opening prayer.

Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards, and four new members were reported, Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mrs. F. Lang, and Mrs. Carveth, Sr., for Mrs. Williamson's group, and Mrs. J. Crossley for Mrs. B. R. Raper's group.

An unusually generous offering was taken up, amounting to over $7.

The Watch Tower proved exceptionally interesting, the report from China telling of the wonderful success attending the series of student conferences being held in various parts of the country under the direction of the Y.W.C.A., while from Japan comes the news that the Japanese Young Women's Christian Temperance Union sent out a petition signed by thousands of women all over the Empire entreating the Government not to allow the rebuilding of the prostitutes' quarter in Tokio.

Some heart searching on the important subject of Christian Stewardship was occasioned by the brief talk on the passage, "I give tithes of all I possess," given by Miss S. Hetherington.

The life work of Rev. A. W. Banfield, now on furlough, who has laboured in West Africa for over 20 years, during the last eight of which he has represented the British and Foreign Bible Society, with headquarters at Lagos, was gone into as fully as time would permit. Mr. Banfield's record reads like a chapter from the life of the Apostle Paul, for "in journeyings often, in perils of robbers and perils of the heathen, in cold and hunger, in thirst and weariness," he covered his three thousand miles of territory.

As a herald of the Gospel he has penetrated, alone and unarmed, into regions where Government officials would hardly dare to go even with an armed escort, and has had a friendly reception sometimes among semi-savage tribes. His journeying is one on foot, or by native canoe where the latter is possible, and his way frequently lies through streams and swamps, which leave him with wet clothing for days at a time.

Mr. Banfield has lived with a Pagan tribe in the heart of "Darkest Africa," 'mastered their language of sound and reduced it to writing, translated the New Testament and two-thirds of the Old Testament into that tongue, compiled a dictionary, a grammar, several school books and collected over six hundred of their proverbs.

From his extensive experience, Mr. Banfield believes a grave mistake was made in taking the blacks to fight against the whites in the late war—a mistake for which the white race will probably yet have to pay dearly since it has lessened their prestige in the eyes of the black men.

For the concluding part of the programme Group D, Mrs. O. Williamson, leader, was responsible, Mrs. Hilliard Lang taking the chair. The Scriptur- lesson from the 91st Psalm was read by Mrs. W. Turner, and Mrs. F. Johnston gave an interesting sketch of the address of Miss Edith Sparling a W.M.S. missionary now on furlough, who spoke on her work in West China at the annual convention of the Lindsay district.

A reading by Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, "Aunt Dinah's 'Inasmuch' Picnic," gave the hearers food for thought as the question of how far individual rtsponsibility in caring for needy ones at home was vividly portrayed.

At the conclusion of the meeting a social time was enjoyed. Several of the men had received a special invitation to be present for the evening, and two contests were heartily entered into, the winners of the first, "Study in Birds," being Mrs. P. Stinson and Mr. G. W. Sayles, and of the second, "Guessing Advertisements," Dr. Wallace and Mr. O. Williamson. The prizes were boxes of delicious home-made candy, which were generously shared with the other guests. The consolation prize went to Mr. Willis and Mr. T. H. Aiken, and to Mrs. G. Freelove.

Mrs. Larmer, assisted by the members of Group D, served a dainty lunch before the guests left for their homes. A hearty vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality and to the drivers who had conveyed the loads to and from the village, Messrs. Hugh Kennedy, A. Johnston, A. J. Brown, and Reg. Willis, was moved by Mrs. H. Lang, seconded by Mrs. O. Williamson, all present signifying their approval by a prolonged clapping of the hands.

Among those present were: Rev. S. T. and Mrs. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. W. Tremaine, Mr. and Mrs. F. McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. O. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Garside, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mr. and Mrs. W. Larmer, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Elson, Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Lang, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. E. Todd, Mrs. J. Crossley, Mrs. Carveth, Sr., Dr. Wallace, Mrs. (Dr.) Mitchell, Mrs. J. Dawson, Mrs. Mrs. F. Johnston, Mrs. A. Kennedy, Mrs. G. Locke, Mr and Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. F. Smith, Mrs. T. Douglas, Mrs. B. R. Raper, Mrs. W. Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. Weatherup, Mrs. F. Lang, Misses A. Hampton, M. E. Hetherington, Estelle Hetherington, E. Krieger, Ethel Richardson, M. Widdis, Amy Donaldson, L. Kennedy, J. Brock, Mrs. W. West, Mrs. S. Bonar, Mrs. W. Turner, Mrs. G. Freelove, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. G. Spence, Mrs. J. Hatherly, Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. J. COUNTY COUNCIL SPECIAL SESSION

Called to Discuss Revision of Road Bylaw--Changes Route of Norwood Road

Lakefield's plans for paved streets, the desires of a deputation that the Norwood Road take in the block road instead of a mile long strip which the speakers said was too hilly and costly, and the desire of the County Council to bring the villages under the county roads system were all turned down yesterday at a special session of the Council, which is continuing to-day.

In discussing the roads system, R. C. Muir, chief engineer of county roads, said the Department favors the cities paying their share of the suburban roads. Detroit paid 87 per cent. last year of the roads in the county. "All we ask the cities to contribute is a fair and reasonable charge, since the roads are of more benefit to the city than to the rural communities."

Mr. Muir assured the committee that the Suburban Areas Commission is a body corporate and that its duties are defined in the Act. "We are all of the opinion that the city should contribute even more than they are now."

Lakefield Street.

Reeve Strickland, undaunted by his cold reception when he broached the question at the last meeting of the Council, returned to the attack yesterday with a demand that in return for Lakefield entering the county roads system the main street or connecting link through the village should be paved. He intimated that a meeting of the ratepayers had discussed the matter, and the spirit of the village is antagonistic to entering the system unless some of the burden is taken off the taxpayers. If the road in question was designated a county provincial road he pointed out the county would gain 60 per cent. on the bride.

"We are willing to go into the system if the county will make a grant of 125 per cent. of the levy. Under these conditions the county would not be taking care of the connecting link."

Mr. Muir thought the 125 per cent. was too much and suggested 110 per cent, Mr. Muir added he did not think the county should take over village streets, the villages should think enough of themselves to take care of their own streets.

Reeve Strickland said Lakefield has been spending $2,800 on its streets. If it entered the system it would still be paying that. The village will not enter the system if it is necessary to raise the taxes to pay for street paving.

Reeve Curtis, called on for his opinion, told a story about a pole cat and an Irishman. Two Irishmen, hunting, came on a pole cat eating a rabbit. "You stay back, Mike," said Pat, "and let me get that fellow. It's not worth wasting a shot on." Pat approached and struck the cat with a stick, when a battle royal commenced. Mike watched the fur fly for some time, mindful of Pat's order not to intervene, but at last asked, "Do you want me to come and help you hold him?" "No, be jabbers," said Pat, "but I wish you would come and help me let go of it."

That, Reeve Curtis thought, typified the question under discussion—most of the councillors would be glad to be in a position to let go. If the county roads system were developed along lines to give all-round satisfaction, the villages would be willing to enter it.

Reeve Strickland returned to the attack on the Lakefield question, reminding the Council that money was being lost through not having Lakefield under the system. If Lakefield paid $800 in road taxes to the county, he required $1,000 in return. This represented a payment by the county of $200 more than it received. But with Lakefield in the county roads system the Government would grant 40 per cent on the amount paid by the county to Lakefield, in this case $1,000, which would amount to $400. Thus, paying $200 to Lakefield and receiving $400 from the Government, the County Council would make $200 every year, besides the $8,000 grant on Lakefield bridge. The heaviest traffic in the county of Peterboro, he added, is through Lakefield.

The proposal made by Messrs. Strickland and Curtis that an agreement be drawn up including the villages, if they desired in the County roads system, and that the county return 125 per cent. of the levy paid by each village on county roads was defeated.

Reeve Strickland said the city should pay dollar for dollar with the county towards county roads; Reeve Curtis said the present system of road construction should be scrapped and the resources of the suburban area commission and the county council should be pooled and expended under the government engineer.

Norwood Road Changed

The Warden was the only person who managed to get a resolution passed yesterday. He proposed that the solicitor be authorized to prepare a bylaw incorporating the boundary road between the townships of Douro and Otonabee and Dummer and Asphodel as a county road. This, in his plan, will ultimately be made a county provincial road instead of the present route that runs through Norwood.

This change will mean that instead of going south at the sixth line while proceeding east from Peterboro" the route will lie north to the township boundary. It is claimed that this will leave Norwood two miles from the county provincial road.

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

COBOURG, Feb. 8 (Special.) — Cobourg has lost its oldest resident, save one, in the death of Mr. Christopher Carruthers, who passed away at his residence, McGill street, at the great old age of 96 years. Mr. Carruthers was born in Dumfries, Scotland, and came to Canada at the age of 24 years, with a half brother, the late George Carruthers. They landed at New York, after spending six weeks on the ocean. His journey across Lake Ontario to Cobourg was made in the Admiral, one of the first boats to ply on that route. He spent a few years in Hamilton, but returned to Cobourg in 1852, and located on the Provincial Highway, west of the town, where he engaged in his trade as a carpenter.

Supplied the Community's Needs.

Mr. Carruthers was a master workman and from his shop in these more primitive days were turned out many articles now manufactured in factories, which were required in the house and on farms in community life — cupboards, book cases, cabinets of beautiful design, were manufactured by him. Having received some two or three contracts Mr. Carruthers moved into Cobourg in 1882 and started in business as a contractor. He built the Roman Catholic church, the fire hall, and superintended the erection of the Cobourg armouries; also building a number of Cobourg's fine residences. At 86 years of age Mr. Carruthers constructed a china cabinet, doing the work by hand, that excited much admiration.

Member of the "Old Kirk."

After coming to Cobourg, Mr. Carruthers united with the Presbyterian congregation that worshipped in the "Old Kirk," which stood for many years on William Street, and was succeeded in 1866 by the present St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Taking a pew in the latter edifice he worshipped there each Sunday until illness prevented his attendance.

For the past two or three years Mr. Carruthers has been confined to his bed but he did not lose his interest in people and events. Although well up in the nineties he was ready to discuss with his family or visitors to his sick room the English political situation or the Irish question as well as affairs in Canada.

Mr. Carruthers is survived by four children two sons George of Cobourg and William of Hamilton, and two daughters Mrs. Churchill of Jackson, of Jackson, Mich., and Miss Carruthers, town. He leaves also 18 grand children and great grand children.

Charged with Robbing Store.

Provincial Officer Cousons took Russell Walters to Toronto on Tuesday night where he was to appear yesterday morning on a charge of receiving stolen goods, knowing them to have been stolen. Walters, with two other men, Harold McBrien, of Toronto, and a third named Yetler, is also charged with robbing the general store at Courtice, near Bowman manville last September, and are to be tried before Judge Hard here.

Formerly Resided Here.

A former resident of Cobourg, Mr. W. A. Jenks, passed away a few days ago at Trenton, where he has resided since 1899, at the age of 80 years. Mr. Jenks was employed with the Crossen Car Co., during his residence in Cobourg. His wife, before her marriage Miss Hannah Farley, died 13 years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Andrew Ellis of Trenton, and Miss Pearl Jenks, Belleville.

JURY IN POLICE CASE DISAGREED

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Four hours after the jury in the re-trial of Police Officers Rooney, Kerr, Mitchell and Fraser, on charges of manslaughter, arising out of the death of John Gogo in a raid on the liquor launch "Hattie C" retired to consider their verdict, they reported to Justice Mowat in the Criminal Assize Court yesterday their inability to agree on a verdict and were discharged.

The four police officers were then bound over in their own bail of $3,000 each to appear at the next court of jurisdiction. It was thought improbable, however, that the Crown would seek a further trial, the jury at the first trial in November having also hopelessly disagreed.

FOR THE COUGH THAT STICKS

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own.

CHEAP AND BEST

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phelgm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions:

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

Farmers' co-operative organizations throughout the country did a business totalling approximately $2,000,000,000 in 1923, the United States Department of Agriculture estimates.

The wealth of the American people has tripled itself since 1900. It is conservatively estimated now at $275,000,000,000. Optimists figures it around $300,000,000,000.

FROZEN TOXIN CAUSES SCARE

Schick Test Infection Spreads to New Schools as Officials Commence Probe.

BOSTON, Feb. 9.— Twenty-five students at the McElwain school at Bridgewater, inoculated with frozen 'toxin and anti-toxin," have become infected and are ill at their homes. It was learned today.

With 19 students already ill at Concord academy, the treatments appeared rapidly assuming the proportions of a scandal.

Doctors were making a feverish investigation as reports of additional cases come in.

Thirty-three pupils were inoculated at the McElwain school Tuesday, school authorities announced. The inoculations were made by Dr. Arthur W. Carr, whose daughter, Nancy, was one of the students made ill.

The students have been ordered to remain in bed for a month. They are suffering from high temperatures, and the inoculated arms are swollen to three times normal size.

Investigation On

Officials of the state department of health are investigating the cases. They do not believe permanent incapacity will result to any of the victims.

In Concord it was believed all the 19 students made ill from the faulty serum will recover.

The fact that the serum had been frozen and thawed was considered largely responsible for the serious results that followed its administration, although physicians admitted that not all its activities are understood thoroughly.

Schick Test

The treatment was originated by Dr. Bela Schick, Austrian scientist, as part of the "Schick test."

Dr. Schick was here with Dr. William H. Parks, of New York, investigating the cases. "This experience has taught us," Dr. Parks said, "to avoid using a product that has been frozen and to adopt certain changes in the vaccine which we believe will make it free from any possibility of harm."

Frozen Vaccine

Schick and physicians who visited the sick children, said illness of the students was due to the fact that "the diphtheria vaccine was frozen in the recent cold spell."

"There was no reason to expect," the statement continued, "that this would cause any change in the vaccine and so it was given.

"The vaccine is made by combining the diphtheria poison with its antidote in such a way as to produce a harmless mixture which has the property of producing immunity.

"The freezing separated some of the poison from its antidote so that the mixture became moderately poisonous."

Canadian Stock Exchange —And Mines— | New York Stock Exchange —and Curb Prices—

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. — (British United Press).—Professional operators attempted to bring about a general re-action, using the developments in the oil investigation at Washington as a basis, but found themselves overwhelmed at the week end by steady holdings of stocks and general business activities.

So unmistakable were the indications for a brisk spring trade that the bear crowd gave up early, more volatile elements joining on the bull side of the market.

Consequently steel rebounded and operations for a rise resulted in sugar and paper, and in specialties like Foundation Company.

The weekly trade reports show that business is continuing strong in spite of unfavorable weather. Building activities, according to early estimates, will shatter all records this year.

Stocks continued to gather momentum on the recovery, which led the whole list to a feeling of marked buoyancy on closing dealings. Quite a heavy percentage of the buying came in over the Florida wires just as most of the selling had done in the previous session.

Steel Common rebounded to 108½ up practically two points from Tuesday's low, and other speculative favorites came back in proportion.

A SWEEP-DAY RIDDLE

Get out of my way, get out of my way.

"Mother Goose," said the Riddle Lady next day when the crowd had gathered in Riddle Town to hear the next riddle, "I don't want you to get offended at my riddle to-day. Will you please not?"

"Is it about me?" asked Mother Goose in surprise.

"Not exactly," laughed the Riddle Lady, and then saying "Excuse me," to everybody, she whispered something in Mother Goose's ear. Then Mother Goose laughed, and the Riddle Lady laughed, and they both laughed.

"Go right ahead" declared Mother Goose, winking at Nancy. "Don't mind me."

"Now for the riddle," said the Riddle Lady. "I suppose you are all tired waiting:

"Get out of my way, get out of my way,
Doesn't everyone know that it's sweeping day?
I rush and I run and I spread out my skirt,
And shoo from my feet every wee scrap of dirt.

"I live in the corner beside the back door,
I never sit down, I just stand on the floor,
When I spy muddy footprints, or breadcrumbs, or dust,
Then out I go rushing, it just seems I must.

"I'm very old-fashioned—I've simply no style,
And I'm quite a home body — but once in a while
They take me and dress me in old ragged clothes
And leave me outside just to scare away crows.

"Sometimes in the winter when snow's lying deep,
I clear away paths, and I sweep and I sweep,
And the boys make a snow man, then shrieking with fun,
They seize me and give me to him for a gun.

"Old Mother Goose rides me up to the sky,
And when we come back in the sweet bye and bye,
The first thing I do is to have sweeping day.
It's dreadful how dirt gathers when one's away.

"But I don't like it outdoors, I much prefer in,
To all of the places that I've ever been,
To sweep is my hobby, I love a clean floor,
Then slip to my corner beside the back door."

"It's a broom," said Nancy quickly. She had to be quick, for nearly all of the Riddle Land people had guessed it, too, and shouted it out at the top of their lungs.

"Right!" said the Riddle Lady. "And the prize is a ride with Mother Goose on her magic broom. You may start at once and take Nick with you. But be sure to be back by to-morrow."

The J.B.L. Cascade, used with sterilized warm water, is easy and pleasant in its effects. You bathe outside, why not bath internally, too—it is far more important?

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Company.

STARTED CLEAN-UP

CHICAGO, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Incensed by the death of Elizabeth Fawcett, aged eleven, alleged to have been due to "treatment" at the hands of chiropractic novices, inspectors for the State Board of Registration started a clean up of the unregistered practitioners yesterday.

The secretary of the Board said that the preliminary examination showed the following business in Chicago alone, pretending to cure all ills from a sprained finger to smallpox by spinal adjustment.

The mail order schools turn out most of the "graduates," who may obtain diplomas to practice after ten months' study of the mail courses, at prices ranging from $90.00 to $280.00.

Most of these graduates are former barbers, blacksmiths, clerks, farm boys, and others who like to affix "Dr." to their names.

THE NOVA SCOTIA COAL TIE UP MAY SOON BE SETTLED

MONTREAL, Feb. 9. — Prospects were hopeful last night that negotiations would be resumed shortly between the British Empire Steel Corporation and the United Mine Workers of America to settle the Nova Scotia coal tie up, with the possibility that the Federal Department of Labor would act as a third party to help bridge the acknowledged narrow gap which exists between the negotiators.

E. M. Quidk of the Federal Department of Labor, met with the parties separately yesterday morning, and a joint meeting with Mr. Quirk present was held in the afternoon.

"We do not propose much longer to sit by and have have any information regarding the negotiations between the British Empire Steel Corporation, and the United Mine workers of American, concerning the present wage dispute in the Nova Scotia coal fields," declared Premier Armstrong.

ANOTHER SOCIETY BEAUTY IN FILMS.

Thelma Morgan of New York's Four Hundred Follows Lydig Hoyt to Fame.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Encouraged by the success of Mrs. Lydig Hoyt on the screen and stage, society has given another of its beauties to the movies.

She is a twin sister of Gloria, now Mrs. Reginald Claypool Vanderbilt. Another sister, Consuelo, now Mrs. Benjamin Thaw of Pittsburg, formerly was the Countess de Maupas. And her ma and pa are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hays Morgan. Morgan is American consul general at Buenos Aires.

Thelma is only 18. She has liquid brown eyes and hair to match, worn long. And she has that same interest and energy that won Mrs. Lydig Hoyt such fame.

"My friends told me," Thelma explains, "that I took the part in Miss Swanson's film as a lark.

"With me a screen career is not a lark, but is most emphatically my most driving motive for living. I want to succeed, and if hard work will do it, I will win.

"I was afraid at first to make the plunge," she goes on. "I was afraid the screen folk would resent my intrusion, if you would call it that. Then I realized I could no more help my family's social position than they could, and that the decent ones would realize it.

"I know too well that I will last in films only if I make good. Social position may gain an entry more quickly than otherwise might be the case, but it won't carry on indefinitely.

"After all, there isn't anything peculiar about my going into films. I like to work and always have liked to.

"Doesn't that explain it?"

CATTLE FLU IS BAD.

LONDON.—Farmers throughout England are becoming alarmed at the fast spreading epidemic of hoof and mouth disease. Killing and burning are going on in many districts almost continuously.

NEWSPAPERS BOOST EXHIBITIONS MOST

Joe Hay Advises Fair Boards to Leave Doddering Junk and Put Faith in Press.

How should a "fall fair" be advertised? No one knows better how to do it than "Joe" Hay, publicity manager of the "biggest annual exhibition on earth"—the Canadian National—and he gave the Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions some wholesome advice.

"Publicity is doing for commerce what machinery did for the manufacturer," said Mr. Hay. "Fairs are of great practical utility and educational value. Properly run they will put a community on the map; they stimulate the farmer and breeder to produce better live stock and better farm products; they teach boys and girls the science of the soil. And, doing such a work, they deserve every encouragement the public, the press or the Government can give them."

Regarding posters used by Canadian fairs, he regretted that most of them were made in the United States and taken out of stock that had done duty for at least twenty-five years or more.

Use Modern Posters

"Surely Canadian lithographers or printers have progressed to the extent that they can supply you with Made-in-Canada product superior to the decrepit, doddering old age junk that some of us use to advertise our fairs today," he said. "The Fair Association of Ontario, and every other Province, for that matter, should co-operate in originating and producing their advertising literature. There are, perhaps, not more than half a dozen fairs in the eastern part of Canada sufficiently strong financially to meet the cost of original posters and other forms of advertisement. The remainder depend upon stock stuff. We have very little that is fair advertising."

Small Fairs Hard to Run

It was harder to run a small fair successfully than a big one, went on Mr. Hay. He advocated strongly that the directors start off by appropriating at least 10 per cent. of the income based on last year's revenue, for the next year's advertising. "If possible, under your charter, add to your board the publisher an editor of your local paper. Never mind if his political views are not the same. You are handling a community-building institution," he urged.

With large fairs, 75 per cent. of the advertising appropriation went to the newspapers. The remainder goes for booklets, posters and novelty forms of publicity.

Put Faith in Press

"The newspapers are by far our best friends," he said. "Place your confidence in the press. Use your local merchant more. Every merchant should be induced to print on his letterheads accounts or invoices, the date of your fair, or to slip in each envelope he sends out a little folder, supplied by yourself. Think seriously over a co-operative advertising policy for Ontario fairs, with or without Government assistance."

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont. —"I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that litttle book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. HARVEY MILLIGAN, Sydenham, Ontario.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother. C

"If what I said sounded brutal, it was merely to remind you that love—the intense passionate love I have no doubt you feel for this young man who helps you to realize your renewed youth—never lasts. And when this new love of yours burns itself out—you never had the reputation of being very constant, dear Marie—you will have an alien young man on your hands, while that remarkable brain of yours will be demanding its field of action. You are European, not American—why, even your accent is stronger than mine! That may be due to an uncommonly susceptible ear, but as a matter of fact your mind has a stronger accent still. You become thoroughly Europeanized, one of us, and—I say this quite impartially—the most states man-like woman in Europe. Your mind was still plastic when you came to us—and your plastic years are long over, ma chere. If you mind had become as young as your body, you would have bitterly resented it. You were always very proud of that intellect of yours—and with the best of reasons."

Mary was staring out of the window. She recalled that she had faced the fact of the old mind in the young brain when she first recovered that she loved Clavering. How could she have forgotten . . . for a few short weeks—and up there? . . . She raised her eyes to the mountain. From where she sat she could not see the top. It looked like an impenetrable rampart, rising to the skies.

"Can you tell me with honesty and candor," he continued in those same gentle tones that had always reminded her of limpid water running over iron, "—and for all your subtlety your mind is too arrogant and fearless to be otherwise than honest au fond—that you believe you could remain satisfied with love alone? For more, let us say, than a year?"

She moved restlessly. "Perhaps not. But I had planned to live in Vienna. He would spent only a part of the year there with me. His own interests are here, of course. It would be a perfectly workable arrangement."

"Are you sure? If you are, I must conclude that in the mental confusion love so often induces, you have lost temporarily your remarkable powers of clear and coherent thought. Do you not realize that you would no longer be Grafin Zattiany, you would be Jrs. Lee Clavering? Do you imagine for a moment that you could play the great role in Austrian affairs you have set yourself, handicapped by an American name—and an American husband? Not with all your gifts, your wealty, your genius for playing on that complex instrument called human nature. Austria may be a Republic of sorts, but it is still Austria. You would be an American and an outsider—a presumptuous interloper."

She stared at him aghast. "I—oh! —I had not thought of that. It seems incomprehensible—but I had never thought of myself as Mrs. Clavering. I have been Grafin Zattiany so long."

"And your plans were well defined, and your ambition to play a great role on the modern European stage possessed you utterly until you met this young man—is it not so?"

"Oh, yes, but——"

"I understand. It must have been quite a marvelous experience, after those barren years, to feel yourself glowing with all the vitalities of youth once more; to bring young men to your feet with a glance and to fancy yourself in love——"

"Fancy! " She interrupted him passionately. "I am in love—and more —more than I ever was with you. Until I met him I did not even guess that I had the capacity to love again. It was the last thing I wanter. Abhorrent! But . . . but . . . he has something for me that yo—not even you—ever had . . . that I had given up hope of finding long before I met you . . ."

She stopped, coloring and hesitating. She had an intense desire to make this man understand, but she shivered, as if her proud reserve were a visible garment that she had torn off and flung at his feet, leaving her naked to his ironic gaze.

He was leaning forward, regarding her through his veiled eyes. Their light was not ironic, but it was very penetrating.

"And what is that something, Marie?" he asked softly.

"I—you know those things cannot be put into words."

"I fancy they can. It is merely one more delusion of the sesses. One of the imagination's most devilish tricks. I had it for you and you for me—for a time! In fthe intimacies of either a liaison or matrimony that supreme delusion is soon scattered, ma chere."

"But I believe it." She spoke obstinately, although that brawling streamed to take on a note of derision.

"Do you? Not in the depths of your clear brain. The mist on top is dense and hot—but, alas for those mists!"

"I refuse to discuss it," she said haughtily. "Why do you wish to marry me yourself?"

"Because I need your partnership as much as you need mine. Even if you returned to Austria unencumbered, you could accomplish less alone than with a man of equal endowments and greater power beside you. Two strong brains and characters with similar purpose can always accomplish more together than alone. I intend to rule and to save Austria, and I need you, your help, your advice, your subtlety, your compelling fascination, and your great personality."

"Do you intend to make yourself king?" she asked insolently, although his words had thrilled her.

"You know that is a foolish question. I do not even use my title there. But I intend to make Vienna the capital of a great and powerfuls Republic, and I therefore ask you to renounce, before it is too late, this commonplace and unworthy dream of young love, and stand beside me. Youth—real youth—and the best years of maturity are the seasons for love. You and I have sterner duties. Do you suppose that I would sacrifice Austria for some brief wild hope of human happiness? And you are only two years younger than I am. Nothing can alter the march of the years. Moreover, you owe to Austria this wonderful rejuvenescence of yours. Steinach is not an American."

She stamped her foot. "You descend to quibbling. And I have more than repaid Austria all that I owe her."

"You have given her money and service, but she expects more, and you pledged yourself to her before you left. And don't forget that she is the country of your deliberate adoption. A far more momentous thing than any mere accident of birth. You did not return to America when Zattiany died. You never even paid her a brief visit after your marriage. You would not be here now but for the imperative necessities of business. You are Austrian to your marrow."

"He was leaning forward, regarding her through his veiled eyes."

"I had a role thrust on me and I played it. My parents came to Europe every year until they died. When Zattiany went, there were no ties to draw me back and habit is strong. But—underneath—I don't believe that I have ever been other than Mary Ogden."

She blushed as she said it, and he looked at her keenly.

"I think I understand. He is a very clever young man—of an outstanding cleverness, I am told. Or it may be that he is merely in love, and love's delusions are infinite—for a time. I doubt if a young man with so brilliant an intellect would, if he faced himself in honest detachment, admit that he believed anything of the sort. Nor do you, my dear Marie, nor do you."

She twisted her hands together, but would not raise her eyes. He bent forward again and said harshly:

"Marie! Glance inward. Do you see nothing that causes you to feel ashamed and foolish? Do you—you—fail to recognize the indecency of a woman of your mental age permitting herself to fancy that she is experiencing the authentic passions of youth? Are you capable of creating life? Can you love with unsullied memory? Have you the ideals of youth, the plasticity, the hopes, the illusions? Have you still even that power of desperate mental passion, so often subordinating the merely physical, of the mature woman who seeks for the last time to find in love what love has not? The final delusion. No, Marie. Your revivified glands have restored to you the appearance and the strength of youth, but, although you have played with a role that appealed to your vanity, to your histrionic powers—with yourself as chief audience—your natural desire to see if you could not be—to yourself, again—as young as you appear, you have no more illusion in your soul than when you were a withered old woman in Vienna."

WEAR DRESS WITH FEMININE TOUCHES

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—One of the most effective ways to inject a little new life and pep into the blue serge or black crepe dress, that has done service since last fall, is to invest in some smart collars and cuffs.

These offer a pleasant compromise between one's inclinations for spring clothes and the necessity for winter wear.

They also create that impression of femininity which works such wonders with the masculine sex.

Some of the newest collars are arranged on net blouse foundations so that the inconvenience of basting it to the frock is obviated. Smart collars for the round neckline come close about the neck and do not need to be fastened to the frock, as the neckline of the frock is entirely covered by the collar.

There are detachable puffs or ruffles that may be fastened inside the short sleeve to make it practically any length. And there are wide turn-back cuffs that make any stop you desire between the wrist and the elbow.

White crepe de chine or satin models are frequently made quite plain with only pleating, buttons or hemstitching for trimming. Those of net or batiste are frequently embellished with one or many kinds of lace and tucks, ruffles, pleating or what not.

With the flannel or jersey frock sets of white or ecru linen, with a variation of the Peter Pan collar and wide rather close cuffs, are popular. These are undoubtedly the most youthful accessories in which any woman may invest.

Besides collars and gilets of white are many others of delicate or brilliant-hued organdie, striped or checked gingham, that give a little more service before they go to the laundry and also add the touch of color so much in vogue now.

PAINTED ROOSEVELT, NOW LIVES IN WANT

Spaniard's Canvases Hang in Museum as He Starves.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—His canvases hang in museums in London, Paris, Berlin and Madrid, but the man who once painted Roosevelt and Vincent Astor and saw the Kaiser bid $10,000 for one of his paintings today is at the verge of starvation in a chill one-room attic studio here.

Louis Graner, Spanish artist, was discovered by two callers, wrapped in his overcoat, his head buried in his arms, leaning on a pine table that bore his palette and brush and a little jelly, a roll and a bowl of soup that a neighbor had sent in. One wall was covered with newspaper clippings and photographs, bitter reminders of his days of glory.

He pointed to a still life. "Look at it. I worked a week on it and then—some one he offer me $5," he exclaimed.

His one year in New York has taught him how people forget. They do not flock to have portraits painted as they did 12 years ago when he was a star of the Societe Nationale des Beauz Arts of Paris. But Graner declared that he loves New York, though it has been cruel.

Constant Headaches And Dizziness.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time, and in nine cases out of ten the persistent headaches are due to some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters removes the cause of the headaches, as it acts on every organ of the body and strengthens, purifies and regulates the whole system.

Mrs. Peter Curran, 27 Morrison St., Sydney, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled for the last five years with constant headaches and dizziness. After trying several remedies, which I found to be of no avail, Burdock Blood Bitters was recommended to me.

B.B.B. did me a world of good, and I cannot praise this remedy enough."

NO QUARTER FOR RABBIT

By ALBERT STOLL, JR.

The hunt was on. He had what were considered the best "rabbit" hounds in the township, sturdy little beagles, strong of leg and splendidly voiced.

Our host, a fruit grower harboring a well nourished grudge against the "cotton-tails" of the neighboring swamps and swales, for the girdling of his growing fruit trees, was legally possessed of a ferret.

This triumvirate of destruction, guns, hounds, and ferret, spelled disaster and death to the rabbit.

A fresh track and away went the beagle dogs. What terror the first notes must have struck in the heart of the unsuspecting cotton-tail. Yet, safety for him was not far distant. Many times before he had successfully eluded his four-footed pursuers by seeking the shelter of his underground home. Straightway he laid his course and arrived. Shortly he was aware of the presence of the hounds at the entrance of his burrow. A brief wait—and then the voices of men. Without warning or sign a sleek-furred, sharp-toothed creature was rapidly coming toward him. Quick as a flash he again thought of escape from this—the most deadly of his enemies. The second entrance to his burrow offered the means. Away he went emerging from the hole like a shot.

The hunters and hounds expected this. The twelve gauge barked but once—the cotton-tail laid inert upon the blood-stained snow.

No quarter—it's not much sport but it gets the game.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

PREVENTING VOICE STRAIN

Children should be encouraged to sing. As a health measure singing is invaluable. A light heart—a heart that can sing to itself—that is the thing to carry you through life.

Singing is an excellent method of exercising and strengthening the muscles and other throat structures. When we fully realize how many diseases seek their point of attack from throat infection, and how a healthy mouth, throat and tonsils can save us from a world of suffering, we can appreciate the health value of a singing voice and a strong, healthy larynx.

For the child who is at all inclined to sing, use the greatest precautions to prevent any possible injury or straining of the vocal structures in early years. When the little one begins to sing and trill, use your powers of direction and help to prevent any strain. At the period when the voice is changing, singing and use of the voice, in anything but the simplest exercises, should be carefully avoided Singing is one of the very best forms of respiratory gymnastics and tends to develop a full, well-formed chest

The adult person must be careful not to use the singing voice too soon after an attack, no matter how slight, of colds, catarrh or acute laryngitis. The laryngeal muscles are so much swollen and disturbed that, if persisted in, actual loss of the singing voice may result.

Do not strain your voice by improper methods or undue muscular tension. The straining of your vocal structures is too forceful vocalizing may permanently injure and stiffen the throat and larynx action. Their adjustment is thereby slow and untimely; in other words, they become muscle-bound. Your health is thereby injured and your general resistance lowered.

The Realities of Literary Work

There was never a time in the history of the world when there was such a market for all kinds and grades of literary work. It is quite true, as a good many advertisements state, that editors frantically search everywhere for material for their publications, but it is also true that few of those who feel that they possess talent for such work understand the practical end of what they want to make their business.

Too many, especially young people, think that getting the inspiration for a story or the idea for an article is all that is needed for the production of a saleable piece of work. The reply to this is that inspiration is the first tool of the writing trade, but that grammar, composition, knowledge of life, capacity for expressing individuality and a workmanlike knowledge of the conditions of the trade are equally important. Canada buys at least four-fifths of its reading matter, insofar as its daily, weekly and monthly publications are concerned, from the United States. She does so because, in the great publishing centres, especially of New York and Chicago, there are many people who have had the severe literary training which the intense competition there both demands and gives.

This severe training any writer may give her or himself, no matter how remote they may be from any centres, if they will make up their minds that learning the trade of authorship is a practical as well as an inspirational affair.

As many a well known English writer has pointed out, learning to write means that a great amount of product must be turned out as practice. Too many young writers produce three or four stories, and then try to sell them. Selling your productions should have no reference to what you produce.

Let us enumerate some of the essentials of the literary work bench, as it were:

A grammar.

The best dictionary to be bought. Small, incomplete and abridged editions are worth nothing to the literary worker.

A typewriter. Not to be able to type your own work is not only a great inconvenience but is very expensive and this is an item that, as a rule, the beginner cannot afford to ignore.

The proper manuscript paper: 8½ by 11.

A Thesaurus.

Now then, with this equipment, let the man or woman who would be a writer sit down at this bench and turn out at least fifteen hundred words a day. It is possible to do this, even though the eight hours of the working day is taken up with the job of making bread and butter. It is possible, if the writer is determined to succeed, which means that diversions and social engagements, so-called social obligations and all other interests are strictly subordinated to the one thing, that of mastering the trade of writing.

If this seems too high a price to pay, then you are not of that small class which has real talent for writing and you had much better turn to something less exacting.

As for the rewards, they are sometimes great and sometimes only moderate, sometimes are gained soon and other times may delay their appearance for a long time. Arthur Stringer made a whole career in another field before he was successful as an author Booth Tarkington had years when he could not sell a single product of his pen. Mary Roberts Rinehart has made a great fortune, but people are apt to forget how long she has been writing. Many Canadian authors have other occupations. Stephen Leacock is a professor in McGill University. Goldwin Smith, one of the great stars in the literary crown of Canada, was a professor in the University of Toronto

The Healthful Walk

WHAT is more pleasant and exhilarating than a brisk walk in the crisp, fresh air.

You breathe deeply. The blood is purified. The circulation is quickened. The bloom comes to the cheeks and you feel fine.

The vital organs are put in fine condition by walking and many ailments can be relieved mainly because the liver action is aroused.

And yet we do not walk.

It is so much easier to ride in an auto or street car that walking is becoming a lost art.

Since we do not take the necessary exercise to keep the liver active and the bowels regular it becomes necessary to resort to other means.

The most popular family regulator is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, for by use of this medicine once or twice a week you can be sure of the healthful action of liver, kidneys and bowels.

Our greatest danger in this age of sedentary habits is from overeating and neglecting to pay attention to the regularity of these eliminating organs.

Most of our ills come from this condition. For proof of this statement you need only enquire at the hospitals where there is always a rush of appendicitis and liver and kidney cases after the holdiay season and during the winter months when we use so much artificial food and live cooped up in houses from which fresh air is carefully excluded.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is 60 cents a box of 60 pills, instead of 50 cents a box for 50 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

BAY OF QUINTE GROUP WINNERS ARE AGAIN ELIMINATED FROM O.H.A. AFTER FINE RECORD IN THEIR OWN DISTRICT

Red Shirts of Belleville Were Soundly Beaten at Brock Street By Score of 8-1—Peterboro Proves Nemesis of Eastern Hockey Hopes For Second Year in Succession — Visitors Were Outplayed Practically All the W ay and Only Goal Was a Cheap One.

GAME FAST AND CLEAN.

Dominating the red-shirted visitors from gong to gong and skating them into the ground the Petes eliminated Belleville from the O.H. A. race for the second year in succession by beating Ed. Thomas' crew 8 goals to 1 at Brock Street Rink last night.

The score on the round was therefore 11 to 6 in favour of the blue sweatered homesters.

There never was any doubt last night as to which was the better team. The Petes wiped out their deficit in the first period and were one in front on the round at the end of the first twenty minutes. Each team scored once in the second session although on the play the Petes should have had half a dozen and the last period started with the home talent still one to the good on the round. Belleville made a last stand early in the last period, but the Petes held them off and then came on in the last ten minutes and ran in four goals.

Better All Round.

The winners had a wide margin over the Easterners in practically every department of the game. They broke faster, passed better and more often, and showed more cleverness in stickhandling on the attack, while defensively the checking of the blue shirts was a treat. Green the clever Belleville defence man was made to look a very ordinary player, indeed, so hornet-like was the checking of the homesters and the red-sweatered gang that had walked through all opposition in a tough five-club group did not appear any more formidable than the teams the Petes overcame in their own district. They were, of course, but the Petes set such a pace that Belleville appeared weak although a team that can triumph over Kingston Frontenacs, Queen's University, Brockville and Cornwall, need something besides a set of uniforms and a few hockey sticks.

Breaks Helped Visitors.

On the play the home crew should have had a wider margin, just as in Wednesday's game at Beleville they should have won. The breaks beat them in Belleville just as in the second period of last night's game the breaks enabled the visitors to hold the Petes to one goal although they were attacking 75 per cent of the time and were inside on half a dozen occasions.

A huge crowd saw the battle, too huge for the ice, which, although like glass when the game got under way, soon grew sticky. The no-smoking rule was vigorously enforced and the conditions were much better than usual for both players and spectators.

Whole Team Good.

Every one of the Petes did his bit towards the clean cut victory. Dwyer has had much busier evenings but he had some mean shots to handle, nevertheless, and he dealt with them in his usual effective style. Parker's checking was immense and his rushing had the Belleville crew cross-eyed trying to stop him. The big boy was a very material help to the Petes last night for he was dangerous every time he broke away. Grover Halpin was the surprise of the evening, showing his old time speed and cleverness and checking with good judgment. Halpin has been working hard to get into shape and last night he showed that he has arrived with a vengeance. McMartin subbed for him on the defence and so did an odd turn on the forward line and worked hard in both positions.

The Advance Guard.

The whole advance guard was good all the way. Ranger played his best game of the year, doing some beautiful stickhandling while his poke checking stopped the visitors time after time. Collins backchecking was immense and he found time to corrall three nice goals on his own account. Ray Rose subbed in all three positions on the forward line and was effective wherever and whenever used while Burgess was brilliant going either way and even a jab in the eye failed to stop him for more than a few mintaes. The little right wing is playing his best hockey since he came to Peterboro three season's ago.

Belleville Outplayed.

Nurse, the Belleville goal-minder, did his best to hold his team up, making a lot of good stops and he had little chance with most of those that beat him as they were from close in with the defence beaten. Green although bottled up pretty well when he took the offensive did some excellent checking and Finkle also worked hard. The Belleville forwards were badly outplayed and although Weir and Hagerman did some great back checking they were never particularly dangerous on the attack. Whelan was the most effective of the visitors when it came to working in on the defence, although he did not score, the only goal going to Frechette, who loafed all night as usual and saved Belleville from a shut out by a snap shot from a scrimmage near the boards.

The teams:

Belleville.

Goal—Nurse.
Defence—Green, Finkle.
Centre—Hagerman.
Subs—Whelan, Canning.

Peterboro.

Goal—Dwyer.
Defence—Parker, Halpin.
Centre—Collins.
Right wing—Burgess.
Subs—Rose, McMartin.

First Period.

The Petes jumped into the game at top speed from the first face off, determined to get the jump on the red shirts and wipe out the two goal deficit in a hurry. Despite an early penalty to Collins for tripping the homesters had the edge and Nurse stopped a couple of dangerous shots that temporarily saved the situation. Then Finkle drew a penalty for slashing and the Petes quickly took advantage of the opportunity, Parker getting away for a nice rush. He let drive from outside the defense and registered on a low swift drive that Nurse tried to block by going to his knees. Belleville "kicked" over this counter and a change of goal umpires was insisted upon by the visitors.

Whelan followed Finkle to the hoosegow for tripping and the visitors were two men short. It was a great opportunity and the Petes took advantage of it to tie up the round. Parker lost one great chance by failing to pass with only Green to beat but a Ranger to Rose to Ranger play immediately after enabled the latter to slip close in and beat Nurse for the equalizer.

The Petes continued to press but were held off the score sheet for some time, losing some great chances. Ranger stickhandled around Finkle and Green once and tried to pull Nurse out but got in too far and the Belleville goaler beat him when a score looked certain.

A little later, however, Ranger went down the wing and this time made no mistake, rifling a swift shot from the side that fooled Nurse cleanly.

The end of the period saw no change in the score, leaving the Petes 3 to 0 in front on the game and 6 to 5 on the round.

Second Period.

The Petes set the pace for the visitors in the second session and the Belleville defence was working overtime. Early in the period Burgess got right inside only to be beaten by Nurse and the Belleville goaler also blocked the rebound when Collins slapped it back at him. It was a close. A moment later Burgess and Ranger combined nicely and although Nurse stopped the left wing's shot Collins slipped in to net the rebound and the Petes were 4 to 0 to the good and two up on the round.

They were dangerous a dozen times in the next ten minutes but couldn't score. Parker and Collins scerved penalties during this stage but even with a man short the blue shirts were tearing in and Nurse was busy. He made a great save when Ranger twisted inside the defence and a little later deflected a hard one from Collins with his hand when he was apparently beat.

But after all this excitement it was Belleville who finally scored. Frechette loafing along the boards grabbed a loose puck and although checked let drive from the wing and beat Dwyer making the score 4 to 1.

The goal acted as a spur on the visitors and for the two minutes that remained they looked like a new team.

The Final Session.

The red shirts made a gallant stand in the early part of the last twenty. They realized that a goal for them then would not only tie the round but might take the fight out of the Petes. They cut loose with every ounce of speed they had and they kept the homesters busy for ten minutes. The Petes, however, were checking closely and in spite of their persistent attacks the Easterners were allowed few opportunities for a shot and Dwyer took care of all they did get away. Then Parker put the game on ice with the period half gone when he eluded the Belleville forwards and with Collins at his side tore down the rink. When the defence was reached he slipped the rubber over to Collins who raced in and beat Nurse with the "million dollar" goal.

Burgess increased the lead a little later when he carved the rubber in close and slipped it between Nurse's legs.

Then Belleville threw defence methods to the wind and shot their rear guard up on the attack in a desperate attempt to pull the game out of the fire.

It got them nothing, however, for the Petes were checking closely and took advantage of the opportunity to break away for two more counters. Parker started the first one by stickhandling through three or four of the red shirts and breaking away with one defence man to beat. Rose was with him and a neat pass at the right time enabled Ray to skate in on top of Nurse and he made no mistake, driving a swift one past the goaler.

A little later Rose and Collins duplicated the play, Collins scoring from close in on Ray's pass.

The Petes found the nets once more before the game had ended but the bell had run for an offside. Nobody cared about that one anyway, unless it was some individual who might have won a pool on a 9 to 1 score.

A CHECKING GAME.

KITCHENER, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Kitchener Juniors will carry a three-goal lead to Preston for the return game in the O.H.A. Junior second round Tuesday night as the result of their 5 to 2 victory here last night. The better team won by the margin indicated, but the Prestonites put up a stubborn fight.

It was a close checking game and not until the final period did the teams really get playing properly. In the first period the Kitchener team threw combination to the winds and Preston checked them "off their feet," with the result that the count was one all at the end of the initial twenty minutes.

A CLOSE FINISH IN GIRLS' GAME

Lakefield Defeated Campbellford in Ladies' O.H.A. Game By 7-4 But Campbellford Lead on Series By 12-11.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9.—Campbellford girls were defeated here last night by the score of 7-4 in the second game in the local group of the Ladies' O.H.A. The visitors, however, doubled the score by 8-4 at home and are thereby leading by the aggregate of 12-11. It was not definitely known last night whether goals or games counted in this round.

The teams were as follows:

Lakefield—Goal, Winnifred Batten; def., Mary Mackenzie and Stella Lennox; centre, Evelyn Northey; r.w., Jean Ridpath; l.w., Helen Burgess; subs., Florence Hewitt and Lily Mackenzie.

Referee—Reg. Murdoff.

The game drew a big crowd. Lakefield ran in four goals in the first period and added two more in the second before Campbellford counted their first tally. The visitors added two more in that session, making the score 6-3 at the end of the period. Each team scored one in the final. The goal getters were: for Lakefield, Mary Mackenzie 5 and Evelyn Northey 2; for Campbellford, Verna Shore 2 and Grace Blue 2.

For the visitors Verna Shore and Evelyn Irwn were the bright stars. Grace Blue did not appear to be as effective as usual. At least she did not score as many goals, but she was in many combinations. Verna Shore, the captain of the Davidson damsels, played a fine game.

Mary Mackenzie, Evelyn Northey and Jean Ridpath were Lakefield's stellar performers. Miss Northey was the fastest skater on the ice, but Miss Mackenzie nicked the tally card oftenest. Winnifred Batten was playing her first game in goal, and made a good job of it. Lily Mackenzie, eleven years old, the youngest of both squads, was the sensation when she was turned loose from the substation. She checked like a boy and was in most of the plays while she was doing her stuff.

O. H. A. Suspended Lindsay Player.

LINDSAY, February 9. — Lindsay Club has been notified by the O.H.A. that M. Hamilton, a local player, has been suspended. He cannot rightfully engage in any competitions or matches until that edict is recalled

All hockey players should bear in mind that when they play on a team against Mr. Hamilton, or on a team with Mr. Hamilton, that this also is a serious offence, and they are automatically suspended from the O.H.A.

It is a serious matter to try to "put anything over" on the O.H.A. Players who want to play hockey next year should take warning.

It is understood that Mr. Hamilton played against the Oakwood team the other night, and that a strenuous complaint has been received from the Oakwood Club.

A POOR EXHIBITION.

GALT, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—In the poorest exhibition of hockey witnessed here this winter, both teams playing indifferent, the Kitchener Green Shirts defeated the local O.H.A. Seniors 5 to 1. It was a wretched exhibition, with not a redeeming feature. The score by periods was 2-1, 1-1 and 2-1. The first period was not so bad, but after the visitors assumed the lead, they also became careless. Not a penalty was imposed.

CORNWALL WON GAME.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press). — Cornwall defeated Brockville 1 to 0 here last night in the final game of Group No. 1 of the O.H.A. Intermediate series. The teams played goalless hockey all the way through the game until the play was within ten seconds of termination, when Contant registered a goal that, though a "fluke," was enough to win. The stars of the game were the two goalers, who gave a thrilling exhibition.

GROVE SECONDS WON.

LAKEFIELD, February 9 — The Grove School second team defeated the Presbyterians by the score of 11 to 1 in a Mackenzie Cup game yesterday

Reg Murduff refereed.

TWEED DOUBLED NORWOOD SCORE

Big Game of Trent Valley League Will Be Next Friday Night When Havelock Goes to Tweed

NORWOOD, Feb. 9.—Tweed improved their position in the Trent Valley Legue race last night by defeating Norwood by the score of 4 to 2. The game started slowly and the whole first period dragged as neither team seemed able to get under steam. They both came to life half way through the second, and from then on both teams provided an interesting exhibition for the fairly large crowd. By periods the score was 2-1, 4-1 and 4-2 in favor of the visitors. Tom Beatty refereed.

The big game of the eastern section of the league is billed for Friday, February 15, when Havelock invade Tweed. The championship depends on the result from present appearances. The C.P.R. outfit have a clean sheet so far, their victories including the defeat of Tweed on Havelock ice. On the other hand, Tweed has lost but one game, and if they win Friday night the standing will be tied up. Havelock are arranging for a special train and will take an army corps of rooters with them.

Muldoon Defeated For Boxing Chairmanship.

NEW YORK, February 9 (Canadian Press). — George E. Brower, Brooklyn lawyer, yesterday became the dominating figure in the control of boxing in this State, the national centre of fistic activity, when he defeated William Muldoon in a sharp contest for the chairmanship of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Brower was elected over his veteran opponent by a vote of two to one.

James Farley, new appointee from Rockland County, and the remaining member of the Commission, was undertsood to have cast the deciding ballot in Brower's favour, with the rival candidates voting for themselves.

Brower's election came as a sensation to boxing circles, despite the reports earlier in the week of a disagreement over the reorganisation of the Commission.

O. H. A. COMMITTEE HANDLES CHARGES

Conflicting Evidence Caused Committee to Throw Out Two Protests —Several Suspensions.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— A sub-committee of the Ontario Hockey Association, at its two-day session held Thursday and yesterday, decided to allow Niagara Falls at Grimsby game of Feb. 1st, and protested by Grimsby, to stand as played. Niagara Falls won the game 7 to 2 and the Grimsby club, in its protest, made several charges, but the evidence was conflicting. However, Stephen Rice, centre player on the Niagara Falls team, was suspended indefinitely for an attack on a goal umpire during the same game. Earl Myers, of the Wiarton club, was also suspended indefinitely for making an attack on the goal umpire in a game played between Listowel and Wiarton in Wiarton on January 25th. Listowel protested this game, claiming unnecessary rough play on the part of the Wiarton players and intimidating the referee. This was thrown out, the Wiarton club being given the benefit of the doubt, owing to conflicting evidence.

However, there have been adverse reports on the treatment accorded visiting teams to Wiarton in the past and the Wiarton club, players and spectators are warned that any further complaints made will not be so leniently dealt with.

W. H. Totten was declared eligible to play with Wiarton intermediates.

Members of the sub-committee stood by their previous decision and refused permission to Dr. Willard Box and Dalton Meeking to play with North Toronto intermediates.

President W. A. Fry, Dunnville, occupied the chair, Sheriff J. F. Paxton, Whitby and W. W. Davidson, Toronto, being present.

AURA LEE JUNIORS 4; PADDLERS 1.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. Canadian Press —Aura Lee improved their position in the local Junior O.H.A. group by defeating Parkdale Canoe Club by 4 goals to one, in the replay of thirty minutes overtime tie that the two teams staged last week, and there is but one game between Bill Marsden's juniors and the play off with Varsity for the group title, and that is against St. Mary's on Monday night.

If the Avenue Roaders lose Monday's game they will have to replay their 30 minutes overtime tie of Monday night with the Toronto Canoe Club.

HAMILTON TIGERS 12; ST. MARY'S 5

HAMILTON, Feb. 9—(Canadian Press.)— In a rather loose exhibition, Tigers mastered St. Mary's of Toronto, 12 to 5 in a Senior O.H.A. game at the arena last night and strengthened their position at the top of the ladder. A few loyal enthusiasts were on hand to encourage the locals and at times were thrilled but the game was too one-sided to be interesting. St. Mary's were outclassed in practically every department. At times the Toronto lads showed dashes of good hockey but they were unable to pentrate the Tiger defence and then combination play was ineffective. Carson Cooper scored seven of Tigers twelve goals.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO OSHAWA ON MONDAY NIGHT

Fans Will Have Chance to See Two Old Rivals in Third Round Clash.

And now it's on to Oshawa!

Tre Petes will clash with the motor town crew in home and home games, the first in Oshawa on Monday night and the return game here on Wednesday.

It should be a great series.

Last winter the blue shirts were beaten 3 to 2 in Oshawa and in this return game won by 2 to 0 giving them the narrowest possible margin on the round.

The line ups this year show little difference in either team and two great battles should be seen when the outfits clash.

In order to let the Peterboro fans have an opportunity of seeing the game in Oshawa on Monday night a special G.T.R. train is being arranged for leaving here at 5.50 p.m. and leaving Oshawa on the return trip at 11.30 o'clock. A fast trip is promised and the fans will reach Oshawa in ample time for the game.

Those who want to go are asked to leave their names at E. Wright's cigar store either to-night or Monday morning.

Peterboro boys are starring in hockey circles in Windsor, Chris. Bergoine playing goal. Jerry Cough lin defence and Leith Bartley centre for Honors Dairy team which is cutting a wide swath in the Border City In a game the other night Coughlin and Bartley are mentioned as the stars, the former getting two goals by carrying the rubber through the whole opposition.

For the second year in succession Frankie Collins has had a chance to laugh at his rivals Hagerman and Weir of Belleville. Like Collins the two are ball players and two seasons in a row their team has eliminated Peterboro from the baseball race. But each winter Collins has had his revenge when the local hockey crew have sent Belleville into the discard. A funny part about it all is that Belleville tried their utmost last summer to persuade Collins to locate in the Quinte town and line up with the Red Shirts in the winter campaign.

Hagerman touted by the Belleville paper as the best centre man in the east failed to score a goal in either game against the Petes and was out payed all the way by Collins and by Rose too, when the latter was subbing at centre.

It was 'Goodnight Nurse' last night for the Belleville goal keeper.

If Frechette was left out on the ice long on a cold night he'd freeze to death. The Belleville left wing does not skate enough to keep himself warm.

The Belleville papers all season have been pointing out the fact that there were hardly any goals scored by the opposing left wing against Weir this year. In the series with Peterboro, however Ranger scored four goals and Rose subbing at left wing added two more which puts a smudge on Mr. Weir's record. At that he is a hard worker and a clean player who always gives his best.

MUST FIGHT TUNNEY.

NEW YORK, February 9 (Canadian Press) — Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, will be granted a license in this State only on condition that he fulfill his contract to fight Gene Tunney, the United States 175-pound titleholder.

This was one of the first official acts of the re-organised State Athletic Commission yesterday when Tunney's claims for a title match were presented by his manager, Billy Gibson.

AT THE ROYAL

Just think of paying five hundred children to attend a picnic! That's just what Sam Wood did for a children's May party in Central Park, New York, which was staged for scenes in "His Children's Children," a picturization of Arthur Train's novel, which Mr. Wood produced for Paramount and which comes to the Royal Theatre next Monday for three days.

With the five hundred youngsters as a nucleus and a merry-go-round, a trick mule, a performing monkey, a Punch-and-Judy show, a hot dog stand, ice cream and gimcracks of all kinds as magnets, there was little trouble in drawing every kid within calling distance of the Casino into the picture. In fact, the party grew to such proportions within fifteen minutes after the ten sight-seeing 'buses had deposited the children on the picnic ground that Mr. Wood and his assistants had a difficult time handling the uproarious bunch.

But the hardest of all to control were the mothers—five hundred of them too—who wanted to get into the picture with their offspring or were solicitous about their children being in the centre of the picture. There were more potential Jackie Coogans and Baby Peggys—to take the mothers' word of it—before the cameras in Central Park than one could imagine. Obviously it was impossible for Mr. Wood to put all of the kiddies in the front rank, but he couldn't make the mothers see that. Each parent was positive her child was the cutest and cleverest in the crowd—and there were some mighty cute ones at that, curly blond heads, kinky black ones, dimpled elbows, sparkling blue eyes, and hundreds of cute snub noses.

It was a hectic day, but the result was gratifying to Director Wood. George Fawcett, who plays the role of Peter B. Kayne in the story, gave the picnic party, and it was not hard for him to register happiness with nearly a thousand happy kids around him. Other principals in the company who worked in the scenes were Bebe Daniels, Dorothy Mackaill, Hale Hamilton, John Davidson, Joe Burke and Warner Oland.

EXTRA FINE VAUDEVILLE FOR ROYAL MONDAY.

AT THE CAPITOL

CORINNE GRIFFITH STAR OF "BLACK OXEN"

"Black Oxen," a Frank Lloyd production, released through First National Pictures, and featuring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, is to be the photoplay offering at the Capitol theatre, and the booking is looked upon as one of the big cinema events of the season. This is a picturization of the story "Black Oxen' 'which has been running in The Examiner.

The best selling novel of 1923, in book form "Black Oxen" is said to have been greatly enhanced by the elaborate filming Mr. Lloyd has given it. Dealing with the romance that develops when the rejunevated Madame Zatianny returns to America on a business trip and finds the first true love she has known, "Black Oxen" presents more than usual interest to picturegoers, it is said. Mr. Lloyd, with the aid of Mary O'Hara, prepared the scenario from which the play was made, and as a result, critics state, the story runs its length with pleasing rapidity and increasing interest.

Corinne Griffith, regarded as one of filmdom's most beautiful and smartest dressed stars, essays the difficult dual character of Madame Zatianny, and Conway Tearle has been cast as the romanceless newspaper writer, Lee Clavering. Clara Bow, a 17 year old girl who but recently made her screen debut, was selected for the role of the flapperish Janet Oglethorpe from more than fifty well known screen ingenues and established flapper types; Alan Hale is seen as Prince Moritz von Hohenhauer; Kate Lester, as Jane Oglethorpe; Harry Mestayer, as Jim Oglethorpe; Claire MacDowell, as Agnes Trevor; Clarissa Selwynne, as Gora Dwight; Tom Guise, as Judge Trent, and Lincoln Stedman, as Donnie Ferren, who had a weakness for parties and an utter disregard for Mr. Volstead and his ideas.

Miss Griffith wears more than $50,000 worth of fashionable furs and gowns during the production and the costuming of members of the supporting cast has cost nearly the same amount.

"Black Oxen" will be given a fitting presentation here, an elaborate musical and short reel program having been arranged to accompany the screening of the celebrated drama.

BETTY BALFOUR AS "SQUIBS" IS ELECTED TO PARLIAMENT

Two members of Parliament added a second distinction (moving picture) to the letters which follow their names by accepting an invitation from Betty Balfour, the British film comedienne, to play impromptu parts in a House of Commons scene filmed in the studio at Islington for the Welsh-Pearson production, "Squibs, M.P." which comes to the Capitol next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

A party of M.P.'s had been invited to attend the studio to inspect a very realistic representation of the House of Commons built for the scene, in which nearly 400 people took part and two members of the party, Sir William Bull and Mr. Collingwood Hughes, having been invited to tender their advice on points of procedure and characteristics of the House, were eventually persuaded to take their seats in the Studio House of Commons.

Both were a little shy at first of facing the camera, but with 400 cheering people around them they soon succumbed to the atmosphere of enthusiasm and entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of the scene.

Funnily enough although both are Conservative members, they found themselves in a Government defeat directly due to a very spirited impromptu maiden speech by a new lady member (in the film), Squibs, otherwise Betty Balfour, who passed from such serious matters as the waste of public money on the Singapore Naval Base to such domestic affairs as babies. Miss Balfour's "We want more babies! We must have better and better and better babies!" "brought down the House," and both Sir William Bull and Mr. Collingwood Hughes joined in the general merriment, of which a full-throated echo will be heard when the British public sees the scene on the screen.

AT THE GRAND

Club women in all parts of the country are interesting themselves in unwanted babies and trying to solve a problem that they believe should have been solved long ago.

Whatever feelings may have been expressed in the past toward the unwanted child, there is no question of the changed sentiment of to-day, due to the efforts of noble hearted men and women who have studied conditions with special reference to the effects of this evil. A social phenomenon, hitherto left to writers of fiction to portray in all its sadness, is now being inquired into by liberal minds and presented in a new light.

One of the strongest pleas for sympathy for the innocent child is made in the drama, "The Unwanted Child," which comes to the Grand Opera House for two days, commencing Feb. 15, with a matinee daily for ladies only.

This is an intensely powerful play in four acts, with a tear or a laugh in every line and tells the whole pitiful story in all its details. Wherever the play has been seen it has awakened a new community spirit toward this vital problem.

During the stay of this forceful play, the daily matinee will be reserved for ladies only and while ladies and gentlemen are admitted at the evening perfomances at no time will those under sixteen years of age be admitted.

"SASSY BITS OF 1924"

At the Grand Thursday Evening— To Appear Twice on Saturday

There was quite a line-up for seats for "Sassy Bits of 1924" at the Grand Opera House Thurs. evening and the large audience enjoyed a lively and entertaining musical skit with some very good comedy stuff thrown in.

"Sassy Bits of 1924" has no particular plot of definite structure to interfere with the enjoyment of the comedy, singing and dancing— at least, there is a slight plot, but it is kept in the background. One does not have to worry about the fate of the lover or the loved one or anything like that. It's a foregone conclusion that in such a happy show that the ending could not be anything but happy.

There were three leaders in the evening's performance. These were Ernestine Caru in the leading feminine role. Paul "Jazzbo" Francis as Sam Plaster, and Jeane and Edouard the dancers. The dancers, in particular, brought down the house with their very first performance, but were rather stingy with encores.

Sam Plaster, the guy who sticks kept the audience on the laugh line all evening and he was ably assisted in his comic efforts by Hi Haskins and Sally McNally, the flamboyant flapper. The right names are Fred C. Hackett and Bertha Startzman. Earl Sheahan, as Jack Tall, alias Paul Regay, had plenty of work to do and did it well. Rose de Mar rang in we on the comedy stuff, and William Moore breezed along now and then and livened things up.

One of the features of the evening was a Japanese scene in which Miss Caru signs some of the unforgettable lyrics of "Madame Butterfly," combined in a little special act with the title "Tokio Love." For good singing and beauty of presentation, this is hard to surpass.

"Jazzbo" Francis did some stuff at the piano that was very pleasing and more of it would have been welcomed. His "Nightmare Blues" was another scene to be remembered.

The chorus was just enough in evidence to add dash and go to the show and not so much that it obscured the principals. It's a pretty 'nifty' chorus, too.

"Sassy Bits of 1924," by special arrangement, wil return to Kingston to-morrow and present matinee and evening performances at popular prices. A full announcement will be found in the advertising columns.—Kingston Whig.

THE COVERED WAGON AT GRAND TONIGHT

Picture Will Not Be Shown Here Again This Season.

"The Covered Waggon" has its closing performances in the city this afternoon and evening at the Grand Opera House. This big picture, hailed as a phenomenal success throughout its itinerary, will not be shown in Peterborough again this season, and anyone who wishes to see it will have to attend the performance to-night.

"The Covered Waggon" has had good audiences during its four-day showing in the city, and every patron has been pleased and entertained by the wonderful screen story of pioneer days. Thrills and adventure, romance and humour and human interest mingle in a memorable production. Nothing funnier could be imagined than the spectacle of the two old 'pards,' Bill Jackson and the lone trader, Jim Bridger, when they do the William Tell act after imbibing a considerable quality of hard liquor.

The buffalo, the prairie fire, the fording of a deep stream by the heavy waggons, all are thrilling moments. There is humour in the role of Ole Bill Jackson, whose part is one of the most entertaining of the entire production. The lanky ruffian, with his rough and ready methods and his scorn of Manion's soft-hearted refusal to despatch his rival without mercy, has a triumphant moment at the last when he pauses in the act of frying the supper bacon to take a pot shot at Woodhull and put him out of the story completely.

There is a pretty romance woven through the story, with the art of Warren Kerrigan to make it realistic, and there is interest maintained from first to last of the picture that depicts the struggles and the heroic sacrifices of the men and women who took the Oregon Trail in prairie schooners, in the picture that has its final presentation this evening, for the last time in this city this season.

A JOINT MEETING OF THE LOCAL I.O.D.E.

The Three Chapters, Otonabee, Peter Robinson and 57th Regimental Met Yesterday Afternoon.

The three senior Chapters of the I.O.D.E.—the 57th Regimental, the Otonabee, and the Peter Robinson Chapters—held a joint meeting at the Y.W.CA., yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of hearing Dr. A. J. Vining, of Toronto, speak on the Armenian Relief work.

Dr. Vining's address was very interesting, and was met with a hearty vote of thanks from the meeting.

In the absence of the Regent of the oldest Chapter, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, of the 57th Regimental, the chair was taken by Mrs. A. Stevenson.

Dr. Vining reviewed briefly the struggles and vicissitudes of the Armenian people, and their sufferings under the Turkish rule. He spoke at length of the work of the Canadian Society for Armenian Relief Work, and especially of the establishment near Georgetown, where it is hoped to bring a number of young Armenian refugee boys. Here the Government sends instructors. The boys are given public school education until they are fifteen years of age, then a thorough agricultural training for three years longer.

Dr. Vining showed several pictures of arriving boys and of their condition after a stay at the farm, where already fifty boys are housed.

The cost of "adopting" a boy officially and placing him in this establishment for training is $1,000.

The city Chapters were asked to consider the adoption of one of these yeuths. The suggestion will be placed before the various Chapters at regular meetings, the united gathering meanwhile passing a resolution of sympathy with the movement.

It is rumoured that the local Kiwanis Club is considering the adoption of one of these boys.

CHARLES HARNETT WAS NOT THE MAN

Crown Attorney Asks for Honorable Acquittal

A case was tried in the Police Court on Friday, which Magistrate Langley declared to be the most remarkable which had come before him, when Charles Ray Harnett, of Ottawa, was charged with cashing a number of worthless cheques at several local stores last Saturday. Harnett, a young man of twenty, employed with the 2 Max Co., Ltd., of Ottawa, was arrested on Saturday, when boarding the midnight train, after being identified by two merchants as the man who had victimized them that day, and, according to his own story, which was not contradicted, was kept in the cell at the Police Station until Monday, without being allowed to communicate with his parents or friends.

At the trial, which lasted all day, the prosecution put in a number of witnesses as to identity, one or two being certain that the accused was the right man, some others thinking that he was the right man, but expressing doubts, and one man, Mr. J. W. Carey, being positive that the accused was not the right man. All agreed that Harnett strongly resembled the thief and forger in every respect, even to little tricks of manner. The climax came, when Mr. Joseph Wearing, for the defence, put in the box a number of reputable citizens, who proved a complete alibi.

Harnett got off the noon train on Saturday to visit a number of friends here, and his movements were accounted for until the time of his arrest. At the time two of the cheques were being cashed, he was having tea with Mr. Earl Kidd, of the Gallegher Remedy Company.

At the close, Mr. G. W. Hatton, K.C., the Crown Attorney, acting for the prosecution, asked for an honorable acquittal, stating that the police, not having been notified soon enough, had got the wrong man.

The Magistrate, when acquitting Harnett, said that he regretted exceedingly the mistake that had been made.

The father of the accused formerly taught in the Business College here, and is now in the Civil Service at Ottawa.

NOTED PREACHER IS COMING HERE

Will Speak in George Street Church at Both Services.

The noted English preacher, Rev. J. T. Wardle Stafford, D.D., D.C.L. arrived in the city to-day for his services tomorrow in George street chuch. He is to preach at both services and will lecture on Monday evening in the church, his lecture subject being "Fools, Ancient and Modern."

Dr. Stafford has spent the last five months in Canada having come here in September of last year as a special emissary from the British Wesleyan church to the Methodism of Canada being loaned for a short period to Canada by the mother conference of the Methodism in England much as the great Dr. Morley Punchon was sent over some years ago. He is serving as pastor of Metropolitan Church, Toronto, in succession to Dr. Trevor Davies who preached in George street church a little over a year ago. Over a hundred churches have sought his services for Sunday work since his coming to this country, but only two have secured him, St. James in Montreal and George street, Peterboro.

His career in England has been a most successful and useful one. Soon after his ordination he had made a mark for himself and was called to one of the leading churches in the British Isles, and since that has been pastor of the most outstanding congregations in Britain. To him was given the highest honor in the gift of English Methodism, the Presidency of the Wesleyan Conference of Great Britain, which office he filled with great distinction As a preacher, a lecturer, a scholar and an ecclesiastical statesman he holds an outstanding place in the life of the non-conformist churches of England.

His coming has been anticipated with great interest, and is without doubt one of the most important events in the religious life of Peterboro this year.

POLICE COMMISSION CHAIRMAN RESIGNED

Declared Township Should Not Have Reduced Estimates Without Conrultation-- Replaced by Reeve.

WELLAND, February 9. — The Crowland Township Police Commission cousists of County Judge Livingstone, chairman, Police Magistrate Goodwin, and Reeve Learn, of Crowland Township.

They prepared their budget for this year, but apparently the Township Council thought the amount excessive, and reduced the amount by $510.00.

At the Commission's meeting His Honour resigned his position as chairman and nominated Reeve Learn as chairman Police Magistrat, seconding the motions accepting the resignation of the Judge and the appointment of Reeve Learn as chairman.

His Honour claims that the township should not have reduced the estimates without consulting the Board, and giving some reason. He stated that this action was in the nature of a vote of want of confidence, and that Reeve Learn should not have stated, as it was reported he did, that he was willing to have his salary as commissioner reduced.

IN MEMORIAM.

GODDARD—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Goddard, who died Feb. 10, 1923. Gone but not forgotten.
Do not ask us if we miss her,
There is such a vacant place,
Can we e'er forget her footsteps,
And her dear face?

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Years of sorrow often flow,
Memory keeps our mother near us
Whom God claimed one year ago.

Wonderful demonstration of combined radio and telephone connection between Havana, Cuba and San Francisco, Cal. Also a large number of intervening points. Havana was heard in conversation with San Fransico, then a violin solo, beautifully clear, was rendered in Havana, followed by a clear sounding Bell solo from San Francisco. After an address by the president of the Telephone Coroporation of America, he called the roll of the cities connected up by telephone, in each case as he said "Good-night Havana," the answer came, This is Havana, Cuba, good-night Chicago." This was repeated from Key West, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Omaha, Wyoming, Sacramento and San Francisco. Responses over the Northern Electric radio sets was remarkably clear and most interesting.

AT THE REGENT

"MIGHTY LAK' A ROSE" IS STORY OF LIFE IN HIGH AND LOW PLACES.

A gang of successful, desperate crooks tried to steal the heart of a young and innocent girl violinist, turn her into a crook, and use her in their big schemes. But the girl, with nothing but her sweetness and the music of her violin, turned these crooks, male and female, into paths they did not want to go.

This, in brief, is the story that Edwin Carewe has turned into a powerful picture, "Mighty Lak' a Rose," that is coming to the Regent Theatre next Monday.

In the cast are Dorothy Mackaill, James Rennie, Helene Montrose, Sam Hardy, Anders Randolf, Paul Panzer, Harry Short and about a hundred others in crook and society characters. "Jean Bronte," Scotch collie, must not be forgotten because "Jean" has a very important part to play.

Director Carewe believes music plays a big part in this life and he avers, too, that it should play a bigger part. In this play he has gone into the underworld to demonstrate how good music, combined with a good soul, can be the great uplifted. He is said to have made a fascinating picture.

ANDERSON MAY PLAY.

MELBOURNE, Australia, February 9 (Canadian Press). — James O. CRIME SYNDICATE HEAD GUILTY OF MURDERING TWO BANK MESSENGERS

Brutal Slaying in New York Elevated Station Last November Revealed Small Manufacturer As Leader of Ruthless Gang — Mother and Sisters Fight Police.

TURMOIL IN COURT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. — Morris B. Diamond, Saturday night was found guilty of murder in the first degree in connection with the killing of William H. McLoughlin and Wm. S. Barlow, bank messengers, in a Brooklyn elevated station last November The testimony of Jacob Silkowitz for the prosecution created a furore in the court of justice Cropsey such as has seldom been known.

Saw the Slaying.

The plump Silkowitz, it developed, had been an eye witness to the slaying of William S. Barlow and his assistant, William H. McLaughlin, at the "L" station at Fifty-fifth street, and New Utrecht avenue, in Brooklyn.

There was a stir in the courtroom. "Whitey" Diamond's mother, Mrs. Dora Diamond, flanked by her four daughters, was sitting in the first row of spectators who crowded the small room. The five women leaned forward. "Whitey," even paler than usual, blinked stolidly.

Assistant District Attorney Hughes asked this question of Silkowitz: "Who was the man who fired the shots?"

Without raising his voice above a matter-of-fact tone, Silkowitz replied instantly:

"Joseph Diamond!"

"Lie!" Screamed Women.

At the naming of "Whitey" Diamond's brother, there was an interval of utter silence.

Then the screams of all five women rose with piercing shrillness. Policemen stationed outside of the court ran in. Attendants hastened to the row where the Diamond mother and sisters were writhing and hurling the words:

"Lie! You lie! Joe is only a baby. He never even shot off firecrackers! Liar! Liar! Dog!"

Justice Cropsey, as unmoved as though he were ruling on a motion, raised his right hand and ordered:

"Take those women from the court room, and do not let them come back during this trial."

Police, endeavouring to handle the situation as delicately as possible were unable to refrain from using main strength.

All Dragged Out.

The women fought furiously. Mrs. Diamond's hair loosned, and strands of it fell over her eyes. Tears were shed in abundance.

One of the sisters was kicking. Another had slipped to the floor. All five were dragged through the doors and into the corridor. Hughes' questions were resumed with the women's yells echoing from the hall.

Still fighting the women were pushed or pulled by the wrists into an adjoining room. There all five were at times on the floor.

One sister kicked a patrolman in the abdomen with such force that he momentarily let go his grip on her forearm. Mrs. Diamond fainted. Even in a coma she made random movements with her hands and her lips moved as though she were forming denials.

With the screams of his relatives tingling in his ears, "Whitey" Diamond never looked about him. He sat as he sat through the two days of court proceedings, a putty-like figure, with a pasty face and double chins falling over his collar.

He swallowed twice, as though something was bubbling inside of his throat, but that was all, except that he seemed to sinmp a bit lower in his chair.

A hard day it was, indeed, for the executive head of the "Syndicate," for the dramatic identification and its results were only a start of a day of setbacks for the defense.

The figure of a crippled man, who sometime, looked from his window at the passing throng, that walked

Sixteen Cent Meal Cost $1.55 in Cafe

IMBLER, Ore., Feb. 11.—One hundred and fifty farmers sat down to a banquet at a meeting here and the meal cost them just sixteen cents each. Nearly everything on the table was the product of the farm, and the cost a plate was computed at the price the farmer was paid for the products, plus the labor cost of preparing the food.

The same menu then was computed at Portland restaurant prices and amounted to $1.55 a plate—a difference of $1.39 a plate between the farm price and the Portland retail price.

LABOR POLICY NOT COMPLETE

Premier MacDonald Has Found Recess Too Short For the Preparation of Details — Faces Parliament Tuesday.

LONDON, Feb. 11. — The new government will face Parliament Tuesday with the onerous task of steering a safe course against an adverse majority, and its life depending upon whatever assistance may be accorded it by the large Liberal party.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, whose health is not the best, is spending the week-end revising the speech in which he will announce the policy of his government. The three weeks' recess since the Labor Government was formed has been all too short, it is said, for the various committees of the Cabinet to prepare all the necessary work and define the detailed lines of policy for the ensuing session; therefore it is not unlikely that the Prime Minister's speech may prove to be rather a general outline of policy than a detailed programme of legislation.

The first business of the House of Commons Tuesday will be the election of a chairman and a deputy chairman of committees. In this a concession is to be made to the Liberals with a view to securing their good will. The Government is expected to propose a Labor member, Robert Young, as chairman, but leaving it to the Liberals to choose a member of their party for deputy chairman.

Parliamentarians are watching with great interest the developments in this new experiment of a Labor Government and that a minority Government, in the task of administration, which is likely to tax the Prime Minister to the utmost. Still, it is conceded that the Government starts under far more hopeful auspices than seemed possible a month ago.

PROFESSOR DIED SEEKING HEALTH

Paul T. Lafleur of McGill University Stricken With Pneumonia in Valley of Kings, Egypt.

LUXOR, Egypt, February 11 (Canadian Press). — Professor Lafleur, of McGill University, Montreal, died here last night of pneumonia.

He had been ill only a short time.

MONTREAL, February 11 (Canadian Press). — Professor Lafleur took his B.A. degree at McGill University in 1880 when he was gold medallist in English Language and Literature.

Subsequently he taught in the High School, Barrie, Ont., and at the Collegiate Institute, Ottawa.

Professor Paul T. Lafleur was head of the Department of English in McGill University, this city, since the retirement of Dean Moyse, about three years ago. He had been connected with the University since the year 1885.

Professor Lafleur, who was about 64 years of age and unmarried, found of late years that the Canadian climate was too trying in the winter, as he suffered to some extent from bronchitis and throat trouble.

He left Montreal for Europe in the middle of December last, and made the excavations in the Valley of the Kings one of the objectives of his trip.

He is a brother of Dr. Lafleur, a well-known physician, and of Eugene Labeur, a prominent lawyer of this city.

ALL DAY BATTLE ST. SERMA RIVER WON BY OBREGON

Federals Suffered 300 Casualties in Forced Crossing Under Rebels' Fire Over Extensive Front — Main Rebel Army Hoisted White Flag.

GENERALS KILLED.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11. — The following dispatch was sent early Sunday to General Arnolfo Gomez, military commandant in Mexico City, by President Obregon:

"I am pleased to report that our loyal soldiers have given the highest example that can be demanded in loyalty while crossing the Lerma River, where the rebels have organized defenses, aided by the natural advantages afforded by that region.

"The battle lasted eleven hours without any truce, beginning at 7 o'clock, (Saturday), in the morning, and ended at 6 o'clock in the evening. It is impossible to give an estimate of the losses suffered by the enemy, because the fighting ended at nightfall over a very extensive area.

"Our troops suffered 300 casualties, more or less, in dead and wounded, because the crossing of the river over an improvised bridge and the subsequent assault had to be done under rebel fire.

"I feel highly proud of the manner in which our soldiers scorned death in the action, which was an honor to the national army."

A number of the commanding generals were killed during the crossing of the river subsequent to the storming of "Death's Balcony," as the soldiers call the rebel trenches, according to the special despatches from Ocotlan. The despatches add that President Obregon has sent congratulations to General Amaro and his troops.

After crossing the river the federal forces successfully attacked the rebel position at Cuitzeo, forcing the main rebel column to hoist the white flag and sound bugles calling for a parley, the despatches say.

COMMIT CANADIAN FOR LONDON TRIAL

Accused of Defrauding Army Officers in Sale of Prince Edward Island Land—Reserved Defence

LONDON, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Andrew Fraser Mitchell appeared again in Bow Street Court yesterday for continuation of the case against him, of obtaining money under false pretences from army officers, the charge being that he represented himself to be an agent of the government of Prince Edward Island in the sale of land.

Sir George Fowler, honorary legal adviser to Earl Haig's officers' association described a interview he had with the defendant last December in the defendants office in Haymarket when Mitchell admitted he had not been authorized to sell land by the Prince Edward Island government. Mitchell had also said he had been "let down" by the government through their cancelling his appointment, possibly as immigration agent.

Under cross-examination Sir George testified that Mitchell had mentioned Hon. John Sinclair, Canadian federal minister without portfolio, as one of the persons interested in the land which he had sold.

Major Harington on behalf of the Island government testified that he could trace no official record of any government scheme for the sale of land or the settlement of ex-officers. There were no crown lands on the island for sale.

Counsel for the defence said that throughout the transactions the defendant acted under a bonafide claim of right an he had a complete answer to the charges. The defendant pleaded not guilty and reserved his defence. He was then committed for trial and was admitted to bail in the sum of £100.

BUSINESS MAN'S HOBBY IS KILLING WOLVES TO SAVE ONTARIO'S DEER

New York Manufacturer Secures Wolf Pelts in Northern Ontario and Films of the Caribou Country — Would Lead Party Into Government Parks For Wolf Round Up.

Says They're Cowards.

MONTREAL, February 11 (Special to The Examiner). — With the hides of two big timber wolves and one brush wolf in his kit bag, Captain Frank Doudera, big game hunter and sportsman, is back again in Montreal after about a month spent in the woods north of the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian National Railways in Northern Ontario.

In addition, he has several hundred feet of film, which will be used to educate American sportsmen to the possibilities of Canada as a big game country.

Captain Doudera is a citizen of Brooklyn, New York. His business is manufacturing, and his hobby big game hunting. Each year he spends several weeks in Canada hunting moose, caribou, and bear, and the experiences which he has had have taught him that the greatest enemy of the sporting wild life in Canada is the wolf.

So Captain Doudera has declared war on the wolves. He has undertaken for the past two winters to go into Northern Ontario to kill wolves, and on each occasion has been eminently successful, and he hopes by his example to induce many of his fellow-sportsmen in the United States to devote a part of their time and all of their hunting skill once a year towards the extermination of the wolves.

A conservative estimate of the deer killed by a wolf each year is said by Captain Doudera to be 50, so that he considers that by killing the wolves this year he has lengthened the lives of at least 150 deer.

Shot a Big One.

One of the timber wolves bagged by Captain Doudera was a huge animal, the skin measuring slightly more than seven feet from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail.

This animal was shot by the hunter a few days after he went into the woods. He was standing in front of his hut about twilight when he noticed a deer running down a hill towards him.

The deer was evidently in trouble, and fell about a hundred yards from the shack. Almost immediately a wolf, which had been following, rushed on the fallen animal and proceeded to kill it.

Captain Doudera secured his rifle from the hut and managed to shoot the wolf, not, however, before it had killed the deer.

The deer was apparently the prey of a number of these forest pirates, as a second wolf bounded into sight just as Doudera commenced firing.

At the sound of the gun the second wolf turned to flee, and although Doudera was able to wound it, it got away.

A fairly large pack of wolves appeared on the edge of the bush about the same time, but hasty shooting by the guides only frightened them away.

Wolves Are Cowardly.

Captain Doudera is another big game hunter who adds his testimony to those who declare that wolves will never attack a man.

A wolf, according to Doudera, is the most arrant of cowards, and will attack only such animals as have little chance to protect themselves. Wolves will follow men, perhaps for days, but it is seldom, says Captain Doudera, that they will approach closer than 150 yards.

There is no reason, according to Captain Doudera, why a man or a woman should feel alarmed in the woods, even though they are not carrying firearms. The danger which exists is more a matter of individual imagination than anything else.

To prove his contention Captain Doudera intends on his return to New York, to offer to guide a party of men and women into the woods in search of wolves next year.

If the Government will permit it, Captain Doudera has expressed a desire to organise parties of sportsmen in the United States and to take them into the Government game reservation in Canada next winter to hunt wolves, which he has been told by park rangers and trappers, play havoc each winter among the game.

DANISH PRINCES MEET IN OTTAWA ON NUPTIAL EVE

Prince Valdemar of Denmark With His Sons and Their Rich American Fiancees Dined at Booth Residence in Family Re-union.

WEDDING TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press.)— On the eve of the most fashionable wedding Ottawa has seen in years, representatives of three distinguished families foregathered here Sunday. The wedding of Miss Lois Frances Booth, granddaughter of Canada's lumber king and famous Ottawa pioneer, John R. Booth, to His Highness, Prince Erik, of Denmark, takes place here this afternoon. The groom's brother, Prince Viggo, arrived yesterday from New York. He was accompanied by his bride-to-be, Miss Marguerite Green, of New York, and her aunt, Mrs. Gordon Williams. They were met at the station by Prince Erik and Prince Valdemar, their father, who is brother to the King of Denmark, and uncle to the present King of England.

Prince Viggo, who has been in the United States for some months, was warmly greeted at the station by his father and brother. Their meeting was in the nature of a family re-union. Several hundred people gathered to witness the arrival of the party from New York. It is understood that Prince Erik and his bride will proceed to New York after the wedding day, to attend the wedding which takes place there as early as next week, of Prince Viggo and Miss Green. Neither the date of the New York wedding, however, nor the scene of Prince Erik's honeymoon has been announced officially.

GERMAN SEAMEN ARE SENT HOME

As Protest Against British Chartering of German Vessels Leaving British Seamen Out of Work.

LONDON, Feb. 10. —(Canadian Press Cable.) —Six hundred German seamen who have been on strike have left London for Hamburg, having been repatriated by the Seamen's union. Union officials explain that the Germans are being repatriated in the "interests of the shipping community and the world generally" and also as a protest against the action of certain shipowners in chartering German bottoms on account of their cheapness with the result that hundreds of British seamen are unable to obtain work.

A representative of the union said yesterday: "If these men are penalized by the German ship-owners with whom they are going to negotiate, strike action in Britain will be resumed and all German shipping in British ports will be completely boycotted."

Fifty Years Wed and Family of Ten Intact.

GANANOQUE, Feb. 10. —Mr. and Mrs. Severe Dorey celebrated a golden jubilee at their home to-day on Victoria Avenue surrounded by their ten children and grand children no break having occurred in the family. A large number of friends were invited.

DEAN OF CARLISLE DEAD.

LONDON, Feb. 10. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — The death is announced of Very Rev. Hastings Rashdall, Dean of Carlisle since 1917 and a famous modernist churchman, at the age of 66. He was a noted lecturer at Oxford for many years and produced a number of publications, chiefly on doctrinal subjects.

PARTY OF EIGHT CAUSE ANXIETY AT POINT PELEE

Set Out on Thursday Over Ice of Lake Erie and Had Not Been Heard From Up to Last Night — Friends Fear Shifting Ice.

POSSIBLE DELAY.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Feb. 11. — The fate of seven men and one woman, who set out on Thursday morning to traverse the nine miles of treacherous ice between Point Pelee and Pelee Island, was still uncertain last night.

While fears are expressed by many that shifting winds may have disrupted the ice fields and engulfed the party and their frail boats, this anxiety is not shared by James Grubb, from whose home on the Point, the mail carrier and his boat sledges set forth on the usual run. While in the ordinary course of events he would have expected the boats back on Friday morning, he expresses no uneasiness, pointing out that adverse winds or the shifting of the ice would be sufficient reason for postponing the return trip for several days. He believes the entire party reached the island safely on Thursday.

Have Radio Receiver.

Anxiety felt in some quarters si probably known on Pelee Island as radio sending stations have been carrying messages about the mail party for a couple of days, but while the islanders have several receiving sets they have no sending apparatus, and cannot reply. The submarine telephone cable connecting the mainland with the island is, as usual after the ice has formed, out of commission.

The ice caravan which left the Point Thursday was the usual semi-weekly trip of the mail carrier. It consisted of two boats, steel shod, which are pushed along on the ice or propelled with oars in the open water. Three men were in charge of the first boat, owned by Hooper brothers, and they carried one passenger, Miss White, daughter of Edward White of the island. The second boat was that of the mail courier, Guy McCormick, and those with him were his son, Harvey, William Lidwell, and a passenger named Bean, a lake sailor. There were ten sacks of mail and some small express parcels.

Conditions for Trip.

The party spent the night at Grubb's house, which for 40 years has been the "jumping off" place of the Pelee Island winter mail. In all that time Mr. Grubb recalls no loss of life. The trip requires from three hours to three days, depending upon the state of the intervening stretch of ice and water. There have been trips where the boats had to be rowed through slush ice the entire distance. On other occasions the ice is so firm that the boats do not have to take to the water at all, and indeed teams with bob sleighs have frequently made the trip with loads of produce.

Courier Guy McCormick has more than once found it necessary to the years of his incumbency he has always delivered the mail, though it has not always been dry upon arrival so that they look more like icicles than human beings when the trip is over.

ALL SAFE.

Guy McCormack, his son Harry and Wiliam Lidwell, three members of the party believed to have been lost between Point Pelee and Pelee Island, in attempting to reach the island on Thursday, arrived back at the Point shortly before noon today with a tale of terrible hardship.

All the other members of the party are safe on the island, Guy McCormick, who was in charge of the two boats stated.

Ordinarily the nine mile trip to the island takes about two hours, but it was nearly nine hours after they left the point that the party reached their destination late on Thursday night.

Since that time the drifting ice has made it impossible to return to the mainland until this morning.

Mr. McCormick said that the people in the boats were entirely unaware of the anxiety that they had caused in Leamington and the surrounding district.

He said that the trip to the island was one of the worst that he had ever made. At times the little boats were driven miles out of their course by the wind and drifting floes of ice.

GRAIN STORAGE HAS INCREASED

Fort William Elevators Have Twenty-Two Million Bushels More Than a Year Ago.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Feb. 10. —Only another million bushels was added to the stocks of grain in store at the head of the Lakes during the past week, the total now standing at 57,583,676 bushels, of which three and a half million bushels are afloat aboard vessels here. This amount is 22,000,000 bushels more than was in store here a year ago to-day, and some of the elevators are depending almost entirely upon the rail shipments for their capacity to take in any more grain.

There is over fifty million bushels of wheat and over four and a half of oats here, while barley is almost two million bushels less than it was a year ago. Shipments of all grains were a trifle higher for the week and receipts were over 800,000 bushels less.

Following are the figures of stocks, receipts and shipments for the week at the head of the lakes:

In store—Wheat: 50,119,674 bushels; oats, 4,613,679; barley, 787,628; flax, 736,847; rye, 1,335,588.

Receipts—Wheat: 1,396,044 bushels; oats, 226,274; barley, 210,774; flax, 13,024; rye, 29,219.

Shipments—Wheat: 495,990 bushels; oats, 215,946; barley, 81,419; flax, 27,843; rye, 2,355.

GOOD BUSH MEN HARD TO OBTAIN

A Few Orders for Farm Help at Local Bureau

The report from the Employment Bureau for the past week shows a slight increase over the preceding week. Last week there were 18 new applicants and 29 placements. Most of these jobs are shoveling snow, etc. and do not last long. The Employment Bureau have several orders for the bush but the right kind of men cannot be obtained. There is also some orders for farm help and it is expected that in a month or so there will be plenty of demand for men on the farms and also in the cities. The report from other cities compares about the same as in this city while Hamilton is picking up better than the rest.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday's snowfall added about five more inches to this winter's already abundant supply. How much do you think has fallen this winter? A little investigation shows that we have received almost five feet. The following has fallen. In—

November ..... 4 inches
December ..... 8 inches
January ..... 32 inches
February (up to to-day) ..... 15 inches

Total ..... 59 inches

This morning the thermometer was down to 3 below zero again.—W. P.

BUSY SESSION FOR UTILITIES COMMISSIONERS

Annual Reports Presented and Discussed-Street Lighting, Tree Pruning and Departmental Affairs Given Attention

NON-RESIDENT RATES

Peterboro Utilities Commissioners had a busy session this forenoon when the annual reports presented by the different departments were discussed and progressive plans for the betterment of the utilities services in the city mooted.

Among other things, the Commission decided to urge on the City Council the necessity for formulating plans for improved street lighting immediately in order that these may be put into effect when the lines are being reconstructed. Tree pruning was also recommended to the Council, in order that the maximum efficiency may be obtained from the lights now in use on the streets or to be installed.

There were present Robert Hicks (chairman), E. F. Mason and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., members of the Commission, and R. L. Dobbin, H. O. Fisk and Henderson in an advisory capacity.

A resolution was passed endorsing the action of the delegation of January 11, representing 350 municipalities in Ontario requesting the Prime Minister and the Government of Canada to enable the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to develop the St. Lawrence power. The delegation asked the Government to approve plans for the development at Morrisburg for immediate action, and the resolution passed this morning backed up the request.

Street Lighting.

Mr. Mason said the matter of street lighting should be decided by the City Council at once so that the Utilities Commission could arrange for carrying out the plans.

In connection with the reconstruction programme, of which the new lighting system forms a part, Mr. Fisk said on account of lack of tree pruning the street lights are not now giving 40 per cent. of their possible efficiency.

Mr. Hicks thought the tree pruning should be done by the City Council.

Regarding street lighting, Mr. Mason proposed a request be made to the City Council for a statement of its requirements. "Since we are within measurable distance of completion of the reconstruction of the city distribution system, we recommend the City Council to consider the subject of street lighting and discuss the system desired for the information of the Utilities Commission." The question of tree pruning was also referred to Council.

On a recommendation from the City Council that since the foot-wide strip on Munroe Avenue is now park property, the water charge should

FATHERS SEEK SONS' WELFARE

Distinguished Speaker at George Street Methodist Church Urges Parental Duty.

George Street Methodist Church was yesterday honoured with the presence as special preacher of Rev. J. T. Wardle Stafford, D.D., D.C.L., a noted English preacher, who came here from the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, to give a special series of sermons and addresses over the week-end.

Good congregations greeted the distinguished speaker yesterday when he preached thoughtful and thought-provoking sermons.

In the evening Dr. Stafford spoke of "The Degenerates," dealing with the sons of Eli and Samuel, who drifted from parental control into ways of viciousness and sin, to the sorrow of their peerless fathers and their own undoing.

Eli's sons were spoiled by their father's infirm purpose and the lack of parental discipline, while Samuel's sons were over-disciplined.

"Many a wrecked life would have been saved,' 'the speaker declared, "if we fathers had done our duty. In our families the sex problem should be plainly dealt with by the parents. If it is not dealt with in the home, others will deal with it in less desirable ways."

The time to form character is in the days of youth when the mentality is retentive and receptive.

Dr. Stafford depreciated the habit formed by some successful fathers of pointing out to their children how they began life with only the proverbial dollar and by their success had won ease for their children.

"The children would be justified in supposing it was easier to make a fortune years ago than to-day. What we must teach our children is this, that life will be for them pretty much what they make it. They will have their own battles to fight.

Make sure that good principles are your boy's chief stock in trade. Send your daughter out into the world with the best opportunity you can give her, but make sure she has tht truth of life in her.

A man may get the better of a taunt about his age, Dr. Stafford said, but a taunt about his sons opens a wound that is not to be healed.

Urging fathers to give care and time to the training of their children hile in a plastic state, the speaker concluded with an appeal to degenerate sons, those who had fallen below the high standards their fathers had set to take the one possible and efficient course by studying daily Jesus' definition o the soul's disease. "He is able to succour those who have fallen."

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BIBLE SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the local executive of the Canada Bible Society was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening at 8.30 p.m., Mr. J. M. Greene, the President occupied the chair and the various churches of the city were well represented.

The financial statement for 1923 was presented showing receipts from this city of $1553.41. This amount included a splendid gift of a $1000.00 Victory Bond. The amounts received from the churches was not so great as the previous year chiefly owing to the epidemic of sickness at the season of the year when the work of the Bible Society was presented.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of the previous year's executive Messrs. J. M.Greene President; A. S. Zavitz, 1st Vice President, H. B. Cowan, 2nd Vice President, W. Worth, Treasurer, G. H. Roper, Secretary.

Mr. W. E. Hassard of Toronto, addressed the meeting and after speaking of some encouraging and interesting developments of the work of the Society, outlined some plans which are being followed with success in other centres in creating a deep interest in this all important work of sending the Bible into all lands in the tongues of the different tribes and peoples.

Mr. Hassard spoke with appreciation of the sympathetic interest shown by the Ministers of the various churches of Peterborough in the plan to establish Bible Sunday. This year with but two exceptions and both of these were due to special conditions all the churches invited the Society to provide Speakers for one of the services on either February 4th or 10th.

The Executive are anxious that the response to the appeal of the Canadian Bible Society, which is an Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society whose work is of such World Wide influence and importance, shall be greater than in any previous year and that an interest in this work shall become firmly established in the hearts of the people of this city.

C. G. E. NIGHT AT THE G. W. V. A.

A large number of members of the G.W.V.A. and their companions in the late war had a very interesting social meeting. Due to the fact that the meeting was instituted primarily by the boosters at the C.G.E. works, invitations were extended to all the ex-members of the forces in the works, the chairman stated it was only fitting that a short review of what had been accomplished by the employees at the works during the war be given.

Immediately on the declaration of the war five Imperial Reserves reported to their units. In the first contingent 76 employees enlisted, 11 of whom were killed and 10 seriously wounded. In the second contingent 42 enlisted, of whom 3 were killed and 13 seriously wounded. The third contingent enlisted 181, 13 of whom were killed and 29 seriously wounded. In the fourth contingent and later 96 enlisted, of whom 11 were killed and 7 seriously wounded.

In addition to these contingents, the Canadian General Electric Company raised, supported and equipped an engineering contingent, of which 26 employees at Peterboro enlisted, and served to the end of the war either with the Canadian or Imperial Engineers at Quebec, Halifax or Esquimalt.

The total enlistments from the works were 136, the total killed or missing 38, and the total seriously wounded 59.

At the present time there are a large number of ex-members of the C.E.F., British navy, Imperials, Italian army, United States Army and Navy employed, and they total 277.

Their total number of months service in the war was 9980 months, giving an average service per man of 36 months each. This is a record for both the works and the district to be proud of.

The following programme was carried out and thoroughly enjoyed by all present, Mr. R. J. Devey being the accompanist, and in charge ofthe choruses, of which there were quite a number.

The Saxophone septette, composed of members of the Salvation Army Band, under the leadership of Bandmaster Robinson, practically all of them ex-members of the C.E.F.: H. Wells, F. Wells, E. Jones, A. Wells, J. James, A. Moynes and M. Shadgett, rendered the following: "Revelation," "Invincible" and "Saxonphobia." These beautiful numbers were apreciated by the audience, and several encores were demanded.

The solo by S. Cooper, "True to Death," was encored, and "The King of the Deep Am I," given. Both of these numbers were beautifully rendered, as was also a solo by Comrade T. Stazicker, "Nivada," accompanied by R. Dawson.

The instrumental trio, a concertina, banjo and mandolin played by Messrs. W. Taggart, J. W. Parkins and S. Parkins, was encored.

In adition to the programme as given above, there was a short speech on the objects of the association by President W. Parry, District Commander of the G. W. V. A. and the Ontario Veterans' Alliance, a report of which has already been presented in the Examiner.

At a busines meeting held prior to the open meeting the generous gift of a large plot of ground in the Little Lake Cemetery to the returned men, was accepted, and a hearty vote of thanks extended to the directors for their generous action. It has been a hardship in a number of cases to see that comrades have been properly buried, and it is to the credit of the G. W. V. A., that as far as they have any knowledge, no ex-soldier has been buried in potter's field in the city of Peterboro, as has been done in other cities of Canada and the United States.

It was decided that as far as possible the annual dues of the Association be paid half-yearly, on the first of April and the first of October. These dues are now $1.25 per half year payable in advance. As far as new members are concerned they wil be expected to pay $1.25 if they join in the first three months of any period after that the fees will be 25c per month until the next half yearly period starts. The secretary will welcome all applications for membership which will include initiation fees and dues until April 1st as follows:

During the month of February 50c due on application, and month of March 25c due on application.

It was stated that since the drive for new members has taken place over two hundred have been added to the rolls, and are taking a great deal more interest in the problems and work of the association in Peterboro.

DOUBTS WHETHER THE PRINCE WILL SUCCEED

MacDonald's Election Agent Looks For Sloughing Off of Monarchy.

LONDON, Feb. 11. —(Canadian Press.)— Doubt as to whether the Prince of Wales would ever ascend the throne of Britain was expressed by Miss Minnie Pallister, election agent for Premier Ramsay MacDonald in Aberaveon in the recent general election, in a speech which she delivered at Bradford yesterday.

Miss Palliser said doubt in the matter of the Prince succeeding his father as King was not due to any objection on the part of the country to the personality either of King George or the Prince, but it was due to the "country growing up and seeing old institutions sloughing off." She expressed the view that the sloughing off process might carry with it the Monarchy of Great Britain at no distant date.

WILL AWAIT ARRIVAL OF MARRIAGE PAPERS

Wedding of Austrian Adventurer Causes Widespread Interest.

VIENNA, Feb. 11. — (United Press).—It is necessary to await the arrival of documents relating to the marriage of Count Ludwig Calm Von Hoogstraet to Miss Millicent Rogers from the United States before the marriage can be considered valid in Austria, a statement issued by the Count's attorneys says.

The marriage of the Austrian adventurer — nobleman to the American heiress to the $40,000,000 fortune of H. H. Rogers—has caused widespread interest among friends of the Count here, and many stories which necessitated the statement from his attorneys.

The statement denied reports that the Count obtained authorization for his marriage to Miss Rogers illegally, declaring Calm obtained permission of the cermony from the Austrian Provincial authorities.

Documents must be registered in Austria, however, before the marriage can be considered valid.

CAMPBELLFORD LIGHT REPORT

Steps Taken to Improve the Service -- Farmers' Club Meeting -- Elect Officers.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 11. — The improvement of the light and power service was the chief topic of discussion at the February meeting of the Water and Light Commission. An exhaustive report on present conditions was submitted by Engineer Scott, who made a number of suggestions for an extension of the transmission lines. At present the service is more than taxed to its capacity to carry the peak load, and in case of an accident due to a wind or sleet storm, or any other cause, there is danger of the town being left without light or power until repairs are made. Campbellford has been fortunate in this regard. During the severe ice storm of last winter there was no serious impairment of the service, while other towns throughout Ontario were suffering.

Engineer Scott's recommendation to which he attached most weight was that a transmission line be built on both sides of the river. On motion of Commissioners Caddy and Meyers Secretary McGregor was instructed to write A. L. Mudge, electrical engineer of Toronto, who has been frequently engaged by the commission in the past, to ascertain his terms for coming to Campbellford to make an estimate of the cost of the proposed improvements.

Farmers 'Club Meets.

The Farmers' Club of Seymour township is as strong and active as ever as was evidenced by the interest shown at the postponed annual meeting held in the club rooms Saturday afternoon. There were over 50 members present and the discussion of the various matters brought up kept the gathering in session for over three hours.

P. B. Nelson, deputy-reeve of the township, presided and gave a report of the annual meeting of the U. F. O. in Toronto, which he attended as a delegate, when a truce was fixed up between the two wings of the party, the one led by J. J. Morrison and the other by ex-Premier Drury. The peace resolution was read and explained by Mr. Nelson. The U.F.O. as an organization is to be kept out of politics, the farmers to devote their attention entirely to the primary object in view, co-operative buying and selling, but this does not prohibit the formation of a political that will devote special attention to the needs of the agriculturists. With the spirit of this resolution there was agreement among those at the meeting Saturday.

Secretary-Treasurer Russell Peake submitted a report of the year's work. He handled goods to the value of $15,000, purchased on the co-operative plan for the members during 1923. These purchases include feed of all kinds, seed, machinery, binder twine and other articles that the farmers need. Co-operation is followed, too, in the marketing of their produce.

Officers Elected.

President—Thomas H. Rowe.

Vice-President — George W. Anderson.

Secretary-Treasurer — Russell Peake.

Directors— Charles Hutchins, W. H. Locke, Albert Petherick, D. I. Petherick, William Hooper, George Nelson, Robert McCulloch.

The Progressive Party

The members of the Progressive Party which was organized here when the U.F.O. decided to go into politics as a business proposition, have not held a meeting since the last Provincial election when their candidate was defeated by the nominee of the Conservatives. This organization was separate from the Farmers' Club, although it included in its membership a number from the club and the late Ira Loucks was president of both. What stand the farmers will take in the next election is one of the problems of the day but one thing is certain— a number of them are openly in favor of the new party which it was decided to organize at the annual provincial gathering of the U.F.O. in Toronto.

Ready for the Bonspiel

Everything is ready for the bonspiel which will open here Tuesday morning and continue until the evening of the following day. Covert's rink has been engaged for the occasion and four games will be in progress there while three are being played at the curling rink. A large number of visitors are expected and the ice in both rinks is in the very pink of condition.

The prizes and trophies to be competed for are on exhibition in one of the windows of the store of J. B. Ferris and Company. Besides three handsome cups, there are a number of pipes, safety razors, gloves and other articles that are worth winning.

Hockey Team Wants Games

The members of the hockey team are anxious to play home and home exhibition games with Lakefield, Stirling, Marmora or any other town that has a team of their class. Any manager wishing to accept this offer is asked to communicate with Capt. Tom Stewart, Campbellford.

To Discuss Church Union.

The Session of St. Andrew's Church have appointed a committee to arrange for two meetings, one to be addressed by an advocate of church union, and another by one opposed to it. An effort will be made to secure the best available speakers and it is hoped that both sides of the problem will be fairly and fully presented to the people. Particulars will be announced later. In the meantime members and adherents of the church are asked to secure and study the pamphlet which gives the basis of the proposed union.

Among the features of the musical programe given by St. Andrew's church last night was an anthem, with Fred Wigglesworth, organist and leader, taking the solo, "I Gave My Life for Thee," rendered by Miss Lila Ballantyne.

Roads Badly Blocked.

All the roads leading to Campbellford have been badly blocked by the storm of Saturday night and Sunday, and it is a question whether the mail carriers will be able to get over their routes to-day. The county provincial highway between this town and Brighton is almost impassable in places where there are stump or rail fences by the roadside. County Road Superintendent Greer now has authority to have such fences removed and replaced with wire, a resolution having been adopted at the recent session of the Counties' Council putting the Provincial statute into force in Northumberland and Durham.

Liver Trouble the Cause

Mrs. A. C. Brown, Oromocto, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my liver for a few years back and was so bad I did not feel able to do my work.

I had severe pains in my stomach so bad I could hardly stand them at times; coated tongue; bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, and had a yellow and sallow complexion.

I had read a great deal about Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and decided I would try a vial, and after taking two or three I found I was greatly improved, and can truthfully say that I felt more like living and can now do my own work without any trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE LANCASHIRE UNIONISTS MET.

They Urge the Establishment of Liaison Between the Party Leaders and Central Office.

LONDON, Feb. 11. — (Canadian Press).—A three-hour meeting of the Lancashire Unionists, held yesterday in Manchester, under the chairmanship of the Earl of Derby, former Secretary of State for War, resulted finally in the adoption, by an overwhelming majority, of a resolution urging that in view of the country's recent electoral verdict, it was undesirable that Protection should be included in the Conservative programme at this juncture.

The resolution also protested against the methods adopted when the election appeal was made on the issue of Protection without affording the party organization throughout the country an opportunity of expressing their opinions. The resolution further urged the establishment of a method of liaison between the party leaders at the central office and local organizations.

Colonel Albert Buckley, who was the junior Unionist Whip in 1921, was induced to withdraw a more strongly worded resolution in favor of the foregoing recommendations.

GIRLS OF CHESTER, PA., CARRY PIPE VANITY CASES.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 11.—Ultra-modernism in the guise of pipe smoking for girls has made its appearance in Ridley Park.

Pipes are carried in neat cases in hand bags and vanity cases. Some of the girls, however, still stick to the cigarette, but the pipe and special blended, mild tobacco is said to be gaining in favor among those who while away hours with Lady Nicotine.

DANCED ON ICE IN LAKEFIELD

Fire Chief Webster Led The Paul Jones In the Moccasin Dance — Rev. C. S. Reddick Unanimously Invited to Continue Pastorate.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 11.—The moccasin dance which was held in the rink on Thursday evening was a decided novelty and was very successful from the point of view of the participants and the on-lookers. The attendance of dancers was fair but the number of spectators was not large. Quite a number of skaters were present who were allowed to skate at 9.30, the center of the ice being reserved for the dancers. Owing to the condition of the country roads the attendance from the country was not large but the young people certainly had a delightful evening. When the band struck up the first number there was a decided timidity about being the first on the ice but it was only temporary as very soon the ice was thronged and each dance drew larger crowds than its predecessor.

The height of the fun was reached when Fire Chief Webster announced and managed a "Paul Jones." This dance has always been popular in the village but this was probably the first time that it was danced in the rink. The management of the rink provided a novelty which was thoroughly appreciated. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Northey, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Connell, Mrs. F. Brown, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. Sanderson, Misses Mary Johnston, Vera Botterill, Winnifred Batten, Angela Osborne, Eva Brown, Edna Braden, Eva McIlmoyl, Josie McIlmoyl, Myrtle Kidd, Alice Wilson, Lilian Summers, Helen Simpson, Iva Windsor, Yvonne Stuart, Effie Webster, Mary Campbell, Dora Darling and Verna Payne, Hilda Wannamaker; Messrs. W. H. Casement, H. R. Wager, W. L. Webster, George Sherin, Harold Newberry, Percy Stenner, Arthur Barker, Russell Little, Keith Wannamaker, William Henderen, Judson Hull, Roy Green, John Sabatino, Louis Sabatino, Dr. G. E. Renwick, H. Kidd, Earl Edwards, Albert Summers, Fred Wannamaker, Jack Mahood, Jack Ridpath, Clayton Ridpath, Frank Erskine, Gerald Sherin, Sam Sherin, Donald Alford, Sam Grylls.

A couple of loads of Peterboro young people were present also.

Euchre Party

On Tuesday evening a very jolly progressive euchre party was held in St. John's school room under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. The room was decorated with hearts, suggestive of the approach of St. Valentine's day, and the members of the committee were distinguished by bandeaux of small hearts. A table was arranged for crokinole for those who were not card players. Prizes were won by Miss Gertrude Summers and Rev. Walter Cox, and the consolation prizes by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stenner.

The refreshments, which were ordered from a mystic menu, were served about 10.45, the ladies finding the partners (Leap Year fashion) by a cleverly designed contest. Amusing fortunes, were provided for the gentlemen and entertained the entire company.

Rev. Walter Cox, who is now settled in the rectory, was present and with his kindly manner won many new friends in the parish.

The committee in charge of the evening were Mrs. Trude Waldon, Misses Dorothy Turner and Ida Webster and Percy Stenner.

Funeral on Friday

Olive Kathleen, the nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Peacock, died on Wednesday and the funeral service was held on Friday afternoon in the Lakefield cemetery. Rev. Walter Cox was in charge of the funeral service.

Besides the sorrowing parents, who have the heartiest sympathy of the entire village, two sisters, Ethel and Eileen, and one brother, Walter, survive.

Hostess For Bridge

Mrs. Chas. Grylls was the hostess of a very enjoyable bridge party on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald won the first prize.

Pastor Remains

At a meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Lakefield Methodist church a unanimous invitation has been extended to Rev. C. S. Reddick to remain for another conference year. Mr. Reddick thanked the Board and expressed himself as being glad to return.

Mr. and Mrs. Reddick and their family have made many friends, both in the Methodist church and in the village who will be glad to know that they are to remain as residents.

EGG POOL MAY BE ORGANIZED

Collections Will Commence About April 1 When the Season of High Production Opens

TORONTO, February 11 (Canadian Press). — For the first time in Ontario, an attempt will be made in the spring to organise a voluntary egg pool.

Arrangements for the undertaking have been completed by the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, and it is hoped to control absolutely the egg market in the Province.

The measure of success depends almost entirely on the proportion of the producers joining the pool.

Collections will commence about 1st April when the season of high production opens farmers will be paid immediately 75 per cent. of the prevailing market price on eggs of first quality. Lower grades will not be stored so that for these full price will be paid at once to the producer.

The co-operative company will charge 1 cent per dozen for handling and storing; the farmer will receive the rest.

Circulars are being sent to the farmers all over the Province and it is the intention to organise egg circuits. Each circuit will grade its own eggs and collections will be made twice a week.

FERGUSON'S ATTITUDE

TORONTO, Feb. 11.— (Canadian Press.)— That in denying recognition to the farmer group as the legal opposition in the Legislature, Premier Ferguson was adopting an autocratic attitude and "displaying gross ignorance of present day tendencies," was the opinion expressed last night by an audience of 1,000 men and women in the Labor Temple, who unanimously adopted a resolution which condemned the Liberal party for endorsing Hon. Mr. Ferguson's attitude by accepting it.

Your Health

In using the term protective foods, I have in mind the foods which are highly useful and necessary in giving children the elements needed for successful development and guarding them against food deficiencies, with body loss in weight and strength.

Just how these protective foods do their work is a dietary fact of great importance. There is always the danger of a one-track diet. The white bread, meat, potato and "some sweet" type of diet, is just as dangerous as it is wholesome.

The real needs of correct body building in all elements are not supplied by this group. They are necessary and healthful, but must be amply supplemented by others which may be termed protective.

They protect against loss in proper bone growth and against early loss of the teeth. In general nutritive qualities these so-called protective foods are of such great balue that the body does not and cannot perform its metabolic processes without their assistance.

This list of protective foods includes milk, different kinds of cheese, eggs, cabbage, spinach, cauliflower, collards, lettuce, beet tops and any other green vegetables whose leaves are eaten. Use them throughout the year at proper intervals.

We must have good teeth exercise and proper foods to chew. Faulty teeth are prominent in 90 per cent. of school children.

Protective foods will help remedy this condition.

INQUEST WILL BE HELD ORLAND CASE

Child's Body Exhumed on Saturday and Two Arrests Made.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

ORLAND, February 11. — There were new developments on Saturday in the affair that has given this village so much prominence for the past week, and the police are gradually tightening the coils around those who are regarded as the chief offenders.

Mike Ash and the O'Brien woman were on Saturday placed under arrest and taken to Cobourg by Provincial Officer Cousins, who returned to the village on Saturday.

The couple took their arrest lightly, and as they left the village for Brighton, from which place the man was taken for Cobourg, they were laughing and joking, apparently as happy as if they were departing on a holiday trip. They will be given a hearing in Cobourg to-day.

Infant's Body Exhumed.

The authorities are evidently not satisfied that the infant to which the O'Brien girl gave birth while alone in the Ash hovel on Monday night, came to its death from natural causes. The remains were buried under the direction of Constable Corey Parrow, in the Hilton Cemetery on Wednesday after the certificate of death and the burial permit had been issued.

Dr. Dure, coroner of Brighton, ordered Henry Killen, the sexton, to exhume the body which was taken to Brighton where a post-mortem was held in the Town Hall by Coroner Dure, Dr. Rundle, and Dr. Clarke.

The result of the post-mortem will be made public at the inquest, which, it is reported, will be held as soon as the mother of the child is sufficiently recovered to attend and give evidence.

ARMIES ARE LARGER THAN BEFORE THE WAR.

Men Under Arms Now 4,355,000 in Europe—States Increases Strength.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Apropos of the credits which France is giving to Jugo-Slavia, Roumania and Poland on condition that they shall be used for the purchase of munitions in France, a British general has just published statistics of the European armies in 1913 and in 1923. In 1913, Europe had 3,747,000 men under arms and in 1922-23 4,355,000.

The Tzecho-Slovak territory which provided formerly 73,000 soldiers for the Austro-Hungarian Empire now keeps up an army of 160,000 men. Poland, formerly divided between Germany, Austro-Hungary and Russia, provided only 190,000 men; today she has 275,000 under arms. To say nothing of Serbia, Jugo-Slavia and Roumania.

WAR MEMORIAL FOR HASTINGS

Street Planted With Trees to Be Followed by Another Memorial.

HASTINGS, Feb. 11.—The Hastings Chapters of the I.O.D.E. have completed all arrangements for the unveiling of their monuments to be erected in honor of the men of this district who served and fell in the Great War.

The unveiling will take place on Saturday, May 24.

About three years ago the street running from Front to Albert Streets was changed in name from Bridge to Avenue Road, and trees were planted about 10 feet apart with the name of each boy who had fallen. In all there were about 25 trees planted, and they are growing nicely. In a few years this will be the prettiest street in Hastings, and now the Daughters of the Empire, after about six years of faithful work, have raised enough money to erect this monument in memory of the boys.

Admonition Against Most Flagrant Abuses.

MONTREAL, February 11. — Admonition against "the most flagrant abuses" in social life, the modern dance, theatres and films of doubtful repute, indecency in dress, extravagance in an effort to maintain the pace, and an appeal to return to the moderation and control and the simple practices of the Catholic family, were contained in the pastoral letter of His Grace, Archbishop Georges Gauthier, Apostolic Administrator, which was read Sunday in the churches of the Diocese of Montreal.

HORSE RAN 24 MILES THROUGH SNOW DRIFTS

HARRISTON, Feb. 11. Canadian Press. — To run a distance of 24 miles in 95 minutes, over good roads, would be a good record for almost any horse, but to negotiate the distance over snowdrifted roads, dragging a cutter, even though empty, is a record very few horses have been able to make.

On Friday night last a horse owned by Mr. Leslie, Jr., of Hollen, became frightened when the cutter upset in a snowdrift, three quarters of a mile from the Leslie home, and breaking away with the empty cutter, the frightened horse landed in Harriston at 11.35 the same night.

As the horse came by way of Kenilworth, it travelled 24 miles in 95 minutes or an average of a mile every four minutes.

Why Ford Predominates

Ford Resources

The Ford is the product of a self-made institution which, over a period of years, has provided dependable transportation for all peoples.

Recognizing the value of Ford transportation, these peoples have purchased Ford products in such volume that the sale of Ford cars and trucks equals the sales of all other makes combined.

As a result, the resources of Ford of Canada are now over $20,000,000.

These resources mean ability to buy the best material at a minimum price.

They mean the ability to organize each process of production, from the purchase of materials to the completion of the finished car, on such a basis that every non-essential operation is eliminated.

The economies thus accomplished are reflected in Ford prices which, always consistently low, are now the lowest in history.

This is what Ford resources mean to you.

MR. KELSO'S PLAN.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, superintendent of neglected children, who by reason of his many years of service is in a better position than any other individual to speak with authority upon the subject, is convinced that some more complete and centralised system of supervision over English "home" boys in Canada is needed, and recent events justify that opinion.

Mr. Kelso believes that first the greatest care should be taken to investigate the farm home in which an orphan boy is to be placed. Then there should be an agreement in writing showing in detail the hours of work, educational provision, home treatment, opportunities for recreation, and amount of remuneration.

A central authority, Mr. Kelso says, should have control of all orphans, irrespective of nationality or the agency through which they were placed, and there should be periodical visits by experienced inspectors.

In addition, there should be facilities for making a prompt change where the child is unhappy or the foster parents are not satisfied.

The inspection ought to be such as to guarantee each boy reasonable hours of labour, opportunity for recreation, and provision for pocket money.

Mr. Kelso's recommendations are worthy of every consideration in view of his outstanding knowledge of Ontario conditions, and his long association with work on behalf of neglected children.

PUBLICITY NEEDED.

The Federal Government, it is hoped, has been careful to see that publicity is given in Great Britain to the verdict of the jury at Omemee last week in the inquest into the death of John Payne, the Barnardo home boy who committed suicide by taking paris green.

The boy was employed by Charles Fee, and the coroner's jury, after hearing much evidence, exonerated Mr. and Mrs. Fee from all blame.

There was no evidence of ill-treatment, and the verdict said: "In our opinion the boy had read about the sad affair at Goderich, and this, combined with a threat of Mrs. Fee that he would be sent back to the Barnardo Home if he did not mend his ways, was the only cause we could find from the evidence."

The case of young Bulpitt at Goderich was followed soon after by the Omemee tragedy, and much harm has been done Canada because of the manner in which the two cases were played up in a number of British newspapers.

It should be made clear that in the Payne case there was no ill-treatment to be held responsible for the boy's death, that Payne had a good horse, was not over-worked, never was abused, and his employer had shown consideration and kindliness in his treatment of him

Too much publicity cannot be given to such facts, especially in the Motherland, where they are needed to offset the effect of the space given to the first reports of the tragedy which showed Canadian conditions in a very bad light.

THE CANADIAN CANOE.

Of special interest to Peterborough should be the announcement that paddling events are to be included in the programme of the Olympic Games in France next summer.

The Canadian Committee feel that the introduction of such contests will result in a widespread popularity for the Canadian canoe, which is even more suitable for the rivers and lakes of Europe than it is for use in this country.

Peterborough as the home of the Peterborough canoe, is naturally interested in this question, inasmuch as the development of a European market for the Canadian style of canoe would be of very material benefit to this city, resulting in a greater output for the local canoe factories and in employment being furnished for more citizens.

It does not, however speak well for the enterprise and energy of the city's young men that in the headquarters of the canoe industry and with unrivalled facilities afforded by river and lakes for practice in paddling Peterborough will be represented in the Olympic canoe events only by her boats and not by her sons.

In spite of all the advantages enjoyed by Peterborough people in this respect, there is not a local paddler who is qualified to be placed on any Olympic team.

Lakefield has turned out such well-known canoe experts as Reg. Bloomfield and Bruce Redpath, but Peterborough's record so far as top notch paddlers are concerned, is a complete blank.

It would be a wonderful advertisement for this city if a Peterborough boy paddling a Peterborough canoe could win the world's championship in Paris next summer.

We have the canoes—unfortunately the men to fill them seem to be missing.

NOT MORE REVENUE, BUT LESS SPENDING.

The promoters of the new movement to press for economy in municipal, Provincial nad Federal circles, to which The Examiner referred the other day, would get their campaign away to a flying start if they could persuade spending bodies in general to change their attitude towards expenditures.

The theory followed by most of them seems to be that expenditures should be based upon the amount of revenue that can be secured.

That is a viewpoint that is bound to lead to extravagance.

So long as new avenues of taxation can be found, they want to go on spending, instead of estimating their expenditures upon what people can afford to pay for—they usually persist in basing them upon what public can be made to pay for.

Everybody, either in our home city or at Toronto or Ottawa, can be disabused of the idea that so long as the revenue is coming in and new schemes can be devised to increase it, they are justified in going ahead and paying it out, much will have been accomplished.

A recent Federal statement declares that there was an increase in revenue during the first ten months of the fiscal year of ten million dollars.

What of that?

The only important feature of that statement is that the Canadian people paid in some form of taxation or other ten million dollars more than in the same period of the last fiscal year.

More money in the treasury means nothing more or less than that more money was taken out of the pockets of the people.

It is not the bringing in of more revenue that we ask of our Governments; it is the cutting down of expenditure so that less revenue will be needed.

Once that viewpoint is appreciated and acted upon, results will begin to show.

HONESTY OF POLITICIANS.

Because Albert B. Fall, United States ex-Secretary of the Interior, stands charged before Congress with having transferred enormous oil interests to a private corporation for a corrupt consideration, the usual horde of uninformed critics are rising to denounce "dishonest politicians," says the Ottawa Journal. Yet the simple truth is that this is the first time that an American of Cabinet rank has been charged with malfeasance in office since the Belknap scandal in the administration of President Grant.

And as in the United States, so in Britain and Canada. Public men in both Britain and Canada have been indicted for extravagance, or neglect, or incapacity. But what critic of politicians in either country can point to a single statesman who, within the last quarter of a century, has been even charged with personal dishonesty? We remember none.

During the war millions and billions were spent in confusion and desperate haste. Staggering commitments were incurred, and enormous contracts were let; yet nobody has as much as suggested that a single dollar ever found its way into the pockets of a Cabinet Minister.

That is something that should be emphasized. For the truth is that, taken all in all, public life in English-speaking countries is remarkably clean. Too clean to deserve the criticism of the ill-informed but well-intentioned people who are too frequently misled by the mere ignorant and malevolent

MONEY TALKS.

What does it say? We wonder what some of us would do if we could stop for a moment and listen to what our money is telling people about us! Our money, one would think, would have no right to talk about us unless it spoke approvingly, and yet the very loudest and sternest condemnation of some men comes from their own money; for their money tells the truth about them. We think of money sometimes as the means of bribing people to lie about men, and we suppose that a man can get any kind of a good reputation if only he is willing to pay for it. But the very hush-money tells the truth. The very bribe condemns the briber. A man's tongue may deceive us, but his money usually tells the truth.

Few men would be willing to have their money talk, and yet talk it will and they cannot silence it. A man may go to church and look like a saint, but if his money goes to the pari-mutuels, or to bootleggers, or to enterprises that are shady and disreputable, his church-going is badly discounted. A man says he loves his home, and family, but if he spends more on race horses or automobiles than he does on his children, his love is surely of little account. If his money goes to build up a bank account or a big business, when it ought to go into his boys, it is hard to disbelieve those dollars.

When a man says he loves the church, while he pays his barber more than he pays his preacher, his money laughs at him. The man who calls himself a lover of missions, and flatters himself that he gives "till it hurts," and, at the same time, puts $1,000 into his automobile for every $100 he puts into missions, had better either silence his dollars or keep quiet himself. A man's investments bespeak the man. If he has faith in the church he will invest in the church; if he has faith in his children he will invest in his children; if he has faith in missions he will put money into missions; if he has faith in humanity he will show it by his investments; and, on the other hand, if he has faith in oppression and greed he will invest in them; if he has faith in roguery and lawless methods he will invest in them.

Money talks. The finest obituaries some men will have will be the record of their expenditures; wholly unselfish and supremely Christian; and the most damning indictment some others can have will be the pages of their cash-book and ledger. To have spent a fortune in trying to make the world better; to have restricted our personal expenditures in order that we might help those who were poorer than we; to have made our investments on the principle that it is more blessed to give than to receive; to have died poor because we had spent a fortune in honest efforts to relieve distress and to build up the Kingdom of God; and to lie at last in an unmarked grave, because we did not leave money enough to pay for a monument, may be sufficient to write us down as fools in the financial world, but it is got true, it cannot be true, that such a man has been a failure. There are treasures that neither moth nor rust can destroy; there are riches that no thief can purloin and no covetous hand despoil; and the man who places his investments where the Spirit of Christ approves, need not worry about the dividends.

This is no appeal for reckless expenditure in the guise of faith; it is not an arraignment of that wise economy which makes proper provision for the future, both for ourselves and our families; it is simply an appeal for the Christianization of wealth along with the conversion of the heart. There is a deadly heresy today, which holds that a man may serve the Lord with all his heart, and shut Him out of his financial operations; and this we believe to be an impossible thing. If a man be Christian, his money and his investments must also be made Christian. This is both Scriptural and reasonable.—Christian Guardian.

28 MEN CARRY WOMAN THROUGH SNOW FOR AID.

PARKERSBURG, W.Va., February 11. — Twenty-eight men, working in relays, were required to carry Mrs. Ray Prunty on a cot from Oxford, a remote section of Ritchie County, to the railroad station at Toll Gate, in order that she might be brought to a hospital here.

Impassable roads over mountains and through valleys, made the journey necessary, after the village doctor had decided she needed hospital treatment.

Mrs. Prunty suffered from exposure, but the hospital physicians said that she would recover.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9. — Wheat scored a notable advance to-day in the last hour of the Board of Trade session. Active buying ascribed to the northwest furnished most of the impetus. Closing prices were firm, 5-8c to 1 and 1 1-8c net higher; May $1.12 3-8 to $1.12 3-8 and ¼; and July $1.12 1-8 to $1.12 ¼; corn finished unchanged to 1-8 and 1-4c up; oats at a shade decline to 1-4c and 3-8c gain and provisions at the same as yesterday's latest figures, to 7c lower.

According to gossip which was current the new buying of wheat was based largely on the opinion that plans for aiding the farmers of the country, and especally those in the northwest, would soon come to fruition. Talk about the likelihood of the United States import duty on wheat being lifted attracted particular notice. Demand was prompted also by assertions that owing to recent adverse weather the winter wheat crop had suffered damage of more than ordinary extent. Besides, the domestic movement of wheat, as shown by the primary receipts this week, was of greatly reduced volume compared with the previous week and a year ago.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

BY MASON DIXON

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 11.— Out in the pretty cemetery in Gulfport, where magnolia and orange trees are thick among the graveyard evergreens, is the tomb of Miss Lula Watt, surmounted by a newly made shaft of a bloodhound magnificently done in marble. Around the tomb are a number of smaller tombs, each marking the last resting place of a beloved canine pet.

Miss Watt died several months ago. In her will filed this week she directed that as her pets died, they be buried near her own grave, each to bear a litle monument. She even directed that the bodies of dogs she had already carefully buried be removed to the designated plots surrounding her grave.

Convivial visitors in New Orleans find in hard to get into their homes in the wee sma' hours of the morning. Especially is this true of the old French Quarter.

It is not an infrequent occurrence to see long lines of wobbly men, with an occasional woman, hanging and hammering at the doors of their rooming houses.

The reason: All doors in the old French Quarter have the keyholes on the "wrong" side.

Commoodre R. Lee Edwards of the Southern Yacht Club is a mechanical genuis. But hereafter he will be more careful in the handling of large-size motorboats. Recently he decided to repair his craft, the Liberty, himself. He had the boat dragged up on high ways, so he could work on the bottom.

When he had completed the work and was preparing to launch the craft, he hired eight negroes to help him. At one moment of the task he yelled: "John, knock out that stay."

Crash went every stay and down went the boat, breaking its bottom and injuring its mechanism. Every negro was named John.

The Luoisiana Railway & Navigation Company is planning to erect a new depot in New Orleans. In the entrance will be sunk a heavy stone, once the old slave block in the famous Hotel Royla from which negroes were auctioned to the highest bidder in antebellum days, and where Abraham Lincoln, making a flatboat trip to New Orleans as a boy, saw the blacks auctioned off.

All the material in the new depot will be from the ruins of this famous hotel. Some of the stones bare the imprint of bullets and cannon bals. The old hotel was once used as the capitol of Louisiania, and it was from this bulding that a Democratic legislature battled with a Republican "carpet-bag" legislature, and finally seized control of the government. Henry Clay was entertained in the old Hotel Royal in 1843 when the supper alone, which was served on gold plates, cost $30,000.

LUXURY OF TO-DAY IS NECESSITY OF COMING TO-MORROW

It Is Not Long Since Housewives Universally Dreaded Monday.

The luxuries of today are the necessities of tomorrow. This is realized when a disaster, such as a flood, temporarily cuts off electric lights, street cars, gas, piped water and phone service.

Many now living can recall when these services were curiosities of the laboratory. As they came gradually into use, they could be afforded only by the wealthy. Now they are within reach of nearly everybody. They are necessities today, formerly luxuries.

The same situation exists as regards services performed by individuals and organizations, or by machinery that does work formerly handled by people.

It is not long since housewives universally dreaded Monday, "wash day." They had to rise with sun, toil over a washboard. Tuesday came ironing. Now the washing machine or laundress relieves the housewife of most of the burden.

So it goes, all through daily life. We merely pick up the phone and presto! an organization of specialists is at our disposal to perform tasks that seriously inconvneienced our ancestors who had to do the work themselves.

The jack-of-all-trades used to be an important individual. Today the specialist rules. Everything is specialization.

Life's tasks have been scientifically divided. Each individual has some one specialty instead of every one trying to be his own specialist in scores of different situations that develop.

Success requires specialization—increasingly so as the years slip by. Obviously a youth must select his career—the line of work he wants to follow—with greater care than in the old days. Formerly only the professions specialized. Now every one does—or should.

A fine system, yes. It does, though, make life mechanical and dull.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

That the Washington administration is somewhat on the side of the Mexican Government against the Mexican rebels isn't disputed. By most Americans it seems to be agreed that it's a pretty good Government, fighting some pretty bad rebels. Yet the administration's considerably criticized in Congress for taking any side whatever. This isn't on the ground that the administration's on the wrong side now. It's on the ground that its example of side-taking may be imitated some time, some place, when and where the situation's merits are different.

AFTER THE REBELS.

To get at rebel bands he hopes to destroy, President Obregon is sending troops through this country from northwestern to northeastern Mexico. There's no railroad on his side of the border. On this side there is. The Washington administration gave its permission, and so did the Governors of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

AMERICANS THREATENED.

United States warships have been sent to Tampico, where the rebels control. There are hints at the possible use of marines to protect American interests, should they be interfered with. However, it's hoped the warships' presence will serve as a sufficient warning.

As head of the financial experts' committee engaged in trying to make German money worth something, to put the Berlin Government on a money-saving basis and then to get Germany to paying war damages, Charles G. Time will answer.

Mothers Should Not NEGLECT BRONCHITIS In the Babies

Mrs. E. Langdon, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"My baby had bronchitis when he was two weeks old, he recovered from the attack but took it again, several months later, and on account of the severity I was almost panic-stricken to know what to do for him. My mother advised me to try Dr. Woods' Norway Pine Syrup, as she had used it for several years with splendid results.

I got a bottle, and after I had used it I could see a decided improvement in him; after several bottle he was completely relieved.

My boy is now two years old, and he has never had an attack of bronchitis since.

As a mother, raising a family, I am very grateful to know that I have found a real remedy for bad colds and bronchitis, as it lifts care and anxiety from an anxious mother's shoulders."

TROOPER STRIPPED AND WHIPPED UNCONSCIOUS AT TORONTO BARRACKS

Was Reported to Have Condemned at Church Meeting Conduct of His Unit—Was Tossed Into Snow Bank With Body Covered With Welts.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

TORONTO, Feb. 11.— Stanley Barracks is shaken with a sensation arising out of the brutal beating of Trooper J. Bowen of the Royal Canadian Dragoons by a number of his comrades.

They took him out of his room, stripped him partially and laid on their whips until his back was covered with welts, and he was rendered unconscious.

Then, evidently to revive him, they threw him into a snow bank, but that failing he was carried into the medical detention room of the barracks where he was resuscitated.

An unofficial and entirely illegal "barrack-room courtmartial" had set on Bowen's alleged offense and condemned him to ten strokes of the whip. He probably got several more than that.

The "offense" for which Bowen was so cruelly whipped was that he had made remarks in a Baptist church meeting concerning the difficulty of living a Christian life amid military surroundings and with drinking and gambling going on about him.

But it appears that as is usual with the mob rule brand of justice the man made a mistake. The tale bearer who carried them the story of Bowen's remarks made it appear that he was speaking directly of Stanley Barracks and his own comrades. Bowen's version is that he was speaking more of his experiences with the American army of occupation in the Rhine district after the war closed.

Some Culprits Punished

Punishments have already been meted out to a number of the men concerned in the brutal affair. Investigation is going on in regard to several others who are implicated.

Colonel Gilman O.C. at the barracks has probed the matter and handed out the following sentences

The only N.C.O. involved, a young lance corporal, who knew of the affair and tried to stop the beating, but did not report it to his superiors promptly, is reduced to the ranks.

One man who admits wielding the whip on Bowen gets 28 days detention at hard labor and loses 28 days pay, $47.60.

Four men who admit being present at the court martial draw 14 days detention at hard labor and lose 14 days' pay, $23.80.

Three other man are being investigated, and though they deny having an actual hand in the beating it is expected that enough evidence will be forthcoming to establish their guilt, and they may be cast out of the army altogether.

The fact that the whole affair took place after the "lights out" hour of 10.15 and in the dark has made it difficult for the investigators to clearly establish the facts and the identity of the whippers.

Bowen Refuses to Accuse

But the remarkable thing about the matter is the attitude of Bowen toward his assailants. He refuses to accuse them. Following the example of his master, this young soldier says that the men who so cruelly beat him did not know the facts and were misled into the belief that he had deliberately gone out of the barracks and condemned his unit. Their pride in their regiment had been touched.

According to the facts from authentic sources, Bowen came to Toronto a few months ago and joined the Dragoons. He was a good living man, and had remonstrated with one or two soldiers quartered near him concerning their conduct. One of the men to whom he spoke had tried to borrow money from him but had not succeeded. This man is said to have followed Bowen last Sunday night to church. During the service a number of "experiences" were related. A young student related how hard it was to live the Christian life amid the temptations of student life. Then a woman who was sitting beside Bowen suggested that he tell of his army experience. He did so, but his references were to barrack room life generally and in particular to things he had seen with the army of occupation.

Trooper Carries Tale.

The other trooper went back to the barracks and told his comrades how Bowen had been talking about them. If there is one offence soldiers will not pardon, it is that of "telling tales" on their unit and the men felt that Bowen had transgressed this unwritten law. Having heard but one side of the story, they proceeded to hold a barrack room court martial on him, and passed sentence of ten strokes of the whip.

On the following night, Monday, they waited until after "lights out" at 10.15, and then invaded Bowen's room and took him out to the riding school, where they would not be molested or interrupted. Rumor says that some of them had been drinking, but the evidence has not established this.

The beating took place in the darkened riding school. They tied the young man up so that the whips might be plied without resistance on his part. Then partially stripped him, leaving most of his body bare. Then they applied the string lashes of their whips.

It is the theory of the officers that in that group of eight men there were one or two of the more brutal type of men known as "bruisers," and that once having used the whip, these men lost control of themselves and in their frenzy, hit harder than the others. At any rate Bowen was brutally, cruelly cut with the whips, and he fainted.

Tossed Into Snowdrift.

Seeing him insensible, the men freed him and carried him out and tossed him into a snowdrift, their idea evidently being that this would bring him to his senses. But it did not. Then the lance corporal, who had vainly tried to stop the beating, wrapped a blanket around the body with its welts and cuts, and they carried him to the barracks hospital, where the orderly attended to his wounds and he returned to consciousness.

It was not until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the medical officer made his rounds, that he came upon Bowen, amid the affair was made known to the officer commanding. Col. Gilman at once began an investigation.

Will Investigate.

Attorney-General Nickle is to-day instructing Crown Attorney Eric Armour, K.C., to investigate thoroughly the alleged beating of Trooper J. Bowen, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, by a number of his comrades. Bowen, it is said, was dragged from his quarters at Stanley Barracks on a recent night, partially stripped, and whipped on the bare back until he was rendered unconscious, then thrown into a snow bank to recover.

Military punishment has already been meted out to Bowen's alleged assailants, it is said.

Bowen's "offence," it is said, was that he had made remarks at a church meeting concerning the difficulty of living a Christian life amid military surroundings, with "drinking and gambling" going on about him.

MURRELL SINGS IN DEATH CELL

"Rich Baritone" of Convicted Murderer Rang Through Corridors — Williams Buoyed By Hope.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 11.—Sidney Murrell, 26, yesterday with Henry Williams, 25, and Clarence Topping, 23, sentenced to be hanged on Thursday, April 10th, spent Sunday in his cell singing, his rich baritone voice ringing throughout corridors as if he had not a care in the world. Williams, apparently buoyed up by hope of mercy, showed no signs of depression, while Topping, who was found guilty by a jury one minute before midnight Friday by a jury which rejected his insanity plea, maintained the appearance of semi-stupor as shown during his trial, all three are well.

The three young men were sentenced Saturday by Justice Lennox, who held out little hope for mercy for Murrell and Williams, convicted of the murder of Russell Campbell in a raid on the Home Bank at Melbourne, on April 11, 1921. To Topping, convicted of slaying his sweetheart, Geraldine Durston, last November, the judge said that he believed him to be sane, but would suggest that he be thoroughly examined by alienists before the date of execution to definitely determine the question of sanity.

CRIME SYNDICATE

so fast and enjoyed the freedom of healthy limbs was a nemesis for the "Syndicate."

Saw the Death Car

This crippled man, another surprise witness, was revealed for the first time as the link between the "Syndicate" and the lifeless bank messengers whose bodies lay crumpled on the "L" platform.

He was George J. Kauffman, who hobbled to the witness stand, supporting his slow steps with a cane. He told how he had been looking from his window at No. 1340 Fifty-fifth street, Brooklyn, when he heard shots. He looked into the direction from which the sounds seemed to come.

He noticed at the foot of the "L" stairway a Cadillac sedan. Kauffman did not know whether that car might be connected with the shooting, but he took its number. The number, he testified, was 961-094.

Soon Kauffman added, two men came running down the stairway and leaped into the car he had seen. They lost no time.

"Whitley" Diamond blinked now and then.

But the "hard day" for the "syndicate" was not yet ended. Added to the blasting testimony of surprise witnesses there was an element that is regarded as the hardest blow any alleged general manager of a "Crime Syndicate" can suffer the double- crossing by former pals. There were two instances of this.

First came testimony from the thick lips of Nicholas Luciano, twenty, who said he never had been convicted of a crime, but made no bones of admitting that he had been guilty of one.

Luciano, whose long, jet black hair is trained in pompadour above a two and one-half-inch brow, outlined the alleged conspiracy of directors of the "syndicate" and told of conversations immediately following the "business" transacted by it on the tragic November 14. He pictured the cool, flabby "Whitey" as having said:

Knew Brothers' Plans.

As chauffeur for bootleggers and later as a handy but unsuccessful salesman of the sedan that became the death car of the "syndicate," Luciano pictured himself as thoroughly familiar with the plans and specifications of the Diamond brothers and their underlings.

Luciano is called "Cheeks" by his underworld friends, because his jowls are over-plump, and seme as firm and outstanding as inflated water-wings.

"Cheeks" also had been a chauffeur for Angelo Farina, brother of Joseph Farina, the latter being one of the four accused of slaying or conspiring to slay the bank messengers. The fourth is Anthony Pantano.

As "Cheeks" did his share to try to put Diamond on the path to the electric chair, "Whitey" seemed to do another bit of slumping in his chair. But he did not blink his cool light eyes.

Algernon J. Nova, chief of counsel for Diamond, sought to show that Luciano himself was the driver of the death car. This "Cheeks" denied.

Had been Scapegoat.

He said Morris Diamond had confided to him on November 15 that the "Syndicate's" business had been closed satisfactorily. When asked why Diamond should have singled him out for the recipient of such news, Luciano explained:

"I thought he told me on account of my taking the rap for him once before."

The "rap," gangland's parlance to indicate an incident of wrong doing for which an innocent person takes responsibility for the guilty one, consisted in the attempted sale of the sedan used in the murder.

Luciano said that "Whitey" Diamond had told him to dispose of the car and that he "Cheeks," had been arrested on a charge of having stolen it, and is still on bail for that offense.

TORONTO WOMAN BROUGHT BACK ON MURDER CHARGE

Proud of their Representative

Residents of East Northumberland no matter what their political affiliation naturally feel somewhat proud of the fact that their representative Maojr Belford was chosen by Premier Ferguson to move the address at the opening of the Legislature. The Major was evidently sustained in his reputation as a clever and well informed orator. The Mail and Empire says editorially:

"Major Belford, who served as a chaplain in the army during the war and addressed the Assembly with ease of a practiced speaker. His speech was not unduly long. It touched lightly on some political issues and offered some suggestions. It was optimistic in tone and in excellent taste.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Herman Sampson, who died February 10, 1923 One year has passed since that sad day, Herds of Caribou.

With regard to the big game possibilities in Canada, Captain Doudera is most enthusiastic. In the district north of Allenwater, Ontario, from which he has just returned, he reports having seen moose every day, and droves of caribou, numbering from 4 to 16 in a drove.

Small fur-bearing game is also very plentiful, and he sees no reason why it should not continue if wolves are kept down, as the feeding grounds are plentiful and rich.

Trappers with whom he talked told him that on both sides of the Transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways in Ontario big game is very plentiful at the present time.

Captain Doudera was an interested spectator at the Dog Derby in Montreal on Saturday. He left on Saturday night for New York.

CENTRAL AUTHORITY OVER ENGLISH BOYS NEEDED IN CANADA

Dominion Societies Have Limited Supervision, Says J. J. Kelso.

Most Lads Well Treated.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—Six rules which would form a sound basis for child welfare work among "home" boys and girls brought to the farms of the Province were outlined by J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of Neglected Children, Saturday, in the course of an interview. Primarily, Mr. Kelso laid down the rule that there should be the greatest care exercised in pre-investigation of the farm home in which an orphan boy is to be placed. An agreement in writing, specifying every detail of hours of work, education..l provision, home treatment, recreational opportunities, and amount and manner of remuneration, should be obtained to guard against misunderstanding and possible mental and physical ill-treatment. A central authority should have control of all orphans, irrespective of nationality or the agency through which they are placed. There should be periodical visits by wise and discriminating inspectors. There should be provision for adequate education, and reasonable remuneration for boys over school age, and facilities for making a prompt change where the child is unhappy or the foster parents claim they are not satisfied.

Letter From "Home" Boy.

The interview was prompted by a letter from a former "home" boy, now married and with a family of his own, whose name, at his request, is withheld. His story is one of almost inhuman treatment, which culminated in his running away with the feeling that this "much talked of brotherhood of man" was not for such as he and that he was an outcast among men.

He gives in detail some of the events of his life. He was forbidden to visit his brother on a nearby farm. He was forced to work from 5 a.m. until 8 p.m. and to sleep in a dark, cold attic without a light (lights were not allowed). He was forbidden to play with the farmer's children or to eat at the same table, or to frequent any room but the kitchen.

Was Horsewhipped, He Says.

His physical treatment, he claims, was even more harsh. Once he was punished with a horsewhip because some jam, about which he knew nothing, was missing, and afterward was locked up in the house so that neighbors might not see his condition. At another time he was sent out over frosted grass in his bare feet to bring in the cows after he had been beaten for protesting and forced to walk through hot coals and ashes.

Finally he ran away, was sheltered by a sympathetic farmer, and ultimately secured a position in a small town. From there he wrote to the home which had sent him out, and in reply received just a few religious tracts and an admonition to "obey his master." Not a line of information respecting the history of his parents and the addresses of his people that he had asked for was given.

That such cases as this did occur from time to time, Mr. Kelso said, was only too true. In nearly every case, however, the orphan boys received reasonable treatment. The measure of supervision which was being exercised at present, together with the natural humanity of the greater number of the farm foster-parents, assured physical comfort at least and in many cases the boys were truly happy in their environments.

Jurisdiction Limited.

Children's Aid inspection officers have been making periodical visits to the farms on which Canadian orphans have been placed for some years, and they have been making it their concern to look into any case of ill-treatment of English "home" boys whenever rumors of bad conditions reach them. At present, however, they have no jurisdiction over the English home boys. No central authority controls the placement of orphans and the extent of possible intercession by the Department for Neglected Children in the case of ill-treated English boys is a letter of advice to the home which placed them.

All orphan boys, irrespectibe of where they have come from, are regularly inspected. A great drawback, however, is a fear on the part of many of the English boys that if they report the true condition they will be sent back to England and punished as failures. That fear, said Mr. Kelso, frequently prompted ill-treated boys to withhold their confidences from visiting inspectors.

As a general rule, though, the boys receive good treatment. There are, admittedly, cases of bad treatment and the remedy, Mr. Kelso said, lies in his suggestion of a basis of more complete and centralized supervision. Such supervision should, in future, guarantee to each boy reasonable hours of labor, opportunity for recreation and provision for pocket money.

Less Pot-washing

SMP Enameled Ware has the smooth surface and polish of fine crockery—without the breakage. And it is so very easy to clean—just like china, and therefore makes light work of pot washing.

Try this test. Take an SMP Enameled Ware sauce pan and an all-metal sauce pan of equal size. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Put on the fire at the same time. The SMP sauce pan will be boiling merrily when the water in the other is just beginning to simmer.

ANNUAL REPORT OF MUTUAL LIFE

The Operations of the Company Are Disclosed In Figures That Should Cause Satisfaction.

The fifty-fourth annual statement of The Mutual Life of Canada, published in this issue, is an interesting resume of the past year's business. The operations of the company are disclosed in figures that should cause the directors, management, field force, and policy holders the deepest satisfaction. The new business written amounted to $38,040,578. Allowing for terminations and revivals, the net increase to the business in force amounted to 23,495,912, the total assurances in force standing now at $269,982,566.

The mortality experienced was less than 40 per cent. of the expected deaths according to the standard tables, so that there will result a substantial profit to the policyholders from this source.

The rate of interest was satisfactory, although there is a general decline from the high rates obtaining in recent years, but the rate actually realised of 6.55 per cent. will ensure more than satisfactory results to the members of the Mutual Life.

The net results of all the various transactions are summed up in the surplus, which amounted to $3,012,806.99.

The company announces the introduction as at 1st January, 1924, of several attractive features in its policy contracts and, what is of the most practical interest, the dividends or refunds on premiums are to be substantially increased.

Altogether, the position of the Mutual is enviable and one distinctly reassuring to the Canadian public in these anxious days.

Australian Labor Is Proud of MacDonald.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb 10.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Leader Hunter Charlton of the labor opposition in the Commonwealth parliament in a public speech, said he was proud of Ramsay MacDonold's labor government in Great Britain. The British labor party's victory had taken the Australian labor party miles nearer to its objective. Mr. Charlton expressed the opinion that the proposed Singapore naval base would incur the displeasure of the Japanese who always played fair.

Show Your Folks

How teeth become whiter when you fight film

Ask for this test

Someone in each family should make this delightful test. It has shown millions the way to prettier teeth—to cleaner, safer teeth. To homes the world over it is bringing a new dental era. Let ten days show how much it means to you and yours.

That cloud is film

That viscous film you feel on teeth is what mars their beauty. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. It becomes discolored and forms dingy coats, to hide the luster of the teeth.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That's why few escaped tooth troubles, despite their daily care.

Modern science has found ways to fight film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Clinical tests proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Dentists the world over began to advise it. Now careful people of some 50 nations use this new-day method.

Meets other needs

Pepsodent does other things which research proved essential. It multiplies the tooth-protecting factors in saliva.

Watch its effects. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

A few days will convince you of its need. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

POLICE COMMISSION HAD FIRST MEETING

Discussion of Estimates Left Until Chief Makes His Annual Report.

His Honour Judge Huycke and His Worship Magistrate Langley welcomed His Worship Mayor Turner to the Board of Police Commissioners at the first meeting of the Board this year, held on Saturday evenmg.

Judge E. C. S. Huycke expressed the hope that the efforts of the Board this year will result in increased efficiency. He proposed that Mayor Turner be appointed chairman, but on request of the Mayor and Magistrate Langley, retained the chairmanship himself.

Only routine business was discharged at Saturday's meeting, discussion of the estimates and a suggested reduction in the Police Force being deferred until next Saturday, when the annual report will be presented by Chief Constable S. Newhall with his recommendations for 1924.

An application from Roy Matthews, Water Street, for a license to conduct a second-hand store was granted on the motion of Magistrate Langley and Mayor Turner, following a certificate from Chief Newhall.

O.T.A. Prosecutions.

The question of prosecuting O.T. A cases was brought up, but on the suggestion of His Honour Judge Huycke was not gone into pending the receipt of letters in the possession of County Crown Attorney G. Hatton, K.C.

It was explained that the City Council wishes to make use of the City Solicitor in prosecuting cases under the O.T.A., but that it is the expressed desire of the Attorney-General that the County Crown Attorney conduct the prosecution.

Mayor Turner suggested making the change, and allowing Mr. Wearing to do the work until stopped by an order from the Attorney-General's Department.

Magistrate Langley said he is not concerned as to who appears in the cases, and remarked that Chief Newhall has conducted the prosecutions in all cases this year.

Mayor Turner suggested applying to the Attorney-General for an interpretation of the ruling, but Judge Huycke thought it unlikely this would be given.

Mr. Hatton will be asked to furnish the Board with copies of all letters in his possession regarding the employment of the County was doubted by some, the Board de Crown Attorney in O.T.A. cases.

Regular Dates.

Although the efficacy of the system cided, on the motion of Magistr Langley and Mayor Turner to met on regular dates, set as the last Saturday in each month.

Because of the peculiar duties o the members of the Board which call them at all hours and on unexpected days to different parts of their territory, Judge Huycke did not think a regular meeting hour would be practicable.

Band Concert Zone.

Mayor Turner proposed that the streets around Victoria Park be closed during the hours of the band concerts. Cars should not be allowed to move between 8.15 and 9.15, he said, when there is an intermission during which any might leave who desired and others might enter the zone, which would be closed again until the conclusion of the concert.

His Honour Judge Huycke suggested the proposal be incorporated in Chief Newhall's report for consideration, remarking that he heartily approved the plan.

Mayor Turner said Peterborough is indebted to the Chief for the way in which he has required the merchants on the main streets to clean the sidewalks of snow. The city, he said, compares very favourably with Ottawa, where the by-law is not enforced and where walking on the principal streets is very difficult.

Chief Newhall remarked that it had only been necessary to fine one man for refusing to carry out the request of the police to do this work.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use if Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

She looked at him with hostile but agonized eyes.

"Your calculated brutality does not affect me in the least. And you are merely one more victim of convention—like those old women in New York. It never has been, therefore it never can be. Many women are not able to bear children, even in youth."

"It is your turn to quibble. Tell me: until you were attracted to this young man—attracted, no doubt, because he was so unlike the European of your long experience—had you deviated from the conclusion, arrived at many years before, that you had had enough of love—of sex—to satisfy any woman? You implied as much to me a few moments since. I know the mental part of you so well that I am positive the mere thought would have disgusted you. If you had been starved all your life it would be understandable, but you had experimented and deluded yourself again and again—and you were burnt out when you came to Vienna to live—burnt out, not only physically but spiritually. Your imagination was as arid as a desert without an oasis. If any man had made love to you then, you would have merely turned on him your weary disillusioned eyes, or laughed cynically at him and yourself. Your keen aesthetic sense would have been shocked. You were playing then an important and ambitious role, you had the greatest political salon in Vienna—in Europe—and you went away to rest that you might continue to play it, not that you might feel fresh enough once more to have liaisons like other foolish old women. . . . But the part you played then was a bagatele to the one awaiting you now. With your splendid mental gifts, your political genius, your acquired statecraft, your wealth, and your restored beauty, you could become the most powerful woman in Europe. But only as my wife. Even you are not strong enough to play the part alone. Tyere is too much prejudice against women to permit you to pull more than hidden strings. Masculine jealousy of women is far more irritable in a democracy than in a monarchy, where woman of rank are expected to play a decorative—and tactful part in politics. But if they step down and come into conflict with ambitious men of the people, class jealousy aggravates sex jealousy. You might have a salon again and become a power somewhat in the old fashion, but you never would be permitted to play a great public role. But as the consort (I think the word will pass) of the President—or Chancellor—you could wield almost sensational power."

"'I should probably be quite overshadowed by you,' she murmured."

"I should probably be quite overshadowed by you," she murmured; but she was hardly conscious of speaking. Her brain was whirling.

"Your position would be too eminent for that, even if I wished it, which I assuredly should not. I value you too highly. Perhaps I am one of the few men in Europe who admit—and believe—that a woman may have as powerful and accomplished an intellect as any man. I did not appreciate your mind as you deserved when I loved you, but I did during those subsequent years in Vienna."

"You did not ask me to marry you then—when you appreciated me so highly. You never seemed to know whether you were talking to a man or a woman when you were with me. And yet I was, possibly, more interesting psychologically than I had ever been."

"No man is interested in an old woman's psychology. I am not interested in your psychology today. And I did not ask you to marry me then for a great many reasons. I was too handicapped to play a great role myself, you will remember. Nor could you have been of the same service to me. Even if your fatigued mind had been refreshed, by your stay in Hungary, you had lost the [illegible] ardent interest in the affairs of state, which have now been restored to you. With your rare gifts and your renewed youth, I repeat you have it in your power to be the most famous woman in Europe, and perhaps the alien husband. Not only would you automatically revert to the status of an American, but the dignity which, unlike so many women of your age who had been dames glantes, you took care to impress on the world, would be hopelessly sacrificed. Incredible. To spend yourself on a love affair, wantonly to throw away an historic career, merely because a young man has hypnotized you into the delusion that you may once more enjoy the passions of youth—"

"Stop! You shall not!" She had sprung to her feet. Her face was drawn and pinched but her eyes were blazing. "Every word you say is for a purpose. If that were all I should have hated him. As much as I hate you. My mind never dwelt on that—not for a moemnt—I—I never faced it. You don't know what you are talking about."

"Ah, but I do." He had risen also, and he put his hands on her shoulders. They were long thin hands but very powerful, and it seemed to her that they sank slowly through her flesh, until, however painlessly, they gripped the skeleton underneath. "Look at me, Marie. Your Mary Ogden died many, many years ago. She died, I should say, at the first touch of Otto Zattiany. There was nothing in your new life to revive her, assuredly not your first lover. Certainly you were Marie Zattiany, the most subtle, complex, and fascinating woman in Europe when I met you—but abominably disillusioned even then. I revived your youth for a time, but never your girlhood. You have been able to deceive yourself here in the country of that girlhood, for a time, with this interesting young gentleman in love with you, and, no doubt, extremely ardent."

"Oh!" Her head sank. But she could not turn away, for his hands still gripped her shoulders. The roar of the stream sounded to her horrified ears like the crash of falling ruins.

"Listen, Marie,I" he said more gently. "If I have been brutal, it was merely because there was no other way to fling your head first out of your fool's paradise. If I had not known the common sense that forms the solid sower stratum of your mind, I should not have come here to asy anything at all. You would not have been worth it. But remember, Marie, that under this new miracle of science, the body may go back but never the mind. You, your ego, your mind, your self, are no younger than your fifty-eight hard-lived years. And what object in being young again for any of us if we are to make the same old mistakes? Remember, that when you were as young as you look now you had no such opportunity offered you as in this terrible period of European history. Nor would you have taken advantage of it if you had, for mere mental brilliancy and ambition cannot take the place of political experience and an intellect educated by the world. It may be that we shall both be destroyed, that our efforts will avail nothing, and we shall all be swallowed up in chaos. But at least we shall have done what we could. And I know you well enough to believe that such an implacable end would give you greater satisfaction than dallying in the arms of a handsome young husband."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A VERY TALL RIDDLE

At house-cleaning time in the spring.

"Put on your thinking caps, everybody," said the Riddle Lady. "It's going to take a lot of thinking today to guess the new riddle I've made up."

"I'm ready," said Nick.

"So am I!" said Nancy.

"So are we!" declared the Sprats and the Tuckers and the Tweedles and the Crooked Man and the Widow Grundy and the Peter Peterses and everybody.

"All right," said the Riddle Lady. "Here we go:

"Like Jack's magic beanstalk, I grow very high,
And so thin that my ribs are quite plain;
But I've never yet managed to quite touch the sky,
Or discover the giant's domain.

"But I look with great ease o'er your high garden wall,
I can see in your window at night,
And to lean on your chimney's no effort at all,
So enormously great is my height!

"At house-cleaning time in the spring of the year,
I have barrels and barrels of fun,
For I help with the painting and scrubbing, my dear,
And I'm in much demand till it's done.

"I help to hang awnings and tack on the screens,
And see to it that curtains are straight;
For cleaning the wall-papers I am the means,
Oh, house-cleaning time is just great!

"And as for adventures I've many a thrill;
When loudly the fire-whistle blows,
I rush like the wind and then bravely stand still,
While the firemen climb up with the hose.

"Sometimes I have two legs and often I've four,
But I boast of no muscle at all,
Divided I stand when I'm set on the floor,
But united I'd be sure to fall."

"Though high, I am lowly, I'd never raise my eyes
To positions of honor and fame.
In the world I have helped many people to rise,
But they all step on me just the same.

"I'll bet you I know what it is," cried Wee Willie Winkie. "Because when I run around the town at night sometimes I have to have one to reach the children's windows and tell them it's bedtime. It's a ladder."

"Yes, sir!" nodded the Riddle Lady. "That's right. And you get the prize. A nice new magic ladder of your own."

J. R. BOOTH DEATH HAS BEEN DENIED

Prince Erik and His Bride Will Leave on Their Honeymoon For Denmark This Evening.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11. Canadian Press—On the eve of the wedding in All Saints' Church of Prince Erik of Denmark and Miss Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Booth, Ottawa seethed with rumours of the death of J. R. Booth, the grandfather of the bride, who is in his 97th year.

The rumour started on Saturday night, and with no newspapers published on Sunday to carry refutation, it spread like wildfire.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

There are advantages and disadvantages to the two most common plans in building a house, the lump-sum plan and the cost-plus plan. The cost-plus usually works out better.

In the lump-sum plan, the contractor guarantees to build the house for a certain price, provided no changes are made in the plans.

In the cost-plus plan the contractor agrees to build as cheaply as possible, at a certain standard of construction, and take a fixed per cent of the cost as his profit.

In the first plan there is an advantage in knowing exactly what the house is to cost. However, if the contractor under-estimated the cost, he is apt to skimp in the final stages, resulting in a poorly constructed house.

Both plans require expert supervision, but the expert can usually get better results from the second method. The house is pretty certain to be well constructed, and the cost is apt to be less, because under the first plan, the contractor is forced to add a very substantial margin in order to protect himself against any increase in the cost of labor or material that might occur while the house was under construction.

AN ORDINATION AT ST. PETER'S

Rev. Cyril J. Carroll Ordained to the Priesthood by Bishop O'Brien

The ordination to the Roman Catholic priesthood of Rev. Cyril J. Carroll ,son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll, of Young's Point, took place at High Mass, at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning. The ordination ceremonies were performed by His Lordship, The Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterborough, who celebrated Mass, assisted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, as deacon, and Rev. Dr. O'Reilley, of St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, as subdeacon. Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, acted as Master of Ceremonies. Priests in the sanctuary were Rev. Father Costello, Rev. Father Collins, Rev. Father Meagher, Rev. Father Finn, and Rev. Father Garvey of Lakefield.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Owen McGrath, of the Paulist Fathers, Toronto, who spoke briefly, but eloquently on the priesthood, on the duties and responsibilities of a priest, and the graces that surround the sacred office.

His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, also spoke a few impressive words, offering thanks for the young priest and congratulating his parents and friends.

Rev. Father Carroll received his preparatory education at the Lakefield High school and spent six months at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, before going to St. Augustine's Seminary in Toronto.

Among the relatives who attended the ceremony were the young priest's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll of Young's Point, his brother, Frank Carroll of Young's Point, two aunts, both in religion, members of the House of Providence nuns of Kingston; Rev. Mother Mary Bernardine of Maryvale Abbey, Glen Nevis, and Rev. Mother Frances of the St. Vincent De Paul Hospital, Brockville, four uncles, Mr. Frank Young of Mount Pleasant, Michigan, Mr. Frank Carroll, of Detroit, Mr. W. J. Young of Peterborough, and Mr. Charles Carroll of Cobourg, and a cousin, Miss Bernardine Theisen, of Detroit.

This morning, at ten o'clock, Rev. Father Carroll celebrated his first mass at his home church, at Young's Point, where several members of the choir of St. Augustine's Seminary, assisted in the music. Yesterday the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral was augmented by the chancel choir of young boys and girls, singing in the Plain Chant.

After the ceremony at the Cathedral yesterday morning, the out-of-town guests were entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Young, Water street.

WOULD HAVE GIVEN THE SEA DOGS THE STREET

Reason For the Appointment of a Conservative Peer.

GLASGOW, Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Reason for the appointment of a Conservative peer, Lord Chelmsford, as First Lord of the Admiralty, was given by James Maxton, M.P., at labor demonstration here last night, "simply because sea lords refused to work under Labor government unless the head of the Admiralty was suitable to them."

Maxton said that had he been Premier he would have given the sea lords "the street."

"Labor," he added, "would be able to carry on as big a navy as the country needed without them. The methods the Tories used in handling strikes of railwaymen and dockers are good enough for Labor government to use in handling admirals.

Mrs. Nunnemaker Says Tanlac Met Every Test

"I will always bless that day I bought Tanlac, for it made me one of the healthiest, happiest women in all Canada," is the striking statement of Mrs. Jesse Nunnemaker, 200 Welland Avenue, St. Catharines, Ontario.

"I was dreadfully weak, frail and run-down and had such a poor appetite I went for days without eating. Even then I suffered from indigestion, and was so nervous sleep was almost impossible. My kidneys and liver also bothered me and my back ached like it would break.

"Although it was six years ago when Tanlac ended these troubles, I have never had a sick day in all the years since then. It gave me such a splendid appetite and digestion that my weight increased twenty-one pounds, and to this day I have retained my strength and weight, have slept fine and felt just grand. I also gave Tanlac to my little son and he gained six pounds."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Increased Dividends to Policyholders

The past year has been one of grave anxiety in financial circles owing to economic conditions, and there has been a pessimistic note sounded in some quarters. But this pessimism has not been reflected in the experience of The Mutual Life of Canada. It is natural that in times of financial stress the people should look more carefully than ever to their expenditures and give first consideration to the absolute security and protection of life insurance as afforded by

SAYS DOMINION IS A LAND OF POSSIBILITIES

Examiner Reporter Has Interesting Chat With Rev. J, T. Wardle Stafford—On the Inside Looking Out.

"I believe in principles rather than presents. Ministers of the Gospel, in my opinion, should spend more time in inculcating good principles than in telling people what they ought or ought not to do."

The Rev. J. T. Wardle Stafford, D.D., D.C.L., who speaks in George Street Methodist Church this evening on the subject, "Fools, Ancient and Modern," had just been asked his opinion on the action taken by Quebec pastors recently with regard to condemnation of modern tendencies in dancing, dress and amusements.

"If you put people in the right frame of mind, and teach them good principles, matters of detail, such as these, will adjust themselves. Principles are like a spring of water, springing up into everlasting light. In my opinion, the fact that some ministers speak against these things and others pass them by, proves that they are non-moral questions, which ought not to be obtruded as a matter of first importance. I know that in Canada, most of the ministers of the Methodist Church are strongly opposed to smoking, but many of them do it themselves in England."

Rev. Dr. Stafford is the present pastor of the Metropolitan Church in Toronto. He came to Canada last September from London, England, where he had ministered for many years in various sections of the city, as a special emissary from the British Wesleyan Church to the Methodism of Canada, loaned by the mother conference to help establish friendly relations between the Methodist churches of the Old and the New Worlds.

"In England," said the doctor, "Methodism is the half-way house between the old Anglican Church and the extreme forms of the Free churches. In some of the leading Methodist churches in the Old Country the Anglican liturgy, in a modified form, is used."

"I have noticed that in Canada, although you have not any of the old Anglican church buildings that we have your new church buildings are vastly more commodious and up-to-date than the corresponding church buildings of England. Your heating system is more comfortable and your houses are of better construction also, due, possibly, to the better type of woods obtainable here. We have nothing like this in the ordinary house in the Old Country," pointing to the handsome hardwood flooring of the room in which he sat.

"Canada is a land of wonderful possibilities. I only hope that when your Government is looking out for immigrants from England and Ireland, that they will see that they are of a desirable type, and not people that the Old Country is glad to be rid of. We have sent many men over here who have given your Dominion distinguished service, but there are many others who haven't been a credit to us. Generally speaking, during my short stay in Canada I have seen that each country may learn from the other. The Dominion might profit by British ideals, and we can also learn from you. I do not think that an infusion of United States ideas or ideals would be of any use to the Dominion of Canada, as an integral part of the British Empire. There is one thing I have noticed here in Canada, that the Protestant ministers have even less of authority than they have in England. Of course, in every country, the Roman Catholic priest always speaks with authority, but in England, the Protestant clergymen have more to say about the government of their churches than they have here. I might say that in England, the ministers of the Free churches take possession of the congregation. In Canada, the congregation takes possession of the minister."

With regard to the general conditions in the Old Country, Rev. Dr. Stafford thinks that the Labor Government has a splendid chance to make good, and that the conservative element in the party itself will see that the hotheads do no radical damage to the cause. The favorable response on the market of gilt-edged securities after the accession of the Labor Government to power is an indication that the people as a whole are satisfied with the change.

The League of Nations, in the mind of the speaker, is the panacea for the ills of the world, and the co-operation of Graet Britain, the United States and Canada in its work would make for general reconstruction of a demoralized Europe. Not until commercial relations, disorganized by war, are resumed as before the great struggle, can the world hope for a lasting peace, and this is mainly possible through the League. Although France had a great case back of her occupation of the Ruhr, "and I have been through the devastated regions and have seen conditions there," her action was deplored. However, when speaking of Mr. Lloyd George and the controversy in which he has involved himself of late, Dr. Stafford declared that if the great Welshman had been put in such a position that he was practically forced to countenance an agreement between Clemenceau and Wilson with regard to the occupation of the Ruhr, "such an action on the part of Mr. Lloyd George would lead me to believe that the occupation of the Ruhr was quite justifiable." Dr. Stafford believes that the star of the former Premier, Lloyd George, will once more be in the ascendant, but that as long as Mr. Asquith lives, he may be content to remain his lieutenant, "on account of all the trouble which strained relations between them caused at one time." He does not think that the Labor Government will be able to do any more than either of the former parties, when in power, with regard to the unemployment situation. "How can you put men to work when there is no work to do?" he said, reverting once more, to the assistance which a properly-backed League might give in restoring the disorganized commercial relations between European countries which, in his mind, form the basis for many of the ills that the Old Country is suffering from.

Dr. Stafford professes himself as being very happy in Canada and in his pastorate of the Metropolitan Church, and as having received much kindness during his short stay here. He has already visited Montreal, but has not yet made any extensive trips elsewhere, although he hopes to be able to traverse the Dominion before he returns to England.

Queried with regard to the status of women in political life in Canada, as compared with that of public women in England, he replied that he was unaware that there were any women in active politics in Canada, a fact which would cause Miss Agnes McPhail, probably, to regard the reverend gentleman with some dislike.

"I know that in England, where we have sent women to do legislative work, they have proven themselves better than the majority of the men. Whether this is because the women are really picked women, and possibly gain their position through brains, more than the influence that might help a man or not, I do not know."

HELPING THE SICK THROUGH THE WINTER.

Winter weather is serious weather, especially to the aged, ailing or the unfit. An undertoned system needs more than the ordinary stimulation to make life bearable when the thermometer hovers around zero.

Roman Meal is especially valuable for invalids, little children and old people, as in item of diet for cold winter months. It is acid blood that causes that "all in" feeling. Acid blood is caused by acid foods. Acid foods are white flour, refined cereals, fats, meats and sweets.

Roman Meal is the only alkaline cereal—400 parts in each 1,000 parts "Excess Alkali"—alkaline enough to correct the acids of acid foods and keep the blood alkaline in cold weather.

Roman Meal may be made into porridge, pancakes, puddings and cakes. Roman Meal is rich in bone and tooth forming elements which are lacking in white bread and refined cereals. Since a child is only "As good as its bones," Roman Meal becomes the best of all foods for growing children. A child fed Roman Meal throughout its growing period, will be larger, better developed and have superior teeth; whether the Roman Meal is eaten as porridge or as baked products.

Cooked in any form, Roman Meal prevents indigestion, positively relieves constipation. At grocers.

COAL SCUTTLE ON THE ORDER PAPER

Hon. W.E. Raney to Make Exhaustive Enquiry

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. W. E. Raney has placed question on order paper at Legislature asking what amount has been realized by Province from tax on race course wagers each year since tax was instituted. He also wants to know what was total amount wagered on all Ontario race courses.

U.F.O. members of Legislature by question, being asked Government are apparently desirous of cleaning up all details in connection with "coal scuttles" including their purchase by the late Government and their sale at public auction by the Ferguson Government. They also want to know if any members of former Conservative Government previous to the Drury regime had private living apartments in the Parliament Buildings. Their questions are very exhaustive into both matters.

MADOC STUDENTS LOST IN MARMORA

Score Was Doubled in High School League Game — Ladies' Aid Meeting.

MARMORA, Feb. 9.—On Thursday night, Feb. 7th, the fourth game of Marmora High School hockey team was played against Madoc.

During the first two periods neither team could do more than tie with the other. At the end of the second period, although the play had been good the score was still a tie.

In the third period the Marmora team seemed to gain little by little until the score became 6-3 in favor of Marmora.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

DRIED VEGETABLES.

Dried or dehydrated vegetables, whether home cured or commercially prepared, have many delicious possibilities.

They lose none of their natural sweetness in the process of drying.

[illegible] dried vegetables. They are soaked for a long time in cold water or put into rapidly boiling water and kept at a high temperature until tender. I prefer the long soaking in cold water for several hours and then gentle simmering until tender.

This method allows the vegetables to absorb their natural amount of water and swell to their natural size. But the rapidly boiling process is desirable when time is an object.

Keep in mind, however, that dried ripe beans must soak at least eight hours in cold water. This is true of any vegetable rich in protein.

Dried Corn

Dried corn can be used just as canned corn and has a rich sort of nutty flavor entirely lacking in the canned product. It is seldom necessary to add sugar to dried sweet corn. Let the corn soak over night or five or six hours in cold water to more than cover. As the water is absorbed, add more. Then simmer an hour, adding water to prevent burning. Or pour rapidly boiling water over dried corn and boil rapidly for two hours. Add boiling water as needed. The corn should be tender when ready to season and should be solid enough to allow the addition of milk.

Baked Spinach

Two cups dehydrated spinach, ¼ cup dried mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup white sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Pour boiling water to cover over spinach. Let stand five minutes and drain. Pour over cold water to more than cover and bring slowly to the boiling point. Cook until tender and water is absorbed. Soak mushrooms in cold water for an hour. Drain and pour over boiling water. Drain. Melt butter, add mushrooms cut in small pieces and saute five minutes. Add butter and mushrooms to spinach which has been chopped and seasoned with salt and pepper. Heat white sauce and turn into a well-buttered baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Dried Pea Timbales

One cup dried peas, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 sprigs dried mint, 4 tablespoons milk, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Wash peas and let stand over night in cold water to more than cover. In the morning add a pinch of soda about the size of a pea and bring slowly to the boiling point. Add mint. Simmer gently until the peas are tender and the water is absorbed. Rub through a sieve. Beat egg with milk, salt and pepper. Add to pea pulp with butter and mix well. Turn into buttered molds, cover with buttered paper and bake in a pan of hot water until firm. It will take about half an hour. Serve with one cup of white sauce to which one-half cup of diced cooked carrots have been added.

Mock Oysters

One cup dried corn, ¼ cup milk, ¾ cup flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter.

Soak corn over night or several hours in cold water. Or cook in boiling water for two hours. Cook until the water is almost all cooked away. Beat eggs with a dover beater until light. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and pepper. Add milk to corn. Stir in dry ingredients and butter. Beat well and add eggs. Drop from the spoon into hot fat or butter in a spider and fry brown first on one side and then on the other.

Serve with chicken or pork, or as the main dish for luncheon.

SIGHT BY A RADIO IS NEXT MIRACLE

Soon You Will Be Able to Say Over the Radio, "Hello, Jim, You Are Looking Fine To-Day."

(By MILTON BRONNER)

LONDON, Feb. 11.—You sit in your office in Peterborough and, picking up the telephone, say: "I would like to talk to Mr. Blank of Blank & Co., London, England."

After a short pause:

"Hello, Jim, old fellow. It's great to hear your voice. You are looking much stronger than when I last saw you. Your face is fuller and you look fit for anything that comes up. Now about that deal!—"

* * *

With land wires across the country and wireless across the seas, you hear the person with whom you are speaking, as on the ordinary telephone of today. But what is more, you SEE him.

Is it a scientist's dream?

Edouard Belin, Frenchman, who has invented a method of sending photographs by telegraph, says he already has such an apparatus working over small distances.

Prof. Fournier D'Albe, inventor of the optophone to enable the blind to read through their ears, says television will be accomplished by the end of the present year.

Prof. A. M. Low, who had charg of the British royal air force experimental works during the war and who has nearly 140 inventions to his credit, including sending photographs by wireless, says television will be accomplished in a crude fashion in about 10 or 20 years.

Sir Oliver Lodge, world-famous scientist, says television will be a fully accomplished fact in about a century.

* * *

I had a talk with Prof. Low about television.

"Basically," said he, "the only obstacle in the way of television is one of pure mechanics. The theory is worked out. The method is all mapped out.

"When a number of us, working in different countries, discovered a method of sending photographs by telegraph, we also thereby discovered the principle which will one day give us television.

* * *

"In simple terms, transmission of photographs by telegraph or wireless is brought about by the transmission of light through a sensitized photographic plate which acts upon photo-electric cells. These in turn send vibrations along a wire or through the ether to a receiving set. These vibrations open or shut a little shutter arrangement which permits rays of light to fall upon a sensitized plate. The latter receives exactly the picture that was on the plate at the sending end of the line.

"Now the problem of television consists in substituting your eyes for the plate at the receiving end. In sending a photograph by wireless, about 15 minutes are required. To make the same impression upon the eye the sending would have to be cut down from 15 minutes to about four-fifths of a second.

"This first television will, of course, not be in colors. It will be in black and white. The matter of colors would be worked out later just as it is being done in ordinary photography."

STORMS BLOCK WARSAW ROADS

Mail Carriers Have a Hard Time Getting Around.

WARSAW, Feb. 11.—The storms are causing irregular mail. Lakefield R. R. No. 4 was not delivered Tuesday, Warsaw mail, which came to Warsaw Monday evening was not delivered Tuesday, and the stage did not reach Peterboro.

Any stranger driving around the country must look ahead for there are so many blocked roads and the traffic goes through fields.

Tuesday's storm made the school attendance quite small.

Miss Elsie MacIlvena spent the week-end at home.

Miss Lulu Knox, Peterboro, spent the week-end with Miss MacIlvena.

Mr. E. H. Brown, salesman for U.F.O., was in the village on Friday.

Mrs. Wm. C. Lloyd spent Monday afternoon in Lakefield.

Two farmers from near Warsaw shipped cattle at Lakefield on Monday.

Mark Lonsberry, lately of Warsaw, was one of the losers in the Norwood fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Clements and Miss Olive Clements, spent the week-end an Smith, returning in their motor-sleigh Monday. They had to stop several times to shovel snow away. It filled in so soon as it was dug out.

Fortunately there is not a dearth of water this winter.

About 7.15 p.m. Sunday an exceedingly brilliant meteor, with a very long tail, shot across the heavens lighting up the whole sky.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. There were some new members. Rev. Atkinson conducted the service. The preparatory service was Friday evening.

At the close of the Methodist service Sunday evening, Rev. F. G. Weir held the regular quarterly communion service.

The Baptists held their regular service Sunday morning, Pastor Chorley preached. Rev. Cox conducted the regular Anglican service.

The Women's Institute plan to hold their annual open meeting in the town hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 14th. These open meetings are always enjoyable, and all who wish to pass a pleasant evening are cordially invited. There is no charge.

APSLEY STAGE HELD ON ROAD

Pole of the Sleigh Broke Plunging Through Drift—Missed Mail Delivery For First Time This Winter.

APSLEY, Feb. 11.—For the first time this winter the stage failed to make the journey from Lakefield to Apsley on its daily trip, arriving here on Wednesday at noon instead of Tuesday evening. The delay was caused by the mail train being late in the first place, and then on the journey north plunging through a huge snow-drift the tongue of the sleigh broke. The roads are very heavy although there has been a lot of shovelling and snow-ploughing done.

Suggested Improvements

As the result of the discussion on "How to Improve our Village," held by the A.Y.P.A. two weeks ago, a deputation of both sexes, led by the Rev. C. Spence, waited upon the Municipal Council on Thursday to urge the extension of the sidewalk to both churches and to the post-office. Mr. Spence explained the object that led up to presence of the deputation, and was ready with approximate figures and measurements, and suggestions as to the cost of the work without raising the tax rate. Rev. E. McTavish followed, heartily endorsing the request which he considered both reasonable and an absolute necessity. Roy Brown also spoke along the same lines. Mrs. Spence asked the permission of the Council for the planting of trees and beautifying the war monument which was readily granted. Mrs. J. Downing, Misses M. Spence and M. Windsor also supported the request.

The Reeve assured the deputation that the matter of the sidewalks would receive very careful consideration by the Council, and the members left much elated at their considerate reception.

Stewart Brown, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is steadily improving.

The house bought lately by Mrs. Dean has been completely remodelled and renovated inside, the whole of the work being done by Jim Downing and Stanley Windsor. The result is a credit to their skill and ingenuity.

Produced Play

The Parish Hall was filled on Saturday evening by a well pleased audience who witnessed the performance of the three act comedy, "Deacon Dubbs," by local talent, which provided two solid hours of mirthful interest. The good acting, costumes, make-up and scenery all combined to justify the verdict of "the best yet," given by the audience. The play went without a hitch from the rising of the curtain to the final drop, and the actors are to be congratulated on their ability. The cast was as follows: Amos Coleman—Norman James; Major McNutt—Harry Tanner; Kawdon Crawley—Frank Tanner; Deuteronomy Jones—Herb Lean; Deacon Dubbs—R. Spence; Rose Raleigh—Miss M. Spence; Miss Philipena Popover—Mrs. E. T. Staples; Emily Dale—Miss M. Windsor; Trixie Coleman—Cecily Spence; Yennie Yensen—Phyllis Spence.

Visit From Member

Colonel E. T. Johnston, M.P.P., spent the week-end in the village and was interviewed by some of the leading citizens on Saturday, when the good roads question was discussed. Other matters pertaining to the welfare of the north country were also brought to the attention of the member which were promised consideration.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church are making preparations for a big oyster supper to be held in the Orange Hall on Feb. 23rd.

St. Valentine's Day will be celebrated by the young people as in former years. This year the celebration will take the form of a silhouette party, when all costumes will be made entirely of black material.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Hamilton, Ont.,
Feb. 9, 1924.

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Sir,—Indications now point to the C. N. Ry. making a $7.00 rate on coal from Alberta to Ontario as being about cost.

At the present this rate might encourage considerable business, but U. S. coal men will not give up the Canadian market so easy, as already indicated, they will reduce their price to tempt buyers to waive loyalty to Canadian products, in the interest of economy.

After several years continuous study have concluded that a $4.00 rate is necessary to insure a continuous market and permanent trade.

Therefore I suggest, in order to assure the C. N. Ry. of at least cost for transportation, the Province of Ontario grant a subsidy, of $1.00 per ton as insurance against fuel famine, the Province of Alberta $1.00 to insure a permanent market, and the coal owners and miners $1.00 to insure a continuous full season's work, saving the subsidy in actual cost, said subsidies to continue until shown by actual experiment with train load lots during the slack seasons, that $4.00 will more than cover actual cost.

This would supply our dealers at $8.50 f.o.b. here, and the consumer at a reasonable rate.

The U. S. mine owners and miners have shown their willingness to let Ontario perish, to serve their own profitable ends. Now that Canada has undertaken to deal with the matter, let Canada show that we will never be at their mercy again, that in future we will be self-reliant, and distribute our $100,000,000.00 fuel expenditure entirely in our own country.

With transportation organized to the Southern boundary and Fort William, we can help the U. S. out in coal as well as wheat for Montana, Dakota, Wisconsin, Michigan, etc., in fact all upper lake points could be supplied, as well as a combination rail and water route via Fort William down to all this part of Ontario.

With 20,000,000 bushels of wheat going via Vancouver this season, and probably 100,000,000 bushels next year, it would require 3,000,000 tons of coal to come east, to make up the difference alone.

Volume of business during slack seasons will solve the rate, as demonstrated by Penny Postage, 2c. street railway fares in Glasgow, Night Telegram rate, Night Letter rate, Day Letter rate, Parcel Post, and many other most practical and profitable examples.

If the people approve, we should act immediately, and have it dealt with at the approaching Parliamentary Sessions.

Yours truly,
W. O. SEALEY.

Uniform Rate

To make uniform the charges for water service to residents outside the city a resolution was passed this morning making the rates $2 for service and a minimum of $2 for water service in two months with 50 cents a 10 cubic feet and 25 per cent discount. This will have the effect of raising the rates to some users and lowering others, making all of the 32 users outside the city limits, uniform in rate.

New Motor Truck

The chairman and superintendent were authorized to purchase a motor truck for the waterworks department and dispose of the Ford truck now in use.

The superintendent was authorized to attend the Canadian section of the American Waterworks Association in Hamilton and take two men with him if he thinks necessary.

The meeting is being held on the last two days of this month and Mr. Dobbin suggested that a Commissioner attend.

Report for 1923

The report for 1923 submitted by R. L. Dobbin, superintendent of the waterworks department showed that the per capita pumpage during the year was 6 gallons a day lower than in 1922 and a steady decrease is noticeable from 1920. The highest per capita pumpage in the last thirteen years was in 1918, when 164 gallons were pumped for every person in the city.

The decrease is attributed by the superintendent to the saving in waste accomplished by the department and to the fact that cold weather has been shorter, fewer people running their taps continuously to avoid freezing.

The average cost for every person in the city in 1923 for water supply was $5.11. The population was officially 21,661.

HOBBLES ON PEG LEG TO SELL PINS, BUT TRAVELS WITH IT IN A PARCEL

GUELPH, Feb. 11. February 11. — Canadian Press. — [illegible] sympathy of men and women always appears to get across, and this fact is made to work to the personal advantage of some in acquiring a living in unusual ways.

Last week there arrived in Guelph a man who "sported" a wooden peg leg, which is a common sight nowadays. This man was otherwise husky enough physically, but he also wore a sort of down and out look as he pedled needles and such small wares from door to door, easily making sales because of his apparent infirmity.

At the week-end, having finished with the city, a man tallying with the description of the peddler walked briskly into the Canadian National station threw his grip on the floor, and another parcel loosely wrapped. An employee in straightening up the place picked up a parcel, and was surprised to find it the identical peg leg worn by the peddler previously.

How the miracle of securing a perfectly good leg was effected in place of the wooden stump, is left to conjecture.

OSHAWA HOCKEY HOPES REACH PEAK OF SEASON AND 'SPIEL WEDNESDAY

Big Week of Sports For Motor Town Fans—Intermediates Clash With Peterboro in Third Round—Juniors Play Bowmanville in Sudden Death Game Tuesday.

RUN SPECIAL TRAIN.

(Special to the Examiner)

OSHAWA, Feb. 11.—Since last Wednesday evening when the local green shirts put Port Hope out of the running in the local intermediate O.H.A. group great interest has been shown in the Peterboro-Belleville play off series for when local theatre announced that bulletins would be issued at the end of each period in the game at Peterbor Friday night capacity houses were out to get the dope on which would be the next opponents to play at Bradley's Arena here. With the first bulletin announcing Peterboro leading 3 to 0, it was seen that the Petes were the popular choice of hockey fans for the next game and when the final of eight to one came through, groups soon gathered together to arrange for the getting of reserved paste boards, for Monday evening's fixture —all that need be said in regards to the latter that the plan opened at a dollar a throw at nine o'clock and by 10.30 standing room only was hung out and even the record attendance of the Collinghood-Oshawa game of 1917 will likely be broken with a crowd running up in the four figures. Arrangements are already in hand for a special train for the return game in Peterboro on Wednesday evening.

Later on Friday night the Oshawa juniors received a noisy welcome on their return from Bowmanville where they took a fall out of Ginger Edger's kids who have been sitting pretty at the top of the local group by handing them a 4 to 1 lacing right on Andy Taylor's ice surface and are now on even terms with six wins and two losses each. Saturday morning Manager Ed. Donald received word from O.H.A. headquarters that a sudden death game at Bobby Burns' Whitby arena on Tuesday evening was the dope, with the winners of same to meet Peterboro juniors later on in the week. On the Friday evenings' game when Oshawa had it all over Bowmanville, it looks like a double hook up between Peterboro and Oshawa for the next week, and a carnival of sport for Oshawa, for on Monday evening Peterboro intermediates visit Oshawa; Tuesday the local juniors play Bowmanville in Whitby; Wednesday the local intermediates go to Peterboro in the return game; the Oshawa Curling bonspiel opens at eleven o'clock in the morning; Thursday the bonspiel continues and the first game with Peterboro juniors will likely be staged; Friday will be recuperation day, while on Saturday the return game in the junior series will be played.

SPECIAL FOOTBALL MEETING TO-NIGHT

ROCHESTER SIGNS BELLEVILLE STAR

Lefty Jack Williams Signs Contract and Will Go South With Stalling's Colts.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 11.—Jack Henry Williams, of the Belleville Grand Trunks, Central League three-time champions, has pitched his last game of amateur baseball. He is now a full-fledged professional. He has attached his "John Henry" and the Williams also, on the dotted line of one of George T. Stallings contracts. He is now a member of the Rochester Colts in the International Professional Baseball League. Williams, who is still living in Belleville, will leave here in time to report at the pitchers and catchers camp down south, where he will be under the personal direction of a veteran hurler of the National League, who will coach the Indian boy until he meets the Rochester Club for their preparatory tour, which commences on March 5th.

The Colts will practice with the New York Yankees, world's champions and American League leaders the team from which the great "Babe" Ruth does his stuff. Williams signed Stallings' contract on Monday, January 21, and on Thursday last received a letter from Stallings, in which Stallings congratulated the clever southpaw for his decision and action. "I am very pleaser to see that you have decided to join our club," the letter stated. "And I do not believe you will ever regret having done so," it continued, "as I assure you that you will be given every chance and consideration."

Stalling now has the signed contract. Williams appeared to be highly elated over his decision. There appears to be real romance in the Southern trip for Jack, although as yet he does not know the exact itinerary of his tour.

DEMPSEY WALLOPED ARKANSAN HEAVY

Fight at Memphis Lasted Less Than a Minute — Onslaught of Rights and Lefts.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb 10—Two thousand fight fans witnessed a less than one minute bout here last night when Dutch Siefert of Stuttgart, Ark., met Jack Dempsey world's heavyweight champion. Forty five seconds after the gong sounded Siefert was listening to the referee counting him out.

The Arkansan, who weighed 225 pounds, went down under a terrific onslaught of rights and lefts to the head. The men fought with four ounce gloves. The bout was scheduled to go four rounds.

SOCCER CROWDS WERE DEPLETED SCORING HEAVY

Bad Weather Cut Attendance to 450,000 — Notts County Provided Saturday's Sensation at Stamford Bridge—Hull Player's Leg Broken.

FEATURES OF GAMES.

LONDON, Feb. 10.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Bad weather all over the United Kingdom attended Saturday's football games and the aggregate attendance fell off to around 450,000. Goals were fairly plentiful, totalling in all 95. The debacle at Stamford Bridge was the sensation of the day when Nott's County, in spite of their gruelling cup tie games, which involved extra time, during the week, simply danced around Chelsea and got away with three goals in the first nine minutes. Chelsea were without Andrew Wilson, who is down with influenza, but it is indisputable that their display was most inept. Everything Nott's County tried, succeeded and their goals against Chelsea's nil may well decide the question of Chelsea's relegation from the first at the end of the current season. Their only gleam of hope lies in the fact that all four of the clubs at the tail end of the first division lost their games on Saturday.

In the game between Hull and Old Ham Athletic which ended in a scoreless draw, Richardson, outside right for the former club, had the misfortune to break his leg after the game had been in progress for half an hour and was carried off the field.

Cardiff City, with Blair again playing for them, showed marked superiority against Blackburn Rovers, winning the games by two to nothing. There was an exciting climax in the final minute of play when Hardy headed a goal for the Welshmen.

Individual Scorers.

Among the individual goal scorers who distinguished themselves Saturday, Price Davies and Widdowson shared equally in Nott's County's six goals against Chelsea; Menlove netted two of Sheffield United's three aaginst Arsenals 1, Smith scored both of Bradford City's two goals against Southampton's one, Richmond netted two out of the three for Leeds United against Coventry's one; Collins involuntarily assisted South Shields in their three to nothing victory over Nelson, by kicking into his own goal and Pembleton did the same for Swansea Town who lost to Millwall by two to one. Other feats were by Cook who scored two goals of Brighton's four against Plymouth's one, Kerr who tallied both of Luton's two goals against Queen's Park Rangers' none; Davies and Jennings who divided between them Reading's four goals against Gillingham's none, and Crossley who netted both of Swindon's goals against South End's none.

Amateur Match.

In the amateur trial match at St. Albans the south, who combined well, were the better side. Four thousand spectators witnessed the match which was won by the South from the North by five goals to one. Kail and Segan for the South missed easy chances, but at the same time two of the South's tallies were obtained in the first half. Blair obtained the north's only goal two minutes after the interval.

The biggest attendance on Saturday were 5,000 at the Aston Villa-Sunderland match, won by the latter by 1 to 0, 30,000 at the Liverpool-Bolton Wanderers, won by the former 3 to 1; 30,000 at the Newcastle-Huddersfield match, won by the latter 1 to 0; 20,000 at the Cardiff-Blackburn match, won by Cardiff two to nothing, and 20,000 at the West Ham-Tottenham game which ended in a scoreless draw.

NO PENALTIES ON OTTAWA ICE

Senators Won From Hamilton By 1-0 In Game That Was Close and Clean — Lou Marsh Had Easy Job

OTTAWA, Feb 11.—Canadian Press.— Ottawa Senators sent the Hamilton Tigers down to defeat by a score of one to nothing in a National Hockey League game played here Saturday night. The game was one of the nip and tuck variety with little separating the pairs at any stage of the contest. The result was in doubt till the final gong had sounded and only a careful and stub born defence kept the aggressive Tiger attack from tying the count in the final moments.

The game was one of the tamest seen here this season in the professional schedule. Referee Lou Marsh had one of easiest nights of his career as a referee and was not called upon to inflict a single penalty. While the score was close and the result uncertain till the last, only a few instances occurred where there was any tendency on the part of the players to interfere with one another

It is evident that Percy Lesueur is working wonders with the Bengals. In place of the customary dashing attack displayed in former visits here this season, the Tigers played a defensive game for practically the entire playing time. They are adopting the Ottawa style as nearly as possible and it is proving effective, or at least such was the case last night. When the wings got their shots away, they invariably dropped right back and as the rushes were mostly made in pairs, the Senators found plenty of opposition when they essayed an attack on Forbes' citadel.

When Busher Meets Busher—Exit Tale of Manager Versus Umpire

By Billy Evans

Dick Nallin and Clarence Rowland are now both American League umpires, Nallin broke into the American League as an umpire at the same time Rowland made his debut as manger of the Chicago White Sox. Thereby hangs an interesting story.

Rowland came direct from a busn league club to the American League It was a rather unusual jump for a manager to make. In the vernacular of the ball field, Rowland was known as the "busher." When he pulled something that failed to meet with the approval of the umpires, it was merely regarded in the light of a bush-league trick.

The very first game in which Nallin officiated against the White Sox he chased Rowland to the showers. It seems that Rowland didn't like the motion the opposing pitcher was using to first base, and believing it a balk, he rushed out to the home plate to let Nallin in on the secret.

"What are you doing up here?" said Nallin.

"I came up here to tell you that pitcher makes a balk every time he throws to first base," answered Rowland.

"Well, that is all you're going to tell me to-day you're through!" was Nallin's comeback.

"Well, I am disappointed," said Rowland. "While I expected to get chased from the game, still I felt sure it would be any umpire but you," replied Rowland.

"How did you figure that out?' asked Nallin.

"I knew the regular umpires would chase me, but I figured we bush leaguers would stick together."

Nallin admits that he felt like declaring Rowland back in the game after he pulled that one. It was sure the restort courteous and sarcastic.

RECORDS BROKEN BY MERMAIDS AT MIAMI

Helen Wainwright Clipped 15 Seconds Off Olympic Record for 100 Metres — Other New Marks.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 10. — Three world's and one American record were added yesterday to the list of those already broken in the Women's Association Swimming Meet here, bringing the total of new records established to 14 world's, and three American marks.

Sybil Bauer established her fourth and fifth world's records of this week, and Helen Wainwright, in breaking her first record of the week clipped almost 15 seconds off the Olympic record and 10 1-5 seconds off her own world's record for the 300 metres free style. Miss Wainwright's time was 4:19 3-5, while her old world's record was 4:29 4-5, and the Olympic record is 4:34.

Sybil Bauer's new records were established in the 200 metres and the 200 yards. Her time in the 200 metres was 3:03 4-5 against her former record of 3:06 4-5, while in the 200 yards her time was 2:46 3-5, against the old mark of 2:49 4-5.

Agnes Geraghty in the 100 metre breast stroke event set a new American record of 1:38 4-5. The old mark was 1:51 3-5.

UPPER CANADA LOST TO GROVE

Lakefield Students Displayed Good Hockey In All Departments—Score Was 8-3.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9. — Grove school's senior team defeated Upper Canaad College here Saturday by the score of 8-3. The local team deserved their victory on their all-round fine play, both defense and forward line having a decided edge over the visitors. The teams were:

Upper Canada — Goal, J. E. R. Wood; right defense, A. D. Ross; left defence, A. M. Wilton; centre, Wood; right wing, Gillard; left wing, Maybee. Subs, Barr, Mathieu, Todd.

Referee—R. D. Mulduff.

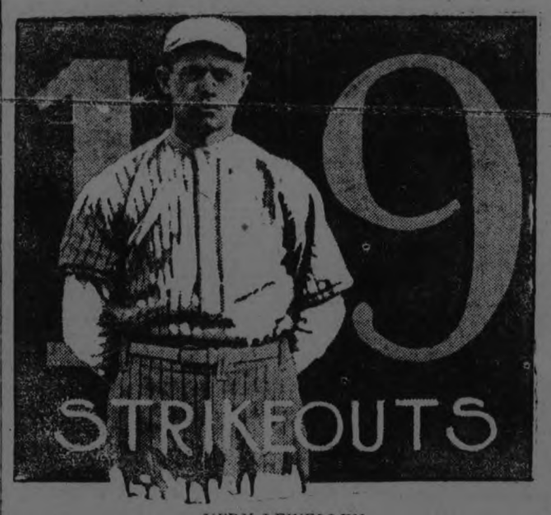
Private Rinks.

During the bonspiel, when there was neither skating nor hockey at the rink, the small boy with the home-made rink was very popular and his rink was thronged with numerous friends. The work of keeping these rinks in shape this year has been considerable as the winter has really been one snow storm after another, with a couple of heavy rains to make the work harder.

"Tams" Popular.

The "tam" has become increasingly popular as the headgear of the curlers in the village. Last year it was moved, seconded and carried that each skip must wear a tam while skipping a schedule game, otherwise his score was not to be counted. Most of the skips complied with the regulation, although it was not strictly enforced. This year tams are so common that one of the ladies suggests that a feather or "tourie" be added to the tam of the skips. Probably the fact that they are almost universally becoming is increasing their popularity. One hopes to see the day when every curler will wear his tam while engaging in the roarin' game.

STRIKE-OUT KING



VERN LEWELLEN

A young gent who will receive more than passing attention in the camp of the Pittsburgh Nationals this spring is Vern Lewellen, college pitcher, who recently decided upon a professional career. Dewellen is a product of the University of Nebraska, and is listed as a genuine comer. In collegiate circles he was a sensation. Against Missouri in a game for the valley championship he fanned 19 batters. It was on the strength of this performance that Pittsburgh signed him.

ST. PATS BEATEN BY CANADIENS

Score in Montreal 5-3 Puts Montreal Team Even With St. Pats and Hamilton For Second Place.

MONTREAL, Feb. 11—Canadiens have climbed from the bottom position in the National Hockey League and with seven scheduled games remaining are bunched on even terms with St. Patrick's and Hamilton for second place. The climb from the cellar position was made at the Mount Royal Arena Saturday night at the expense of the St. Pat's, who were beaten five to three, while Hamilton was conceding defeat to Ottawa at the Capital.

With the score 4 to 0 in their favor going into the final period of the game, the local players eased up in their efforts and but for this their margin might have been greater, for St. Pats carried the play in the latter stages and broke through with three scores, though they never became a danger to Canadiens' chances of victory. John Ross Roach also added his quota towards keeping the goal averages of the Canadiens in check for the clever visiting goalie was at his usual best.

It was a clean game and Referee Ross had little to do, finding it a simple matter to control play from centre ice. What penalties were issued were all minors and came in the last period. Dye was benched for bodying Joliat to the boards and Joliat later was chased for too strenuous play. Bobby Boucher showed a friendly spirit in jumping into the penalty box under the misapprehension that he was the culprit, an act which delighted an already highly pleased crowd of Canadien supporters.

Babe Dye for the first time this season on local ice played as a regular throughout the game for St. Pat's and he was back to his old form. He was the hardest working visitor on the ice and worried Vezina with terrific shots, though the only goal he scored was an easy effort on a pass from behind the net which found him unmarked and in a position to catch Vezina unawares. It was St. Pat's second goal, the first being scored by Jack Adams after a pretty three-man combination effort which resulted in the former Coast player finding on opening between the Canadien defence and making full use of the chance if offered. The final goal was scored by Corbeau a few seconds before the final gong and a moment after he had accidentally hooked Odie Cleghorn in the face while the two were scrambling for the puck.

FANS' SPECIAL THIS EVENING

C. N. R. Hockey Train Leaves at 5.50 O'clock For Oshawa — Return Game Wednesday.

It's all aboard for Oshawa to-night with a special G.T.R. train leaving at 5.50 o'clock for the motor view.

A fast run to Oshawa giving the fans plenty of time to reach the rink before the game starts is promised and the local management is arranging for a block of seats to be held for the accomodation of the Peterboro visitors.

Returning the special will leave Oshawa at 11.30 o'clock.

With such arrangements and with a fare of $2.35 a big following is assured and the Petes will have lots of support when they sail into action tonight.

Tonight's game should be a thriller. Last year the Petes were beaten 3 to 2 at Oshawa after a nip-and-tuck fight but they hope to reverse the decision tonight.

On Wednesday night the return game will be played at Brock St. Rink and the most exciting fixture of the year is indicated. Oshawa are no home ice players. They proved that by handsomely walloping the Ontarios in Port Hope after losing at home and last year by holding the Petes down to a 2 to 0 score here. They have a well-seasoned crew with Hefferman, formerly of Picton, Rowden, Walter Fair, Sammy Lowe, ex-Port Hoper, Houck a good youngster from Uxbridge, Ross Williams of Bowmanville and several other performers who do not develop stage fright away from home and they will battle every inch of the way no matter what to-night's score may be.

A big crowd is certain, considerably bigger than at the Belleville game from which numbers of people remained away thinking they could not get into the rink. It should be remembered that only 200 tickets are reserved, leaving room for well over 2,000 people in the rush seats.

The Peterboro juniors who were notified first that they will meet the Oshawa-Bowmanville winners away from home on Wednesday have received later word that the game will not take place until Thursday which means the return game will not take place until Thursday which means the return game will not be played until next week. Oshawa and Bowmanville are settling their difference with a sudden-death game at Whitby.

Saskatoon Shieks Won By 4-3 From Vancouver.

SASKTOON, Sask., Feb. 10.—With score tied at 3-3 and with one minute to go, Bill Cook accepted a pass from Harry Cameron circled the defence and beat Lehman with a high shot that gave the Saskatoon Sheiks a 4 to 3 victory over the Vancouver Maroons here Saturday night.

Harry Cameron's glittering performance for the Sheiks was just that little bit between victory and defeat He scored three of the local's four goals and gave Cook the opportunity to score the winning counter.

It was one of the most interesting and exciting games played here his winter. The teams had an equal share of the play and either would have been a good winner.

PARKDALE SENIORS 5, KITCHENER 4.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press.) — When "Scotty" Cawkell slipped the puck past Goalkeeper Fries within two minutes of the start of play in the first overtime period on Saturday night, he broke a 4-4 tie and gave Parkdale O. H. A. seniors a 5-4 victory over Kitchener twin city team. On the night's play the Paddlers deserved their victory. It was certainly their best game of the season. Cawkell, Jeffrey and Lount played particularly well, but the Paddlers' defence men were also ready when Kitchener got that far. The Schnarr brothers were effective for the losers. Siebert backed up from no one and played well defensively. The game was clean, only six penalties being imposed. Of these the local team received four, the offenders being Cawkell, Bowesfield, Jeffrey and Applegath. Schnarr brothers each made a trip to the penalty box.

WASHINGTON MANAGER

Sisler Plans to Take Turn on Firing Line.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 10. — George Sisler manager of the St. Louis Americans plans to return to the game this season in the capacity of manager first baseman and pitcher, according to a letter received by Walter Fritch, vice-president of the Browns and made public to-night.

Sisler declared in the letter than even should his eyes prevent him from rsuming his old position as first baseman he intended to take his regular turn on the mound.

THREATENS TO QUIT.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 11 (Canadian Press). — Charles Holocher yesterday stated he would quit organised baseball unless the Chicago Cubs paid him back salary in a lump sum.

The shortstop voluntarily left the Cubs last August because of illness, and the back salary he refers to is said to be between $4,000 and $4,500.

The Cubs, he said, offered to pay this amount to him in instalments.

WON MILE WALK.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Harry Leask, of the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A., was the only Canadian to place in the junior national A.A.U. sports held here Saturday night. Leask won the mile walk in 6:57 2-5.

Having had no previous experience as a messenger boy, it is not surprising that Black Jack Barry declined to sign as Clarke Griffith's manager.

Belleville Comment On Big Game Says Better Team Won

The Belleville Intelligencer says: In one of the gamest, most strenuous and stubborn hockey exhibitions ever staged at the Brock Street arena, Peterboro, the Peterboro Intermediates ousted the Ed. Thomas Belleville six from the Provincial honor race, and qualified to meet Oshawa champions in round 2. The score was 8-1, but it doesn't indicate the play. The scores at the end of the periods were 3-0, 4-1 and 8-1, always in the Petes' favor. Belleville won the Belleville game 5-3, but they lose the round and series by 5 goals.

Despite the terrific speed at which the game proceeded from gong to gong in every period, it was a clean exhibition, Referee Bobby Hewitson watching everything rather closely, especially in the early stages. Only six penalties were drawn in the game, all for minor offences.

From the drop of the hat, Petes tore into it like madmen in an endeavor to secure themselves on the round early. They had speed galore, every man, including the subs, going great guns. On their narrow rink, they knew every corner and played fine combination. They checked like demons and got by with some dashing in the first frame. They back skated and circled as though their lives depended upon it. They were a dangerously aggressive squad all right.

The Quinte squad fought it to the bitter end like Trojans and were not beaten until the sixty minutes gong. The work of Nurse in goal was wonderful, and he drew many sympathetic and commendable remarks from Peterboro fans as time after time he turned aside shots, blocked sure thing rushes and scooped the gypsum out when the odds were ten to one that they were counters. With a weaker net guardian the score would have been higher nothing surer. Petes were simply peppering them at Nurse with remarkable accuracy and speed which made the end boards rattle when they registered there. They sure had the markmanship down fine on their own ice box.

Every man on the Petes team was going like a house afire, and it is difficult to name the best. Probably Collins at centre, taken every way, was best. He can skate like a fiend, stick-handle and shoot and his condition is of the sixty miute type. Big "Zip" Parker on defence played a whale of a game also, and "Biffer" Ranger on the left boards was also a desperate man to hold. Grover Halpin, though an old timer, broke out and uncorked speed and stick-handling ability which made Peterboro officials gasp. Burgess was effective too, but could not stand the terrific racket. The pace was killing. Big "Pontiac" McMartin and Rose were useful subs.

The Ontario's Views.

The castles that were started in mid season and finished at the end of the group, tumbled about the heads of the Belleville crew when the Lift Lock boys, not only tied up the round but went five in the lead in the second game of the home and home arrangement. From goal to centre they were masters of the situation throughout and from their exhibition will win many more games before they lay away the hockey outfit for the season. Congratulations are in order, the best team undoubtedly won and here's hoping they go further. The score was 8-1 and the periods were 3-0, 4-1, 8-1, and probably this score does not represent the play but still there is no disputing the fact they were the better team.

For two periods Belleville hung on and forced the pace, although down one goal, but in the third the break came. With only ten minutes to go Thomas shoved the whole team up in the effort to get the equalizing goal; instead, Collins and Ranger broke away and beat Nurse from close in and from then on till the end of the chapter it wasn't a procession, it was simply a parade with Peterboro leading and Belleville back in the ruck.

The ice was as perfect as could be, in fact it was the finest sheet the locals had stepped out into this season.

As for the game, the Petes from the very outset showed an irresistible attack that swept all opposition before it. They came out looking quite determined and full of fight.

On the size of the rink that Peterboro has and it is much smaller than ours, the style that they play made them dangerous, always two men went up on the combination and one trailed in centre ice. If they lost the disc the third forward was in position to check and by the time he had the play partially stopped the other two men were back helping him out. Let no one tell you they can't backcheck and skate, for that is their middle name. They outskated and outchecked our team all evening. Like leeches they hung on to their check and they stayed up on the line. By a wise handling of subs, they had a well balanced line at all times and by their style it will take a nifty team to hand them a trimming. Then they had another little trick that fooled the Belleville team and that was they would overskate the puck and the trailer would come up fast, skate the other two onside with the puck and sweep in three abreast with perfect precision in their passing which always was dangerous. They knew every corner and angle of the ring and played it for all it was worth. There is a blank end in the rink and from the board they played the rebound.

LINDSAY, Feb. 11. —In a Central Ontario Hockey League game played here Saturday afternoon, St. Peters High School, Peterboro, defeated the Collegiate by the score of 3-1. Congregation Was Made Acquainted With Rev. R. Grobb

Ryerson Ritchie tells a story of the reception of Rev. R. B. Grobb in his new charge in the United States that sheds an interesting sidelight on the systematic way in which even Church business is run in that country.

Mr. Grobb, while walking through his new church afted service on his first Sunday, picked up an envelope and idly opened it. Inside was a card announcing Mr. Grobb's late parish, and saying that he came to the congregation from Peterboro.

Following the neat introduction of the pastor was an appeal to the congregation to make him feel at home in his new parish.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

BLACK OXEN IS TALKED-OF FEATURE AT CAPITOL

More than ordinary interest is aroused by the announcement that management of the Capitol Theatre will play Frank Lloyd's 'Black Oxen,' a First National Picture featuring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday for this photoplay is the screen version of Gertrude Atherton's novel which became the best selling novel of 1923.

As a book the revelations of the Atherton novel made "Black Oxen" a meteoric triumph and as a film play enhanced by living characters, the Lloyd play is said to be an even greater hit.

In transferring the odd romance of Lee Clavering, a cynical newspaper writer and budding playwright, and Madame Zatianny, a woman of 58 who appeared to be no more than 30 years of age Mr. Lloyd has surrounded his leading players with a cast of unusual brilliance and given the players an elaborate and artistic atmospherical background for their action.

Miss Griffith, one of the screen's most beautiful and talented stars, is seen as Madame Zatiawax, who, rejuvenated by a glandular treatment finds her true love in the autumn of life, and Mr. Tearle plays Clavering, who, although active in social circles for many years finds in the charming Zatianny his ideal, and whose devotion is unhampered by the discovery of his sweetheart's true age. Clara Bow, a newcomer to the screen essays the part of the flapperish Janet Oglethorpe, a debutante with modern ideas as to her own behavior and her prospective husband/

Thomas Ricketts is seen as Charles Dinwiddie, an old sweetheart of Zatianny's, who gallantly steps aside to aid Clavering in his suit for her hand. Tom Guis, is cast as Judge Trent, Claire MacDowell, as Agnes Trevor, a maidenlady whose life has been devoid of romance and felt that Zatianny's extraordinary transformation might serve as a guide to her own happiness, Clarissa Selwynne portrays Gora Dwight, authoress, Alan Hale plays the dual character of Prince Hohenhauer and Lincoln Stedman is seen as Donnie Ferren, whom fortune blessed with an inheritance and plenty of time to spend it in.

"Black Oxen" is in eight reels and will be presented with special music and appropriate short features.

"SASSY BITS OF 1924."

Those who enjoy musical comedy will be more than delighted to learn that Max D. Quitman will present the last word in musical comedy novelty, "Sassy Bits of 1924," which is scheduled to appear at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday evening, Feb. 12. This rare combination of pretty girls, tuneful melodies, stunning costumes, gorgeous scenery, clever comedians, singers and dancers, is said to be one of the smartest and most delightful musical comedies on he road. The book, lyrics and music is by Ted Riley, who also staged the production. "Sassy Bits of 1924" is in two acts and ten scenes. The story deals with the adventures of a young American who has inherited a plantation in the West Indies from a departed uncle. The author supplied a wealth of comedy situations and some twenty lilting musical numbers are among the many features of the offering.

A drama of life from every angle, "The Unwanted Child," will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House for 2 days, starting Friday matinee, with daily matinees for ladies only, at which a lecture will be delivered on unwanted babies. No one under sixteen will be admitted to any performance. The penalties which are exacted of mothers and of their unwanted babies do not conform to the modern ideas of justice and club women in all parts of the country are realizing this to such an extent that movements have been started in many communities to solve the problem that they believe should have been solved long ago. "The Unwanted Child" is an interesting powerful play in four acts and tells the whole pitiful story in all its details.

AT THE REGENT

REAL LIFE PORTRAYTD IN "FIGHTING BLOOD" SERIES.

Who said that Young America is degenerating? Who said that our college boys and girls are interested only in petting parties and in dancing? Who said that the college boy cares for nought but liquor on his hip, and the college girl for rouge and kisses?

Round 7 of "Fighting Blood" at the Regent Theatre to-day will show the college boy and girl of to-day as clean, wholesome, earnest, jolly, good-hearted, ambitious youngsters, serious in purpose and ambitious for glorious achievement.

The flapper is here, yes, with her shingled tresses and breezy manner, but she is a charming person with heaps of grey matter underneath her golden hair—a girl with heart and mind and soul.

The college boy is not a dancing-Jack, but a doggedly ambitious young man, anxious to make his goal and win his spurs!

"Fighting Blood" boasts an all-star cast, including Arthur Rankin, grandson of McKee Rankin, nephew of Ethel and John and Lionel Barrymore and John Drew. Among the other distinguished players are George O'Hara, who plays the leading role—that of the serious, handsome, charming young American soda-jerk who becomes a prize-fighter so that he may secure the education he craves, and win the beautiful maiden of his heart!

ARTHUR TRAIN'S BIG NOVEL OF NEW YORK LIFE IS PICTURIZED

Story of "His Children's Children" is Admirably Produced by Paramount.

Early in 1923 a sensational novel appeared in the New York book market. Within four months it had swept the country and taken the position of the second best seller in the book stores to date. This author was new to most of the public but to-day he is more talked of than any one in the literary field.

Arthur Train, a New York attorney, jumped into the limelight over night with "His Children's Children." Mr. Train's book from his standpoint is not a work of fiction. He wrote one of the world's greatest novels out of personal experiences he had pieced together from his years of law practice in New York city. The characters he wrote of were characters that he had encountered. Many of his experiences were personal and he knows New Yorkas few authors know it. And this has been picturized by Paramount.

It is a story of New York's degenerate generations. It is a story of three generations of New Yorkers. It asks the question boldly, if this is a sample of what we find in New York's upper strata then what is New York really coming to? Vital pictures of New York life are always interesting. It is not a picture of New York cabaret or New York night life. These are only incidental.

It is the story of a family from the firts generation to the third—of human happiness—of human weaknesses—human strength. It tells of moral and mental decay, but in a clean, gripping vivid manner. It is just as modern as the five star edition of to-day's newspapers. Its theme of modern life is the theme of "The Covered Wagon" in the day day of '49.

It shows how the great fortune of a pioneer railroad builder—a fortune won in sapacity and brutality—reacts through a smug second generation, and shatters the whole family to pieces in this, the third generation, the jazz generation of the present day. It is not only one of the most sensational and melodramatic novels of recent times, but it is the truest indictment of American society penned since the first works of Theodore Dreiser.

A remarkable picturization by Paramount of this novel will be shown at the Royal theatre to-night, Tuesday and Wednesday. Sam Wood was the producer and Monte Katterjohn made the adaptation. The featured players are Bebe Daniels, Dorothy Mackail, James Rennie and George Fawcett. The supporting cast is one of the best assembled in any picture.

CROWN ATTORNEY NOT ILL.

On Saturday during the progress of the police court proceedings the Examiner was wrongly informed that Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., was ill and could not attend court. As a matter of fact Crown Attorney Hatton was not ill and was in court before the proceedings were under way. Knowing that a remand would be asked for it was not necessary for him to wait. His absence when the case was called later led to the inference that the Crown Attorney was indisposed.

BALDWIN TARIFF WAS CRITICIZED

Baldwin Was Re-elected to the Party Leadership Today.

LONDON, February 11 (United Press). — A vigorous criticism of ex-Premier Stanley Baldwin's tariff policy was made a Conservatice caucus attended by one thousand delegates to-da at the Hotel Cecil.

Despite very strong efforts to drop the Protective tariff principles from the Party platform, because of the recent election fiasco, it was indicated that modified tariff proposals would be retained by the Conservatives.

Baldwin, apparently, is assured of re-election to the Party leadership, notwithstanding the efforts for months of the newspaper kings, Lords Rothermere and Beaverbrook, to secure his deposition.

A later despatch says: Stanley Baldwin was unanimously re-elected leader of the Conservative party to-day.

Gilespie, Misses Ruby Clegg, Mary Harston, Hazel Buller, Olga Johnston, Ethel Nichol, Mamie Drop and Mrs. E. B. Wayte. The office of Educational Secretary will be filled at the next meeting.

Dr. A. J. Vining was present at the meeting, and explained the Armenian Relief Society's plan for taking care of refugee Armenian boys. The chapter decided to officially adopt one of the boys, whose education extends over a period of five years, costing the chapter an annual fee of $200, or $1,000 for the whole term.

An attendance campaign, designed to promote interest in the meetings was also decided upon, and the Misses Geraldine Glover and Gladys Mulholland appointed captains of either side. The lasers will give the winning side a party at the end of the year.

A social hour followed the business, when tea was served by a committee in charge of Mrs. F. Hooper.

Miss Edna May of Buffalo, N.Y. is spending a week's vacation with Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Yarnold, 588 Harvey street.

Mr. R. Yarnold of Buffalo, N.Y. is spending a week's vacation with his parents, 588 Harvey street.

On Saturday afternoon, there was a splendid attendance at the Studio of the Conservatory of Music, for the afternoon arranged by Mrs. W. R. Widdess, when Mrs. W. E. Reesor and Miss E. G. Flavelle, B.A., both of Lindsay, were the visiting artists on the programme. The ladies were introduced by the president, Mrs. F. C. Neal.

Miss Flavelle's paper was an extremely interesting review of a trip by herself and party to Egypt some time ago, and related the adventures of the sightseers in the land of the Sphinx and the Pyramids. The temple at Luxor, on the site of the ancient Thebes, was visited. The ancient Theban temples were dedicated to the trinity: the man, the woman, and the boy, typified in carvings by the ram's head, the cat and the moon respectively. The temple at Karnak —about two miles away—covers an area of 2000 acres, and was built through various dynasties, from 2500 B.C., to 150 B.C. Here is the magnificent hypostyle hall, with its 143 columns.

The party made a trip to nearby excavations, where mummies have been disinterred, and are on view, the kings in placid state, guarded by the three slaves who were customarily killed to keep them company.

Cairo, and its beautiful mosques, its schools, and its bazaars, with their thousands of tiny shops, were also described, and the Sphinx was inspected, with the pyramids.

The dragoman of the party invited them to his house, a characteristic Egyptian house, with no windows and full of the fleas with which the country abounds.

Mrs. W. E. Reesor delighted her audience with two beautiful solos, followed by encores in each case. Her voice is a soprano of the first quality, high, pure, clear and vibrant with color and expression in its piercing sweetness. She sang "Will o' the Whisp," and "Springtime is nigh," and one of her encores was the plaintive, lovely, "Long, Long Ago" number. Mrs. W. Harold Young acted as accompanist in her usual proficient manner. The programme opened with a well played instrumental number by Miss Mary Harstone.

A vote of thanks to the assisting artists was voiced in eulogistic terms by Mrs. A. Mowat and seconded by Mrs. W. H. Pretty. A social hour followed when tea was served from a table prettily decorated with tulips in charge of Mrs. R. M. Waddell and Miss M. Archer.

The committee in charge of refreshments for the Saturday afternoon musicals is composed of Mrs. H. Morphet and Mrs. E. W. Borbridge. Assistants at the tea rooms were the Misses Robena Cummings, Miss Marion Harstone, Miss H. Hugel and Miss Marjorie Hatton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lynch (nee Elizabeth Pope) have returned to the city and will reside at 217 London Street.

On Saturday night, Mrs. Reg. H. Turner and Miss E. Munro left for Montreal. The other ladies taking part in the second rink in the curling Bonspiel there, Mrs. W. J. Oke, Miss M. Neill and Miss E. Gadman, skip, have also left for the games to-day and to-morrow.

IN MEMORIAM

CURTIS—In loving memory of Victor C. Curtis, called home to be with Christ, Feb. 11, 1922.

To be "with Christ" for him is far, far better;
Weep not, our loved one taken is not lost;
Only safe Home in God's fair, peaceful haven;
No more by earthly tempests roughly tossed.

So safe at Home, while we still journey onward
Through winding track of sorrow, pain and tears;
He wait, with Christ that day of glad reunion,
No more to part throughout eternal years.

Just gone before, where we so soon shall greet him,
Beyond all storms he dwells for evermore;
His home and ours is found, not in earth's desert,
'Tis in thosfe 'mansions' on celestial shore.

'With Him' whose glories far surpass all telling,
Whose nearness fills each soul with pure delight,
Whose perfect love he knows in all its fragrance,
For ever linked with Him in cloudless light.

SAYS MODERATE TARIFF IS ONLY WAY TO BUILD CANADIAN INDUSTRIES

C. Howard Smith, President of Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Addressed Chamber of Commerce on Trade Conditions.

Tariff protection as the salvation of Canada was advocated last night by C. Howard Smith, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in an address to the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. The meeting drew a large audience of representative business men and manufacturers of the city, and the sepaker's remarks were received with evident approval. Mayor J. J. Turner introduced Mr. Smith as the president of one of the largest paper mills in Canada.

"The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is one of the oldest and srongest in the country," the speaker said in introduction, "and from the time of its inception has always worked for the good of the country at large and not with any selfish motives."

Mr. Smith remarked that he does not mind being called the High Priest of protection but he is not the priest of high protection. While manufacturers believe in protection they do not believe in protection outside the bounds of reason. He did not admire the discussion of tariff from the political point of view. "We should so educate the people that the tariff question will be taken out of politics. If the country doesnot need the tariff for its betterment then we should not have it, but if the country needs the tariff then we should insist on having it. We should not have these violent upsets that sweep the country every time a budget is drawn. In the last four budgets there have been four reductions of the tariff, not great individually, but when added together they worked to the detriment of the manufacturer in Canada."

At this time of year reports are read daily of insurance companies, banks and railways, and they all ask "What can we do to bring back prosperity to the country?" "While we all believe in Canada," Mr. Smith said, "we realize we are not making the progress we should, and I believe it is because we have not enough tariff on certain items. We talk of this as an agricultural country, yet we bring in yearly $2,200,000 worth of eggs; $24,000,000 worth of fruit, and $6,000,000 worth of hides. I don't see why we should bring in these things, or why when our neighbor to the south prohibits the importation of these things by placing a prohibitive tariff on them we should bring them in here under a low tariff."

Home Market Best.

In Canada over a period of years the people consumed 80 per cent. of the total agricultural products, leaving only 20 per cent. for export. There are 200,000 people in the employ of manufacturing concerns, and that means 2,500,000 living directly out of manufacturing. "That is a lot of people out of a population of 9,000,000 and if we were to take manufacturing away agriculture would not be very well off. The fact is that the home market is best, and we should try to develop it. We should try to work our natural resources up to the highest point. It is in manufacturing raw material and bringing the products to the highest finish that money is made. Our raw materials should not be exported."

As an example of this point the

Included in the party were a number of Russian refugees from Southern Russia bound for Western Ontario points. The remainder of the party were immigrants from the British Isles. Whole families with their belongings, mostly from the rural districts of England and Scotland, were bound for points in Western Canada.

RAISED LID OF GRANITE COFFIN

Rehearsal of This Afternoon's Climax in Tutankhamen's Tomb Tested the Tackle For the Final Ceremony.

LUXOR, Feb. 12. — The lid of Tut-Ank-Ahem's sarcophagus, the giant weight of which has been causing some anxiety, was raised two inches Monday afternoon in the way of experiment, but insufficiently to disclose the contents of the stone encasement. The official opening of the sarcophagus has been set for three o'clock this afternoon when the tomb will yield its secret, guarded for over thirty centuries.

Howard Carter, head of the expedition, is confident that his hopes, which have been so splendidly upheld by a series of bewildering magnificent treasures successively discovered in the past fourteen months, will not be deceived by the contents of the sarcophagus. Over three months of arduous and often discouraging work this season has brought him to this climax of one of the most interesting episodes of Egyptology.

From early morning, when Mr. Carter and his assistants opened the tomb, it was a scene of the greatest activity. The existing scaffolding used for dismantling the shrines had to be removed and new scaffolding erected for fresh tackle to raise the lid as well as to provide a platform for the excavators to stand on. The scaffolding, which was made in sections in the carpenter's shop, was carried into the tomb.

Late in the afternoon in the presence of only Mr. Carter and Mr. Callender for the first time since it was sealed down, 3,200 years ago, the heavy granite lid of the sarcophagus was raised. It was only a test to see how the tackle stood the strain.

A later despatch says: When the lid was raised there was revealed the most splendid gilded mummy case ever found in Egypt. It is about 9 1-2 feet long.

CONVICTS BLAST PRISON GATE IN MOB REBELLION

Several Hundred Prisoners Revolted in Pittsburgh Penitentiary — Delivery Failed--Leaders In Dungeons — Two Officers Slain.

ATTACK PLANNED.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 12. —(Canadian Press).—Led by murderers, bank robbers and other desperate characters, several hundred prisoners revolted at the Western Penitentiary here Monday and made an ineffectu attempt to dynamite their way to liberty. Last night the big prison, located on the bank of the Ohio River, three miles from the business district, was quiet and the dungeons held those unruly men who had killed two prison officers in their bold dash for freedom.

The "Four Horsemen," transferred to the prison here from the Philadelphia Penitentiary in 1921, aided by a number of other notorious convicts, hatched the plot and led the revolt. They face the electric chair, for Warden John M. Eagan has turned them over to the city Homicide Bureau.

An explosion which wrecked the main gates and a section of the south wall, marked the beginning of the riot, in which guards, city detectives and county police took part. a number of prisoners aided the officers in their fight against the convicts. One of these, William Jackson, a negro, was shot while trying to rescue a guard.

After the prison yard had been mopped up and the convicts returned to their cells, a search disclosed twenty sticks of dynamite and sixty feet of fuse near the south wall. Warden Eagan had learned that the convicts had hoped to attract the guards by the first blast, after which they had planned to set off the heavier charge.

Fire alarms and riot calls were sent out from the penitentiary this morning when fire started in the prison laundry.

Warden Egan said there as no disorder, and that the blaze, of undetermined origin, caused slight damage.

County detectives and city police were called to guard against a renewal of yesterday's fighting when two guards were killed.

GERMAN FARMERS REQUIRE CREDITS

BERLIN, February 12 (Canadian Press). — The Committee of Experts, presided over by Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes, yesterday devoted two lengthy sessions to discussion of German labour and agricultural conditions with Chairman Grassmann, of the General Federation of Trade Unions, and Baron Wangenheim, of the German Agrarian League.

Herr Grassmann enlightened the experts on labour's attitude toward the eight-hour day, and also discussed wage scales and the health of the working classes.

Baron von Wangentheim told the committee that the German agriculturists were sadly in need of credits; that they were heavily over-taxed and facing continued increases in the cost of production.

The co-operative societies which formerly finahced the agrarian sections had exhausted their funds, and the only source of aid now available for the future was the Reichsbank, which already was heavily overburdened.

Baron von Wangentheim added that he believed the question of further maintenance of German agriculture depended wholly upon its ability to command long-time credits.

The committee also was given a large amount of data dealing with post-war production. This data, it is asserted, showed a heavy decrease in production, owing to the reduced acreage at present under cultivation.

The experts will conclude their assay here on Wednesday after they have heard the testimony of industrial and commercial leaders. They will reconvene in Paris next Monday to begin the work of compiling their report. The report will be published to the world at large at the same time it is submitted to the Reparation Commission.

THREE BROTHERS WERE KILLED BY FORD'S SPECIAL

Walking the Track From Station to Country Clubhouse—Unnoticed By the Engineer of Motor Magnate's Special Train — Fourth Member of Party Injured.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

GLENCLIFF, N. H., Feb. 12. —(Canadian Press).—A special train on the Boston & Maine Railroad bearing Henry Ford homeward from Boston to Detroit late yesterday struck four sportsmen who were walking the track on their way to an outing club. Three members of the party, brothers, were killed instantly, and the fourth seriously injured. The train crew did not know of the accident and continued on their way. A southbound express picked up the injured man, Ralph D. Reed of Manchester, and took him to that city.

The dead: Charles B. and Robert L. Manning of Manchester and Francis Manning of Cambridge, Mass.

Were Passengers.

The Montreal Express had passed through Glencliff a few minutes ahead of the Ford special, and the four men had been passengers on the express from Manchester to this station. They then proceeded to walk the track northward, making for the Dartmouth Trail. All carried snowshoes and knapsacks. They were struck by the special train at a point about two miles north of Glencliff Station, and about 10 miles from the clubhouse which was their destination.

News of the accident was sent to Woodsville by the conductor of the southbound express and a special train was sent here for the three bodies.

The Manning brothers were well-known professional men, sons of the late Charles B Manning of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company. Robert L. was an attorney with offices in Manchester, where Charles B. also practiced as a consulting engineer. Francis was an instructor in the Biological Department at Harvard.

Unseen By Engineer.

The men were only ten feet from the Dartmouth Trail when the train struck them. They had planned to leave the tracks at that point and tramp over the mountains. The engineer of the special did not learn of the accident until he reached Woodsville, 20 miles north of here, when he noticed a knapsack on the pilot of the locomotive. A special train made up at Woodsville, picked up the three bodies and took them to that place.

CHIMNEY FIRE.

Yesterday afternoon at 5:30 the Peterboro Fire Department were called out to a chimney fire at 122 Lansdowne street. No damage.

Snow Tramps Fail To Impress Judge

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Claiming to have walked from Montreal to Goteau Junction, a distance of 47 miles, by the public highway, without sleeping or eating, in two days, while a storm was raging that piled snow two and three feet deep, four men asked Judge Cusson in the Police Court here Monday afternoon to acquit them of a charge of stealing a ride on a Canadian National Railway train. The judge told the prisoners that in his opinion the feat was quite impossible and he four men were given 10 days at hard labor.

STRIKE THREAT OF DOCK UNION

Dockers and Transport Workers Insist on Wage Increase of Two Shillings a Day — Were Offered One.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The formation of the new Labor Government took place simultaneously with a railway strike, and it is possible that the opening days of Parliament with that Government in control, may see a serious strike of dockers and transport workers. An important conference was held yesterday between the National Council of Port Labor Employers and the Transport and General Workers' Union in an attempt to arrive at a settlement of the threatened outbreak.

A conference of dock workers on January 29 decided to instruct the members of that union to withdraw their services February 16 in all the ports of Great Britain unless in the meantime a satisfactory settlement of the wage dispute was reached.

Offer Rejected

The employers had offered as a compromise an advance of one shilling a day in the men's wages and an inquiry into the question of the decasualization of dock labor, but after a long discussion the union rejected this offer, it being stated that the dockers were pressing unanimously for a two shilling advance. There are still days available for mediation but the position last night was considered serious, as not only 12,000 dockers are involved, but an enormous number of workers railwaymen and others engaged in transport connected with the dock industry and belonging to nine different unions will be idle.

Government Intervenes

After the conclusion of the conference it was announced that the Ministry of Labor had been in touch with the latest developments and was arranging to meet the parties in the dispute to-day. This prompt intervention by the Government has revived hopes of a settlement.

ASK FOR SHARE OF WHEAT BOARD MONEY

Delegates of Western Pools Sending Delegation to Ottawa For Undistributed Fund.

REGINA, February 12 (Canadian Press) — A J McPhail, vice-president of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, has gone to Winnipeg to join representatives of the Alberta and Manitoba Wheat Pools as a delegation to Ottawa to request that each of the Prairie pools be given a share of the undistributed moneys handed over to the Federal authorities by the Canada Wheat Board 1919-1920.

Saskatchewan is asking for $50,000.

OTTAWA, February 12 (Canadian Press). — Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, stated yesterday afternoon that the Government had received requests from various sources during the past six months for a distribution of the surplus handed over by the Canada Wheat Board 1919-1920.

A very considerable sum was held by the Federal authorities, he said, although it was subject to small decreases from the presentation of participation certificates at intervals.

The difficulty of the Federal authorities was to determine just what those who helped to make up the surplus wanted done with it, the Minister said. He had not heard that a delegation was coming to Ottawa to discuss the matter with the Government.

BROADWAY BUTTERFLY BROKEN ON PLEASURE'S WHEEL, ALONE IN DEATH

Only the Undertaker and His Helpers Attended Murdered Girl's Pitiful Funeral to Station on Last Return Journey to Her Home in Texas Town.

Deserted By "Friends."

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. — Every friend Louise Lawson ever had on Broadway and the Avenue deserted her Sunday when the little slain butterfly started the homeward journey to her Main Street town, down Rio Grande way.

Four days ago half a hundred paunchy, middle-aged, moneyed men would have vied merely for her smiles. But that was four days ago. And Louise was dead Sunday.

Some time after dawn the telephone rang in Frank Dalton's undertaking shop, No. 251 De Kalb avenue, Brooklyn. Was the body of Louise Lawson there? It was. When would it be shipped home? Today. It was a man's voice, a throaty voice, speaking. Abruptly he rang off.

Flowers for the Dead.

Two hours later a long box came from a florist's shop. Within was a plain card on which a masculine hand had written in shaky strokes:

"To Louise Lawson."

Nothing more.

Four times more the telephone rang. Four different men asked questions as the first one had done. But none would give his name. All hung up quickly when they had their desired information.

An attendant said these voices were cultured ones. Perhaps the men had left chairs in club windows to make a last query about the girl they once knew.

Again the telephone rang.

"This is Gerhard M. Dahl speaking ——"

He was the first and only one of Louise's intimate friends brave enough to give his name. He also wished to know about the disposition of the body.

He Was Faithful.

Several times more Dahl—the "Jerry Doll" of one of the photographs found in her apartment at No. 22 West Seventy-seventh street when she was murdered Friday—called up, giving directions and asking for information.

Two o'clock came. The orders were to ship Louise's body to Alvarado, Texas, the railway town nearest her home place, as soon as the undertakers had done their work. At 3.30 the homeward journey was to begin. Perhaps some of those men would come for one last look at the piquant face they had admired so much.

The coffin— a plain white one with silver handles — was opened for them, but none came. Clad in a

Healy Released From Interment

BELFAST, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press)—Cahir Healey, recently elected member of the British House of Commons for Fermanagh and Tyrone, was released yesterday from the Larne internment camp. Healey has been held by the Government of northern Ireland since his arrest in May, 1922, under the Defence and the Realm Act.

The order of release prohibits him from entering a large area of Fermanagh, including his home town of Enniskillen.

JURY DECLINED MORE EVIDENCE

A Suspicious Husband's $10,000 Suit For Alienation Dismissed — Had Consulted Spiritualist About Domestic Affairs.

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Justice Rose presiding at the Lambton assizes yesterday, dismissed the $10,000 suit of James Shortt against Roy Smith for alleged alienation of Mrs. Shortt's affections. The Shortts have been married for 27 years and have 12 children.

Shortt and his son gave evidence yesterday, the former stating he had gone West in 1922 and when he came back his suspicions were aroused. He had peered into the windows and had heard kissing going on, but had never actually seen anything. Defence counsel brought out that Shortt had consulted a spiritualist in Port Huron who had told him that things weren't right domestically. He believed the spiritualist, who had also located a stolen car for him previously. He also admitted having consulted a doctor in the London asylum, but refused to say whether this was with an idea that he was not right mentally.

After hearing medical testimony regarding Shortt, the judge asked the jury if they wished to hear any more testimony, and the jury replied no. The judge then dismissed the case.

COMMISSION TO REVISE ONTARIO MUNICIPA ACT

Announced By Premier Ferguson—Will Replace Commission Appointed By Drury and Dismissed By New Administration

BILLS INTRODUCED.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—The Legislature held another short session Monday adjourning at 3.40. To-day's longer sessions start.

Yesterday's session saw the introduction of four new government bills and bills by two private members, and replies to several questions asked by Hon. W. E. Raney Attorney-General Nickle was asked if it was the intention of the government to proclaim the reciprocal insurance act passed in 1922 in view of the fact that the jurisdicion of the province had been affirmed by the Privy Council. He replied that he had not yet received the text of the Privy Council judgment and that this Legislature may not see with the last one that the legislation was good. However, the matter would receive attention.

Mr. Raney asked the Attorney General if he was aware that the city police of Kitchener had taken the position that they would not try to enforce the O.T.A. He started to read a letter on the subject but stopped upon objection by members as he would not promise to table the communication when he read it.

"I have not learned of that situation in Kitchener or anywhere else in the province," replied Mr. Nickle. "I would be surprised to find that the city police of any place refused to enforce all the laws of the country."

Four New Bills

Four new Government bills made their appearance during the afternoon, three sponsored by Attorney General Nickle and one by Provincial Treasurer Price.

One of Mr. Nickle's bills provides an amendment to the Coroners' Act for notice of death being given the Coroner, where death results from violent causes or accident. Previously it has been the responsibility of the Coroner to investigate and decide whether an inquest was necessary.

Another of the Attorney General's proposed measures is for the purpose of removing certain inconsistencies in the Mortgages Act. In his explanation he explained that the Mortgages Act and the Dower Act, were in conflict on the provision in case of sale of land under power of sale that purchase money shall be supplied in payment of the principal and interest, and that the surplus, if any shall be paid to the mortgagor.

Inspect "Mutuels"

Provincial Treasurer Price had a bill which would permit officers of the crown, in their inspection of race tracks, to go in and inspect the pari mutuel machines, as well as the books of the club or company.

Hon. W. E. Raney satirically queried as to whether the bill was not for the purpose of increasing taxation on race tracks, but Hon. Mr. Price smilingly stated that he regretted he was unable to comply with the suggesion of the former Attorney General.

Mr. Raney — I understand the Government is still going to levy this iniquitous tax.

A. Lewis, (North East Toronto,) introduced three minor amendments to the Municipal Act, the most important of which was to allow in

RICH GERMANS LOAFING WHILE BABIES STARVE

Swiss Arraign Profiteers Who Spend Money at Winter Resorts.

Hundreds Without Food

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—Something like a public scandal has been roused by the fact that numerous German tourists spent their money lavishly at the most luxurious hotels in Switzerland while hundreds of their countrymen are practically starving at home. Their conduct especially aroused indignation among Swiss people who have made and are still making large contributions to charity funds collected for relief in Germany.

In a letter addressed to the Vorwaerts, a Swiss woman writes:

"More than 1,700 German children are at present enjoying the hospitality of the Swiss people and are having a good time here. More of them are expected to come here in April. Collections have been started in schools and churches to help starving German children. Since the beginning of December more than a million charity parcels are being dispatched to Germany every day. Zurich supports a soup kitchen at Stuttgart.

"At the same time it has become known that about seventy per cent of all hotel guests in Switzerland are Germans. The Swiss government ought to be after them to compel them to 'do their bit for their country' just as well, since they do not seem to be inclined to give voluntarily. The Swiss are grumbling a good deal that these people have the nerve to go on living in luxury while, at the same time, lots of their countrymen are begging abroad for a piece of bread. They ought to be ashamed of their conduct."

The Vorwaerts, commenting upon the letter, says: "If the writer of this letter believes that there is the slightest inkling of compassion with the plight of the broad mass of the German people within the hearts of these, our countrymen, she is, unfortunately, very much mistaken. You cannot teach them anything even about a proper sense of shame. They have simply lost it in the course of years in which they used to exploit the German people for their own pocketbooks."

THE PRICE OF SILENCE.

Father.—Johnny, did you ever see that fellow that clerks at the hardware store kissing your sister?

Johnny.—Father, I cannot tell a lie. That's the way I got my radio set.—Judge.

MARMORA HEARS GOSPEL OF DAILY FOOD VALUES

Lecture on Vitamines By Miss A. L. Laird, of the Domestic Science Department of Toronto University—Three Categories Listed and Effects Indicated.

MARMORA, Feb. 11.—The sixth lecture of the winter course of the University Extension lectures was given in Marmora on Friday evening, Feb. 8th.

The subject was "Vitamines," and was given by Miss A. L. Laird, head of the Domestic Science Department of Toronto University.

Rev. P. C. Watson introduced the lecturer. He said that too often people ate only what they liked instead of what was most beneficial to them.

He also thanked the Marmora orchestra, which has played so acceptably every evening before the lectures, for the excellent services given.

Miss Laird said that the story of vitamines was truly a modern romance as we only had the name since 1911.

In the Eastern lands there was a disease called "beri-beri," which was very prevalent among the natives who ate white rice. In 1885, it was found that his disease could be cured by giving barley as food.

In 1897 Dr. Ikman, by experimenting on birds and giving them white rice produced a disease which he called beri-beri or poly-nutritus. This could be cured by rice-polishings corresponding to the bran of wheat.

Best Part Wasted

So the conclusion was reached that there was something in food that was necessary to life and in 1911, something was discovered after chemical treatment that was supposed to be this, and it was called vitamines.

Later, it was found that the discovery of 1911 was not really vitamines but that there were three classes of vitamines known as Vitamine A, Vitamine B and Vitamine C.

Vital But Unknown

The definition of vitamines today is "something vital to life chemically unknown."

Miss Laird then dealt with the classes separately, showing the effect on life, when a normal diet was given minus each vitamine.

Food without vitamine B, causes lack of appetite.

Many interesting pictures were shown, results of experiments in Yale and Wisconsin laboratories.

Dogs, rats and pigeons were the animals experimented on.

Pictures were shown of these animals when their food lacked the vitamine under discussion. Then the difference when that vitamine was added or a certain number of days.

In lack of vitamine B was found lack of growth and paralysis of limbs. In lack of Vitamine A (which was discovered in 1913) was found tuberculosis.

Vitamine B was soluble in water and so could be lost when water vegetables was boiled in was thrown away. Green vegetables are strong in vitamines, also yellow-colored food.

Vitamine A—Richest source: Cod-liver oil; Excellent sources: Butter, egg yolk, cream, milk (whole), spinach, alfalfa, clover, timothy; Good sources: Egg (whole), kidney, liver, whole oil, tomatoes, beans (string, fresh), carrots, chard, dandelion greens, lettuce, peas, potatoes (sweet), squash (Hubbard), cheese (whole milk); Poor sources or deficient: Grains and grain products, sugars and starches, nut and vegetable oils, fruits, potatoes (white), cabbage, cauliflower, endive, parsnips, turnips, nuts, lean meat (muscle), meat extracts, fish, lard, milk (skimmed), cottage cheese, yeast.

Vitamine B—Richest source: Yeast; Excellent sources: Alfalfa, clover, beans (dried), cabbage (raw), spinach, tomatoes; Good sources: Cereals (whole grains), most fresh vegetables, citrus fruits (except limes), most nuts, milk (whole or skimmed), kidney, liver, Poor sources and deficient: White flours and white flour products, starches and sugars, fats and oils, most fruits (except citrus), limes, beets, celery, chard, potatoes (sweet), meat (muscle), meat extracts, fish.

Vitamine C—Excellent sources: Orange juice, lemon juice, tomatoes (raw or canned), cabbage (fresh, raw), lettuce; Good sources: potatoes (white), carrots, onions, grape fruit, grains (sprouted), legumes (sprouted); Poor sources or deficient: Grains and grain products, starches and sugars, fats and oils, meats and fish, limes, prunes, legumes dried), nuts, butter milk, cheese, egs,—east.

FAMOUS VICTORY OBREGON CLAIMS

Declares He Broke the Backbone of Mexican Revolution at Ocotlan.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—(United Press).—By Alfred G. Hart.—"We broke the backbone of the revolution at Octolan," General Obregon wired the United Press here today from the front.

"The rebels lost 3000 in casualities in the eleven hours and have already been forced to evacuate Guadalajara, in addition to Vera Cruz.'

With a grahpic description of the Ocotlan battle Obregan designated it as a "strenuous combat, unprecedented in my experience. It stands alone in Mexican military history."

Describing the battle itself Obregon wired "the enemy had built modern entrenchments, carefully camouflaged and it was only with great difficulty that our airplane scouts ferretted out their positions.

"In spite of this after a heavy bombardment, our loyal Indian troops, for whom I have the greatest praise, crossed the Lerma River under a terrific fire from machine guns and rifles.

"For eleven hours the battle raged The enemy lost 3,000 casualties to perhaps 350 on our side, although it is impossible yet to make an accurate estimate.

The final splitting up of the rebel activities will come no later than a few days more. This rebellion will end the revolution in Mexico."

Here is What a Mother Says

"I Have Found in Dodd's Kidney Pills a Veritable Friend."

Mrs. G. B. Albert tells how Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved her daughter.

Le Bouthellier, N.B., Feb. 11.—(Special).—Claiming that her daughter has been completely relieved of headache and heart trouble, Mrs. G. B. Albert, a well-known resident here is enthusiastic about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have found in Dodd's Kidney Pills a veritable friend. My daughter Magdalan, aged 17 years, suffered from severe headache and could only get broken sleep at nights and would wake up more tired than when she went to bed. She also suffered with heart trouble. Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills have relieved her and she is now quite well."

Dodds' Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys so they can do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. SEEK GRANT FOR NEW BRIDGE AT CAMPBELLFORD

A Deputation, Including Mayor Meyers and Reeve Davidson, Will Interview Hon. Mr. Henry at End of Month--Estimated Cost $19,500.

GOOD ROADS MEETING

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 12. — Mayor A. J. Meyers and Reeve Davidson will represent the town on a delegation which will wait on Minister of Highways during the last week of the month to ask for a grant for a new bridge over the Trent River at this place. The other members of the delegation will be the members of the counties' road commission, Warden Fowlds, Reeve Hartt of Murray township, and Reeve Elliott of Bowmanville. Last summer a delegation from town and counties applied for a grant but were told at that time that no government aid could be given for a bridge unless it formed a link in a Provincial highway in which case the grant from the department would be 40 per cent of the total cost. The Campbellford bridge joins a county provincial highway with a county road. Engineer Connor of Toronto, who made the estimate of the cost of a new bridge here has encouraged those interested to try again for a grant and cites cases where government assistance has been given in cases similar to the one here.

The estimated cost of a new bridge is $19,500, and of this the town will be required to pay 25 per cent. and the counties the remainder. A 40 per cent. grant from the government would save the town $2000 and the counties $6000.

Highway Legislation Wanted.

While the delegation is in Toronto the members will attend the annual session of the Ontario Good Roads Association. One of the most important matters to come before this association is the matter of having the entire cost of provincial highways borne by the government. This is a matter that has come before the council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham for several years, and at the session last December it was finally settled by the unanimous adoption of a resolution in favor of the proposed change in the regulations. The United Counties Council was one of the leaders in this movement and this resolution represents one of the progressive measures that stands to the credit of the initiative of Warden Fowlds.

No Voice in Taxation.

Among the counties councillors there is a feeling that it is unjust to tax the municipalities for an expenditure in which they have no voice. At the January session the Department sent notification that it proposed to spend $398,320 on provincial highways in Northumberland and Durham this year. Of this the two counties will be required to pay $79,664.

The amount spent on provincial highways in 1923 was -153,585, and of this the counties share was $30,-717. The increase was startling to the members who realized that it was a matter over which they had no control. The only relief which they could afford the taxpayers as an offset was to reduce the expenditure for the year on county roads. In 1923 $120,000 was -appropriated for the purpose for the expenditure for this year has been reduced to $90,-000.

Woodstock and other counties in the province have fallen in line with Northumberland and Durham and will co-operate in the effort to have the regulations changed. During the session of the Good Roads Association the matter will be taken up with Premier Ferguson and Minister of Highways Henry.

To send an advance notice of the amount to be expended on provincial highways is at least a concession on the part of the department. In former years no information was available until the money was spent, when a report showing the total was received together with the sum the counties were required to pay.

Twelve O'Clock Club.

The executive committee of the Twelve O'Clock Club have finally decided to hold their first midnight dance on Monday evening next, Feb. 18th, not on the 25th as previously announced. Dancing will start at 8 o'clock, and stop at midnight, the programme that proved so popular last winter. There will be a special attraction for a 'lucky number" dance put on during the evening. Mrs. George Nicol won this prize at the after supper dance held some time ago. Leonard's six piece orchestra will furnish the music.

At the Regent.

A programme of special interest will be furnished the patrons of the Regent Theatre this week. "Foolish Wives," the film version of the famous novel by Von Strohein, will be the attraction for the first half of the week, with the author taking the leading part—and no one is better fitted to give a corect interpretation of the story. This is a picture which every married woman in Campbellford should make an effort to see, while the husbands, too, cannot fail to be interested.

The Arlie Marks Stock Company will be here Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The plays which they present will be announced later.

ADA BLACKJACK NOT A HEROINE

Harold Noice Led Rescue Party Into Arctic and Declares Eskimo Woman Saved Herself at Knight's Expense.

NEW YORK, February 12 (Canadian Press). — Ada Blackjack, an Eskimo woman, and sole survivor of the ill-fated Arctic expedition under Allan Crawford, the Canadian explorer, probably saved herself and refused to aid Lorne F. Knight, a member of the party, according to an interview with Harold Noice published in The World to-day.

Noice led the rescue party that reached Wrangel Island only to find Knight dead and Allan Crawford, Milton Galte, and Frederick Mauer missing.

Ada Blackjack was rescued.

Early stories paid tribute to the heroism of the woman. These stories, Noice said, were based on her own statements that Ada refused to aid him as he lay dying on the island and probably saved herself on the food that would have saved Knight from starvation.

She had other plans, Noice said, and proposed marriage to Crawford, and, when he repulsed her, declared she had left Nome determined to marry one of the four white men in the party.

When the Noice expedition reached Wrangel Island last summer, they found Knight's emaciated body, weighing only 90 pounds.

Mrs. Blackjack was well and fat.

The party's original supply of food had not run out. There were twelve pounds of hard tack, tea, and blubber, Noice said.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Paving Agent is Still Hard at Work on a Petition—News of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 12.—J. M. Bulla, of the Standard Paving Company, Ottawa, who came here last week to circulate a petition in favour of paving some of the main thoroughfares, is still hard at work, and is securing new signatures daily. Tenants are also showing a willingness to pay for any new pavement the amount that they are now charged for oiling these streets.

On any thoroughfare where no sewer has been laid, if it is decided to pave it, the Ottawa company undertakes to put down the sewer in advance of the paving.

St. Andrew's Young People.

At the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrews' church last night, arrangements were completed for the entertainment of the young people of the Methodist and Anglican churches on Monday evening, February 25th. The visitors will give the programme and the refreshments will be furnished by their hosts. Next Monday evening the picture, "The Maker of Men," will be shown in the school room. This is the companion picture of "The Stream of Life," which made such a favorable impression when shown by the society last winter.

"Foolish Wives."

This picture which will be seen at the Regent for the first half of the week, drew a good house last night. The story is interesting, the moral is obvious and some splendid views are shown of life at Monte Carlo. The part of the heavy villain, who wears a monocle and otherwise conducts himself after the manner of European aristocrats, is taken by Carl Von Stroheim, the author of the story, "Foolish Wives" is one of the best screen productions ever shown here.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear son, Herman Douglas Sampson, who departed from us Feb. 10th, 1923:

One lonely year has passed since that sad day
When God called the one we loved away.
He was a kind and loving child,
How we will miss his loving face,
But he has left a vacancy in our home
Which none on earth can fill.

We think of him in silence,
And we oft recall his name,
And our thoughts dwell on the memories
Of the happy days gone by.
But dearer to memory than words can tell,
Are the thoughts of the one we loved so well.

O, for a glimpse of his smiling face,
O, for a sound of a voice that is still,
But there's nothing left to answer
But a few of his playthings, he treasured so much,
And his photo which hangs on the wall.

To part with him, our hearts we thought, would break,
But God lived him best, and took him home to rest,
Where God's children learn to understand
Things, which on earth, could not be planned.

—Sadly Missed by Parents and Family.

HIT THE CANVAS.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press). — If Homer Robinson, of Pittsburg, failed to provide Jack Reddick, western 165-pound boxer, with the opposition expected in Reddick's first bout here on January 21, Art Mayer, of Annapolis, second opponent the Westerner has faced in this city, was even more of a disappointment. Mayer, substituting for Tony Stabenau, of Rochester, who was sick, hit the canvas in the third round.

FIRE TRAPPED LOCAL FAMILY

M. Veneranda, Wife and Child, of Simcoe Street, Rescued This Morning by Captain Jones.

Trapped in their apartment by flames which raged in the store below and unable to reach the stairway or the first escape at the rear of the building because of smothering smoke, Marino Venerando, his wife and child hung from an upper window this morning helpless until Captain William Jones of the local fire department erected a ladder and brought them to safety. The store was badly burned and great amount of stock destroyed by the fire which seems to have broken out in a corner stocked with boxes of rubbers. While the damage will be extensive it is believed it is covered by insurance.

At 2.25 the fire department was called by Charlie Cheu who was awakened by the smoke penetrating his room. Cheu ran to the alarm box at the corner of Simcoe and George streets but did not know how to turn in the alarm. Unable to open the door of the box, he ran all the way to the fire hall and personally turned out the brigade.

In the meantime the smoke had filled the sleeping quarters of Mr. Veneranda and he and his family were in a dangerous position, the thick smoke threatening to suffocate them. They opened the front window on Simcoe street and breathed the fresh air through it until the arrival of the firemen. Constable Joseph Wheeler made an attempt at rescue by way of the fire escape at the rear, but was driven back by flames and smoke that belched from the windows.

When Captain Jones endeavoured to raise a ladder to the window at which the Veneranda family was gathered he was delayed by an entanglement of wires that criss-crossed in front of it. Four insulated electric wires and several stringers to a large electric sign, fastened to the window casing or near it, rendered his work difficult. His feat in bringing Mrs. Veneranda and the child down the ladder between the wires was difficult and dangerous.

He carried both these victims down, but Mr. Veneranda was able to make his own way to safety.

Two lines of hose were laid and chemicals were used to good effect that the fire was confined to the back part of the store and the shelves near the roof, although many boxes of shoes on lower shelves were scorched. The plate glass window in front of the store and other windows were cracked by the heat.

With a bad wind blowing it was felt by several spectators that only the prompt arrival of the fire department after the belated alarm saved a disaster in this thickly built and heavily populated district. Occupants of the King's Hotel were apprehensive, but the flames did not spread in that direction.

Chief George Gimblett was early on the scene directing operations.

THE NOVA SCOTIA STRIKE IS OVER

A One Year Agreement Was Signed With the British Empire Steel Corporation.

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press) Instructions were wired last night to the coal miners of Nova Scotia to return to work by their representatives here yesterday, who signed a one-year agreement with the British Empire Steel Corporation, the terms of which are retroactive to January 16 of this year. The agreement will expire January 15, 1925. It provides for the following increases over the rates in effect on January 15 of this year.

Datal men underground, thirty cents a day, datal surface men 25 cents a day, shooters and loaders and contract men, including helpers, 7 cents per ton, hand pick miners 8 cents per ton, local contracts six per cent.

It is estimated that the increases will involve an addition to the payroll of twenty thousand miners of the Corporation of more than a million dollars a year. The price of domestic coal to the miners is increased from $2.25 to $3.60 per ton.

Interesting Evening Provided by Mission Circle --Curlers Away.

HASTINGS, Feb. 12.—A most enjoyable evening was spent in the Methodist Church last evening, when the Mission Circle Girls made their first attempt to provide an evening's entertainment. The first half of the evening was the programme, which was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Helen Wilcox; chairman's address; solo, Elsie Jolly; reading, Hazel Waye; solo, Mr. Macdonald; violin solo, Mr. A. Shand; solo, Madeline Bonds; reading, Kathleen Simpson; solo, Miss Jessie Wilcox; solo, Miss Mae Huycke; reading, Miss Bessie Hinton; solo, Miss Emma Sharpe; duet, Misses Eva Ellis and Hazel MacDonald.

After the programme the second half of the evening's entertainment followed.

Dainty flower-decorated tables were laid throughout the schoolroom of the church, and a mystic lunch was served in cafe style, and was served by several young ladies.

The bazaar of hand-made work and aprons was in charge of Misses Eva Ellis and Emma Sharpe, and the sale of the above articles was very rapid.

The home-made candy was in charge of Miss Hazel MacDonald and Miss Bessie Hinton acted as cashier.

The fish pond proved very interesting, and was presided over by Misses Elsie Jolly, Winnie Eager, and Evelyn Stewart.

Services Changed.

In place of having the regular Sunday evening service in "The Church of Our Lady Mount Carmel," Rev. Father C. S. Bretherton has arranged to hold the devotions at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoons during the cold weather, so that it will be more convenient for the more elderly members of his congregation to attend the services.

Mr. Lew Stinson is in bed suffering from pneumonia. Dr. Campbell is in attendance.

Mr. Huston of Albert College, Belleville, will occupy the pulpit in the Methodist church on Sunday 17th.

Mr. Huston a reader of no mean ability, will give a selection from Henry Van Dyke, on Sunday evening.

GRAIN STANDARD WAS SURPASSED

Private Terminals Must Provide Article Equal to Average Sample of Inspection Witness Tqld the Commission.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 12. — That all appeals taken before the Survey Board against grades assigned by inspectors to grain being shipped out in cargoes from the private terminal elevators during the past year were made by the private elevator interests, was the fact disclosed before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission on Monday afternoon. Elevator interests claim this suggests how very strict the grading out of private terminals is administered by the government inspection department.

Twenty-four appeals was the number filed during the year, Grant Hamond, Deputy Grain Inspector, told the commission.

Surpasses Standard.

Donald Young, expert market adviser, to the commission, said that "the private terminals must provide an article that comes up to the average sample of the daily inspection. It is higher than the standard sample and a fair average of the western crop.

H. J. MacLean, superintendent of yards for the Inspection Department, testified that some mills and elevators had advance agents in the yards by permission of the railways to get advance information on the quality of the cars being inspected.

He did not know what use they made of this advanced information.

Not Prohibited.

Chairman Turgeon asked if there was anything in the Canada Grain Act or other law against this practice and was told there was not. He said the railways and grain companies would be given an opportunity to explain the purpose and the methods of this practice and by whose consent the agents are in the yards at the session of the commission after they visit the head of the lakes.

R. E. Forester a clerk in the inspection department yard service, described the process of handling the bags of samples delivered at his office and explained how difficult it would be for a mistake to be made, or fraud in mixing up the samples. He had never heard of a case of samples being mixed. He did, however, suggest as an improvement to the service that boxes containing samples be locked before they were taken from the railway yard office.

The commission will leave for the lake head to-night.

BLUE IS FAVORED.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1924.

ON BEHALF OF THE MUSIC-LOVERS.

Mayor Turner's suggestion at the meeting of the Police Commissioners in regard to the disturbance created by motor cars during the band concerts at Victoria Park were favourably received, and in the interests of the public should be adopted.

His Worship proposes that a parking zone be established and that cars that enter such a zone do so before the concert starts and remain until the intermission or until the end of the programme, as the motorist may prefer.

Since the advent of the automobile the pleasure of music-lovers in the weekly band concerts has been greatly interfered with by the almost incessant clamor of noisy motors, the squawking of brakes and bellowing of motor horns, to such an extent that the finest passages of the band programmme are often inaudible a short distance away from the stand.

The Examiner last summer pointed out this condition of affairs, and pleaded with motorists to show a little more consideration for the people who went to Victoria Park to hear the music.

The appeal fell on deaf ears, however, for no improvement was noticeable.

Mayor Turner's plan would eliminate the nuisance, and it seems one that could easily be carried out with the co-operation of the police.

HEALTH OFFICERS.

The proposal outlined to the County Council to appoint a full-time Medical Officer of Health to act for the whole county and to replace the Health Officers now employed by the different municipalities did not seem to appeal to the county legislators, even in the face of the fact that it was intimated that if sufficient counties approved of such a plan the Provincial Government would give aid to the extent of $2,000 a year towards the salary of the County Medical Officers of Health.

Why the Government would be willing to expend the very considerable sum involved in this proposal each year when it already has eleven District Officers of Health to maintain was not made clear.

To pay half the salaries of county officials who would have to be highly trained in public health work and then to maintain District Officers of Health who in turn would be under the control of the Provincial Board, would seem like contributing to a top-heavy and needlessly expensive organization.

The present system where each municipality pays its own Health Officer may have its faults, but on the whole it has functioned well, and where there are conditions that are beyond the skill or the training of the local officers there is the Provincial Board to be called upon for advice and help.

It is difficult to see how one official, no matter how highly trained he was, could keep in intimate touch with every detail of health work in every part of a county as big as Peterborough, or could be as readily available in an emergency as are the present municipal officials.

INCONSISTENCY.

A condition that makes it difficult to convince spending bodies, either municipal or Government, that there is a genuine demand for economy is the fact that there is so much inconsistency between what individuals and organizations do and what they say in this respect.

Nearly everybody is shouting, "Retrench!" and declaring from the house-tops, "Our taxation must come down."

And yet there is never a meeting of the City Council in which somebody does not ask for the assistance of the city—to be more exact, a portion of the revenue contributed by the taxpayers—on behalf of some enterprise or other that may or may not be of general benefit.

There is never a session of the Legislature, or rarely a day between sessions, when there is not a demand upon the Provincial Government to spend money to benefit this, that or the other district, or this, that or the other movement.

Similarly at Ottawa the Government is constantly besieged by deputations who want new public buildings, a post office here, a customs office here, an expensive bridge there, a grant for this object, a bonus for that.

The demand never stops, and the funny part about it is that these deputations are composed usually of individuals who steadily complain about high taxation and never stop to consider the inconsistency of their conduct.

No wonder it requires a lot of pressure to get Governments and Municipal Councils to seriously consider retrenchment.

WHAT THE CITY WANTS.

According to Mr. R. C. Muir, Chief Engineer of County Roads under the Ontario Government, the Highways Department favours the cities contributing a fair and reasonable charge towards the cost of suburban roads, and in his address to the Peterborough County Council he added: "We are all of the opinion that the city should contribute (under the Suburban Areas Commission plan) even more than they are now."

That good roads leading into a city are of great benefit to that city cannot be denied, and that some of the cost of construction and upkeep should be assumed by the urban municipality served by these roads is perhaps a fair claim, although as to what proportion should be paid there is room for considerable argument.

Peterborough's objection to the Suburban Areas Commission does not ignore these facts.

The resolution asking for a repeal of the Act creating such a commission or an amendment of its powers, is not based on the hope of escaping all responsibility for the expenditure involved on suburban roads.

It was inspired rather by the feeling that the cities under the present Act have too little to say about what work shall be done or how much shall be expended, and the local Council believe that since the ratepayers of Peterborough have to provide a considerable proportion of the cost of suburban roads it is merely justice that the representatives of these ratepayers should have some right to approve of or reject plans for work for which they are taxed.

Far too much of the present civic expenditure is beyond the control of the City Council.

AMERICAN INCOMES TAXES—AND OURS.

Those not acquainted with American practice will be puzzled by the overwhelming vote in the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives in favor of the new Income Tax Bill which notoriously the majority of the committee do not favor. Even the Democrats voted for it; and still the Republican Chairman of the committee himself is on record against it. The reason for this apparent anomaly is that the committee wish to compel the entire House to share any responsibility for variations in the announced policy of the Government. So they formally report the official bill, which can then be debated and amended in the full House.

The Republican House leaders have already told Treasurer Mellon and the President that they cannot get a majority for the Mellon scheme. They agree with him in his proposed reductions on the lower incomes, but they are frankly afraid to present the Democrats with so telling a campaign issue as his proposal to cut in half taxation on the higher incomes. The Democrats would at once accuse the Republicans of lightening the burden on their friends, the rich, while still mulcting the comparatively poor. They have already begun to ask the millionaire Mellon how much his suggested reduction of the surtax would reduce his own tax bill.

* * * *

Of course, the official Republican argument is sound. They point out that a heavy surtax on large incomes drives wealthy men to buy untaxable bonds, which actually return them a greater net profit than they could reasonably hope to get out of the uncertainties of business after they had paid a huge surtax. They call this money hidden in untaxable securities "frozen capital." That is, it is idle and does not help business. Naturally industry suffers. The railways, for instance, want a lot of money this year to modernize their equipment; but there is so little in the market that they cannot afford to pay the price. A reduced surtax would release hundreds of millions now solidly congealed in tax-free investments.

This would probably have been the big issue of the next campaign if the Senate Committee had not "struck oil." But even the oil scandal would trot very well in double-harness with a crusade against a policy which seemed especially framed to favor men who can afford to juggle suit-cases stuffed with hundreds of thousands of dollars in actual money. The Democrats have already repudiated Doheny—though he has long been a good soldier on their side. They insist that the moment he became "rich," he automatically qualified as a Republican. That is the sort of campaign that is coming. That is why McAdoo, with his $25,000 retainer, is so fast losing his "availability."

* * * *

But the important thing for Canadians to note is that the cut in taxation on the lower incomes is surely coming. That is a matter of common agreement. There will be only three per cent. on the first taxable $4,000 and only six per cent. normal tax on the rest. Can Canada afford to maintain in the face of this the present higher rates? We are charging four and eight per cent. respectively.

Can we afford to offer an inducement of one per cent. on his income to every Canadian, earning between two and six thousand dollars, to leave Canada for the United States?

Can we afford to offer an inducement of two per cent. on his income to every Canada, earning above six thousand a year, to leave Canada or the United States?

The new American surtax is not to start until a man earns ten thousand a year. Our's starts when he earns five thousand a year. Can we afford to continue this difference?

Parliament will have to think of these things.

But Parliament can do no more than think—regretfully—until it stops waste, plugs up the bung-holes and balances its budget.—Montreal Star.

MISSING WIFE FOUND BY POLICE.

Why worry? Every day something happens to show how useless weeping over sloshed milk can be.

Take the case of a man in New York. His wife was missing. He had no idea where she was for three years. What would you do under such circumstances? Why, you would worry. That's what this man did.

Cops searched three years, finally finding her in Chicago safely married to a plumber. Now doesn't that show the futility of worry?

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—A few choice heavy steers sold at $8.25 a cwt., but the bulk was bought at from $7.60 to $8 a cwt. For some short keeps for export $7.35 was paid. Plain butchers' were plentiful, and went at 5 cents a pound, and some real common ones were sold at 4½ cents.

For steers they paid $7.25 to $8.25; for heifers, $7 to $7.25; for cows, $5.25 to $5.50, and for bulls, $5 to $5.25 a cwt. Medium weight choice butchers went from $7.25 to $7.50, and good butchers $6.25 to $6.50. Cows and bulls were unsteady at the quoted prices. Unfinished and common butchers were slow of sale, and lower by 10 to 25 cents a cwt.

Calves were stronger than at last week-end. Tops were generally from 12½ to 13 cents. Medium calves held from 10 to 11 cents, and coarse, heavy calves were about 8 cents.

The lamb market was firmer on the average, with the best ewes and wethers bringing 14½ cents. Heavier lambs sold at 13½ cents. Heavy sheep were 5½ to 6 cents, and choice light sheep 7¼ to 8 cents. Yearlings are bringing 9 cents.

A good sized hog run today favored the packers who lowered their bid to $7.25 a cwt., f.o.b. The undertone to the market was not firm, and the packers are inclined to try out a further cut for the balance of the week. Hogs are weak today in Chicago, with a record run of 95,000 head.

SPARROWS ARE BEING WELL TREATED HERE

Snow time is usually foraging time for the sparrows that search the streets for scraps of food but this year they appear scarcer than usual.

A greater interest in these birds that stay throughout the winter is being shown by citizens and the provision made by children who delight to put out scraps of bread is saving the birds a lot of trouble.

Many of the sparrows are so tame that when their patrons forget to put out the usual supply of food they perch on the window sill and peck at the glass to attract attention.

In Most Homes

In these days of sedentary habits it becomes necessary for nearly all the members of the family to use some treatment to arouse the sluggish liver and ensure regularity of the action of the bowels.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills can be depended upon to produce the desired results under all conditions they are the most popular of family regulators and are found in the great majority of homes as a safeguard against the scores of ailments which have their beginning in constipation, biliousness and a deranged digestive system.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is 60 cents a box of 60 pills, instead of 50 cents a box of 50 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co. Ltd., Toronto.

SENATE DEMANDS HEAD OF DENBY FOR OIL LEASE

Resolution Advises President Coolidge That the Resignation of the Secretary of the Navy Should Be Requested Immediately—McAdoo Meets Oil Committee.

NO PART IN LEASE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — (Canadian Press). — President Coolidge was advised by the Senate yesterday to ask for the resignation of Edwin Denby as Secretary of the Navy.

A resolution declaring the Secretary's retirement should be requested "immediately," was adopted, 47 to 34, and sent to the White House by special messenger within the hour.

Last night there was nothing to indicate clearly what the President's reply would be. White House officials, who already have declared the question outside the province of Congress, have declined to speak. Mr. Denby sent word to inquirers that he would have nothing to say in the immediate future.

Denby has publicly declared that he will not resign.

"That is final," he said. "I am putting the burden of proof on my traducers."

The Senate's action came toward the close of another day of fast-crowding developments in the oil investigation.

McAdoo's Statement.

At a morning session the Oil Committee heard from William G. McAdoo a detailed statement of his employment as counsel for the Doheny interests; a declaration that he had no part in any leasing negotiations, and a charge that injection of his name into the inquiry was a political move to discredit him as a presidential candidate.

Later the same committee received the protests of three railroad labor leaders against confirmation of Atlee Pomerene, as special counsel for the Government in the annulment suits. Action was deferred, but a favorable vote, probably today, was forecast.

Bare Stock Records.

Chairman Lenroot received a letter from Seymour L. Cromwell, President of the New York Stock Exchange, saying that if the committee desired the Board of Directors would pass a resolution asking all members of the exchange to forward the committee a transcript from their books as was done in the "leak" investigation in 1917.

ORLANDO JOINS FASCISTS GROUP

Accession to Mussolini's Party May Be Increased By Others Who Are Almost Won Over.

ROME, Feb. 11. — Former Premier and Foreign Minister Orlando has yielded to the request that he run on the Fascist ticket headed by Premier Mussolini in the coming elections. There are still some details yet to be arranged between Mussolini and Orlando, however.

It also is expected that Signor De Nava will join the Fascist group,and it was asserted to-day that Signor Di Cesaro and Signor Fera, has also consented to run.

If this combination can be won over to Mussolini's ticket it is believed it will mean a victory in Southern Italy and Sicily, for the four men are recognized as dominant factors in the political fight.

Americans May Call For Funding of Debts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. — The United States Debt Funding Commission probably will be called to meet soon to decide whether it will issue a reminder to foreign governments advising that the commission awaits any funding offers they may have.

Some of the members are said to feel that ample time for a settlement has been given the foreign governments who owe the United States in excess of seven billion dollars in interest and principal on the war-time loans.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Feb 11.—A proposal having been made at the regular meeting of Cobourg Town Council that a Trade Commissioner for the town be appointed, the manufacturing committee and Board of Trade met during the week to consider the matter. It was decided that the time was not opportune at present for such a step, the majority of the committee taking this view. It was pointed out by those in favor of the proposition tha in Belleville, Welland and other places, where similar methods of going after new industries had been adopted, considerable had been accomplished. On the other hand it was pointed out that few industries are branching out at the present time.

FIRST CANADIAN TO WED ROYALTY

Ottawa Lumberman's Grand-daughter Will Be Guest of the King of Denmark and British Royal Family.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Prince and Princess Erik of Denmark left Ottawa last night for Montreal, Quebec City and New York, en-route to Europe. They began their honeymoon following their wedding yesterday in All Saints' Anglican Church. Princess Erik is the granddaughter of the veteran lumberman, John R. Booth, and the groom is the cousin of King Christian of Denmark and King George of Britain. This wedding was the first in which a Canadian commoner became a member of a Royal household. It was made the occasion for an unusual display of official and social recognition and the event stirred Ottawa as no social happening has done for years. The customary Monday meeting of the Canadian Cabinet was postponed to permit of the Prime Minister and other members of the Cabinet attending.

The Prince and Princess will embark for Europe on the liner Berengaria, February 16. They will proceed first to Christiania where they will be guests of the King of Denmark. From there they will go to London to visit the British royal family.

The illness of the bride's grandfather, John R. Booth, which for a time threatened to postpone the wedding, has taken a more favorable turn, and in spite of his ninety-seven years the veteran lumber king is reported to be doing well. He was unable to attend the wedding, but moving pictures of it will be shown in his apartments.

MONTREAL, February 12 (Canadian Press). — "Prince Erik, Princess Erik, February 11, 1924," is the line to be read on the register at the local hotel last night.

The newly wedded couple came here on the regular evening train.

They had parlour car reservations, and were not recognised by their fellow-passengers, Prince Erik remaining for a while in the smoking compartment, chatting with other passengers.

Prince Erik stated that he and his bride intended leaving for New York to-day.

SAY "GREENGOODS" MEN GOT $40,000

One Witness Parted With $7,500 On Demonstration of Raising Figures on Bills.

WINNIPEG, February 12 (Canadian Press). — Paul Pona and John Prociuk, alleged "Greengoods" operators ,who are declared by the police to have mulcted various Winnipeg citizens out of $40,000, went on trial here yesterday in the Court of King's Bench.

Anton Stadnyk, merchant, of Sundown, Man., testified that Pona and Prociuk had brought a press into his store, and after they had inserted four dollars into it and smeared it with chemicals, produced eight dollars in its place.

"That looked like easy money to me,' 'declared Stadnyk, "so I gave them $7,500 to do the same thing with. Then I stepped out of my store for a few minutes, and when I came back they had disappeared."

The case is continuing.

cities where municipal representatives are elected by wards the return of the next highest contestant at the polls in instances where an elected member has been disqualified. At present a disqualification necessitates a new election. Another amendment proposes to put in the hands of the city councils power to discriminate as to types of business that may be permitted to proceed in residential sections.

After the introduction of Mr. Lewis' bill Premier Ferguson announced that during the recess the Government proposed appointing a commission to go thoroughly into the matter of revision of the Assessment and Municipal Acts and he requested that only urgent amendments be submitted this session.

Appoint Commission

Hon. Mr. Raney queried as to whether he had properly understood the Premier to say that his Government proposed appointing a Commission, Mr. Ferguson assented, recalling that one of the last acts of the Drury Government was to appoint just such a commission, which the new Govxernment had seen fit to discharge with a view to replacement.

W. S. Haney (West Lambton) introduced a bill amending the municipal act whereby a substitute may be arranged to take the place on a police commission of the county judge when the latter is away or indisposed. At present meetings are held up if the county judge is unable to attend.

They are held at Great Falls, Montana, as part of the roundup of the gang which had headquarters in Havre, Montana and Salt Lake City. Extradition proceedings are now going on.

The Foremost robbery yielded the gang $123,000 in bonds and $10,000 in cash, none of which has been recovered.

90 P.C. FOREST LOSS IS CAUSED BY FIRE

Only Ten Per Cent. Is Destroyed By Axe, Assertion Before Pulpwood Commission — Protective Measures a Joke.

MONTREAL, Feb. 11.— Unless the enormous losses caused by fire are prevented, the accessible forest supplies of Canada can only last another thirty years at the outside, according to O. Sweezy, consulting engineer for banking and lumbering interests, who gave evidence before the Royal Commission on pulpwood here this afternoon.

Mr. Sweezy claimed that ninety per cent. of the forests of Canada went up in smoke, as compared to ten per cent. destroyed by the axe. He declared that in the province of Quebec the destruction of forests by fire went on at the rate of ten to one, as compared with felling by the axe.

"The great trouble," said the witness, "is that our forests fire protective measures are a joke. It is hard to keep from swearing when discussing them."

He suggested as a remedy that a uniform system of forest protection by rangers wearing uniforms and trained to do their duty in the manner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police be established. To the objection that this remedy might prove expensive, he replied that it was a choice between spending money or "losing our forests entirely."

BROADWAY BUTTERFLY

mauve georgette dress, with her spun-gold hair framing a face on which the trace of a wistful smile lingered she looked at peace, as she lay waiting for the friends who turned their backs on her.

Hearse Got Body.

"I guess we can't wait any longer, boys. Better get to work."

That was the order from the undertaker. The coffin was closed. A hearse backed up against the sidewalk. Three husky men seized the coffin, lugged it outside and, panting pushed it into the hearse.

"Here ,you forgot the flowers."

A boy ran out of the shop with the box. The hearse doors were opened again and the red roses and the white lilies were placed within. The doors slammed shut.

"All right—let 'er go."

The journey began.

Took Flowers Along.

A big wooden box was waiting in the baggage room of the Erie Terminal at Jersey City. Into this the coffin was placed, and the box-top fitted down tightly.

"Say, what about the flowers?"

Again they had been forgot. A man scratched his head and thought hard.

"Well, they ought to go with her here, give 'em to me."

The top of the flower carton had been taken off. But that didn't matter. Louise Lawson would never know the difference. A piece of stout twine was wrapped around the tems ,and then they were lashed to a bolt on the top of the copper box.

Beofre sunset they had wilted — but Louise Lawson did not know that, either.

Lay Unnoticed.

For the afternoon and half the night the body remained in the baggage room. No one came and asked where it was. No one seemed to care.

Shortly before midnight it was trundled out on a truck and placed in a baggage car, bound for the Southwest .The train baggage men, peering in the uncertain station light, read aloud the inscription:

"Louise Lawson—Alvarado, Texas."

Then, half to himself:

"Poor kid."

At 12.25 o'clock this morning the locomotive bell rang, and the train started toward the Rio Grande.

Louise Lawson was going home at last.

With this command dinned in their ears, fifty detectives yesterday searched the Tenderloin haunts of the outlaw tribe.

"That tape across her mouth — that was bootleg tape, the kind used to seal cartons of whiskey."

That was what one detective said: "Tape like that was never kept in a woman's medicine chest."

The kind of men the detectives are looking for are not the "hole-in-the-wall" type of bootleggers who do a minor law-breaking business in the backwashes of society.

All Cabaret Hounds.

They are the arrogant kind, the cabaret hounds, who will smash a woman's face and steal her jewels as quickly as they will sell a case of champagne.

Such men exist, and all of the habitues of the White Light places know them well. They are sauve mannered men at night, when the lights are low and shaded, no matter what they may be in their "business" hours.

They are hard-faced men, who smile with their lips while their eyes, stony-cold, estimate the value of some piece of jewelry worn by a nearby diner. Calculating men who carefully estimate the hazards of attempting to obtain such baubles, just as a financier debates the chances of success in a commercial venture.

When Manners Change.

That is the kind of man sought. No matter what the men wore when they willed this girl — and they seemed to be rather tough specimens, according to the elevator operator — the chances are that a night or so before they had their own table reserved on Broadway—so believe the police.

Efforts to have Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the executive committee of the B. M. T. discuss his relations with the slain girl were fruitless yesterday, as far as the newspapers were concerned.

The butler at his luxurious apartment, No. 1000 Park avenue, explained:

"Mr. Dahl is away."

Perhaps he was. If so, he must have used the long distance 'phone when he called the Brooklyn undertaker shop where Louise Lawson's body was being prepared for shipment home.

Wife "Away" Also.

The butler also said:

"Mrs. Dahl is not here."

Reports from Florida were that the wife of this middle-aged friend of the young woman was hastening northward to discuss with him his relations with "his little friend," in whose musical career he took such a deep and abiding interest, he has told the police.

A FINAL APPEARANCE.

GALT, Feb. 12. — (Canadian Press).—In their final appearance at home in a group fixture, Galt registered their second victory in the schedule, defeating Preston 7-4. Galt was easily the better team last night, turning in one of their best games of the season. They outplayed the visitors from start to finish.

"BLACK OXEN"

A year's best book by America's best woman writer

He pushed her back into her chair, and resumed his own. "Would you like to smoke?" he asked.

"Yes." She looked at him with bitter eyes, but she had recaptured her threatened composure. He regarded her with admiration, but they smoked in silence for several moments. Then he spoke again.

"You remember Elka Zsaky, I suppose? She was several years older than you and one of the dames galantes of her day. She has taken the treatment and looks many years younger, at least, than when she was a painted old hag with a red wig. She is still forced to employ artifice, but she has lovers again, and that is all she did it for. Vienna is highly amused. No doubt all women of her sort will take it for no other purpose. But many of the intellectual women of Europe are taking it, too—and with the sole purpose of reinvigorating their mental faculties and recapturing the physical endurance necessary to their work. I happen to know of a woman scientist, Frau Bloch, who is now working sixteen hours a day, and she had had a bitter struggle with her enfeebled forces to work at all. Lorenz is no more remarkable. He seems to be the only disciple besides yourself that this country has heard of, but I could name a hundred men, out of my own knowledge, who are once more working with all the vigor of youth——"

"Yes," she interrupted Mason coolly. "And without a thought of women, of course."

"Probably not." He waved his hand negligently. "But incidentally. That is where men have the supreme advantage of women. The woman is an incident in their lives, even when sincerely in love. And if these men indulge occasionally in the pleasures of youth, or even marry young wives, the world will not be interested. But with women, who renew their youth and return to its follies, it will be quite another matter. If they are not made the theme of obscene lampoons they may count themselves fortunate. There will certainly be verbal lampoons in private."

"Orthodoxy! Orthodoxy!"

"Possibly. But orthodoxy is a fixed habit of mind. The average man and woman hug their orthodoxies and spit their venom on those that outrage them. How it may be some years hence, when this cure for senescence has become a commonplace, I do not pretend to say. But so it is today. Personally, no doubt, you would be indifferent, for you have a contemptuously independent mind. But your career and your usefulness would be at an end."

"And suppose I am quite indifferent to that?"

"Ah, but you are not. I will not say that I have killed Mary Ogden during this painful hour, for it is impossible to kill the dead, but I have exorcised her ghost. She will not come again. If you marry this young man it will be out of defiance, or possibly out of a mistaken consideration for him—although he will be an object for sympathy later on. And you will marry him as Mary Zattiany, without an illusion left in that clear brain of yours—from which the mists have been blown by the cold wind of truth. And in a year—if you can stand self-contempt and ineffable ennuie so long—you will leave him, resume your present name—the name by which Europe knows you—and return to us. But it may be too late. Vienna would still be laughing. The Viennese are a light-hearted race, and lazy, but when they laugh they cause to take seriously the subject of that good natured amusement. . . . It is not aesthetic, you know, it is not aesthetic. Are you really quite indifferent, Marie?"

She shrugged and rose. "It dust be time for luncheon," she said. "It will no doubt be horrible, but at least we can have it in here. The public dining room would be impossible. I will find Mr. Dinwiddie and ask him to order it."

LVI.

When the men returned from their fishing trip at six o'clock they saw several of the women on the lake, but there was no one in the living room. Clavering tapped at Mr. Dinwiddie's door, but as there was no answer, concluded that he and Mary had not yet returned from Huntersville. He was too desirous of a bath and clean clothes, however, to feel more than a fleeting disappointment, and it was not until his return to his room that he saw a letter lying on the table.

It was addressed in Mary's handwriting, and he stared at it in astonishment for a second, then tore it open. It was dated "Huntersville, Monday afternoon," and it read:

"'Hohenhauer!' Clavering's face turned almost black."

"Dear Lee:

"Mr. Dinwiddie will tell you that unforeseen circumstances have arisen which compel me to go to New York for a few days. It is excessively annoying, but unavoidable, and I do not ask you to follow me as I should hardly be able to see anything of you. If there is a prospect of being detained it will not be worth while to return and I'll let you know at once—on Thursday night by telephone; and than I hope you will not wait for the others, but join me here. Indeed, dear Lee, I wish this need not have happened, but at least we had three days. M."

Clavering read this letter twice, hardly comprehending its purport. She made no mention of Judge Trent. The whole thing was ambiguous, curt. A full explanation was his right; moreover, it was the reverse of a love letter. Even its phrases of regret were formal. Something was wrong.

He put on his clothes hurriedly in order to go in search of Dinwiddie, but before he had finished he heard a sound in the next room and opened the connecting door unceremoniously.

Mr. Dinwiddie braced himself as he saw Clavering's set face.

"Too bad," he muttered, but Clavering cut him short.

"I want the truth. What took Mary to New York?"

"Surely she explained in her letter."

"She explained nothing. There's some mystery here and I want it cleared up at once."

"By God! I'll tell you!" Mr. Dinwiddie burst out. "Mary exacted no promise—I suppose she took it for granted I'd not tell you, for she told me what she had written. But if she had I'd tell you anyhow. I'd rather break a promise to a woman than lie to a friend. Believe men should stand by one another. She went down there this morning to meet Hohenhauer."

"Hohenhauer!" Clavering's face turned almost black.

"Yes. Trent telegraphed me yesterday that Hohenhauer was arriving at Huntersville last night and would come up here in the morning to see Mary. He said the matter was most important. I went to Mary's room after you came in from the lake and showed her the message. She was extremely annoyed and said at first that she wouldn't see him. But I pointed out that she couldn't possibly avoid it. Then she said he shouldn't come up here, and she was very emphatic about it. The only thing to do was to take her down. Of course you will be reasonable and see there was nothing else to be done."

"What did that infernal blackguard want of her? And why did she go off with him?"

"She didn't go off with him. She hired a car directly after lunch intending to drive as far as Saratoga and take a train from there. She left Hohenhauer to cool his heels until it was time to take a local for the Adirondack Express. She could easily have taken him along, but I think she was meting out punishment."

"Punishment?"

"Yes. They had a private conference for nearly two hours, and, whatever happened, it put her in an infernally bad humor. She scarcely opened her mouth during luncheon, and as Mary is a woman of the world, used to concealing her feelings, I thought it highly significant. She looked as if she were in a secret frozen rage. Hohenhauer, however, was quite himself, and the meal—corned beef and cabbage!—went off very well."

"What did he want of her?"

"Of that I haven't the vaguest idea. Something momentous, beyond a doubt. If I may hazard a guess, it has something to do with this special mission of his, and it is quite possible that he has asked her to go to Washington—insisted upon it—appealing to her love of Austria. I confess I don't see what she can accomplish there, for she never did have any Washington connections—of course she could get letters from Trent and trust to her personal power and prestige. But let me tell you that she didn't do it to please him. She looked as if she hated him."

Peterborough Man Has Prize Winning Dog in New York Show--Other Canadian Winners.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press). — Fanciers of fine dogs crowded Madison Square Garden yesterday for the opening sessions of the 48th annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club. Twenty-one experts drawn from Canada, Great Britain and the United States took part in the judging. Artificial Ice Rink

Owen Sound may have an artificial ice rink and cold storage plant modelled along the lines of the Grimsby Rink. Plans for the new structure are well under way and number of local enthusiasts are working on the financing of the proposition.

Increased School Cost

According to the report just issued by N. H. Bilbrough, chief accountant for the Toronto Board of Education, there was an increase in the unit cost of education per pupil, in Toronto, in the year 1923, in every branch except technical schools. In the case of the technical schools a drop of nine dollars per pupil was shown as compared with the 1922 figures; while the public school cost went up $1.67 per head; the high school by $11.45 per head, and the high school of commerce by $7.03 per head.

The exact figures showing the comparative costs per head for the various branches of education for the two years were given as follows: Public school, 1923, $84.05; 1922, $82.39; collegiate, 1923, $150; 1922, $138.55; technical, 1923, $135.54; 1922, $144.94; commercial, 1923, $121.92; 1922, $114.89.

Change Electric Rates

Following the Provincial Commissioner's objection to the rate arranged last Saturday, J. J. Mason has submitted another plan on behalf of the Stratford utilities commission.

By this the rate would be two cents for every kilowatt up to 500, and one cent per kilowatt for all used over that, the service charge to go up by the raising of the minimum area from 1,000 to 1,500 square feet at three cents per 100 square feet.

Sir Adam Beck has suggested a two-cent rate on the first 200 kilowatts used, all remaining to be charged at one cent.

To Curb Dancers

Enactment of a similar law as that which regulates dance halls in Toronto is favored by Magistrate Jelfs, of Hamilton, who stated at a meeting of the Police Commissioners that he would press for amendments to the local by-law.

The regulations his Worship favors would not allow any girl under 16 years of age to frequent a public dance hall. Girls and women over that age shall only be permitted to enter the public dance halls when they are accompanied by an escort, who shall remain with them during all the time they are in such halls. Dancing in all public halls shall cease at 11.45 p.m.

Raise Police Pay

Magistrate Jelfs, who was re-elected Chairman of the Hamilton Police Commission, said that money would have to be raised for an increase of the pay of the police force. Mayor Jutten said he did not know where the money was to come from. Judge Evans favored an increase. On the suggestion of the Chairman, provision will be made in the estimates for an increase, the amount to be decided later.

BOY SCOUTS

The regular Boy Scout camper will improvise some way to make a cabin. A small wall tent can be tent serve him in place of a winter sheared up in the usual manner to withstand quite a heavy wind and snow fall.

In extremely cold weather, the warmth of a stove will be appreciated. Certainly it's fun to make hay wire. The commercial tent one out of an old five- gallon tin, a number of tomato cans and some stoves are oblong snaped, conical, and cylindrical. These shapes may suggest the salvage of some can or kettle which will lend itself to the construction of a home-made one.

Cut an openin at one end for a door. This should be large enough to receive good-sized chunks of wood. A sheet of metal, a trifle larger than the hole, placed against the opening, will serve as a door

Cut another hole in the top for with which to regulate the draught, the chimney. In order to make a snug connection, this hole should be a trifle smaller than the cans to be fitted.

In making the chimney, punch out both ends of the cans and turn in the edges. To insert one can in the other, make an incision of about one inch at one end of each can. This will permit sufficient contrac- to slip the bottom into the top of the rest and so on until the whole saack is built.

The section connecting with the stove is fitted the same way. After it is inserted, addtional support may be added by passing a piece of wire or a nail through the can put at the surface of the stove. The projecting ends will keep the stack from pressing through.

Support the stack between two bean poles with hay wire. This will give protection against accidental burns and bumps which sometimes upset the whole works. At the place where the chimney passes through the tent insert a collar made from a slightly large can. This is held in place with a piece of hay wire, as shown in the illustration. A bit of fly screen tied over the top can will serve as a spark arrester.

If the tent is too small, a few heated rocks or sand in cans will make it comfortable until you get in bed.

THIS LITTLE W RLD

BY MASON DIXON

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 11.—This, "The City that Care Forgot," has apparently broken itself of the banana habit. It still clings, however, to the banana habit.

According to the latest report of the City Board of Health, New Orleans is rushing itself to death, both in business and pleasure. The report also shows that we eat more bananas than any other community, population considered.

* * *

Somebody in New Orleans is making a fortune on the races. But those so far discovered gathering in the coin are blind or deformed.

When the race track opened for the winter season, the Louisiana Commission for the Blind got permission for eight blind men to sell programs within the track. These eight are selling more programs than all of the balance of the big force combined.

A hunch-back man stands outside the Fair Grounds gates and permits those who intend to woo the ponies to rub his hump. He is always splendidly repaid. The blind men say those who bet on the horses think it brings good luck to buy programs from them.

* * *

The Viex Carre, old French quarter of New Orleans, is crowded with artists this winter. Some of them have pretty tough sledding. There is not any too much prosperity in the Latin Quarter. But artists are sometimes business men.

When Eleanor Duse, the world-famous queen of tragedy, visited New Orleans, crayoned and autographed portraits of her quickly made their appearance. The Vieux Carre artists had made sketches of the tragedienne and copied her signature. These were sold at a good price.

Parties were frequent in the studios.

* * *

Sweet potato pie made as only a French chef can make it, is the chief dessert in New Orleans this winter. The recent cold spell nipped all of the vegetables in the contiguous territory, and the market was flooded with sweet potatoes, which had been gathered prior to the freeze.

Louisiana is also cleaning up because the sweet potato crop throughout the country is only 40 per cent as large as it was last year, while this state produced a bumper crop, with nearly 8,000,000 bushels.

RENT

If you think your rent is too high, consider the gentleman who took a lease on a ground-floor location at Broadway and Thirty-sixth street, New York City. His lease is for 21 years, and for a space of 40 by 93 feet he will pay $70,000 a year.

The philosopher, John Raper, truthfully remarked: "The Lord giveth and the landlord taketh away."

It used to be 5 o'clock but now It is 4 o'clock

4 o'clock tea is served in many business offices, and the custom is increasing. (In England it is universal.)

Tones up the staff.

Makes the work of the last hour or two much easier.

Once tried is never given up.

Why not just as good for every home—wife, daughter and maids are just as much, perhaps more, in need of the stimulation of a good cup of tea.

In offices RED ROSE TEA, usually RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA, is most commonly served.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Feb. 11.—Mr. Stafford Clement, who is teaching at Marlbank spent the week end at home.

On her birthday, Friday, Feb. 8, Miss Myrtle Potts entertained a number of her girl friends.

On Friday the boys and girls of the third room had an interesting debate on, "Resolved, that water is more useful than fire."

This gave the youngsters plenty of scope for their imaginations as to what the world would be like without either water or fire as the case may be.

The affirmative side was the successful side.

On Sunday morning communion service was held in the Methodist church.

In the afternoon, in spite of the storm, the Sunday school had 110 scholars present. The evening service was also fairly well attended. Mr. Clares' subjects were: Morning, "Charity," or in other words "Love." In the evening he spoke of inspiration in our religion and also in our whole life.

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

"Keep Clean Inside" Say Physicians

Washing Cleans Only the Skin

HE will tell you that the first results of constipation—headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with intestinal poisons. In time, these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease. In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Hence, doctors urge internal cleanliness—regular and thorough removal of food waste from the body.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

CHURCH UNION

To the Editor of The Examiner:

In the Globe issue of January 1st this year, appears a comparative statement from Dr. Pigeon, convenor of the Presbyterian Union Committee. In it Presbyterians in Canada outnumber Methodists by approximately a quarter of a million.

The same statement shows Methodist membership exceeding Presbyterian by 37,325. The mumerical strength of Presbyterianism in Canada is due to the spontaneous loyalty of the common people, who, having all faith in its creed, have resolved, unflinchingly, to fight to the last ditch for its preservation.

The difference in membership in favor of the Methodist body is due to the vigilance and energy of the ministers and church boards of that denomination, plus the indifference and disloyalty of a few of the ministers and elders of the Presbyterian church, who, for more than a decade, have been working overtime, using their positions and power purposely, to scuttle the Church, from which they draw their pay.

The exceptions are men who appear sincere but who are actually asleep, under the hypnotic influence of promoters who are interested only in the organic phase of the movement.

The same issue of the Globe publishes a Canadian press despatch from Winnipeg which states:

"Rev. C. W. Gordon, internationally known as "Ralph Connor" will continue as pastor of St. Stephens church, Winnipeg, at a salary of one dollar per year."

As this amount is actually more than Dr. Gordon is worth to the Presbyterian church, in any part of Canada, the salary of one dollar per year should be subjected to a further reduction of at least one hundred per cent. Shrewd business men with wares to sell naturally look forward to a wider field in order to increase their patrons and profits.

This is their pleasure, but when to do so, they proceed to pull down the strongest Protestant church in Canada, the loyal friends of that church should and will block them at every turn.

All that is necessary to enable the Presbyterian church to lead in all departments of church work is the removal from its pulpits, colleges and church courts, of all who have violated their allegiance to the Church, and this phase of the movement is sure to get attention in due time.

Another of the Presbyterian converts to union acquired his change of heart or inspiration in a tent, in his bed, in the Yukon. He had been preaching to Anglicans, Presbyterians, Foreigners, Methodists, Baptists and Quakers, and on retiring that night had a dream which, under prevailing conditions, would appear to be only natural.

However, dreams as a rule are governed by what we eat before retiring and it is altogether likely the Rev. Gentleman hit the hay on this occasion, carrying an overload of Methodist pie. No sane man or woman can afford, in things spiritual, to follow a dreamer and no Presbyterian, who has the courage of his convictions, will attempt it when it involves the complete obliteration of his or her church.

In the early days the only original John Wesley made various trips from England to Scotland in an effort to obtain a following in that little nation but, finally abandoned it, with the remark that "it was useless to continue his visits to Scotland as the Scot was better versed in matters pertaining to religion than he was himself."

The blood of these same ancestors is still in the veins of posterity.

And, although we have nothing but admiration and goodwill for our Methodist and Congregational friends, not one brick of the Presbyterian church will enter the merger if the members are given a chance to express themselves. If those who are causing the confusion and chaos, had the foresight of a ten year old, they would fully realize it and terminate their efforts forthwith. The one big church would be one big farce. History makes this clear to all who read.

The door of entrance to the Presbyterian church is as wide as the gate of heaven and the only condition of church membership is a credible profession of faith in Christ. This is why it has prospered It is why we love it and it is why we will struggle for it, to the end of time if need be. It took twelve hundred sessions (five and one half years from 1643) to produce the Presbyterian creed. Th sessions were all held in Westminster Abbey, England, and at a time when the human intellect, for reasons known to scholars only, had reached the zenith of its power. The era of Westminster Assembly was the Shakespearian era, and we should consider well before scrapping it, for a more modern substitute.

Soon the "steam Rowell-er" will start for Ottawa, bearing a petition about the size of a funeral notice. It will ask Mackenzie King, our Premier, to legislate the Presbyterian denomination out of existence and to hand all its property over to a combination of ecclesiastical autocrats.

To accomplish this, they rely on their ability to stampede our federal government but, as sure as there is a God in heaven, like a lot of mourners (after the pious members of the delegation have said their little piece) they will return to their respective homes, empty-handed, weary, worn and heavy laden, and the good old Presbyterian church will carry on in the same old way.

No government in a Christian country would enact laws to interfere with Christ's followers, worshipping him according to the doctrines of Scripture.

The propaganda published and circulated by those interested in the consummation of union gives some idea of the desperate struggle soon to present itself along these lines. However, if the fate of this worthy Christian institution depends upon the action of our Federal and Provincial governments, it is settled now, as no member of a Canadian Parliament, qualified to represent Canadian people, could be induced to sanction or approve legislation, calculated to legalize the plunder of Church property.

A. M. PATON.

Lindsay, Jan. 16, 1924.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—A short time ago I sent to you in a letter a statement by the greatest orientalist living, Prof. Sayce of Oxford University, the famous archeologist in which he pointed out that modern excavating research showed that the historical records of the Bible were confirmed by it and not contradicted. Now, we have Sir William Ramsay, the great chemist, poking fun at the modernists who, he says, have decided that certain things are incredible to them and not according to the laws of nature. The modernists he says, seem to be very sure of things which so far as he is concerned Science would not care to express any opinion about. There is nothing impossible, he affirms, and as for the laws of nature he himself has yet to find out what they are.

What is it that has got into these self-assertive and ignorant clergy who profess to know all about what an infinite God would say and how He ought to say it? The answer is probably that having made up their minds that God should not have created alcohol, tobacco, etc., etc., they have decided to rule Him out altogether. Modernism is the expected fruit of the new movement by which men and women have undertaken to declare what is, what ought to be and what must be. This is a laughable age surely.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons).

CAKE BAKING

These suggestions are in reply to a letter asking for help in cake making.

First use the very best materials.

Pastry flour is preferable to bread flour. Bread flour contains more gluton than pastry flour and less is needed to thicken the cake. Use two tablespoons less per cup of bread flour than the rule calls for.

Fine granulated sugar is more desirable than a coarse-grained granulated sugar. The coarse sugar makes a cake of coarse texture with a hard crust.

Combine carefully. There are several methods of combining ingredients. The whites and yolks are sometimes beaten separately and then mixed, the sugar added with the shortening softened, but not hot and oily. The flour and baking powder are sifted together and added alternately with the liquid.

Shortening

Or the shortening and sugar are beaten to a cream. To do this, work the shortening until creamy and soft with a wooden spoon against the side of the mixing bowl. Slowly beat in sugar. Before adding the yolks of the eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored I like to add about two tablespoons of sifted flour to the butter and sugar. Take this flour out after the measuring, before sifting the second time with baking powder.

Beat in yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour, baking powder with milk. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into mixture. Turn into an oiled and floured cake pan and bake 20 to 30 minutes if a layer cake and 40 to 60 minutes if a loaf. The oven should be moderately hot.

Standard Rule

The standard rule that is most practical for every day use is this:

One-quarter to ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup liquid, 1¾ to 1¾ cups flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¾ teaspoon salt.

The liquid can be sweet milk, cream, water, sour milk or sour cream. When sweet or sour cream is used the amount of shortening should be reduced to three tablespoons. Add one-quarter teaspoon soda to sour milk or cream and use but one teaspoon baking powder.

Push mixture well up on the sides of the pan, leaving less batter in the center. This insures an even top when baked.

Put the cake in the center of the oven, providing an even temperature on all sides. Let rise to full height before moving. Do not let a draft of cold air strike the cake while baking, so open the oven door with care.

CHRONIC NEPHRITIS

Chronic nephritis is a disease of the kidneys when the process is in the stage of sclerosis, atrophy and contraction, whatever may have been the primal cause.

Two important seasons for the prevalence of chronic nephritis (Bright's disease) which takes a death toll of about 70,000 each year in the United States, are:

First, the disease is caused from some bacterial infection from an earlier attack of some disease.

Second, it is due in many cases to a high use of protein foods (meats) and animal products. Arterio sclerosis, or hardening of the smaller arteries and general contraction of the kidneys, is another cause.

Where infection is clearly the cause the primal agents were mainly tonsilitis and scarlet fever. Even though the attack may be light, the most careful and skillful treatment is necessary to ward off any future a ttack on the kidneys from the poison of these destroyers.

Abuse of protein requirements in probably 75 per cent of people in the temperate latitudes is a strong cause of indictment against chronic nephritis. Europeans and people of the United States and Canada consume far larger amounts of protein in the form of meat or animal food, than do the races of tropical countries. Tropical people are far more temperate in their eating, and rarely, if ever, suffer death from chronic nephritis.

The common habit of over-eating throws far too much work on the kidneys and excessive work of this sort wakens any organs or glands to the danger point of disease and atrophied condition. The sensible diet is a strong weapon with which to fight off chronic nephritis. Vary your diet with vegetables and fruits and vegetable oils whenever possible. They act as a strong counter-balance to the protein foods.

Do not on any account, if you believe yourself afflicted with chronic nephritis, dose yourself with some medicine that claims to be a kidney cure. Such treatment is usually of no value and often causes real harm to the over-worked kidneys.

ALASKANS WIN STRIKE AGAINST COST OF LIVING.

Fairbanks Was First Place to Abandon the Two-Bit Piece As the Lowest Basis of Change.

NENANA, Alaska, Feb. 12.—Goldseekers along the lower Yukon River have just won a strike against the cost of living, according to men here on their annual pilgrimage from the Arctic placer fields to the "outside."

Old-time prospectors explained that they had wrought a metamorphosis of trading in Alaska. Traders, they said, no longer can dole out time-worn goods, but must meet the competition of mail order houses in the States, as well as that of the more modern towns that have spring up along the Alaska Railroad.

The railroad, with its connecting steamboat lines, which extend far down the Yukon in summer, was the medium through which the miners won their advantage. The railroad provided a facility of shipment never known to interior Alaska.

Fairbanks was the first "placer camp" to abandon the quarter or "two bit" piece as the lowest basis of change. That city came to accept the despised nickel and dime. Before the government railroad was built, ten cents was called a "short bit" and was not legal tender. When the first Fairbanks trading company took dimes and nickels, there was an outcry from other stores and rejoicing among prospectors and laborers. But prices soon became lower.

Wages dropped with prices, but to help meet adjustments the Alaska Railroad established a commissary, with provisions for sale at prices existing in the States. Many railroad laborers are getting but $4.50 a day this winter, but the railroad gives them the privilege of drawing any part of their wages in food, and the workmen found, early in the winter, that for a day's pay at this rate they could receive in provisions the equivalent of $9 in prices at the trading posts of the interior. They boycotted the traders by getting all their food from the commissary.

Merchants protested to the railroad management and received the reply that whenever prices were on a fair comparison with markets in the States, the commissary would be discontinued. Colonel Lee H. Landis, manager of the railroad, announced this week that Anchorage business men had agreed on what he considered reasonable prices, so the commissary there would be closed.

Prospectors of the Koyokuk and Chandelar, far to the north, gained their point by ordering provisions from coast towns or from mail order houses in the States. Some tradesmen on the Yukon went out of business, and others dropped their prices to meet the competition.

A number of impecunious prospectors are making their "grubstake" for next summer by working on the railroad.

"WHAT KIND OF A GOD DO YOU WORSHIP?"

(Contributed)

Last week there was given in these pages a little message on "God is Love" from the writings of F. W. Farrar (Archdeacon Farrar), and the following thoughts are his also, following the thought that God is Light, God is Righteous and God is Love. The text is "Little children, keep yourselves from idols."

Idols, says this gifted writer, still exist. Most of them are not idols instead of God, but idols set up as though they were God. But every true Christian must fling them to the moles and to the bats. Those idols—not material idols, but as the word used by the Apostle John implies, vain subjective images—idols of the forum, the cavern and theatre—which would represent God as a God of arbitrary caprice, making Him treat men as though they were mere dead clay to be dished about and destroyed, etc., the idols which would represent His justice as alien from ours, or things being good in Him which would be evil in us;—those idols are shattered on the Rock of Truth that God is righteous. Idols which would represent Him as one who delights in aggressive ignorance—self-satisfied narrowness and bitter exclusiveness of religionists; as making to dull and acrid bigots His sole elect, but hating the brighter, bolder, more trustful natures; idols of the sectarian idols of the fanatic, idols of the Pharisee, idols of the partisans who would label themselves as the only C[illegible]tians and all others as infidels, a[illegible] shattered by the ringing ham[illegible]stroke of the Truth that God is [illegible]t.

Idols which r[illegible]nt Him as living a life turned [illegible]y toward self-caring only for His [illegible]n glory, not caring for the cr[illegible]ures He has made, delighting in the smoke of endless torments, d[illegible] to the shrieks of an unimaginable agony, burning with implacable wr[illegible]h against little deviations of opinio[illegible], regarding even the sin of a child deserving of infinite punishment, because though the child be finite He is infinite—the idols of many a schoolman, of many a theologian, of many a priest, idols of the inquisition who think that their wrath can work the righteousness of God—these are dashed to pieces by the unlimited force of the truth that God is Love.

God is righteous and therefore what is morally revolting cannot be theologically orthodox, what is morally indispensable cannot be commercially expedient; what is morally wrong cannot be politically right.

God is light and therefore folly and ignorance and superstition are to Him alien. As children of darkness.

God is Love, and therefore cold and selfish hearts can be none of His; suspicion and hatred are but unhallowed incense laid upon His altars; God is Righteous shall we be mean and unjust? God is Light, shall we love the deeds of darkness? God is Love, shall we make no sacrifice for Him Who has done so much for us? It is perhaps the very last utterance of revelation—"Little children, keep yourselves from idols."

SHE DIDN'T BELIEVE HIM.

"What on earth kept you out till this hour of the night?" demanded Pat's enraged wife from the upstairs hall as Pat softly closed the front door at 2:30 a. m.

"Well, darlin'," replied Pat, "Ol've been iver since tin o'clock tryin' to think up a good excuse for not bein' home by 9:45."—Judge.

TEAPOT OIL CO. SHARE HOLDERS PAY LARGE SUM

They Have Been Called on to Pay More Than $3,000,000 of an Unpaid Balance of $5,000,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. — The members of a syndicate which acquired 250,000 shares of the Mammoth Oil Company, formed in 1922 by Harry F. Sinclair to develop a Teapot Dome, have been called on to pay more than $3,000,000 of an unpaid balance of $5,000,000, on the $7,500,000 purchase price, it was learned to-day.

The payment of the assessment, amounting to $12.50 a share, it was said, had been refused by a number of the syndicate members, in view of the prospective cancellation of the naval reserve lease upon which the company's assets largely are based.

When the syndicate purchased the stock for $30 a share in November, 1922, it paid $10 a share down. The balance was to be paid as the development of the property progressed.

SAYS MODERATE

speaker cited the asbestos production of Quebec. For the raw material United States paid to Quebec $7,000,000. Manufactured in United States the products of this asbestos returned $70,000,000.

"When prominent men like Gouin arrive at the conclusion that it is necessary to manufacture our raw material it is indeed necessary to do so. If we do not, then the sons of Canada will follow the raw material to foreign countries. I think if we had a staple tariff policy we would find prosperity from one end of Canada to the other, and agriculture would find a wide market for its produce. We are exporting far too much raw material and are importing far too much finished product. We have no right to take away these irreplaceable raw materials and put nothing back. If we cannot develop them as we should to the best interests of Canada, let us leave them for those who come after us."

Sir Henry Thornton said rails had increased 35 per cent. and the traffic had only increased 10 per cent. "How can we expect them to pay at that rate? The only answer is through increased business. There is not enough business to go around. Our banks show tremendous resources of money, which is not a good state, showing business is timid. Men are afraid to put money to venture. We must have a fixed policy. If we wish to adopt the policy that will allow foreign goods to come in and drive Canadian goods and raw material out then let us adopt that policy and carry it out. We have everything a country needs, and we are not doing with it what we should."

Follow U. S. Tariff.

When strawberries come into season, the speaker pointed out, the surplus from the south is dumped into Canada and by the time the Canadian grower brings his to market the people are tired of them and want something else. He believed people should pay for these luxuries if they want them out of season. Payment should be made through the tariff and then the agriculturist and fruit grower will reap immense benefit.

Ladies' dresses were cited as another example. The seasons in United States are ahead of Canada and after they have sold all they can in that country they dump the left overs into Canada. "It is good business for them," Mr. Smith said, "but mighty poor for us."

Seventy-five per cent. of the price of an article is made up of wages. Working conditions in Canada must be the same as in the United States, or if they are not the workers will go across the border. If the workers can get better pay there they will go. With a smaller market in Canada the manufacturer must still work under the same conditions that prevail in the United States where there is a population of 110,000,000.

"If, considering all this, the United States have found the tariff has proved beneficial and that they must have the tariff to protect their industries, how can we expect to get on with a very much lower tariff and maintain the same standard of living? We can choose between employing our own people and keeping the people in Canada or becoming a country to produce primary products. We must decide whether to bring this country to the highest stanadrd or to go down to be hewers of wood and drawers of water. We must use every effort to develop manufacturing in the country."

Saysc emderate tariff Take 2

Mr. Smith cited several instances of the evils of low tariff in the woollen and shoes industries where Canadian manufacturers are being frozen out of business. "With the big neighbour to the south of us and the example of their imports and tariffs it seems logical that we should have the same line of tariff they put on."

Expensive Administration

Passing laws means expense, the speaker pointed out. He referred to the number of ports of entry in this country, where, with a shorter length of merchant frontier there are 200 more ports of entry than in United States the respective figures being 525 and 325.

"There is no particular government to blame for this. The people have asked for a customs port of entry here, and there. We should be able to get off with the same number as the United States has.

The exporter to United States knows that for goods over $100 in value he must put in a consular certificate for which he pays $2.50 in gold. That is taken out of the exporter in this country, it is no tax on the American people, but they realize enough out of it to pay for their whole consular service and have a handsome balance.

I believe that this country has everything needed in the way of raw material and there is no finer population in the world. With these things why is it that we have not made the progress of the people south of us? The only difference can be a difference of policy. For 150 years they have been sincere and patriotic protectionists and as a result they have built up the greatest manufacturing country in the world. The Fordney tariff has not destroyed their trade. Thirty-three years ago the population of United States was 60,000,000 and to-day it is almost double that. They have lots of things we have not such as coal and citrus fruits, but we have many things they need and are willing to pay for. We should make the most of our raw material in justice to those who are to come after us. With a moderate protection policy I believe the country will go ahead.

The United Statee is putting up the bars against immigration from all countries but Canada. In explanation of this The Boston Transcript said Canada was making frantic efforts to get immigration and it was a good thing for United States. They took the Canadians, the best class of immigrants they could get.

I believe that the Canadians in United States are sill Canadians and would be glad to come back if they were offered equal opporunities here."

J. E. Walsh

J. E. Walsh, general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association passing through the city on his way to Ottawa spoke in praise of the Peterboro branch of the association. "Peterboro was the first centre to report a 100 per cent. membership in the association," he said, "and there has been an active branch here since."

A vote of thanks to the speakers was proposed by J. Wells Fraser, treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce and F. D. Kerr, K.C. Mr. Kerr said he is convinced that all governments, federal, provincial and municipal, are paying too much for administrative expenses and must set an example to the people before success can be reached.

FIFTY-ONE YEARS WITH THE C. N. R.

Charles James Hewitt Has Been Promoted From Constable to Captain.

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—For fifty-one years constable at the Point St. Charles shops of the Canadian National Railways at Montreal, Charles James Hewitt has been promoted captain of the police in the National Railway's force. The announcement of the appointment was made yesterday afternoon by Mr. H. J. Page, chief of the investigation Department of the National system, who, after paying a tribute to the many excellent qualities of Mr. Hewitt, stated that the promotion was given for long, efficient and faithful service with the company.

Charlie Hewitt—everyone at Point St. Charles knows and refers to him as Charlie—could have retired on a pension in December, 1914. He had earned the rest and the enjoyment which his pension would have brought him, but in December, 1914, the great war was being fought, and Charlie chose to remain at his post so that a younger man might be released for duty in the service of his country.

HAZING EFFECTS WORK OF THE UNIVERSITIES

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.— (Canadian Press.)—Hazing of freshmen at McGill University has gone beyond all bounds in recent year and to-day seriously effects efficiency of university and imperils its reputation, declared Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill, in an address at the annual dinner of Arts Undergraduate Society here last night.

Sir Arthur attributed failure of thirty-eight art students to pass their examinations and their consequent dismissal from university this year, in part, to weeks of hazing they had undergone.

WESTERN STRIKERS FED BY THE I.W.W.

About Nine Hundred Men Are Being Kept Alive by the Organization Across the Border.

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 12.—Fred Jackson, charged with being improperly in Canada, according to the Immigration Act, is under arrest, and the records of nine other alleged I.W.W. agitators are being investigated, as a result of an unofficial visit of Arnold F. George, head of the Calgary branch of the Immigration Department, to Cranbrook, last week, to investigate the loggers' strike.

Mr. George states that while no violence has been committed, considerable curtailment of the lumber production in the district between Cranbrook and Golden, in British Columbia, has resulted from the trouble.

Mr. George learned that 600 men are being fed at Cranbrook by the leaders of the strikers, the funds coming from the United States, according to information received by the Immigration officer. It was also reported to him that 300 men were being fed at Nelson, which makes a total of 900 men who are being fed by the I.W.W. organization across the line.

OMEMEE MISSION SOCIETIES MEET

Women of Presbyterian and Methodist Churches Report Activities in New Year — Were Well Attended.

OMEMEE, Feb. 11.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. Courtney.

The President, Mrs. Black, occupied the chair and conducted the devotional exercises. The scripture reading was taken from Romans 12, and the roll-call was responded to by a verse of Scripture containing the word "love."

A report from the finance committee showed a goodly number of stockings (mite boxes) handed out to Home Helpers.

Several ladies contributed their talent money and much humor arose out of their reports, various ways and schemes having been chosen to raise a dollar.

Much regret was expressed by the president and endorsed by the Society on the loss of one of our valued members in the person of Mrs. Courtney, who will be moving from our midst in the very near future.

During the month flowering plants were sent to two sick members of the congregation.

Mrs. F. G. Sandy was appointed to secure the missionary story to be read in the Sunday School on the last Sunday of each month.

The first chapter of the Study Book, entitled "The Island Beautiful," was read by Mrs. Kelly, and proved very interesting.

Dainty refreshments were served at the close by the hostess, Mrs Courtney.

Methodist W. M. S.

The February meeting of the W.M.S. of the Methodist church met at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon about thirty ladies were present. Mrs. Rowland presided in her usual manner.

Following the devotional exercises an interesting devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. T. A. MacPherson. There followed the watch tower, which contained many news items from the foreign field. A questionnaire was a most interesting and helpful innovation. Twenty-four questions were read out relating to missionary work, and answered by the members who had previously prepared their answers with the help of the "blue book." After the closing hymn a social half-hour was enjoyed by all, when dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. (Rev.) Rowland, Mrs. I. Fee and Mrs. A. Rutherford.

Our local baker, Mr. F. Johnson, displayed his loyalty to his native land on Monday by flying the flag of Denmark in honor of the Royal wedding at Ottawa.

Prayer of Our Ancestors Before Modern Science Taught Us How to End Colds.

Watery eyes, aching bones, sniffling nose, and sluggish liver—this is the season for colds and Grippe.

Your grandfather used to simply try to bear it and wait for better weather. He would plead with the poet—"Come Gentle Spring". Now we know that colds are too dangerous to let them run their course.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup will make your liver work again. When active, the liver filters all the blood every fifteen minutes. This gives the blood a chance to fight the germs of colds.

Try it tonight! Just a spoonful after the next few meals, and tell others what a big difference it makes in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists will return the small cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by

HOW VITAL NERVE FORCE WINS THE JOYS OF LIFE

It Keeps Our Bodies Filled With Energy and Rekindles the Fires of Strength.

A boy wakes and hustles out of bed. He has had enough of bed; he's got to get out in the world and see what's going on—and make something go on. His long sweet sleep has renewed him, restored his vital energy. The only way to keep him in bed is to tie him there.

That boy is on the run when he hits the floor. It takes the whole family to hold him long enough to tie his shoes. That boy has what many men and women lose when they ought still to be young; the vital force and energy that makes a real woman with all the charm of full physical vigor.

That boy has all of his vital nerve force. It has not been impaired by illness, overwork, worry or mental strain—so he is filled with energy that will not be denied. In some men and women the vitality of youth lasts all their lives. They do not know what it means to have weakened or shattered nerves, to have under nourished bodies, to lack strength and purpose.

Such men and women are everlastingly joyous. In work or play, business or pleasure they succeed because of the vital force that is in them.

When our systems no longer respond to Nature's strength building processes we must look to our nerves if we wish to restore ourselves. Our nerves are the positive forces of our lives. We must nourish our nerves, feed them the elements they require. If we suffer from general physical weakness, poor appetite, impoverished blood and nervous depression; if we are too thin, pale, anaemic looking we should begin at once to rekindle the fires of strength.

Such men and women ought to go to their druggist's without delay and begin the home treatment of Wincarnis, the nerve restorative and blood builder. Wincarnis nourishes the nerve system. In twelve days see the improvement this home treatment brings. Wincarnis treatment costs less than ten cents a day. You will no longer worry over failing strength and exhausted nerves.

CONSERVATIVES DROP PROTECTION POLICIES

Re-elect Stanley Baldwin Leader at Monday's Conference on Sentiment of Loyalty and In Desire to Prevent Party Dissensions.

LONDON, Feb. 12. — The Conservative Party, defeated at the elections on its policy of protection, decided at a party conference Monday to drop protection and meet the challenge of the new Labor Government by going into opposition in the new House as nominally a united party, still loyal to its leader, Stanley Baldwin. Though Mr. Baldwin as Prime Minister led his administration to defeat, he was unanimously re-elected leader of his party and was thus given another chance.

Strong efforts were made by a large section of the party and a powerful body of the Conservative press to choose another leader, but without avail. The reason to retain Mr. Baldwin, however, seems to have been based purely on a sentiment of loyalty and a desire to avoid dissensions in the party councils at a critical period.

Mr. Baldwin, in his speech of acceptance, gave his party some wholesome advice on its future conduct and policy, declaring that its enemies of the future were not the Liberals, who were moribund, but the Laborites, who were very much alive.

Improve Conditions.

"Unless we can show similar vitality," he said, "we shall be unable to conquer. We are not going to beat the Socialist Party by a policy of negation and tranquility. The Socialist party has its support from the type of man who gives all his strength in an attempt to bring about better conditions for the people. We want a similar spirit in the Conservative Party.

"Just as in the Middle Ages the medieval church was the only avenue whereby men in the lowest order of the social scale could rise into power, so now the Labor Party is looked to as the one organization through which the man with brains and energy in the lower orders hopes to rise gradually through their municipal services and their political services into Parliament and into the Cabinet. Until we devise a similar avenue on our side, we are fighting with one hand behind our backs."

The former Prime Minister's speech was throughout a plea for a new spirit in the Conservative Party to match the zeal and sincerity in the Labor rank sand provide a way for energetic men to climb to power.

Reassembles To-day.

Parliament reassembles to-day without ceremony, and the Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is expected to occupy two hours in his exposition of the Government's policy.

Mr. MacDonald had an audience of half an hour with the King at Buckingham Palace yesterday, acquainting His Majesty with the final arrangements for the coming session, and will preside at a cabinet meeting before the opening session of the House. Many alleged forecasts of his speech are printed, but all are based on mere assumption, the general idea being that it will deal mostly with foreign affairs.

It is reported that the Government is resolved to give full support to the Health Minister, John Wheatley, in his action in allowing the Poplar guardians a free hand in the distribution of relief for the unemployed. Even if defeated by a combination of the Liberals and Conservatives on this question, the government will not consider the vote as one of non-confidence, involving its resignation.

AN AWFUL ATTACK OF PIMPLES ALL OVER HIS FACE

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes:—"A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

M. Candace declares the question is a momentous one for the French West Indies and begs the Premier to make a prompt dcision.

SUN LIFE COMPANY HAD A GOOD YEAR

Annual Meeting of the Company Indicates Year of Progress.

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—A series of staggering figures is the only manner in which to describe the world wide activities of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

The annual statement of this great Canadian company, read at the 53rd annual meeting held here at the Head Office, with President T. B. Macaulay in the chair, shows the organization to have added strength to strength at all the vital points of its great international business, making the greatest advance since it began business in 1871.

The day is not far off when one billion dollars of life insurance will be in force with the Sun Life. This development is not due to chance, but to efficient organization, method, adaptability, and the constant effort of forward looking minds.

The annual report for 1923 shows well maintained large scale progress, the Sun Life upholding its position as the premier Life Assurance Company in the British Empire.

Every year the same story is told. The figures are impressive, progress continues, and the company's own wonderful records of the past are eclipsed. This is however, one difference every year....the figures become mightier for one begins to dwell exceedingly close to the billion dollar mark.

Leaders of the financial world here thought the assets of the Sun Life would approach two hundred millions at the end of 1923, but the annual report shows total assets to be nearly two hundred and ten millions. This is an increase for the year of $35,168,454.

Assurances issued and paid for in cash during the year 1923 amounted to $107,391,255, bringing the total assurance in force to $703,765,243.

The total surplus over all liabilities and capital now amounts to $17,872,868, an increase of $3,603,447 over last year. The cash income for the year was $46,965,639 an increase over 1922 of $10,714,317.

Profits paid or allotted to policyholders during the year totalled $4,417,068.

MANY FEATURES AT OMEMEE CARNIVAL

Twice Postponed on Account of Bad Weather, It Was Well Favored on Saturday Night.

OMEMEE, February 12. — An ideal night, a good sheet of ice which was well lighted, a throng of merry-makers in fancy and comic costumes, combined with a huge crowd of spectators, are the ingredients which go towards making a good carnival.

Omemee was favoured with all of these on Saturday night, and the carnival was one of the best in many years. Owing to the inclement weather, the event had been postponed on two previous occasions

The costumes were many and varied, and the task of the judges was no light one.

The judges for the evening were Rev. J. A. Black, Rev. E. W. Rowland, and Mr. M. Sherin.

Among the novelties on the list of sports was a tug-of-war on skates and a shovel race. The latter, which had many contestants, was very interesting, those entering having to take a boy on the shovel, whose duty it was to hang on Needless to say, the juveniles gleaned a thrill or two out of the race.

Following is a list of the prize-winners:

Best dressed couple — Mrs. McBride and Vivian Parsons.

Best comic dressed couple — Mrs. P. Parsons and Mr. Morley Black.

Tug-of-war, Omemee and Emily—Won by Emily.

Double Race—Lady and Gent.—Miss Mabel Rowan and Mr. N. Clemett.

Girls' race, under 14 years—Lenore Jamieson.

Boys' race, under 14 years—Jamie Mackey

Keg race—Noble Clemett.

Three-legged race—O. Finley, R. Corneil.

Shovel race—Thomas Rowan.

FRENCH MEASURE DRAGGING ALONG

Obstruction Continues to Fiscal Bill—Five Amendments Defeated By Usual Division.

PARIS, February 12 (Canadian Press). — Systematic obstruction by the Opposition to the Government's fiscal measures was continued on Monday when the Chamber of Deputies took up Article 2, providing that no new functionaries should be engaged nor new public offices created during 1924.

During the afternoon six amendments to the article were moved, five of which the Government opposed, making the vote one of condence.

These five were defeated by votes showing the usual division of the past fortnight—300 odd for the Government and something over 200 against it.

The discussion continued to drag along.

Premier Poincare, showing the effects of his indisposition of the past few days, remained in the Chamber only five minutes at beganning of the session, returning for a similar period about six o'clock.

DARTFORD METHODIST CHURCH CONGREGATION REVIEW THEIR HISTORY

Fortieth Anniversary Services Recalled Pioneer Days of Methodism in Percy Township—Forty-Two Members Who Helped in Foundation and Assisted at the Dedication Present.

MEMORABLE SERVICE

WARKWORTH, Feb. 12.—A service was held in the Dartford Methodist church on Sunday, Feb. 3rd, at 2 p.m., which will linger in the memory of those present for many years. The occasion was the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the dedication of the present church. About two hundred and fifty persons were present.

The lesson chosen by the pastor, Rev. S. A. Kemp, was from the book of Deuteronomy, chapter 8, and the text from Deuteronomy, chapter 2, verse 7—"For the Lord thy God hath blessed thee in all the works of thy hand: He knoweth thy walking through this great wilderness: these forty years the Lord thy God hath been with thee; thou hast lacked nothing."

The hymns were all the familiar and favorite ones of half a century ago, and the choir, selected from the old school, sang some of the old Voluntaries, Mrs. Ezra Darling, a former organist, acting for the occasion.

Several historic papers and reminiscent addresses were given by the following gentlemen: P. S. Ewing, R. Honey, A. H. Atkinson, B. Hopkins, F. Denike, N. Hardy, E. Darling, W. Losie, Geo. Hilson Sr., Geo. McCleary, E. Hopkins, Thos. Allen, Jno. Allen, Jas. McVety and Jas. McCracken, while Mrs. Minnie Atkinson gave an account of the W.M.S. work during the years and Mrs. Adam Smith a beautiful and helpful paper on past efforts and present ideals for future. Just before the benediction was pronounced the pastor asked all who were present at the dedication of the church to arise that they might be counted and forty-two persons stood to their feet as a part of the congregation of 1884.

At the close of the service the choir continued in their places and sang, 'God be with you till we meet again,' while the many who had returned for the occasion were shaking hands and chatting in little groups over some of the experiences they had shared as they mingled in the joys and sorrows of life many years ago.

Anniversary Social

On Monday evening, Feb. 4th, an old-fashioned tea was served by the ladies in the Copperthwaite Hall, and in spite of the storm that blocked the roads, and a very dark night, a large gathering assembled to close the event in a fitting fashion.

Revs. E. Caffley and Geo. Hammond were present and took part in the programme. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Nelson Hardy and to Miss Lillie Copperthwaite for their efficient and valued service as historians and to Mr. Clare Copperthwaite for the free use of his hall, and a historic and intensely interesting event was concluded by singing, "Let the lower lights be burning."

Historical Review

The historical sketch as given by those whose names were previously mentioned, is as follows:

In 1882 the first services were held in Dartford in a little old schoolhouse a short distance from where the present church now stands. In this school-house Wesleyan, Episcopal and English church services were held and Rev. Martin from Norham, Rev. Buchanan of Warkworth, and Rev. McCleary of Hastings, preached. The building only furnished a few seats and slabs were carried in on Sunday in order to make enough seats to accommodate the people. The need of a church was suggested by Rev. Buchanan and immediately a committee was appointed to discuss the problem which seemed a very big undertaking.

Finally the committee decided to undertake the work. Everyone went to work with a will, some promising shingles, some lumber, some labor. All seemed anxious to do something toward the new church. The contract for the carpentry work was let to the late Mr. A. Copperthwaite and the late Josiah Phillips, and the mason work was let to Mr. Adam Smith and the late W. Alpheic. The sheds were built first in order to have a place to store the lumber.

The outside work being completed the inside work was then commenced. The pulpit and communion rail were designed by Rev. Buchanan and the late Mr. A. Copperthwaite very skillfully carved them.

The clock was presented by the late Alex. M. Hamilton, the centrepiece by the late Mr. W. Alpheic, the chandelier by Mr. Peters, the hymn book by D. Ewing and the large Bible that is still in use was presented by Miss Elizabeth Ewing.

In 1883 the work on the church still continued under the capable management of the building committee.

Church Dedicated

On Jan. 20th, 1884, the church was dedicated, although not quite completed. Jan. 27th the congregation returned to the little school house for services until the church was completed by Feb. 3rd.

The services on Sunday were followed by a tea-meeting Monday evening and a social on Tuesday evening. At this social a presentation was made to the late A. Copperthwaite, who would only accept it on condition that he be allowed to return it to help pay for an organ which he thought was needed.

After the collections, donations and funds from the tea-meeting and social were summed up the debt was entirely wiped out.

The officiating ministers for that Sunday were Rev. Buchanan and Rev. Martin.

The Warkworth choir, under the leadership of Dr. Mallory, took charge of the music both Sunday and Monday. The chairman for the tea-meeting was the late Dr. N. D. Richards. At this tea-meeting Rev. Lewis, of Hastings, was present.

As soon as possible a choir was organized and Mr. Ambrose Atkinson was chosen leader, who acted as such for twenty-four years and since that time Mrs. Minnie Atkinson has been leader.

In the forty years there have been eight organists, namely, Amira Massey, Jennie Boyce, Bina Broadworth, Mrs. Ed. Potter, Carrie Atkinson, Mable Allen, Mable Honey and Lillian Rennells, who is the organist at the present time. Mrs. Ed. Potter being the only one deceased.

Fourteen Pastors

There have been fourteen ministers since the dedication of Dartford church which was united with Warkworth, making it much stronger: Rev. Wm. Burns, Rev. C. L. Thompson, Rev. J. C. Wilson, Rev. Jas. McFarlane, Rev. J. W. Totten, Rev. Samuel McCauley, Rev. C. W. McCauley, Rev. C. W. Barrett, Rev. Wm. Johnston, Rev. W. D. Harrison, Rev. J. G. Lewis, Rev. F. H. Howard, Rev. J. R. Butler and Rev. S. A. Kemp, the present minister. The Sunday School work was touched upon as being a part of the church work and the report was both interesting and instructive.

Women's Missionary Society

The work done by the W.M.S. since the Dartford Auxiliary was organized in 1892 by Mrs. Rev. J. C. Wilson. The officers were: President, Mrs. Joseph Bryce; Vice-president, Miss Carrie Atkinson; Rec. secretary, Miss Lily Copperthwaite; treasurer, Mrs. H. A. White; corresponding secretary, Miss Delia Massey.

In the first year, 1892-93, there were nineteen members and thirty-nine dollars was sent to the Branch Treasury.

Last year, 1922-23, there were two Honorary members, twenty-two annual and sixteen life members, and one hundred and eighty-four dollars was sent to the Branch Treasury.

During the years this auxiliary has sent nineteen hundred dollars to the Branch Treasury.

Of the first nineteen members, thirteen are still living, but the auxiliary has lost, through death, fifteen members. Mrs. Boyce and Luella McLelland were the first life members. Mrs. Boyce has been president and Lilly Copperthwaite recording secretary ever since the auxiliary was organized. Miss Carrie Atkinson was the first delegate to the Branch meeting.

COTTAGES RENTED THROUGH CHAMBER

Service to Owners of Cottages Who Desire to Rent Them for Summer Rendered by the Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce receives communications from time to time requesting information relative to cottages for rent, and to be of service to these prospective visitors a record of cottages to rent has previously been instituted.

The Chamber believes that this service is the means of assuring a development of tourist traffic and also a large additional sum of money for distribution in the district.

All owners of summer cottages who are desirous of renting them for a period in the summer are invited to list them with the Chamber.

One communication from Pittsburgh this morning states that a party is desirous of securing a furnished cottage and boat on or near Buckhorn Lake for July, August, and September.

This service rendered by the Chamber of Commerce should be the means of making unused summer cottages revenue producers for the owners.

The Chamber does not guarantee to rent all cottages listed, but it is necessary to list as many as possible so as to satisfy the particular requirement of the visitors.

SAYS EMPLOYEES BROKE COMPANY'S REGULATION

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—Special—In a statement issued to-night Mr C. E. Davies, acting general manager of the Canadian National Telegraphs emphatically denied that the Canadian National Telegraphs have violated any agreement with commercial telegrahps union of America in suspension of employee as alleged by an article, which appeared in a Toronto evening newspaper to-day. "The case referred to," said Mr. Davies, "was that of the linemen, who had broken certain regulations of the company and had been suspended by the plant superintendent." The agreement between Telegraph Company and Union plainly states that if an employee is disciplined by a minor official of the company he has the right to appeal his case to the high executives of the company. In this instance appeal has not been entered by the man suspended. As far as the Canadian National Telegraphs are concerned all existing agreements between the company and the union have been most faithfully observed.

MANNING DOHERTY WILL SPEAK ON RECOGNITION

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Manning Doherty will speak on his motion for the recognition of the U. F. O. as the Opposition in the Legislature this afternoon. There will be no attempt at the outset from the Conservatives to take the position that the motion is out of order. If pressed vigorously by the U.F.O. it will probably be the subject of a considerable debate on the groups in Parliament and their official standings.

The precedent from Britain and the Canadian House of Commons will be brought up. Peter Heenan (Labor, Kenora) will have something to say about Labor representation. No indication has come from the Liberals as to what attitude they will assume.

A U.F.O. caucus at noon decided to present a petition to the Speaker with the names of all the members attached, demanding official recognition.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The Queen Alexandra Home and School Association had another enjoyable entertainment last evening. Mr. J. E. Smith made an excellent chairman. In a most interesting travel talk, Miss V. Watt gave those present, glimpses of London, Edinburgh, Ireland, Paris, Switzerland and Italy, with many bright remarks which will fix the scenes for ever on their memories. This was particularly fortunate, as the entrance class, Mr. Park's pupils, were present.

Mrs. R. W. Davidson arranged a splendid short programme. Two instrumental selections by Mrs. P. P. Westbye were greatly enjoyed, and Mrs. Curtain's beautiful voice charmed all with two lovely solos.

The Association showed their appreciation to Miss Watt by flowers, which were presented by Marjorie Lang. Mr. Harold Lang operated the lantern.

Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Holmes and her assistants.

The decorations were in honor of St. Valentine.

NEWS FROM CAVAN AND THE DISTRICT

CAVAN, Feb. 12. — Mr. T. A. Kelly arrived on Friday from an extended visit with his sister, Mrs. Etta Wright, Rockford, Illinois.

The service on Sunday morning at St. John's Church was withdrawn owing to the storm and the condition of the roads. Rev. Canon W. C. Allen started from Millbrook to conduct the service but had to turn back.

Cavan Sunday School did not hold a session on Sunday afternoon. Mr. R. Cuff was there to address the Tuxis Boys, but the weather and roads were not fit for people to attend.

In the evening Rev. R. T. Richards held a service but there were only about a dozen in attendance.

On Wednesday evening there will be a congregational meeting to discuss the matter of a lighting system for the church, the system now in use being almost worn out.

Mrs. Milligan was a visitor to Petedboro on Friday.

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Church, Ida, will be held in that church on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 13, at half-past 1 o'clock.

DRAMATIC CLUB MET ON FRIDAY

At the Home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Stinson of Millbrook -- Personals and Social Happenings.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. P. Stinson extended the hospitality of their home for a meeting of the dramatic club of the Methodist church on Friday evening, all members but one being in attendance.

A business meeting was first held the president, Mr. Stinson ,taking the chair, when Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Raper were welcomed as new members of the club, and arrangements were completed as far as possible for the play which the club has now under preparation. At the conclusion of the business session practice was held, and afterward the guests sat down to a well-laden table in the dining room, announcement having first been made that the date marked the thirteenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stinson's wedding day.

Congratulatory speeches were made, and a jolly social time enjoyed before a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

The dramatic club hope to have their play ready for the last week in March, or the first week in April.

Those present on Friday evening were: Rev. S. T. and Mrs. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Raper, Mrs. C. Garside, Mr. and Mrs. P. Stinson, Misses A. Hampton, Phyllis Richards, Pearl Burnham, Messrs. F. N. Alcorn and W. G. Hetherington. Mr. C. Garside was unable to attend.

At a well-attended meeting of the quarterly board of the Methodist church held at the parsonage this week, the pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker, was given an unanimous invitation to remain for another year. Mr. Tucker is now serving his fifth year on the circuit, and has asked for time to consider before accepting the invitation.

A meeting of the directors of the Farmer's Club was held in the town hall last week for the purpose of appointing a weighmaster to officiate at the farmer's scales opposite the stockyards at the station. W. Wilkinson was offered, and has accepted, the appointment. H. A. Elson, president of the Farmers' Club, was chairman at the meeting, other members being H. Hubbeard, Milton Fallis, T. W. McCamus and O. Larmer. No stated salary is attached to the appointment, the weighmaster receiving a commission on the work done.

The Canadian Girls in Training group of Grace Presbyterian church held a recreation evening in the Armouries this week when a jolly time was enjoyed with games, physical culture, etc. Afterward adjournment was made to the church base ment where a substantial supper was done full justice to, the happy, healthy exercise making appetites that caused the abundant supply of good "eats" to disappear rapidly. Miss Anna Russell is the leader of the group. About thirty were in attendance.

The "Sunshine" mission band of the Methodist church will hold its first meeting since the New Year on Wednesday, February 13th, a "Valentine Social" being the form the evening will take. A good programme will be provided and contests and games suitable to the occasion are being arranged for. The meeting will be held in the basement of the church, the proceeds helping to make up the thirty dollars which the Band sends annually for the upkeep of the "Millbrook Sunshine" cot in the Woman's Hospital at Chentu, West China. Mrs. B. R. Raper is the superintendent of the Mission Band.

A very jolly evening is being looked forward to on Friday, February 15th, when a concert and basket social under the auspices of Fairview school, 4th Line, Cavan (Miss L. E. Stutt, teacher), will be held in the community hall, Centreville. Following the usual custom, the ladies will provide supper, each one being responsible for a daintily-trimmed and well-filled basket. Miss Stutt is preparing a good programme. The gentlemen will pay the usual admission fee.

Miss Gertrude Clarry, graduate nurse of New York, is holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Clarry. Miss Blanche Clarry, who has been at home for some months, has returned to New York.

Mrs. J. T. V. May, of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Burnham.

Mrs. Jas. Dawson, who has been the guest of Mrs. E. S. Burnham for the past month, went to Peterboro on Saturday and will make an extended visit with her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Perrin, and other friends.

Miss Helen Needler, of Toronto, who has been the guest of her aunt, Miss Etta Needler, for the past week, left on Saturday for Cobourg where she will visit her aunts, the Misses Roddick. Mrs. C. Needler is also visiting her sisters at Cobourg.

Mrs. John Walsh, of Oklahoma, U. S., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Fallis, Fallis Line.

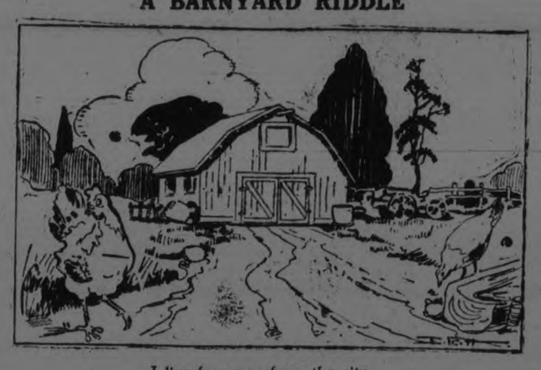
A. J. Fallis, M.P.P. is in Toronto attending the sessions of the Provincial Legislature, having his first experience in the House as the representative of the riding of East Durham.

Miss Irene Davidson, of Campbellford, is spending the week-end with Miss Jennie Fredericks.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A BARNYARD RIDDLE



I live far away from the city.

"Here comes the Riddle Lady," cried Humpty Dumpty. "Make way everybody!"

Nancy and Nick waved their handkerchiefs and Little Boy Blue blew his horn in greeting.

"How do you do, everybody," called the Riddle Lady cheerily as she stepped out of her coach. "As the riddle today is long, I'll begin at once so you will have more time to guess. Boy Blue, I have an idea that you may get the prize. Now think hard!" And she began:

"I live far away from the city,
The country's the place for me.
So please do not think it's a pity,
For I'm happy as happy can be.
(I laugh and I laugh at the cute little pigs,
And their wee funny tails like whirligigs.)

"I'm really a very hard worker,
Though I may seem lazy to you,
But I'm not a bit of a shirker,
There's no very much work to do.
(I chuckle and laugh when the ducks go 'quack,'
And wiggle their tails so funny in back.)

"My shoulders are broad and lusty,
I carry just tons of hay,
And to show you that I am trusty,
I have bushels of oats stored away.
(Did you ever see a brand-new little calf?
They're the funniest things, they would make you laugh!)

"My hay-mows are roomy and quiet,
So the hens come to me to lay eggs.
But the sillies do make such a riot
The minute they get on their legs!
(But the chicks! Oh, la, they're like powder puffs!
They would simply be perfect for fairy muffs!)

"In winter the horses and cattle
Stand patiently still in my stalls,
While outside the winds roar and rattle,
And the stinging snow drifts as it falls.
(And I do feel like patting the huddling sheep,
Dear things, they are dreaming of spring in their sleep!)

"Why, I wouldn't live in te city,
With its hubbub and houses and cars,
For the country is ten times as pretty,
And you've room to look up at the stars.
(Oh, Mrs. Sheep's funny, so is cross Mr. Ram,
But the cutest of all is a new little lamb.)"

BACK TO SCHOOL GO TELEPHONE MEN!

1. Class of linemen being instructed in actual practice.
2. Reproduction of various types of wall and floor construction.
3. Class in lecture room.

So feeble is the electric current which carries the human voice over distances varying from a few yards to thousands of miles that only by the highest type of construction can good transmission be ensured.

The high quality of transmission of the voice over the telephone which users enjoy today is the result of painstaking study, exhaustive research and careful training applied to construction methods.

The extent to which the telephone company's efforts are carried may be seen from the illustrations above.

At what are known as "Plant Schools," actual conditions are reproduced and a course of intensive training for his particular part of the work is given to every employee. Lectures are supplemented by actual practice.

In the larger illustration a class of linemen may be seen learning the fine points of out-side line construction. Starting from the bare pole each class erects the complete structure seen in the illustration. What may seem the simple task of attaching ordinary copper wire to a glass insulator is carried out with as great accuracy, care and attention to detail as with the mounting of the main spring of a watch.

In the lower picture will be seen a class in the lecture room being instructed in the intricacies of wiring an ordinary telephone. The other illustration shows the means taken to instruct installers as to the best methods to be used when working on the premises of a subscriber.

Various types of floor and wall construction are reproduced — solid brick, brick veneer, tile and concrete block or frame walls. So when a telephone man comes to your house and artfully conceals the wires and all traces of his work without damaging any part of the interior, you will know that his school training has been effective.

By means such as these there has been restored to a most remarkable degree the pride of the artisan in his work. Each man leaving the school goes out imbued with the idea that even the smallest detail of his work has a significance in the building up of the good service of communication which is an every day feature of a business world's day.

SPITITUAL LONELINESS

The nearer a man lives to God the farther does he get away in spirit from man and a feeling of intense loneliness will sometimes strike the heart as it did the heart of Elijah when he said: "I only, am left and they seek my life to destroy it," as it struck too the heart of the Saviour in Gethsemane, when even His own whom He had taken such pains with and loved so well, did not realize the awful darkness which was settling upon Him and the Apostle Paul had to say, after a life of great labor and sacrifice, "At my first trial no man stood with me, but all men forsook me. I pray God that it will not be laid to their charge."

LUXURY

Genius is forever busy devising ways to extract money from the wealthy. Stores display a leather case, holding a dozen clothes-pins of solid ivory. The price is $300.

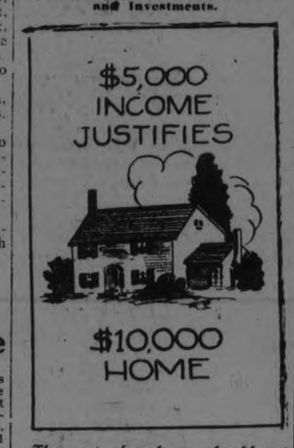
The nearest approach to this we ever saw was a $500 pocket memo pad in a jewel-crusted gold case. We wondered at the time if the ultimate own would have over 35 cents worth of thoughts to jot down.

PIN TUCKS.

Groups of pin tucks following the hem line and sometimes appearing half-way up the skirt are popular ways of trimming the flannel or silk sport skirt.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



The cost of a home should not exceed twice the amount of the assured annual income.

Prospective home buyers are often puzzled as to the amount they may invest safely in a home. The temptation to "buy too much" makes many a household burden itself with too large a debt. A reliable standard for measuring how much money a family should spend for a home is now available.

It has been ascertained by many authorities that about twice the amount of the assured annual income may be invested safely in a home. This means that when the income is $6,000 a year, the value of the house and lot should not exceed about $12,000. Any greater value will prolong the payment time unduly or prove too great a burden in case of sickness or disability.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WHY PEOPLE GO TO CHURCH.

Why some people go to church is shown by the questionnaire filled out by the attendants at an Aliston (Mass.) church; 30 per cent. of them say that they go from a sense of religious duty; 25 per cent. because of the music and 22 per cent because of the fellowship in church attendance; while four parishioners say they go from habit, one to get food for thought, one because he likes the organist, and one because he likes the pastor. How would these percentages apply to our local churchgoers?

GETTING AT THE SOURCE.

"My dear fellow," said the doctor gravely, "your rheumatism, as you call it, but which is really osteoarthritis, is caused by defective teeth. Science has proved that fact. Now, let me see your teeth."

"All right, doc," murmured his patient wearily, "hold out your hand."

Your Health

BEWARE OF DOPE

The money annually wasted on narcotism or what is commonly called dope in the United States is more than a billion dollars. A proportionately small amount of this vast sum would build and equip enough hospitals and sanitariums, camps and colonies to practically stamp out this monster evil.

By some strange twist of the imagination, the drug addict, dope fiend, snow bird or coke hound never seems to figure out the end of the perfect day or dream of delight in which he revels. In the meantime there is poverty and plenty of it, family breakups, loss of employment and physical degeneration.

As a physician who has seen many such persons in their almost hopeless situations I give you, who are still on the high road of health, a timely warning; beware of the first temptation in enlisting the aid of any narcotic that surcease from pain or sorrow. Headache mixtures are frequently made up of dangerous poisons, such as antipyrim, acetanilid and phenacetin. They readily affect the heart and circulation. Their use is a stepping-stone to more dope in order to quiet the already outraged nerves and glands.

Doctor Carleton Simon of New York City, in an address before the Eastern Homeopathic Medical Association, had this to say about substitutes for drugs in the near future:

"I look for the establishment by international agreement of chemical plants where non-habit-forming synthetical substances will be prepared. Chemists will prepare for us on a commercial basis synthetical substances which will be identical in their chemical construction and in their physical effects as are the products derived at present from narcotic plants, and thus make it unprofitable to cultivate the natural products. Cocaine and heroin will in a short time be universally made synthetically, as is indigo."

JOKER.

The farmer has heard a lot about exports of farm products being considerably more than before the war. Of course, the gain is a price hoax—represents increased prices, not increased tons, bushels and bales.

The worst joker of all is that, for the first time in our country's history, agricultural imports have been exceeding exports—by 388 million dollars in the last fiscal year.

SAVING THE CURTAIN.

Cover the end of your brass curtain rod with an old glove finger or a thimble and it will not catch in the net when you are running the rods through the hems.

Bronchitis Yields to Vicks

Dunedin Man Tells of Prompt Relief.

Mr. Leo Berrigan, Dunedin, Prince Edward Island, says: "During the winter months I was always troubled with bronchitis and tried many preparations to relieve the trouble. None were successful until I tried Vicks VapoRub. It gives relief in a very short time after application and I can honestly advise sufferers from bronchitis to use this salve."

By invitation of the manufacturers, fifty thousand families in Canada tried Vicks for cold troubles, the only condition being that they would report results. The above is just one of the many enthusiastic reports received.

Vicks VapoRub comes in salve form, and for chest colds, you just apply it over the throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases vapors that are inhaled all night long into the throat and lungs—Menthol, Camphor, Thyme, Eucalyptus and Turpentine.

Vicks is also absorbed through and stimulates the skin, aiding the vapors to relieve congestion. Usually colds go in one night and croup is commonly relieved in 15 minutes.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

POLICE ROBBED.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—A thief with a Raffles sense of humor found his —or her—way into the police dance at Bromley, in Kent, with devastating results to local prestige.

Two hundred people attended, and many of them next day went to the police station to report losses of jewellery, but some of the police who listened to their woes had to admit that they, too, had been victims

One policeman even lost a stickpin!

Most of the things taken were small and of no great value, but a hotel proprietor's wife lost a valuable diamond crescent brooch, and it was the posting of a notice offering a reward for this that revealed the danger of letting policemen dance, instead of acting as watchful wallflowers.

A RECONSTRUCTION CONFERENCE IS PROPOSED BY RAMSAY MacDONALD

Interesting Announcement Made at the Opening of the British Parliament This Afternoon.

POLICY OUTLINED

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(United Press)—Premier MacDonald announced in the House of Commons to-day that one of the first important proposals of the new Labor Government would be a world conference on reconstruction. In response to a question the Premier said that details of a memorial appealing for such a conference were now being considered by the Cabinet and "I am glad to report that the prospects are the best.

Replying to another question MacDonald expresed the hope that the Anglo-French negotiations in regard to the separatist movement in Germany would soon be satisfactorily concluded.

The Commons was crowded when the Labor ministers began handling routine questions fired from the floor. Among other interesting disclosures made by MacDonald was that the Government would have the salary of 5,000 pounds sterling paid to the Foreign Secretary so long as he combined this portfolio with his Premiership as now.

In making his first formal speech as directing chief of parliament, the Premier made it clear that Labor would maintain its control until ejected by positive and direct action of a majority in the Commons.

"The Labor Government," he said, "will go out only when the responsible members of either party, or any party, move a direct vote of lack of confidence, and that vote carries this body. We are going to pursue a policy of confidence on the part of the whole nation," MacDonald continued.

He explained that the action of Health Minister Wheatley in relieving officials of Poplar district from personal liability on account of overexpenditure, was no an indication that the government was going to encourage economic extravagance by other municipal bodies.

"We shall carry on the inheritance received from the king's speech," he said. "The housing problem will only be solved when decent homes are provided for the mass of workers at reasonable rates."

MacDonald, commenting on the fact that gilt-edged securities had improved since the advent of the Labor government, thanked those who had refused to play the part of panic mongers.

The fact that the Labourites are taking office without power did not diminish the interest in their accession, and all the available space in the House of Commons was filled by people anxious to see the representatives of the working class in the "seats of the mighty."

The Conservative chiefs transferred themselves to the front bench on the Speaker's left hand, where, notwithstanding that their Party is still considerably the most numerous in the House, they will act as the official Opposition.

Interesting to Parliamentary frequenters is the fact that "Tay Pay" O'Connor, Father of the House, today "crosses the floor" and sits on the ministerial side.

Hitherto, in accordance with tradition established by the Irish Nationalist Party, he had always sat with the Opposition, whatever Government was in power. But as Ireland is now an autonomous state, tradition need no longer be observed, and he is prepared to support the Labourites.

The Housing Problem.

"The Government's aim," he said, "in meeting the housing problem,was to build houses costing 500 pounds sterling with an average rental of 9 shillings a week."

Heretofore, he said, there had been mere nibbling at the problem of unemployment. "Two things must be secured," he said, "the first is work, the second is an effective income, provided by insurance schemes if work cannot be provided. We shall concentrate first on the restoration of trade, not relief.

Any scheme dealing with unemployment, must revive trade, and in the meantime give adequate maintenance to those out of work. The Government therefore proposes to speed up the trade facilities act by extending the periods over which export credits can be offered."

MacDonald characterized the recognition of Russia as a policy absolutely essential to a revival of fortrade.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

(This is the second and last article by William H. Henderson, a member of the British Parliament, on the task before the MacDonald Government. Mr. Henderson discusses the problem of the Anglo-French relations, which Premier MacDonald hopes to improve. Mr. Henderson's statements of particular interest in view of the assembling of the British Parliament to-day.)

(By William Henderson, Copyright 1924, by United News.)

LONDON, February 12 — The atmosphere in which the discussion of Anglo-French relations have been carried on during the last year has been far from satisfactory.

There has been lack of confidence and often lack of frankness. It was necessary that there should be a change in the atmosphere to permit friendly discussion, and when the Labour Government came into being, much depended on Premier MacDonald's first move. The reception accorded his personal letter to the French Prime Minister was highly gratifying.

Although the communication was in general tones and did not disclose any new information it was a diplomatic gesture of real value and importance because of the extremely favourable impression it made on the French people.

They have commented sympathetically on his obvious sincerity and freshness of mind, his openness and freedom from diplomatic shiftiness. They have generally welcomed his firm but friendly frankness.

Admirable alike in time and spirit, he has sought to lift future discussions above the exasperation and obstinacy that have prejudiced past attempts to reach an agreement on unsettled points between the two nations.

The key sentence of the Prime Minister's letter was the one in which he stated that there could be frankness without hostility, and that the interests of the two countries could be defended without the nations feeling enmity toward each other.

The British people are convinced that Premier MacDonald started out in the right spirit, and the only spirit that will lead to the establishment of genuine peace and security in Europe.

There are still many hurdles ahead, but the Prime Minister has surmounuted the first one in a way which has begotten the confidence and faith of his own people. His firmness and frankness will carry him well along the road to the goal he has in view.

Wives in Dispute.

Number 11 Downing Street, the snug mansion next door to the home of the Premier, is to be occupied by J. R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal in the Labour Government, and Mrs. Clynes, who as a young woman used to get up at 5 a.m. to go to her job in a Lancashire cotton mill, will be the mistress of the mansion.

The dispute between Mrs Clynes and Mrs. Philip Snowden as to who would occupy the house, has been settled, with a victory for Mrs. J. R. Clynes.

Mrs. Snowden had pointed out that the house owned by the Government, had frequently been occupied by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, which title her husband now holds.

But an agreement has now been reached, and all is harmony once more among the Labour wives.

Mrs. Clynes has surveyed her new home, which has been occupied by a string of titled leaders of the past, and finds it very nice, but "rather complicated," and the place lacks a sewing machine.

"Do you know, there is neither a sewing machine nor a piano there," she told a correspondent, adding, "of course, we shall take them when we move in."

She was impressed both by the size and number of the rooms, and also by the size of the kitchens which, she said, would "entail extra work."

Questioned about entertaining, Mrs. Clynes said she thought her family would live quietly.

SURE HAD HIS NUMBER.

A famous actor who repeatedly made farewell appearances announced another final tour.

"What will you play?" asked a friend.

"Something of Shakespeare," said the actor.

"Much Adieu About Nothing I suppose?" said the friend.—Exchange.

TRANSFORMED, THAT'S ALL!

The traveller had returned to his native village after being abroad 20 years. He stopped as he saw a little boy wheeling a small baby down the road.

"Ah, a new face, I see!"

"No, sir, it isn't," replied the boy, looking at the baby. "It's just been washed that's all!"—Exchange.

TODAY'S FOOL IS CONDEMNED WITH ANCIENT

Rev. J. T. Wardle Stafford Mentioned All Classes and Ages of Fools in Address in George Street Church.

GOOD AUDIENCE

"Fools, Ancient and Modern," was the title of an address given in George Street Methodist Church last evening before a good-sized and appreciative audience, by the Rev. J. T. Wardle Stafford, D.D., D.C.L., pastor of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Stafford has an interesting manner of address mild, suavely humorous, with an intensive type of thinking behind his utterances that brings to his speech the best thought of literary genius of many ages. His talk sparkled with apt quotations from writers, old and new.

The speaker declared that the human family may be divided into two classes; the wise and otherwise. Carlyle said that Great Britain consists of thirty millions of people, "mostly fools." Mrs. Poyser, in "Adam Bede,' expressed the same sentiment when she said that "women are all fools, but God meant us to match the men."

However, genius was often allied to innocent folly. It was Dr. Thomas Chalmers, one if the greatest of Scottish orators, who paused in the act of romping with his children, on hearing a pompous step on the stair, to say; 'Children, let us cease our nonsense. A fool is coming." The ill-mannered fool was the first in the speaker's list. "Good manners are founded on common sense and are like the skin. They are put on from within. It is only the artificial jady and gentleman who put off their Sunday manners in the home, making it not only a hall of liberty, but a hall of license. Every working man in Canada may be a true gentlemen, if he will learn to respect his better self. The first true gentleman in the world, the best man of all times, was a carpenter." The bad-tempered fool, "first cousin to the ill-mannered fool," came next. 'Wise anger is like a fire in the flint. There is much ado to get it out but once it is out, it is gone in a minute. Some people will flush with indignation when a wrong statement of their is corrected, and when the soap has been removed, and he towel eludes their vigilance, their indignation knows no bounds.'

The fool in society was next. The conceited fool came in for some satirical notice. "Those smart young lads who meet in their debating societies and settle all disputes, earth and dinvine. Oh, the hours I used to waste in the early days of my ministry in arguing with the skeptical young man whose skepticism, I found out, was really priggishness. I am speaking not of the honest doubter, who merits patient treatment, but of the dishonest doubter who is not worth powder and shot."

With regard to the chattering fool I know that here in Canada, you may not be afflicted to such an extent. I speak of my own country, where this fool with the loose tongue and the empty mind has one inexhaustible topic; himself; his character his excellence, his attainments, his relatives to the twentieth degree of consanguinity. He will weary you with a story of his disorders; his head, his breath, and his liver. The loquacious valetudinarian, Sir, is one of the scourges of modern society."

The fool who asks foolish questions at innappropriate moments, the gossiping fool, and the drinking fool, came in for notice. With regard to the latter, Dr. Stafford declared that the national folly of England was acknowledged to be the drinking fools "who place an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains."

"The perfect leveller is strong drink, that puts man beneath the feet of the dumb brute. In my own country, I have seen the drinking fool on the throne, on the bench, in the pulpit and in the ditch. I congratulate you here in Canada on the stand you are taking for the time at least, in the cause of temperance, and I believe that the example of this province in this respect may be of benefit to the whole world."

"There is no doubt about the great amount of secret drinking going on today in many countries and much of it is among women, caused, in many instances, by the urge of a do-nothing life. In one English county last year there were 5,000 women brought up on the charge of drunkenness."

With regard to the fool in business, there were two sorts, said the speaker, those who don't get on and those who do. For the latter, the evil lay not in getting on, but in geting uppish. The Lord intended the riches of the wealthy man to be used for the good of the world not to be stored up for his own pleasure and profit.

With regard to the former, to those who don't get on, much of the fault, in the speaker's opinion, lay in indolence especially among young men. "We are masters of circumstances. Out of the same materials, one man will build a temple, another a shack. Out of the same circumstances, one will wrest a magnificent success, and another will go down in the ruins of filure. He who conquers circumstance is he who has the will to do, he "who grapples with his evil star.' "

Reference was made to a sermon of John Wesley's on "The Use of Money," in which the sub-divisions were; "Get all you can. Save all you can. Give all you can." A modern expositior had said that the proverb; "The Lord loveth a hilarious giver," in the man who could go home singing after he had emptied his pockets into the collection plate. It had been said: "There are many good Samarians in the world, but unfortunately, they lack the oil and the tuppence."

Coming to the atheistic fool, Dr. Stafford, said that it was not the stupid ignorant man who proclaimed himself an atheist but the brutish, sensual man. The causes of this deviation are not mental. They are moral. The origin of the present-day atheisim is a negation of conduct, rather than a negation of creed. It lies in the heart that refuses to be deflected from its own sinful ends, and the Voice eternal comes down through the ages; "thou fool." Oh, this atheism of the heart is a terrible thing. Think of the thousands that have no room for God, no time for prayer, no place in their lives for meditation on things eternal. They are the slaves of society, drudges on the froth of civilization. Think of the women, some of them winsome and beautiful, who spends their days in search of pleasure, with no prayer to hallow their days no white-winged angels to companion their nights, no ear for music from other shores." Atheism is an act of the will, it is not an act of the reason. When the mind rises it forces the body to the knees. Epictetus said; "If I were a nightingale, I would sing like a nightingale. As I am a human being, it is my duty to praise God. I will obey it."

"The folly of the ages is summed up in the one sentence; The fool has said in his heart; there is no God."

A few words of hearty appreciation of the speaker's address were voiced for the audience by Mr. E. E. Ingall, and Rev. Mr. Young, who acted as chairman for the meeting added his own need of praise in a brief speech which was acknowledged in appropriate fashion by Dr. Stafford.

Yesterday afternoon, at George Street church, the visitor gave an address at a public gathering.

WATERWORKS ANNUAL REPORT

Distribution System

The extensions to the mains consisted of 4, 5 and 6-inch pipe, mostly in the outlying districts. There was also a 6-inch main laid on Morrow Street, outside the city under an agreement with the Council of the Township of North Monaghan.

On account of the proposed paving, the existing 5-inch main on Water Street from Antrim to Smith, was taken up and 8-inch laid in its place. Eventually the balance of the 5-inch pipe on Water Street will be relaid with 8-inch so as to give extra pressure in the centre of the city and reinforce the main on George Street.

Nine new hydrants were set, seven of these being placed on old mains in accordance with instructions of the city council.

One hundred and twenty new services were laid, 65 of these being off old mains; 32 services were relaid on Water Street on account of proposed paving, and 15 more for various reasons.

There were only four minor repairs to the mains, and 30 repairs to the services.

While the winter of 1922-1923 showed unusual uniform cold weather, yet it started so late that practically none of the water services were frozen, and the department experienced very little trouble from this source. We have also avoided much trouble for the future by lowering such services as have given us trouble in the past. Nearly all the services that were relaid on Water Street during the year were originally without sufficient cover and had been frozen every severe winter. There is no doubt that a continuance of this policy will be of great benefit and will eventually avoid all trouble from frost.

The paving of Hunter Street East necessitated the relaying of several services and the construction of valve chambers on all valves. George Street South had already been put in shape for paving and did not require much work.

Ten large fire service meters were set, and at present all such services which serve private mains on consumer's property are metered.

Main Dumping Station

The steam pump was used very little during the year and was made ready on five occasions for stand-by when ice troubles were expected.

The hydraulic pumps gave us no trouble and required nothing more than the ordinary attention.

Operation and Maintenance

The cost of operation and maintenance was distributed as follows:

Fixed Charges—(Interest and Sinking Fund)—60⅜ or 6.4 cts. per 1000 gals.

Pumping—6⅜ or 0.67 cts. per 1000 gals.

Distribution System—5⅜ or 0.65 cts. per 1000 gals.

Filtration Plant—14⅜ or 1.44 cts. per 1000 gals.

Supervision—15⅜ or 1.51 cts. per 1000 gals.

One hundred per cent. or 10.67 cts. per 1000 gals.

For comparison purposes it is stated that Chatham's cost was 10.9 cents per 1000 gallons. The net meter rates are:

24 cents per 1000 gallons
16.8 " " " "
9.6 " " " "

Pumpage

The total pumpage for the year was 1038 million gallons, which is 37 million gallons less than the previous year, and 127 million gallons less than in 1921.

This reduction is considerable, and is due principally to the various measures taken by the department for stopping leaks and waste, and to the comparatively mild winters with a corresponding less water being used to prevent freezing.

While the total consumption of water was less, the maximum rate of demand was 8¼ million gallons per day, which is higher than in any previous year. This occurred on August 6, on which day, the total pumpage was 4,290,000 gallons, which is also a record, exceeding any previous day's pumpage in the history of the department.

Filtration Plant

The filters have continued to deliver a safe and attractive water, and the various small troubles that have occurred in its operation have been ironed out.

The cost of operation has been reduced to about $1,000.00 per month, which is about $200.00 less than in 1922. The results are given in one of the attached tables.

The grounds surrounding the plant have been improved by planting and sodding and are looking much better

Recommendations

It is evident from our experience last summer that we should immediately proceed to lay the remaining portions of the large feeder main around the western part of the city.

During the time of greatest draught the present mains proved themselves inadequate.

At present we have a 14-inch main which ends at the Canadian Wollens factory on McDonnel Street, and there is a gap from this point to the 12-inch main at Weller and Monaghan Road.

There is about 1600 feet to be laid in this section at an estimated cost of $12,000.00, and if at all possible this work should be done during the coming season.

When this main is completed we will not have to carry such high pressures at the pump house, (and consequently in the centre of the city) in order to give sufficient pressures in the western and southern districts. This will mean a saving of water at the time when we can spare it the least.

It is also evident that we require additional pumping capacity at the main pump house. When the peak occurred last summer, if anything had happened to prevent the use of one of our hydraulic pumps, we would not have been able to give service in case of fire, without using the steam auxiliary.

The steam pump might be kept under steam so that it would be ready in case of emergency, but this would entail considerable expense for operation, and bring in other difficulties.

It appears that the best thing would be to install an electrically-driven unit of six million gallons per day capacity, which would act as a stand-by, and need not be used except in case of emergency.

If a synchronous motor were installed it might be of value to the electrical department for use in correcting the power factor.

The cost of such a unit would be about $10,000.00, and I would recommend to the commission that they proceed with the work in time to get the use of the pump this summer.

During the summer months, while the heavy draught was on, the filter plant had to be run for some days practically full time, in order to keep up with the demand. We may not soon experience such a dry summer, but is recommended that the sixth filter unit be completed, so that we will not be short of capacity when called on.

There were times last summer, when, if one of the filter beds had been put out of business, we would have had considerable difficulty in supplying enough water to meet the demand.

Plans have been prepared for a new office and workshop on the commission's property at Aylmer and Sherbrooke Streets, south of the new substation.

As the building now occupied on Hunter Street has been sold to another party, it will be necessary to proceed with this work as soon as spring opens up.

KILLED WHEN HE FELL FROM TAXI

Oshawa Man Struck His Head on Icy Pavement and Dies Few Minutes Later.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Jumping or falling out of a taxi cab on Danforth avenue at about 3.20 this morning, Edwin Mothersill, of Kendall avenue, Oshawa, struck his head on the icy pavement at Pape and Danforth avenues, and died almost instantly as the result of fractured skull. Coroner Graham has ordered an inquest on the body to-day.

According to the story told the police by Fred Jackson, the driver of the taxi, he was called to a restaurant on Queen street west at three o'clock this morning and there he met a party of four, two men and two women, whom he drove to Danforth avenue. Their names were given as Edwin Gallagher, Toronto, Edwin Mothersill, Oshawa, and Lillian Gage and Mary Marshall, of Toronto.

It is stated that while on Danforth avenue Mothersill got out to look up an address and entered into an argument with Jackson, refusing to pay his fare. Yielding to the persuasion of his companions he got back into the taxicab and the party returned west on Danforth. Reaching Pape, Jackson stated, Mothersill opened the door of the taxi and jumped out on to the street while the car was travelling at about twenty miles an hour.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not be without it. I have taken it before each of my children were born and afterwards, and find it a great help. Before my first baby was born I had shortness of breath and ringing in my ears. I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him what the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. FRED H. SMITH, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it may work in every respect effectually as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

Do You Find Shopping a Pleasure?

SOME folks do. They're the modern shoppers—the ones who know just what they want—how much to pay—exactly where they will find the right goods at the right prices.

They're the ones who realize the value—to them—of advertising. They make a practice of reading the advertisements in the newspapers. Sitting at ease in their homes, they formulate their shopping programs. They note the things that interest them particularly and plan to cut out waste motion, unnecessary steps and lost time.

Planned in this fashion, shopping loses its terrors. It no longer leaves you jazzy and jaded. It starts you off with a definite objective and brings you home with a feeling of something accomplished.

If you haven't been reading the advertisments, try out the method. It's a good one.

The advertisements are your good friends Cultivate them!

PATHETIC LAST VISIT OF T.P. TO "DIVINE SARAH"

Great Actress Never Forgot, Though She Forgave, Irish Journalist's Disloyalty to Her Sovereign Person

IT was some years after T. P. O'Connor in his young days saw Sarah Bernhardt that he met her personally for the first time. "This meeting had an unfortunate sequel," he writes in T.P.'s and Cassell's Weekly.

"I had asked her to come and have tea on the terrace of the House of Commons, and fixed half-past four as the hour. But on the morning of the day another lady, who was an American, begged me to give herself and her little daughter an opportunity of seeing the Henley regatta.

Sarah Bernhardt

"I had my misgivings, but I thought I could get the two events into the same day. I went off to Henley, and, of course, every misfortune happened to me. The trains were overcrowded and I had to see them pass one after the other for more than half an hour before I could find a place, and then I couldn't get a cab for some time.

"The final upshot was that when I reached the House of Commons a few minutes after the appointed hour—I had calculated that she would be as usual late by about forty minutes—I found the diva had arrived exactly on time, and that not finding me there to receive her had gone off in high dudgeon, refusing every attempt of my good-natured colleagues to entertain her. For a long time she never met me without recalling to me this act of disloyalty to her sovereign person. But we became reconciled.

"The last time that I saw her had a very pathetic interest. It was during the great war and we were both in New York. It was after she had undergone the terrible operation which had deprived her of one of her legs. She had gone through a terrible play throughout which she sat on a sofa, and when she stood up now and then, she had to keep herself erect by holding on to the sofa. It was dreadful.

"M. Franklin Bouillon, the French deputy, was with me at the theatre. We went into her dressing-room to see her after the performance. I felt so moved that I kissed both her hands in sympathy, and with difficulty could I restrain my feelings at seeing all that glory ending in all this misery."

Any Rich Canadian Girl For An Austrian Prince?

Duchess of Bourbon and Parma Has Poor Nephew Who'd Let Himself Go for Cash

"HELLO, hello, is this the royal palace?" "Yes," replied a low, agreeable voice; "whom do you wish to speak to?" "I wish to get a message through to the King. If you can do so, I will pay you well for it." "That won't be necessary," says the voice; this time a voice with a smile. "This is the King speaking."

The story is told of King Alfonso of Spain by Frederick L. Collins in "This King Business: Intimate Accounts of Royalty as a Going Concern."

King Alfonso is still the appealing little boy in Fauntleroy velvets, says Mr. Collins, who once upset many a court ceremony by laughing at the Chinese minister and the dirty envoy from Santo Domingo.

Many a loyal Spaniard remembers that embarrassing moment in the church of the Antocha, when a shrill, small voice from the royal balcony called out to the bishop, who was holding forth in the pulpit, that he, the bishop, should stop talking and be quiet because it was wrong to make a noise in church.

Mr. Collins, who has covered all Europe as a journalist since the end of the war, records a delightful tragi-comedy:

An American journalist, residing temporarily in Vienna, was roused from his pillow at seven o'clock one cold winter morning by a ring on his telephone.....A woman's voice answered him.

"Is this Mr. ——?"

"Yes."

"Well, this is the Duchess of Bourbon and Parma." The journalist's trepidation visibly increased, for they had a nasty little way in Austria-Hungary of apprehending undesirable citizens and dropping them unceremoniously in the Danube. "You don't know me, but you do know my nephew, Francis Joseph of Braganza .....Well, Francis is a sort of poor relation of mine, and I was wondering if you knew any rich American girl who might be willing to marry him. I got to thinking about it in the night, and I couldn't wait to ask you."

To Queen Marie of Rumania the author ascribes "personality and pep":

Marie is one of the best women chauffeurs in Europe. Seated at the wheel of her own sport car, she winds in and out through the narrow, crowded streets of her capital city. With her head held high, she is all that a modern Queen should be.

At the corners—and there are many of them—she signals according to the accepted rules of the road, extending her graceful arm as if she were under the eye of a Fifth avenue traffic policeman. And though the populace steps a little more lively than usual to give her the right of way, she always drives—in the city at least—"like a lady."

HOTBED OF GOSSIP

In this connection, charming Dorothy Gish tells a delightful little story.

A well-known "movie" actress, still young, but married and the mother of two fine children, was approached by another, a notorious scandal-monger.

"Tell me," she said, "did you ever catch your husband flirting?"

"Yes, once," answered the young woman.

The gossip's eyes widened with interest.

"What did you do?" she asked.

"Married him."

England's Youngest Ambasador

"ISN'T Peter the lucky kid?" they are saying in New York. And Peter, with the poise of Admiral Beatty, sets his hat at the admiral's pitch. Peter Rees, the fourteen-year-old page boy at the London Hippodrome, sailed for America with 27 letters to deliver to American notables, including President Coolidge, about the opening of the British Empire exhibition this year. At his departure the girls of the chorus all came down to the ship and waited in line to kiss him. His life was insured for $12,000, and, while in New York, he stays at the Ritz Carlton hotel in state.

Charity Bans Bare Backs, Farrar Annoys a Church

Atlanta Cannot Forget the Horror of Famous Prima Donna's Shoulder-Revealing Performance

MISS GERALDINE FARRAR has been banned in Georgia because she has a beautiful back and likes to show it. In fear that she will repeat her shoulder-revealing performance of three years ago, the Wesleyans of Atlanta, Georgia, have refused to let her appear to help their charities.

In New York the sensation of Geraldine's exhibition—she stripped to the waist in Leoncavallo's "Zaza"—is a thing of dim memory. But Atlanta cannot forget the horror, and fears a repetition.

Miss Farrar was to appear at the Wesley Memorial church in a charity concert. The advance sale of seats was enormous. Suddenly the elders of the church, remembering the bare back in New York, raised a forbidding hand. There should be no concert if Miss Farrar appeared.

Miss Farrar's manager departed for Atlanta immediately, breathing threats of litigation on the ground that the church could not break its contract. The church, however, forestalled him by transferring the pastor to a smaller parish, thereby voiding the contract.

Although the church won the round, the stage expects to have something more to say in the matter. Miss Farrar herself is saying nothing. She might have urged that although she did undress to her waist to give color to her portrayal of a Paris music hall actress in her dressing room, she kept her back turned to the audience. She might also have pointed out that the ordinary backless gown reveals its wearer just as frankly.

Clemenceau drinks either water or milk with his meals. He sleeps with the window wide open. His bath is neither hot nor cold—just lukewarm.

According to his friends the "Tiger" is in better physical shape now than at any period since he was wounded by a fanatic during the peace conference.

His doctor examines him once a month, and on the last examination reported that "Monsieur Clemenceau's heart, lungs and digestive apparatus are as fit as if he were fifty years younger. In fact, he is in better health than he was ten years ago."

To a daring friend who demanded whether he was not thinking of an operation for gland transfer "rejuvenation," the "Tiger" replied, caustically:

"You need it more than I, my friend."

The friend was 40 years of age.

Weird Look Came Over Actor's Face When Zangwill Walked on Stage

Author With Only a Few Minutes to Catch Train Had to Conduct Business Before He Left—Presented Himself With a Telegram—Audience Roared to See Him Driven Off With Mock Kicks — Indignant Letters Demanded Why the Best Part of the Show Was Omitted Next Night.

ISRAEL ZANGWILL, the noted Jewish playwright who has recanted his former Zionism and now defines a Zionist as "a man who pays another man to live in Palestine," proved himself during his recent visit to Toronto an extraordinarily witty and prolific raconteur. At a literary gathering, for a solid hour, anecdote after anecdote poured from his lips as water flows from a tap

One of his best stories was about Beerbohm Tree. This famous Shakespearian actor was accustomed to revise Shakespeare as freely as though he himself had written the plays. But when he attempted to apply the same cavalier treatment to Zangwill he caught a Tartar.

Israel Zangwill

"It was at the first rehearsal of one of my plays," said Zangwill. "Tree stood on the stage with my manuscript clutched tightly in his hand as if it were a personal possession. After a minute or two his life-long mania for revision took hold of him, and he wanted to make a correction. I listened to what he had to say, and point-blank refused.

"Soon he had another suggestion for a change. Again I refused. This went on several times, and his company began to titter. This infuriated him, for he was accustomed to receive well nigh royal honors from them. They were almost servile to him and laughed at his every joke, and at times he was really witty.

"Finally he could no longer stand being forced to bow to the will of a living author, and burst out, 'Thank God! Shakespeare at any rate is dead.'"

Zangwill also spoke of Bernard Shaw. He was present at the first night of his first play when Shaw in his curtain speech uttered his famous jest in reply to a galleryite, who hissed. "I agree with you, my friend, but you and I are in a hopeless minority."

"I think," said Zangwill, "that Shaw will be remembered in history as the Doctor Johnson of this century. He has the same truculence and fondness for his own opinion. He is really frightfully conceited. He never will accept any suggestion of the least alteration in his plays.

"Once Henry Arthur Jones, a dramatist of great stage experience, whose opinion should have carried some weight even with Shaw, told him that he felt the third act in one of his plays a little draggy.

"'That might very well be the case with an act in one of your plays,' replied Shaw insolently, 'but never with an act in one of mine.'

"In short, Shaw was just like a fellow Irishman, Oscar Wilde, who answered a requisition for a slight amendment in one of his plays by saying, 'Who am I that I should meddle with a masterpiece?'"

Only once had Zangwill ever heard of Shaw's blushing. That was when he read James Joyce's Ulysses, a work with passages of verbal rawness unknown in English literature since the 18th century translation of Rabelais. Dean Swift, who wrote Gulliver's Travels, also calls a spade a spade. "Isn't Joyce a little like Swift?' said Zangwill. "Oh, he's much too swift," replied Shaw.

Zangwill recalled that W. S. Gilbert had told him that in a long life on the stage he had only known three intelligent actors. "Their genius, and they have a genius," said the author of "Merely Mary Anne," "lies rather in sensibility than in sensibleness. I myself have only known one grateful actor. And she was an actress."

He told tales of his own appearances before the footlights. To get copyright in England it had formerly been necessary to have at least one public performance of a play. For this purpose even tragedies were turned into farces. A play bill had to be posted in front of the theatre, but an admission price of several guineas was charged. The performance took place at some unusual hour and the performers merely read fragments of their parts.

Once Zangwill took part in one of these farces, together with Conan Doyle and Hall Caine. Soon Hall Caine grew weary of the jest, and, after a tirade against the stupidity of the law, walked off the stage. The others followed suit, and, said Zangwill, "I had to play all the parts myself."

He made, however, one appearance on a real stage. It was at Birmingham. He had only a few minutes to catch a train, but found it necessary to see a certain actor on a very urgent matter. He went to the theatre. The actor was on stage.

"I took a telegram," said Zangwill, "and boldly went on. When he saw me, an extraordinary look came over his face. But he was equal to the occasion. He took my telegram. We transacted our business in whispers, and then he drove me off with mock kicks. The audience roared and I understand that I made a great hit. The management received several indignant letters asking why my extemporized part was omitted from subsequent performances."

MRS. ASQUITH'S BED QUILTS

MRS. ASQUITH, whose son, Master Anthony Asquith, came of age this month, entertains every week end at The Wharf, Sutton Courtney, her country home, which her butler once informed her in confidence looked like an institution.

Mrs. Asquith, always original, has discovered an artistic way of covering the beds in her home. Richly embroidered Spanish shawls, with long fringes, are used instead of bed quilts.

A smaller house in the grounds called The Mill is reserved for the children who come to stay, and it is here that Mr. Anthony Asquith studies music.

Mrs. Starr Sent Bowell Enormous Hornet's Nest

Housekeeper Thought It Was an Infernal Machine—Bowell Hung It Over His Desk

IT was in January, 1896, that the staggering blow of the resignation of seven members of his cabinet on the eve of the general election crushed Sir Mackenzie Bowell's government and led to the defeat of the Conservative party in Canada. The seven whom the premier referred to when he said that he had been living in a nest of traitors were: Hon. Messrs. Foster, Haggard, Ives, Montague, Dickey, Wood and Sir Charles Tupper. The whole incident has been revived by the reminiscences of J. L. Payne, who was not only secretary to the premier but to many other Canadian politicians.

An interesting confession is now made by Mrs. Starr, the widow of the late Rev. John R. Starr, founder of the juvenile court of Toronto, of how she sent a hornet's nest to the premier.

"With reference to a very interesting article by J. L. Payne in connection with the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell, when the cabinet turned traitor, allow me to add a personal reminiscence," she writes to the Nelson Daily News.

"At that time we were living in Kingston, and some friend had sent me a huge wasp's or hornet's nest, which resembled an extinct volcano crater, and so large that it would fill a woman's hat box, and that meant size in those days.

"One night we had some friends dining with us. Among them was Principal Grant of Queen's College, who proposed we should send the nest on to Hon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell with the writer's card sticking out of the crater, with something like this: 'To the king of the hornets,' or something of that kind.

"Sir Mackenzie wrote in return that he and Sir Wilfrid Laurier were having luncheon in the former's home (evidently burying political differences when in private), when the box was carried in. His housekeeper said, 'It looks like an infernal machine, sir; be careful.'

"He dug out the card, and said: 'It is some joke. I know the sender.' He wrote that it was great to hear Sir Wilfrid's laugh over it. In confidence he wrote some things, and added: 'The hornets are only hibernating. They will come in the spring, and sting me to death.'

"He gave the nest a place of honor by hanging it over his desk in the parliament buildings at Ottawa.

"A few years later some friends and myself were taking breakfast one Sunday at the old Driard hotel, Victoria, when I saw my old friend again, but he hadn't seen me. I said to one of the party, 'The first thing he will say will be, "Come along to church."'

"One of them bet a silver hat pin that he wouldn't. When he saw me he jumped up and spilled his coffee all over the table cloth and said, 'See what you made me do," then in the same breath said, 'Come along with me to church,' which we did, and next day I was the possessor of a very bold, big hat pin."—Georgie Starr.

CORRECTED

THE following story is credited to the one and only George Bernard Shaw. It concerns an acquaintance who was a schoolmaster and who at the time was taking a class of very small boys in English grammar.

On the board he had written the sentence, "The toast was drank in silence," asking the class to correct any mistake they could find in it.

For some moments there was no response, but finally a youngster held up his hand and at a nod from the master stalked gravely up to the blackboard to make his correction.

When he had finished the sentence read, "The toast was ate in silence."

ACCORDING to a personal paragraph Mr. H. G. Wells has enough material in his notebooks to last him a hundred-and-fifty years. Our only anxiety is as to what he will be doing after that.—Punch.

SWEET CLOVER APOSTLE'S CREED ACCEPTED AT LAST

Listowel Man Predicted Its Use for Silage and Building Up Barren Land

J. W. SANGSTER, of Listowel, Ont., president of the Ontario Grain and Seed Growers' Association, which will soon be holding its annual meeting, was one of the pioneers of sweet clover in Canada. That sounds strange when one realizes the part which sweet clover plays in the agricultural life of the country nowadays. But twenty years ago it was regarded as a weed. In fact one farmer in western Ontario was prosecuted for growing it and prohibited from further use of it in his fields.

J. W. Sangster

So when alfalfa had proved a doubtful crop for the farmer, Mr. Sangster began to preach sweet clover in 1903. He wrote about it, for he was then an agricultural writer, and he talked about it to such good effect that it was experimented with and found eventually to be not merely a wonderful pasture plant, but splendid for silage and for building up soil. For fifteen years Mr. Sangster was an apostle of sweet clover.

Gradually the belief in it grew. One of the first men in Ontario to grow it was William Linton, of Aurora, who published the first pamphlet on its success. Others experimented. The present premier of Manitoba, Hon. John Bracken, when he was at the agricultural college of the University of Saskatchewan, after experiments developed a useful strain known as Arctic.

Now Mr. Sangster has the satisfaction of knowing that in the west this year sweet clover is going to be used on a great scale for the purpose of making big tracts of barren land fertile.

"I have shipped sweet clover seed to every civilized country in the world," declares Mr. Sangster with satisfaction. "And I have an enquiry for five tons at present from conservative old England."

POLITICS OF YESTERDAY RED BLOODED AFFAIRS

Lord Long Relates His Rescue From a Bathe in a River at Election Time

LORD LONG is one of the last representatives of the squirearchy, the privileged class of territorial magnates who had so large a part in the government of England, and whose glory has departed, if we are to believe Miss Sheila Kaye-Smith's "The End of the House of Alard."

The following is one of his good election stories from his "Memories" just published.

"When we reached a certain point the carriage was stopped, the horses taken out, and a cheering crowd proceeded to draw us along the road. I was looking out of the window and I noticed that we were passing through another crowd.....I thought that they looked very hostile and wondered what it all meant.

When we got to the school house, where the meeting was to be held, one of my perspiring supporters said to me, as I got out, "We did that well, didn't we, sir?" Upon my asking him what he meant, he replied, "Why! The Radicals had arranged to meet you a short distance before the bridge which leads over the river. They were going to cheer and shout and lead you to believe that they were your friends. Then they were going to take out the horses and run you into the river at the drinking place. We fortunately heard of this, so we turned out, skirted round the fields, and met you a mile farther along the road, and brought you right through them, and jolly well sold they looked!"

THE world's most famous woman scientist is in poverty.

Mme. Curie, who with her husband brought to light the great secret of radium, is living in straitened circumstances in Paris because she has devoted all her money to scientific research.

Mme. Curie's situation has been revealed by the proposal of the French ministry of public instruction to grant her a state pension. It is being given both as a recompense and to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the discovery of radium.

Mme. Curie's husband, who shares with her the honor, was killed in an automobile accident in 1906, since when the widow has carried on the work with what is described, in the words of the official proposal, as "admirable constancy and extraordinary faith and abnegation."

WHY MINT SAUCE ON LAMB?

WHY is mint sauce eaten only with lamb? Has that ever puzzled you?

Bitter herbs were in Old Testament days ordered as a part of the Feast of Passover, and later on they formed an invariable accompaniment to the Paschal or Easter lamb. The lamb is not a mere dish like the turkey of Christmas, but actually stands for the sacrifice of the old days, and our mint is all that is left of the bitter herbs of the ritual.

It is probable that we have kept it where we have dropped so much else simply because mint, as well as being a good digestive, happens to be the best herb to bring out the flavor of the new potatoes and peas with which our lamb is generally eaten.

Oshawa Dropped First Game of Round to Petes by Score of 5-2

PETERBORO MANAGED TO HOLD LEAD ON OSHAWA AFTER GETTING THE JUMP IN FIRST 10 MINUTES WITH THREE GOALS

Lake Shore Winners Opened Dangerous Attack at Outset But Were Driven Off—Peterboro's Strong Defence and Back-Checking Were Big Factors in Splendid Victory in Motor Town.

OTHER PERIODS EVEN

Getting the jump on Oshawa by scoring three clever goals inside the first ten minutes the Petes held their three marker margin to the end and skated off the ice at Oshawa last night victorious over the green shirts by 5 goals to 2.

By periods it was 3 to 1, 4 to 1 and 5 to 3, and the Petes always looked the best.

They knew too much hockey for the motor town crew, had more finish to their work close in, and back-checked so consistently that Oshawa never had a chance to pull up on even terms after the Petes jumped them for three registers right off the reel.

The blue shirts have thus a three goal lead for the second game with Oshawa at Brock Street rink tomorrow night but that doesn't say they have not a fight on their hands. The Oshawa crew have all season played better hockey away from home, they have a hard checking, fast skating outfit who will take kindly to the larger ice surface at Brock Street rink and they have by no means given up the fight yet. They will be out there tomorrow night battling all the way and the Petes must not make the mistake of underestimating them.

Won At the Start.

The early dash of the Petes when the ice was good won the game for them for they had the checking ability to hold their lead and stall off the green shirts for the balance of the engagament.

One hundred and twenty-five Peterboro fans saw the game, one hundred going up on the special train and the balance on the regular. They made their presence known early and often and had a great night of it "kidding" the Oshawa crew.

The Petes played steady and clever hockey. In the face of slow ice conditions and the small rink they showed good team work and their shooting was quick and accurate while defensively they were immense. The forwards back-checked with a persistency that gave the Ohawa attack little chance to break clean away while Parker and Halpin checked with rare judgment chasing the puck carrier into the corner or smothering him up effectively. The result was the green shirts found it almost impossible to work inside.

Dwyer was as usual steady and reliable behind the effective work of Parker and Halpin. Parker in addition to his fine defensive exhibition was going stronger on the attack as the game developed, the last two Peterboro counters being the result of magnificent rushes that even the Oshawa fans applauded.

Up in front everybody had a share of the glory. Collins had two goals and an assist to his credit, Rose bagged one marker and helped in another and Ranger, Burgess and McPherson were consistently good going either way.

Oshawa's Performers.

For Oshawa Williams the former Bowmanville boy who was used as a sub was the most dangerous on the attack, with Rowden, by reason of his snappy shooting a close second. Houck who hails from Uxbridge workerd hard whenever called upon and Whinfield who was with Owen Sound last year waded into every blue shirt who came near him and he handed three or four body checks that sent them sprawling. Heffernan the Picton sailor on the Oshawa defence was not nearly as effective as last season. He will likely be better on the bigger cushion here tomorrow night.

Bobby Hewitson of Toronto handled the game flawlessly. He had an easy task. The teams were out to play hockey and there was not a mean turn all night, the penalties being for minor offences.

The teams:

The teams:

Oshawa.

Goal—Smith.
Defence—Heffernan, Whinfield.
Centre—Houck.
Right wing—Rowden.
Subs—Williams, Johnston.

Peterboro.

Goal—Dwyer.
Defence—Parker, Halpin.
Centre—Collins.
Right wing—Burgess.
Subs—Rose, McPherson.
Referee—Bobby Hewitson Toronto.

First Period.

Oshawa started off as if they were full of T.N.T. and for the first two or three minutes kept the Petes busy. They were buzzing around the hornets and inside the first minute Rowden nearly scored when he sailed down the wing and let drive a beauty that was headed for the top corner of the net. Dwyer just managed to deflect it, his stick being knocked out of his hand. Just after this Houck grabbed a loose puck close in but Dwyer made a beautiful stop.

The first flurry over the Petes began to come on and although a penalty to Collins for riding Whinfield delayed them for a couple of minutes they held Oshawa safe until Collins was back and "from then on they went."

Five minutes after the start Ranger put them on the scoring sheet by a quick thinking play that caught Smith cold. Getting the rubber in the corner Ranger skated back of the Oshawa goal and had popped the puck into the net before Smith knew what was coming off.

The blue shirts were on their way and a penalty against Whinfield did not help the Oshawa 'cause any. Rose got away down the boards, centred neatly to Collins and Frankie finished the play by beating Smith at close range.

That made it 2 to 0 and when Collins and Rose combined for another counter inside of the next two minutes, Rose doing the gunning and fooling Smith with a swift accurte shot from the side the Oshawa fans developed an attack of Barney Googles celebrated complaint the heebie-jeebies.

Williams gave them the first chance to yell when he got away down the boards and although checked drifted a low one that hopped over Joe's foot for a soft goal.

It was only a flash in the pan, however, for the Petes had the edge for the rest of the period although they did not increase their lead. Williams and Ranger were penalized before the first session ended, the former for tripping Burgess and the latter for bumping Whinfield.

Second Period.

Play was more even in the second period. The Oshawa crew throwing every last ounce into the battle worked their heads off but the steady work of the Peterboro defence pair and the back-checking of the blue forward line held them safely. Houck was first and then Lowe had good openings but Dwyer was too good for them. Down at the other end of the rink the Petes tore off some dangerous attacks, missing by inches several times. The ice had become very heavy and the close checking slowed up the game considerably. Nineteen minutes of the period had elapsed when the Petes increased their lead. A beautiful rush by Parker, who stickhandled through the whole green-sweatered outfit was responsible. His shot hit the post but Collins tearing down centre ice to get in on the play flashed in from nowhere and flicked in the rebound before Smith could bat an eye. It was a smart play by both Parker and Collins.

The Last Session.

The third period opened slowly with the checking close and most of the action in mid-ice. The first bit of excitement came when some of the Peterboro rooters kicked a few boards off the fence and the game had to be delayed for ten minutes until they were nailed on again.

Soon after play was resumed Rowden sent Oshawa's stock up a little when he scored on a wing shot from well out. Dwyer stopped it but his pad twisted round and the puck glanced into the net.

The Oshawa fans yelled for their favourites to come and tie it up but the Petes were checking them too closely to let them get away very often. A penalty to Houck for tripping did not help their chances any. After he got back Lowe staged a dangerous rush and was going in nicely when Halpin tripped him and got the gate.

Playing 5 men to 6 it was the Petes who scored, Parker doing the trick with one of his characetristic rushes. He dodged through the Oshawa forwards, fooled Heffernan with a fake shot and then went in on top of Smith for a clean cut goal. Ranger followed Halpin to the penalty box and for over a minute the Petes were two men short. They easily held their own until the sides were even again and playing a three man defence for the balance of the game kept their lead until the final gong. The ice was very heavy at the finish.

Summary:

First Period.

1 Peterboro—Ranger, 5 mins.
2 Peterboro—Collins from Rose, 2 mins.
3 Peterboro—Rose from Collins, 1.45.
4 Oshawa—Williams, 5 mins.

HASTINGS 6, NORWOOD 4.

HASTINGS, February 12. — In an exhibition game here last night Hastings trimmed Norwood's Trent Valley Leaguers by 6 to 4.

An incident of the game was a scrap between Weir and King of the visitors and the Clapper brothers.

Sticks were wielded and heads bumped in the melee, in which the crowd intervened and separated the combatants.

Norwood's goal umpire was hit on the arm in the midst of the fracas, and suffered a severe bruise.

Bill Wellman refereed, and was unable to impose discipline.

STIRLING 4, MARMORA 3.

LAVOIES DOWNED EXAMINER TEAM

The Printers Met Their First Defeat on Saturday When They Flew Into the Lavoie Knitters.

The Lavoie Knitters playing their best game of the season defeated the Examiner aggregation on Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 goals to 0 after a fast and furious game which was witnessed by a large and noisy crowd of spectators. The Printers have a steady, hard checking team of clean players but the Lavoie boys had it over them in weight.

S. Murdock for the Lavoies deserves a great deal of credit for keeping the Examiner boys from scoring as they bored shots at him from all angles.

The Knitters were in tip top form and their hard checking soon took the pep out of the Examiner gang.

The Knitters combination rushes in the last period were at treat while on the other hand the Examiner team also showed team play in the second period which was faultless.

The teams lined up as follows:

Examiner—Goal, G. Long; defence, Dugan and Smith; centre, B. Collins; left wing, F. Grey; right wing, Franks; subs, Baker and Kenealy.

SOCCER NOTES

To fill the vacancy on the Board of Directors, William Anderson was officially appointed. He has had excellent experience in soccer legislation in Scotland, where he occupied the position of President of Scottish Amateur League, also other positions in soccer circles. No doubt he will be an acquisition to local soccer.

A representative of the Quaker Oats notified the executive that they would have a team for the coming season. It is also stated that the Canadian General will have a team, and perhaps the De Laval and Canadian Packing Co., which looks well for a senior six-team league.

It was unanimously agreed that Jack Cridland be appointed secretary for the Peterboro Football Association. G. L. Howarth, who acted protem. requested to be relieved of the position.

All persons wishing to become referees under the jurisdiction of P. and D. F. A., are requested to notify J. Cridland, 864 George street, phone 2283W.

TOBIN BEST LEADOFF MAN

JOHNNY TOBIN

Good leadoff men are the exception at present in both major leagues. At good leadoff man is a batsman with a good eye and judgment who can look them over carefully and make the pitcher go the limit. In other words, make him pitch is the theory of a good leadoff batsman.

Johnny Tobin, brilliant outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, is the ideal type first man up, a pattern of the old school. In Tobin one finds much to remind him of the late Willie Keeler, master batsman of other days.

Tobin is short of stature, very fast, has a keen eye, and can hunt or take a healthy swing with equal ability. At dragging the ball through the infield, a play that greatly upsets the opposition, he is a wonder.

SEVERAL MAJOR TRADES MOOTED

The National League Club Representatives Foregather For Mid-Winter Conference.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Several player deals among National League Clubs were in prospect to-day as club owners gathered for the annual mid-winter meeting to be held tomorrow.

Two magnates—William F. Baker of Philadelphia, and Charles H. Ebbets, of Brooklyn,—interrupted vacations in Florida to attend the session with the avowed intention of seeking to strengthen their line-ups for the 1924 campaign.

Ebbets, it was said, may reopen negotiations with Pittsburgh for "Rabbit" Maranville, veteran shortstop, although this proposed deal may be held up because of the absence of Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh magnate, who is ill. Baker, who was accompanied by his manager, Arthur Fletcher, said he was in the market particularly for pitching strength.

Boston and St. Louis may complete negotiations for a trade begun here recently when the Braves startled baseball followers by joining bidders for Rogers Hornsby, famous Cardinal second sacker. Hornsby, it is understood, will not be traded to the Braves or any other club, but it was reported Jeff Pfeffer, Cardinal pitcher may figure in a deal which would send Earl Smith, Boston catcher, to St. Louis.

Besides ratifying the 1924 schedule to-morrow, the League is expected to consider abolishing the bonus written into baseball contracts for playing excellence or for games won by pitchers; a plan to have baseball writers select each clubs most valuable player, and a move to limit the number of coaches any team may hae. The 1924 umpire staff also will be announced by President John A. Heydler.

WON'T SURRENDER TO MAJOR LEAGUES

International League Refuses to Accept Draft Principle in Modified Form.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The International League, sole remaining stronghold of anti-draft sentiment in the minors, will not capitulate to major league demands by accepting a modified form of the selective player system. This was revealed by club owners after a protracted mid-winter meeting, which adjourned this evening until to-morrow morning.

John Conway Toole, president of the League, declared the draft issue a source of particular agitation with in the league since the American Association and Pacific Coast circuits accepted it in modified form, was not formally considered to-day, but it was learned authoritatively that the session developed a lineup of six clubs against the draft, to two in favor of it.

Toronto and Syracuse were understood to be the only supporters of the move to restore the selective plan, which may be definitely acted upon tomorrow. Opposition to the draft was said to have been led by Jack Dunn, of the Baltimore Orioles, and Mr. Toole.

WARSAW CAPTURES FIRST GAME BY 3-2

United Farmer County Hockey League Under Way at Peterboro.

PETERBORO, Feb. 11.—Warsaw won the opening game in the Peterboro County U.F.O. hockey league here this week from Zion by three goals to two. It was a fast, clean contest, with several flashes of brilliant individual playing on both teams. The winners showed up a trifle better in all-round form and their combination work was a treat to watch.

R. Darling, Warsaw's clever centre man, scored twice and F. Bell, right wing, once for the winners, while the loser's two tallies were made by Herb, Slattery, centre, on a pass from B. Crowley and F. Fitzgerald, right defence. R. Darling and Bell were the Warsaw stars, with Herb. Slattery showing up best for Zion. Harold Darling, Warsaw's left defence, was not on his best behavior and made two trips to the penalty box. The other "bad man" of the night was J. Morgan, right defence on the Warsaw team.

The line-up:—Warsaw—R. Mason, goal; Harold Darling, left defence; J. Morgan, right defence; R. Darling, centre; Hilliard Darling, left wing; F. Bell, right wing; R. Payne and P. Bowen, subs.

Referee—J. Webb.

League Executive

Officers of the Peterboro County U.F.O. hockey league have been chosen as follows: Stinson Lancashire, president; Hilliard Darling, vice-president; Vivian S. Milburn, secretary. The captains of the three teams entered, John Shaughnessy, Zion; Mark Thurston, Warsaw, and Jack Milburn, Peterboro, from the advisory committee.

The schedule has been drawn up as follows:

Feb. 4—Warsaw at Zion.
Feb. 7—Zion at Peterboro.
Feb. 7—Zion at Peterboro.
Feb. 12.—Peterboro at Warsaw.
Feb. 15.—Warsaw at Peterboro.
Feb. 18—Zion at Warsaw.
Feb. 22—Peterboro at Zion.

It is necessarily short in order that the county champions may be decided in plenty of time to allow them entering the Provincial playoffs along with other county champions for the United Farmer hockey championship of Ontario.

MORRISON BOASTS BEST CURVE IN NATIONAL WON 25 GAMES WITH PIRATES LAST SEASON

BY BILLY EVANS.

The greatest curve ball pitcher in the National League—John Morrison of the Pittsburg Pirates.

The greatest curver since the days of Mordecal Brown of the Chicago Cubs—the same John Morrison.

In occasional chats with National League stars last summer I never failed to ask them what pitcher had the best "hook" in the league. The reply was always the same:

"John Morrison."

If the inside dope on John Morrison is correct Manager Pat Moran of Cincinnati must rave every time he gives thought to the Pirate star, for Morrison, so the story goes, is a protege of Pat Duncan, crack outfielder of the Reds.

Like Walter Johnson, Morrison slipped into the big show without having much fuss made about him or his past performances. He made good from the very start. Strangely enough, he pitched his first full game against the Cincinnati Reds and won it, 6 to 0.

Two Years in Minors.

Prior to the World War Morrison's pitching activities had been confined to his own section of the country. As an army twirler he made quite a reputation. The war over, through the efforts of Pat Duncan, he was placed with the Birmingham team of the Southern League.

Morrison spent only two years in the minors prior to joining Pittsburg. Although he did good work from the very start it was not until last season that Morrison reached the realms of stardom. He ranks as one of the outstanding pitchers of the National League. John McGraw would pretty nearly trade the Polo Grounds for him.

Won Twenty-Five Games.

Morrison won 25 games last season, a remarkable feat in these days of the lively ball and short fences. Unless I am mistaken no Pittsburg twirler since 1909 has turned in 25 victories for the Pittsburg club.

In that year Howard Camnitz, also a Kentuckian, won 25 games and lost only six, tying with Christy Mathewson for the pitching honors.

One of the biggest thrills that Morrison turned in last year was the fanning of Kelly, O'Connell and Snyder, three slugging Giants, with the tying run on third. He used his great curve ball almost exclusively in turning the trick.

Be prepared to hear much more about John Morrison for he is destined to be a big star in the National League.

JOHN MORRISON

AT THE CAPITOL

The rejuvenated woman, the very latest idea in the many surprises attendant on modern femininity, is the heroine of "Black Oxen," the odd feature picture playing at the Capitol Theatre during the first three days of this week, made interesting to local movie goers by the fact that the serial story is now coming to an end in The Examiner, and the intense interest that the authoress, Gertrude Atherton, has aroused by her book in the new method of making new women from old.

The picture is an exceptionally faithful replica of the story of the book, with the exception of the last episode, where the hero drives away with the chattering, forward Janet, succumbing in a moment of desperation to her insistence that he marry her. In the book, the authoress has given a more dramatic twist to the finale.

"Black Oxen" presents the female of the age in a double role. There is the brilliant Grafin Zattiany, brought back to youth and beauty by the wonders of modern science, and there is the young flapper, Janet, pursuing her ideal man with vigor and fury. Between the two stands the bewildered figure of the hero, striving wildly, one might imagine, to adjust a harried brain to the latest mode in womankind.

The role of Lee Clavering is played in ideal fashion. Probably Conway Tearle has never had a part that suited him better, or to which he gave a better characterization. It is the hero of the tale transferred bodily to the screen, with no disappointing variations. Corrinne Griffith makes a wonderful star, but she has not that touch of imperious and experienced wisdom that one associates with the character of the woman who had lived a long time in foreign courts, and had come back, youthful in body but indubitably old in mind, to the scenes of her former triumphs.

However, the loveliness of the wonderfully gowned heroine takes the centre of the stage at every moment.

There is a dramatic and well-screened episode in the scene in which Mary reveals her true identity to her old school-mates, the stiffly-gowned, formal, wrinkled dames of another generation, gazing with surprise and shocked incredulity at the figure of the girl in their midst. And she runs quite true to form when Hohenhauer, her old lover, appeals to her ambition and promises her a great position in Europe, contrasted with the comparatively humble role of Mrs. Lee Clavering. When the winter time romance is thrown overboard, and the heroine allows her brain to triumph, a realistic finale is given to a story of cold-blooded selfishness. As in the story, the real character of the lady, that of a hard, cruel, self-seeking beauty, seeking always the centre of the stage, her past life a record of illicit love affairs after an ambitious marriage, is coated beneath a sugary semblance of beauty and luxury, but the scheming brain flashes forth as strongly as ever when she leaves Clavering at the dock and sails away to join her former lover.

It is an interesting and unusual situation, entertaining, by reason of its theme, from the first to the last moment, well acted, beautifully staged, perfect in every detail. The supporting cast is excellent, and the acting of Clara Bow, as the tigerish, unconventional young Janet Ogelthorpe, is immense.

A good comedy and the usual number of interesting short reels accompany the feature production.

OSHAWA NOT OUT OF THE RACE

Green Shirts Will Be Full of Fight at Brock Street Rink Tomorrow Night.

With a good sheet of ice practically assured for to-morrow night, everything is set for the final game in the third round series which will decide whether Oshawa or Peterborough will represent the East in the O.H.A. semi-finals.

Although the Petes have a three-goal lead they are not facing any soft proposition in Ed. Donald's green-sweatered crew, who will sail into action to-morrow night as full of fight as if they had the round already salted away. They have always played good hockey at Brock street rink ,and are delighted with the prospects for fast ice, as they claim the heavy going handicapped them in last night's fixture at Oshawa. At all events they are determined to go down—if they have to—with colors flying, and the blue shirts will have to watch their step and play hockey all the way.

The crowd is likely to be the largest of the season. The reserved seats, of course, are all gone, but there are 2,000 rush seats so that there should be room for everybody. Local fans who went to Oshawa last night and paid 75 cents for standing room, realize how superior is the accommodation offered by the local rink at 50c.

Bobby Hewitson will referee.

Miss Morrow's rink, matched against Outremont Number One rink, skipped by Mrs. D. The local ladies are accustomed to playing only 10 ends in a game, and they last out on the extra, making the final score 12 for their opponents and 10 for the Peterboro rink.

ST. MARYS ELIMINATED.

TORONTO, Feb. 12. Canadian Press. — By eliminating St. Mary's in one of the best junior games at the arena this season last night, Aura Lee won the right to meet Varsity III. in play-offs for the championship of the local group of the Junior O.H.A.

When the final bell sounded the Avenue Road youngsters skated off the ice in front on the score sheet, 4 goals to 2, but the Saints had just as much of the play, and only the breaks of the game prevented them securing a different verdict.

THE GREAT LEGS CHAMPIONSHIP

All of a sudden-like legs have walked up to the speaker's table and demanded conversational attention along with such toothy subjects as The Curse of Mah Jongg and The Great Unwashed Stymie.

Pop-eyed world will never be right until it is definitely settled whether Mistinguette, in this corner gents, or Gilda Gray, in that corner, both members of this club, owns most alluring set of props.

Mistinguette came over from France with only pair of $1,000,000 legs that ever winked unblushingly at a camera's lens ....Miss Gray took one look at them and mumbled something about unimportance of European currency.

Gilda seized another three-second flash at rival's million-dollar silk-clad beguilements and hissed scornfully, "The cat's ankles!".....And now you know how that started.

"I'll bet $10,000 mine are prettiest in world", challenged Gilda, leading trim ankle in black silk chiffon. French champion countered with neatly trimmed calf in open-work clockings, and referee stepped between them. . . . . "Lucky hound," muttered boys in nickel seats.

Because none of the males of the county will serve as judges, beautiful-leg championship may go by default....Male are not interested in these things....Other things males are not interested in are gold, pre-war Scotch, par golf scores, ringside seats and Rolls-Royces.

You never hear of modern lipstick addicts bragging about $1,000,-00 dish-washing hands, best looking biscuits, or cutest home-made gingham aprons.

Best way to a mans' heart may be through his stomach, but be careful to keep him away from hosiery ads in the magazines.

The old-fashioned man about town have not have had as much excitement in his day, but he seldom came home with a sprained neck.

INCREASE POLICE SALARIES.

At a special meeting the Guelph Police Commission decided to grant seven members of the police force an increase in salary. The minimum salary of $1,000 for constables remains unchanged, but the maximum was raised from $1,300 to $1,400. A sergeant's salary was advanced from $1,400 to $1,500. Chief Rae made application for an increase, but his request was left over until next year.

This Little World

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—London had a real snow the other day and was excited about it as a hen is about her first chick. We have had no snow here for five years or more. Occasionally there has been a flurry which melted as soon as it struck the ground. But this snow stuck. It covered the roofs, the trees and the sidewalks.

The poetry of it passed away and the prose of soot and muck and slop was more than evident. London literally threw up its hands and didn't know what to do. There is unlimited unemployment here, but no great gangs of men were enrolled to get rid of the snow as is done in New York.

Children and the photographers enjoyed the snow, but busy London cussed it and hoped it would not return for another five years.

Here's a new dinner table story about Marshal Joffre.

A pretty woman called his attention to recent books and articles seeking to take away from him the glory of being the hero of the Marne and attributing that world-important victory to other generals. Joffre looked dreamily at the ceiling and softly mumbled:

"If the first Marne had been a great defeat instead of a victory, I wonder whether they would have been so anxious to take it away from me."

Rev. W. A. Spooner recently decided to retire as warden of New College, Oxford. He is a great scholar, executive and teacher, but he will probably be known to fame because his name is emblamed in the dictionary:

"Spoonerism (from the name of Rev. W. A. Spooner)—the accidental transposition of the initial sounds or other parts of two or more words."

Dr. Spooner just couldn't get them straight. Early in his career he puzzled a news-stand salesman by asking for "The Leading Mourner" when he meant the "Morning Leader."

One Sunday during church service he stepped up politely to a strange woman and said:

"Pardon me, Madam, you are occupewing my pie." He was tring to say "occupying my pew."

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"THE UNWANTED CHILD"

In "The Unwanted Child" the much talked about play of the baby that wasn't wanted which comes to the Grand for two days starting Friday matinee with matinee daily for ladies only. Florence Edna May, authoress, meets the test squarely and come off victorious. A play has to be thoroughly good to draw the people to the theatre and this, Miss May's play has done.

The authoress describes her play as one of many problems, yet not without comedy values. Should we consider the child first? is one of Miss May's many questions. In the tragedy of the baby that wasn't wanted this celebrated authoress has griped her audiences with her forceful appeal that the child is not to blame and innocent babies should not suffer. All over sixteen years admitted to all evening performances. Popular prices will prevail.

MLLE. BOURDININI (Europe's latest dancing sensation, with "Sassy Bits of 1924," playing at the Grand Opera House bargain matinee and night, February 12th and 13th.

AT THE REGENT

FAMOUS SCOTCH COLLIE JUST LIKE OTHER ACTORS.

Included in the all-star cast of "Mighty Lak' a Rose," the Edwin Carewe production for First National, now at the Regent Theatre, is Jean Bronte, a Scotch collie, who bases her claim to stardom on the many pictures in which she has played an important role. Those who watched her performance in her last picture, "Moonshine Valley," called her a real star, almost a human being.

Other pictures in which Jean has appeared are "Sonny" with Dick Barthelmess, "Counterfeit," "Cappy Ricks" with Tommy Meighan, "Sisters" with Seena Owen, "Valley of Doubt," "The Marooned Heart," and two pictures with Elsie Ferguson.

Jean, seeing herself on the screen for the rst time after the making of "Moonshine Valley" was quite excited. She barked and ran from one to another of the little group assembled to watch the picture, then settled down to watch her shadowed self intently, growling now and then at the mystery of the business

Jean, and her running mate and deadly rival, Lassie, played together in "Sonny." Mr. Bronte, the owner of the two dogs, says there is a great deal of professional jealousy between them, and that just a few days before Jean had stolen and hidden the harness and leash Lassie was wearing in her new picture. He says it requires endless tact on his part to keep them on speaking terms.

AT THE ROYAL

"HIS CHILDREN'S CHILDREN" A TIMELY AND INTERESTING PICTURE

The story of every woman's husband—her home and the happiness of her children. So might be briefly summed up the theme of the Paramount production of "His Children," which was shown with splendid artistry at the Royal Theatre last night. It has all the requisites of a perfect film—drama, humor, pathos, and a great cast, featuring in the principle roles Bebe Daniels, Dorothy Mackaill, James Rennie and George Fawcett, while others in the support are Hale Hamilton, Mary Eaton, Mahlon Hamilton, Warner Oland, John Davidson and Lowrence D'Orsay.

"His Children's Children," is a Sam Wood production, the scenario for which was prepared by Monte M. Katterjohn from Arthur rain's popular novel. It is a picture of deep human anneal, and might well be termed "The Vanity Fair of Fashionable Society." It is perhaps the most interesting picture production ever shown. Director Wood has handled it admirably. Al Gilks, Mr. Wood's regular cameraman, did the photography. Let us have more pictures like this one.

EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE AT THE ROYAL.

Once again the Royal has scored in the selection of their vaudeville offerings. Dwan and Murray, two pretty girls in a harmony singing turn, offer a refined novelty, while Austin and Russel, in their Italian sketch, scored just as big a hit. Both of these acts are entirely different from anything seen at the Royal since the change of policy. his is the first time a "sister act," or an Italian dialect act, has been offered. The Orpheus Four, a comedy harmony singing male quartette, and Bob White in a novelty whistling and bird imitation novelty are being advertised for the last half of the week.

"PENROD AND SAM" HERE THURSDAY.

All roads lead to the Royal Theatre Thursday, because it will have as its feature attraction another story by Booth Tarkington. It is "Penrod and Sam," and it is rected for First National by William Beaudine. This picture has met with sensational success in all theatres where it has played to date, and it is said to have an appeal that is limited to no age or class.

"Penrod and Sam" abounds in irresistible humor, which is interspersed with pathos, which helps to make the film a really human portrayal of the life of a true American boy.

Penrod and his "gang" cavort from one mirthful adventure to another. First off the bat they stage a mimic war; then they initiate the neighborhood "sissy" none too gently into their secret society; they follow this up with a "mamuth circus," and in general get on the nerves of their elders.

Benny Alexander's portrayal of the character of Penrod is without doubt the best work that this young artist had ever done for the screen. He is a natural actor and can draw tears and evoke laughter with a facility that is uncanny. Joe Butterworth, who is Sam, is equally well cast. Other popular screen kiddies in the picture are Buddy Messinger, Newton Hall, Gertrude Messinger, Joe McCray and Gene Jackson.

"Penrod and Sam" takes one skipping back over the years to childhood days, bringing to life fond memories of the period when one was carefree and joyous.

LABORITE ORGAN DRAWS PARALLEL

Civil War in America and the Calm of England Under the Labor Rule

LONDON, Feb. 12, 24—(United News).—The situation at Herrin, Ills, gives the London Daily Herald, Laborite organ, an opportunity to draw a cynical parallel between "something like civil war" in America and the calm of England under the dreaded Labor rule.
"The many simple folk in the United States were encouraged to be lieve that the Labor Government in Britain would mean red ruin and the breaking up of the laws, the Herald declares editorally.
"Duobtless when the Laborites took office these simple folk thanked God that nothing of the sort could happen in the United States." Yet to-day there is something like a civil war going on in one of those States. Troops have been sent in large numbers to a town in Illinois to sup press the Ku Klux Klan "with us parliament is meeting quietly to hear what plans are proposed for the improving of the condition of the poor."

RUSSIA HAS TEA POT DOME CASE

MOSCOW, February 12 (United News). — Russia has her own Tea Pot Dome in the remarkable case of Krasnostchkov, author of the new currency system here, who goes on trial next week charged with using the funds of the State Bank for his own purposes.
Krasnostchokov, once a lawyer in Chicago, was apparently a good fellow while he had it.
Having worked out the currency system, Krasnostchokov, it is alleged, took samples of his new product to stage champagne parties, at which he threw new gold coins to the gipsy singers.
He bought a motor car, a villa, and stocked his farm with horses and cattle.
The Commisarial of Justice has carried on a lengthy investigation of his case, and all preparations have been made for he trial.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

CASSEROLE DISHES

Casserole cookery saves much dish washing and the need of "dishing up" at the last minute when there are always so many things to do in the preparation of a meal.
Plan to use the oven heat to cook the dessert if fuel is an item for economy.
Cheap cuts of meat can be utilized in a casserole with satisfactory results.
There is very little waste to foods cooked in a casserole.

Hot Pot of Hodge Podge

One and one-half pounds neck or loin of mutton, 4 potatoes, 1 large onion, 2 tablespoons bacon fat, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, salt and pepper.
Wash, peel and slice potatoes. Peel and slice onion. Melt fat in frying pan, add onion and saute a pale straw color. Remove onion to casserole and add potatoes to fat. Brown slightly. Put a layer of potatoes in casserole. Trim meat and cut in neat pieces for serving. Saute a light brown on both sides in bacon fat. Put a layer of meat on potatoes. Season with salt, pepper and parsley. Continue layer for layer of potatoes and meat until all is used. Add one cup boiling water, cover closely and cook two hours in a moderate oven.

Casserole of Veal

One pound lean veal, ¼ pound smoked ham, 1 tablespoon bacon fat, 16 small onions, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 cups diced potatoes, 3 tablespoons flour.
Trim off fat from ham and try out in frying pan. Cut ham in matchlike strips and brown in fat. Mix salt, flour and pepper. Cut veal in dice and roll in flour mixture. Add bacon fat to ham fat and brown the meat quickly on all sides. Wash and peel onions and brown in fat if a rich dark stew is desired. Put meat, onions and potato cubes in casserole. Add tomatoes, water and cerery salt to fat in frying pan. Bring to the boiling point and pour over contents of casserole. Cover and cook one and one-half hours in a moderate oven.

Pork Chops and Apples

Sprinkle pork chops with salt and pepper. Pare and core apples and cut in rings about half an inch thick. Put a layer of apples in a lightly buttered casserole, sprinkle sparingly with light brown sugar and a dash of powdered cloves. Add one half teaspoon minced onion and cover with pork chops. Continue layer for layer until the sufficient number of chops are used. The last layer should be of apples. Add just enough water to prevent burning until the juice of the apples is drawn out. Cover tightly and cook in a moderate oven for one and one-half hours. Remove cover to lightly brown the top.—

CELEBRATED HIS FIRST MASS AT BIRTHPLACE

Yesterday morning at half past ten o'clock, at his birthplace, at Young's Point, Rev. Cyril J. Carroll celebrated his first solemn High Mass, assisted by Rev. Father Garvey, parish priest of Young's Point and Lakefield, as deacon, and Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, as sub-deacon. Present in the sanctuary, were Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore, Rev. P. Galvin, of Downeyville, and Rev. J. Finn of St. Peter's Cathedral. Assistants on the altar were some of the seminarians of St. Augustine's, Toronto, and the priest's brother, Frank Carroll. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. O'Reilly of St. Augustine's Seminary, and the Seminary choir sang the music of the mass.
After the ceremony, dinner to the priests, relatives and friends was served at the home of Father Carroll's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll, where speeches of congratulation were made by the visiting priests. A purse of gold from the parishioners of Young's Point, was presented to Rev Father Carroll by Mr. Victor Young, with a beautifully worded address, read by Mr. Fred Young. A suitable reply was made by the young priest.
Among those present were Rev. Mother Frances of Brockville, and Rev. Mother Mary Bernadine of Glen Nevis; Mr. Frank Young, of Mount Pleasant, Mich.; Miss Bernadine Theisen of Detroit; Mr. Charles Carroll of Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. UNUSUAL SCENES IN LEGISLATURE CAUSED BY U.F.O. CLAIM TO OFFICIAL OPPOSITION CHOSEN BY THE PEOPLE

Speaker's Decision Twice Challenged By U. F. O. Group and Twice Upheld on Division—Defeated on One Objection—Hon. Mr. Doherty Submitted Virtual No Confidence Amendment — Said the Premier's Action Contrary to Constitutional Government.

SINCLAIR DEALS WITH SPEECH.

TORONTO, Feb. 13. — For a House just met for three days and with an enormous government majority unusual scenes and party warfare took place in the Legislature Tuesday afternoon. Twice the Speakers decision was challenged. Twice, on appeal to the House it was upheld, and on both occasions the challengers demanded and secured a real division. On the first vote the majority upholding the Speaker was 83 to 18, with all the Liberals voting with the Conservatives against the Farmers and Labor. On the second the Speaker was again upheld 79 to 20. On the latter vote three Liberals, Fisher (West Ottawa) Bellanger (Russell) and Proulx (Prescott) voted with the U.F.O.

Unprecedented Recourse

Appealing to the House from a Speaker's decision twice during one afternoon is without precedent in the Ontario Legislature. The trouble arose over the demand of the U.F.O. that it be regarded as the official opposition. Mr. Doherty brought the matter up first as a matter of privilege. Alex. Lewis (Northeast Toronto) raised an objection which he withdrew on request of the Prime Minister, who stated he wanted free discussion. Mr. Doherty then started to give reasons why his group should be recognized. The Prime Minister objected that this was not a matter of privilege and the Speaker so ruled. Hon. W. E. Raney appealed the decision of the Speaker and there was a division.

The little storm blew over for the time and W. E. N. Sinclair (Liberal Leader) made his contribution to the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne. When he was finished Hon. Mr. Doherty continued the debate and after a few words introduced an amendment to the reply protesting against the treatment of the U.F.O. group by the Prime Minister. This was objected to on the ground that it was the Speaker who was in charge of the House and that the Prime Minister could not have treated the U.F.O. badly or otherwise.

No Confidence Motion

The Speaker ruled the amendment out of order. Mr. Doherty came back immediately with an amendment which is a straight want of confidence vote in the government. In support of his motion he attempted to read a petition which had been arranged earlier in the day for presentation to the Speaker. There were objections to the reading of a petition before it had gone through the proper stages of presentation to the Speaker. The petition sets forth all the reasons the U.F.O. can advance for being recognized as the official opposition. The Speaker ruled this reading of this petition was out of order, as it was a petition to him and not to the House, until it was tabled. This decision was appealed by J. W. Widdifield (North Ontario.)

After the division Mr. Doherty move the adjournment of the debate. The want of confidence resolution stands as the amendment to the reply It prevents the Liberals from moving any other kind of amendment.

Sinclair's Speech

Mr. Sinclair thought the government in the speech from the throne should have been more definite in its intentions regarding hydro development extensions. The greatest source of power immediately available for development was the St. Lawrence. He made an appeal for support of Hydro matters in Ontario regardless of party. He was sorry that attempts had been made to take partly credit or it. "These Liberals are as anxious for Hydro development as any other party in the country and we will support it in this House."

He accused the government of being indefinite with regard to the O.T.A. The statement in the speech from the Throne did not give the government position on submitting the matter to another referendum. "When the Premier speaks in this debate he will expect him to state the position of the government. He can try to appease the extremists of the wets who have increased his following in this House and also others whose dry tendencies are well known as soon as possible the intention and attitude of this government.

News $6000 Job

Mr. Sinclair criticised the proposed advisory board to the highway department stating that the members of the Legislature were advisers and that the Liberals would object of creating positions simply to make jobs. He also criticized the government for its admitted failure in find a financial comptroller. "Surely there are financial men in this province who could fill that position," he said. He thought perhaps the government had abandoned the idea altogether. The creation of a post of secretary for Northern Ontario looked objectionable. "What is the necessity of such a post when we have cabinet ministers to look after the north? If this new position is worth $6,000 a year it is worth making a cabinet position and adding to the cabinet by another northern appointment.

"We must adhere to the principles of responsible government with ministers of the crown responsible to this Legislature. I think it is going far afield to make this appointment. The Northern members themselves are the best secretaries for the north country."

Mr. Sinclair asked also if it was the intention to make a distinct department of health and abandon a department for Labor altogether. "When the veil is drawn and we get the real intention of this government then we can criticise," said Mr. Sinclair. "Judging by past administrations of the Conservative party there will be plenty of things to criticize and we won't shrink from it when the time comes."

Doherty's Amendment

Mr. Doherty styling himself "leader of the largest opposition group in this House" followed although the Prime Minister offered adjournment.

He said that Premier Ferguson had a natural proclivity to play politics and appealed to him to have the wider vision of a statesman. His advice that he should follow the policies of the previous administration was received with laughter by Conservative members.

Mr. Doherty then attempted to get in an amendment to the reply which as an addition reads as follows But it is our duty to submit that the Prime Minister has not the approval of this House in his attempts to curtail the rights and privileges of the members of this House."

Premier Ferguson objected declaring that no member could allege that another member controlled the House. It was an affront to the Speaker.

U. F. O. Protest

Mr. Speaker ruled the amendment out of order on the grounds stated by the Premier. Mr. Raney wanted to know if the Speaker would not listen to complaints by members about the Prime Minister, but without further comment Mr. Doherty moved the amendment that the government did not have the confidence of the House. Then he proposed to read a petition signed by nineteen members of the House and addressed to the Speaker protesting against the treatment accorded the U.F.O. party. Mr. Speaker would not allow the reading of the petition as it must come through the proper parliamentary channels. J. W. Widdifield appealed this decision and there was another division.

Text of Petition

The petition to the Speaker which Hon. Manning Doherty attempted three times to read in the house with out success starts off by quoting Premier Ferguson as stating that the last general election showed conclusively that the people of Ontario desired to get back to the two party system of government and that in the next house (meaning this one) that the government would consist of the Conservative party and the opposition consist of the Liberals. This statement had since been affirmed by the Prime Minister, says the statement, by the seating of the Liberals where the opposition sits. "The Prime Minister's action is in flagrant defiance of well settled principles of constitutional government' says the petition which points out that in England the Labor at the opening of the last Parliament displaced the Liberals as opposition because of their greater number. The Progressives had been asked in Ottawa after the last Federal election if they wanted to be opposition because they had more members than the Conservatives. It was only after Hon. T. A. Crerar declined to accept the opposition that the Conservatives became the opposition. In the last Ontario Legislature continues the statement the Liberals having more members than the Conservatives were the official opposition.

Contrary to Law

It also maintains that "the Prime Minister's action is contrary to a law of the province of which the Prime Minister himself was a beneficiary or four years whilst he was leader of a minority opposition in the Legislature' The last government had passed a law providing for salary to the leader of a group of fifteen or more members. The Prime Minister when leader of the Conservative got $1500 a year over his indemnity and $1000 a year for secretarial work while leader of his group last legislature. "The Prime Minister in assuming to instruct the Speaker of the House to ignore this law has been guilty of an act of lawlessness against which our only recourse is an appeal to you Mr. Speaker and to the court of last appeal in a free country the court of public appeal. The Prime Minister's action is in negation of representative government. The announcement

TWO BOYS BURNED TO DEATH--MOTHER VISITED NEIGHBOR

CORNWALL, Ont., Feb. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Lloyd and Gordon Kyer, aged 4 and 2 years respectively, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Kyer, were burned to death Tuesday afternoon in a fire which destroyed a double tenement house in which they resided.

Mrs. Keyer left the house a few minutes before to visit a neighbour, leaving the two children asleep upstairs. A daughter, Edna, aged 7 was at school. The father of the children, who works in the Dundas mill was notified and arrived on the scene early, and made frantic efforts to save his children, but without success. The charred bodies were recovered about an hour and a half after the fire was discovered. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TWO CANADIANS RADIO WINNERS

Nova Scotia Amateurs Awarded Second Prizes For Receiving French Stations — 20,000 Contestants.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 13.—Major William Coates Borrett, owner of amateur radio station 1-DD, Dartmouth, and Arthur Greig, owner of amateur station 1-BQ, Halifax, are announced among the prize winners in the trans-Atlantic tests held in December last by the American Radio Relay League of the United States. Major Borrett won a second prize for receiving the greatest number of French amateur stations in a special period of five hours. Mr. Greig won a second prize for receiving the greatest number of French amateur stations during all the tests.

There were about 20,000 entrants in the contest, including radio enthusiasts from Canada, United States, England, France and Holland. The prizes awarded had a total value of about $4,000. The prizes won by Major Borrett and Mr. Greig are valued at about $300 each.

In the contest the distances between the European and American stations were considered, thereby giving the inland amateur an equal chance with the operator on the Atlantic seaboard.

SHOULD PROMOTE CANADIAN UNITY

Sir Charles Fitzpatrick Reminds Montreal Rotarians of Danger of West Looking South Instead of East.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—Addressing the Rotary Club here yesterday, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, former Chief Justice of Canada, and former Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, laid stress on the need for improving facilities for the conversion into wealth of the vast products of the prairie provinces and of doing all that was possible to bring eastern and western Canada together.

He recommended as policies to this end the preservation of the St. Lawrence waterway as Canadian; encouragement of the efforts of British Columbia in developing the port of Vancouver as a grain exporting harbor, and the elimination of views in the west of Canada that looked north and south rather than east and west.

Sir Charles pointed out that separating eastern and western Canada there was a barrier of a thousand miles of barren, uninhabited and unhabitable country stretching from North Bay to Manitoba.

"Winnipeg," he said, "is closer to Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul than it is to Montreal and Toronto." A majority of foreign-born were, he declared, in the west country and if an issue were to arise with greed on one side and sentiment on the other "you know as well as I what chance sentiment would have against bread and butter."

He concluded that he was impressed with the conviction that we were living in perilous times and that on the wise solution of problems of exceeding gravity depended our continued national existence.

M'ADOO WOULD SOUND OPINION

Candidate For Democratic Nomination Asks For Verdict of His Supporters and Public On His Employment By Doheny

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — Wm. G. McAdoo announced last night that he would leave to the leaders of his movement in each state, the question of whether his employment of counsel by the E. L. Doheny Oil Companies, had made him unavailable as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A request that a conference of such leaders—men and women—be called in Chicago as soon as possible is made by Mr. McAdoo in a letter to David L. Rockwell, of Illinois, his campaign manager, in charge of the national headquarters at Chicago. The letter was made public here to-night by Mr. McAdoo.

"I want this conference to consider and decide," Mr. McAdoo wrote, "whether or not the fact that an honorable professional service rendered by me to a client, but having no relation whatever to the oil leases now under investigation by the Senate Committee, is prejudicial to my leadership in the cause of progressive democracy."

"If they think I am unavailable," he added, "I shall gladly withdraw and fight as a private in the ranks; if they think I should lead, I will do so with all the power that is in me. I will do anything that they think is right and best for the service of the party and the country."

The former secretary also asked that there be invited to the conference "representatives of progressives outside of the Democratic Party, representatives of the Farmers, and any others you think advisable in order that we may get as far as possible a true index of public opinion."

FRENCH TAXES WILL BREED BOLSHEVISM.

Andre Tardieu Says the Government's Measure Will Increase Socialistic Party's Strength in the Elections.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—The spectre of Bolshevism was held up to the Chamber of Deputies yesterday as an argument against the Government measures to balance the budget.

M. Tardieu, in a speech bitterly critcal of the Government's financial and general policy, said the only result of the new taxes that could be forecast with some certainy was increased strength to the Communist Party in the approaching elections. He regarded the Government's measures as full of danger.

When he was interrupted and asked whether he had anything positive to propose to replace them, M. Tardieu launched into a violent speech in which he placed all responsibility for the present situation on the weakness of the Government.

Mr. Klotz proposed a lottery loan to be floated abroad in order to accumulate a reserve of foreign money equal to 10,000,000,000 francs.

Three Years For Stealing Watch

WINNIPEG, February 13 (Canadian Press). — Convicted on a charge of stealing a watch valued at $25.00 from a house which he claimed he entered in mistake for a "blind pig," that he had been directed to, John MacDougall was sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary by Sir Hugh John MacDonald, in the Police Court here to-day.

Since his arrest no less than twenty local clergymen informed the police that they had been defrauded by MacDougall of various sums of money.

CHAMBERS WAS SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Three Year Term on Charges of Forgery and Theft--Took $513 From Dominion Express and Fled to Buffalo.

IN POLICE COURT

"The woman Thou gavest me tempted me, and I did eat," Adam said thousands of years ago.

Shortly after the world began, Adam sinned—and blamed it on a woman. What Adam did centuries ago in fear of God a twentieth century Adam did to-day in Peterboro Police Court—blamed a woman.

Bruce Chambers, charged with stealing from his employers and forging a delivery slip covering a package of $513 to the Canadian Woollens Company, pleaded guilty, but through his lawyer blamed his downfall on an unhappy marriage. He was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary.

County Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducted the prosecution and the accused was represented by J. F. Strickland. Magistrate O. A. Langley presided, and the court-room was filled with spectators, indicating, a police sergeant said, a great deal of unemployment in the city.

Chambers, it is said, left his wife and child on Thursday, January 10, taking with him Edith Dibble, a maid in a local family, and $513 of his employers' money. Leaving here on the C. N. R. Port Hope train at 9 o'clock, they arrived in Buffalo on the 11th, and lived at a hotel there until rounded up by the police last week. The brief holiday of 28 days' duration merged to-day into a three years' sentence. Chambers is only 25 years of age.

Mr. Strickland said the charge of forgery was unnecessary, and seemed to him to be "rubbing it in." The circumstances of the case are most unfortunate, the accused having a clean sheet up to this time, and having served four years in the army. This offence was, in Mr. Strickland's opinion, directly attributable to the unhappy circumstances of the man's home life. Affected by the results of shell-shock and domestic troubles, the accused seized this opportunity to take the money and run away with the young woman.

"We cannot go behind the facts," he added, "but this is a first offence and if given an opportunity I believe the man will make restitution."

Mr. Hatton said these were serious charges with no extenuating circumstances. The young man is married and his duty was to support his wife and child. "Instead of that he took advantage of his position to take this money, and as a reason no doubt for taking it or as an excuse, left the city with a young girl. If not the cause of her ruin he has aided it materially. I don't see what he can expect in the way of leniency. The fact that he may now have realized the error of his ways might induce one with a kind heart to be more or less lenient."

Magistrate Langley said it is always a painful duty to sentence a man, especially a fellow-townsman, but the law must be vindicated. The law looks upon these offences as serious, providing a maximum penalty for theft of 14 years and for forgery of life imprisonment. "I am going to assume that up to this time you have a clean record, and I will remember that you had four years' service during the war. I know nothing about your domestic infelicities, but any Canadian who has a wife and child is certainly morally wrong if he goes away with another girl."

The Magistrate sentenced Chambers to three years on each charge, to run concurrently.

HE WAS NOT "CANNED."

In the preliminaries this morning two local men appeared on charges of being drunk in Central Park last night. The first pleaded not guilty but produced no evidence against the testimony of several members of the police force, who were positive he was intoxicated. He was fined $10 and costs, amounting in all to $15. Chief Newhall described this man as "a hard-working man who had made a mistake."

A second prisoner on the same charge declared he did not know the meaning of the word "intoxicated," but declared he was not "canned up." It was pointed out to him it would be useless for him to plead not guilty if he had no evidence to prove his declaration of innocence. "I'll plead the other way, then," he answered.

On request of Chief Newhall, the accused was put in the witness box for examination as to where he obtained the liquor. On having the usual oath put to him, he demanded of the Magistrate, "What do you mean?"

Magistrate Langley explained the oath in simple language, and the witness, apparently reluctantly, accepted it.

To Chief Newhall's first request for information as to where he got the liquor, the witness replied, "I won't tell you."

The Magistrate warned him he might be sent to jail for three months or until he answered the question. "Do you want to change your mind?"—"No, sir."

"Do you want an hour to think it over?"—"No, sir."

"Do you still refuse to answer?"—"Yes, sir."

The accused was remanded for a week to give him an opportunity to tell where he obtained the liquor.

Shot His Pal Fled in Fear

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 13. — A fifteen year old Grayson youth is in custody to-day in connection with the death of George Perislau, aged 16, a farm youth, whose body was found on Sunday in a bluff near his home, the Provincial police state.

The youth is said to have confessed that he accidentally shot Perislau, while the pair were hunting partridges on January 30th.

After the shooting he fled and in fear of the consequences did not mention the affair until questioned, when an official investigation was commenced. No charge has been preferred.

ECONOMY MOVE MAY HIT VETS

Civil Service Questionaire Does Not Mention Length of Service of Department Employees at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13. - Declaring that the economy move in connection with the Federal Civil Service will prove particularly detrimental to ex-soldier government employees unless some definite steps are taken in their protection, a meeting has been called of all veterans in the Civil Service, and others interested, to be held here on Friday, Feb. 15.

A circular letter signed by Capt. F. G. Forster, president of the Ottawa branch, G.W.V.A., has been sent out to more than 1500 veterans in the Civil Service in Ottawa. It is pointed out that many departmental questionaires designed to secure information concerning personnel, had no mention of war service or disabilities. Action by the Association secured an assurance that these points would be included in the permanent record which it is proposed shall be kept in future of all government employees.

According to the circular, the principal question to be decided is the step necessary on the part of the veterans' representatives to secure a continuance of preferential treatment in Civil Service appointment and promotion.

It is pointed out by G.W.V.A. officials that if length of employment is the chief determining factor in making reductions in the staff, veterans will be particularly affected because most of those in the service received their appointments since the armistice.

The letter expresses sympathy with the desire to economize and proposes that ex-service men will cooperate with "the same spirit of true service which distinguised the Canadian corps in France."

Saskatchewan Timber Resources Are Immense

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 12.— With his own revolver containing one empty shell lying beside him, Christopher Swanson, farmer of Narcisse, Man., was found lying dead near his home yesterday. It is suspected by the police that Swanson, who was afflicted with heart trouble, suicided.

An investigation is being made by the Provincial Police.

The Count will depart for Moscow to-night.

He is Italy's first Ambassador to the Soviets, following the diplomatic reign of the Red Government by Italy last week.

THE WEATHER.

It was ten degrees below zero this morning at 6:30, the lowest for several weeks. As a sudden cold snap is usually followed by snow, we will likely have some more of the beautiful. Carter's Labors Richly Rewarded

LUXOR, Egypt, February 13 (Canadian Press). — The greatest discovery in the history of Egyptology, even as many, claim, in archaeology, was made yesterday aternoon in the sepulchral chamber of Tut-Ankh-Amen, in the Valley of the Kings.

In the presence of a gathering representing the elite of Egyptology, the lid of Tut-Ankh-Amen's great pink sarcophagus was raised, and a stupendously magnificent mummy case, covered with plates of solid gold, was brought to light.

COMMUNISM IN GERMANY DEAD

Labor Leader Tells Experts' Committee Workingmen Rejected Soviet Idea Despite Their Plight.

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—None of the German witnesses who have appeared before the Committee of Experts impressed the members quite as favorably as did Peter Grassmann, Vice-Chairman of the Federation Trade Unions, who Tuesday discussed the German workingman's attitude on reparations, the eight hour day, taxation and other topics of current interest to the members of the committee.

The candor with which the German labor leader answered the numerous questions put by the experts netted him a vigorous handshake by General Dawes at the conclusion of the hearing.

Mr. Grassmann was put through two hours of cross-examination. Incidentally he told the committee that there was no chance for Communism in Germany as the rank and file of German workingmen rejected Sovietism in spite of their present social and financial plight.

He believed the existing vestiges of radicalism in Germany would disappear with the improvement of social conditions.

FARMERS' BOARD MINUS DOHERTY

He Felt He Had Not Time to Do Justice to His Office.

TORONTO, February 13 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Manning Doherty has resigned from the Board of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company.

He stated last night that since his appointment as leader of the Progressive group in the Legislature, he felt he had not time to do justice to his office company.

He had not been able to attend the last two meetings of the board of directors, and it was essential that the men at the head of the U.F.O. should be free to devote their time towards making a success of that undertaking.

Hon. Mr. Drury will continue to act as the director of the company.

The successor to Mr. Doherty has no, yet been appointed by the board.

REVOLVER SHOT KILLED VISITOR HUSBAND ABSENT

Wife Admitted Firing Through Door When Albert Turcotte Returned to Robillard Home After Warning to Stay Away.

JURY'S VERDICT OPEN

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(Canadian Press).—A coroner's jury, inquiring into the death of Albert Turcotte, aged 24 years, of St. Andre d'Avelin, Labell county, who was shot on Sunday evening, wehn he approached the home of Mrs. Jean Baptiste Robillard, failed to fix the blame for the shooting and recommended that the Attorney-General of Quebec conduct a further investigation into the shooting.

The verdict of the jury came after several witnesses had been examined including Mrs. Robillard. who admited having fired a revolver shot through the door, which in all probability was the shot which killed Turcotte.

Ante-Morten Statement.

From the evidence of the various witnesses, the jury could not determine who had fired the fatal shot. In an ante-morten statement made before he died it was testified to that Turcotte had said that when he was shot on the verandah of the Robillard home that he had seen women through the window of the house but he did not say who they were. He also did not give his reason for going to the Robillard house. He also claimed that he did not try to get into the house.

Husband At Shanty.

Mrs. Robillard's story was that Turcotte had visited her home earlier in the day and that she had told him that her husband was away at the shanty and not to come back at night. To this request, Mrs. Robillard says that Turcotte said that he would come back and spend the evening with her. Turcotte is a man of over six feet in height and Mrs. Robillard is a small sized woman. Mrs. Robillard further stated that Turcotte had come back at night and had tried to get into the house and that she had fired a shot through the door.

The point was raised that Mrs. Robillard had not been warned that anything she might say would be used against her, and according to the law she could not be allowed to incriminate herself.

Following the inquest Mrs. Robillard returned to her home. Provincial detectives Germain and Nolet are still working on the case.

MILK SUPPLIED TO THE SHELTER

Raw and Pasteurized Milk Supporters About Fifty-Fifty at Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Childrens' Aid Society was held in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, B. F. Ackerman, the chair was taken by the first vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs. Those present were Mesdames Welsh, Darcy, Gibbs, Hill, Devey and Miss G. L. Brooks, Messrs. J. Edgar, G. W. Powell, R. H. Parsons, W. Stocker, W. J. Hopwood, C. S. Cummer, F. H. Dobbin, Rev. W. H. Young, Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, and Dr. E. Wood.

The minutes of the last meeting, the matron's report, and sundry correspondence were read by the secretary, J. Edgar, the superintendent's report was given by G. W. Powell, and Mrs. J. Welsh read the report of the purchasing committee.

Mr. Edgar, reporting on the request of the society that the Little Lake cemetery Company furnish them with cemetery space, said that the company had decided to allot the society two neighboring plots beside the one already used by the society, these to be not deeded to the Children's Aid Society, but to be available for their use, and if not needed, to revert once more to the company.

Mr. Edgar also reported that a delegation had waited on the County Council asking for a grant of $1,000. He had been unofficially informed, he said, that the County Council would grant the society $800. A request to the City Council for $1,000 had not yet been decided on.

Superintendent's Report.

Mr. G. W. Powell's statement showed 5 applications for children made during the past month; children brought to the Shelter (not wards) 12; children returned (not wards) 3; children made wards, 4; wards placed out, 3; wards returned to the Shelter, 4.

A cheque for $100 from the J. C. Turnbull Company, in connection with the recent contest, had been received.

Mr. Powell reported sundry work of the Society, that included help extended to a family en route from Buckhorn to Toronto, who had provided themselves with very little money or food for the journey, and the temporary housing in the Shelter of two children, both of whose parents were ill. Discussion on the case of an application of a parent who wished his son, now a ward of the Society, returned to him, resulted in a decision being made that the boy was better off in the home where the society had placed him. A report of the proceedings when the boy was made a ward of the society was read, showing that the father at that time was very anxious that the Society should take charge of him.

Mr. Powell, referring to the large number of wards in the Shelter during the month, said that, as the cold weather progressed, and the farmers had little work for the wards to do, they often made some sort of excuse to return them to the Shelter.

Mr. Edgar read the matron's report, showing 26 children in the Shelter during the month, with 15 brought in and 6 sent out. There were 18 children now in the Shelter.

Discussion Re Milk.

Mr. Edgar brought up the question of transferring the purchase of milk for the Shelter to the Peterborough Milk Products Company, and a great many arguments, pro and con, were advanced during the half hour's discussion that followed. Supporters of the pasteurized milk theory were about equally balanced by those in favor of the raw brand of milk. The statement was made that, although many tests for tubercular cattle had been made in the district, that no decisive action had been taken, in getting rid of animals, those farmers whose herds had been declared infected considering the economic results so disastrous that they had simply gone ahead as usual. "There is, as far as I know, only one certified herd of cattle in the County of Peterborough," was one declaration, the speaker going on to say, however, that cases of bovine tuberculosis having been transmitted to humans in Peterborough County were very rare. "If the farmers will be careful and clean, they can get practically as clean milk as the creamery supplies, but they can't take out the bovine tubercular germs. With regard to freshness, the raw milk can possibly be delivered to the consumer in a fresher state than the pasteurized product, because, owing to the length of the pasteurization process, the raw milk can be delivered to the consumer twenty-fours earlier."

Answering an objection made by one of the ladies that the children of the Shelter prefer the unpasteurized and thrive on it, Dr. Wood said that, in his experience, the whole subject of childish preference in milk was due to early training. "If a child is used to pasteurized milk, it will not like the raw product, and the reverse is the case also. The type of children you have at the Shelter are not subject to discipline in such things, and if they won't take the pasteurized milk, they wont'."

Donations and Accounts.

The following donations were acknowledged: L.O.L. No. 50, sandwiches; Mrs. Meldrum, apples; G. W. Powell, pictures; Perkins, Ince & Co., maple sugar; Mrs. W. J. Kelly, clothing; Mr. Arthur Fitzgerald, quarter of beef; St. Paul's church choir, cake and sandwiches.

Accounts passed: Turnbull & Co., $21.98; McDermid & Jury, $1.50; Grafton & Co., $10; Turnbull Co., $18.09; J. M. Heard, $14.70; E. W. Wiggins, $1.50; R. Denne, $2.25; J. T. Stenson & Sons, $15.45; Stock Ltd., $15.64; G. W. Powell, $6.15; telephones, $6.15; L. M. Brooks, $29.55; T. Record, $7.50; A. S. Pepe, $2. Total, $152.47.

A WORD TO WOMEN

A hundred and twenty-one thousand women would comprise a vast army. Yet a canvass was recently made among more than that number of women who had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for feminine ailments. The results proved that ninty-eight out of every hundred reported benefit from its use. This is most remarkable evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of womankind and should influence every sick and ailing woman to try it.

ATHLETIC LEADERS OF HASTINGS JOIN ISSUE BEFORE JUDGE HUYCKE

JUDGMENT RESERVED

(By a Staff Reporter.)

HASTINGS, February 13. — Hastings residents took a holiday on Tuesday afternoon and flocked to the Town Hall to attend the special session of the Division Court, with Judge Huycke of Peterborough presiding, that had been called to hear the case of J. J. Masterson against Dr. J. H. Hess, president, and W. H. Chapman, secretary of the Hastings Athletic Association.

The crowd heard interesting testimony, and witnessed a legal battle royal between two of Peterborough's leading lawyers, G. N. Gordon, K.C. M.P., who appeared for the defence, and R. R. Hall, who put up a stiff fight for Mr. Masterson.

The outcome was that Judge Huycke reserved his decision.

History of the Case.

The facts upon which both parties to the dispute appear to be in agreement is that on 31st August last the juvenile lacrosse team of this village played the St. Simons of Toronto on the former's grounds. The result was so emphatically in favour of the visitors that the Toronto manager, who had agreed to home and home games, each team to get the entire gate receipts when playing on their home grounds, concluded that the Hastings boys would not prove much of a drawing card in Toronto. He offered to waive the return game if paid part of the receipts taken in at Hastings.

It seems that Masterson declared that the Hastings boys should have an outing to Toronto on Labour Day.

The Toronto manager finally consented to this arrangement, provided the Hastings officials put up a $100 cheque as a guarantee that their team would really appear. This was done, the cheque being signed by President Hess and Secretary Chapman. When the Hastings team reached Toronto the officials claim that their cheque had fulfilled its purpose, and was no longer in effect.

Masterson, who accompanied the team to Toronto, got possession of the cheque, and hearing this, Dr. Hess went to the Union Bank here, and paid a note due from the Association When Masterson presented the cheque, there was no funds to cash it.

It is the amount of this cheque that formed the basis of the suit.

The Point in Dispute.

The point in dispute was this: President Hess and Secretary Chapman claimed that Masterson had offered to take the team to Toronto at his own expense, and this the plaintiff vigorously denied

A number of witnesses were called by both sides Those for the plaintic were F E Hayes, secretary of the O.A.L.A., who was given the guarantee cheque, and who turned it over to Masterson, the plaintiff himself, who swore that the arrangemen, was that he was to take the team to Toronto, and if there was a deficit the Association was to make it up. His actual expenses were $102.75, and he claimed that the $100 cheque should have been applied to the settlement of this amount.

T. A. Coughlan confirmed Masterson's testimony, and B Richardson, teller of the Union Bank, swore that when the cheque was given there were funds to cover it, but that President Hess and C. P. Doughty had called at the bank and used this money to pay a note.

The Defence

President Hess, the final witness called by the defense, told of the alleged promis, of Masterton to treat the boys to a trip if they won the district championship which they did Secretary Chapman gave similar evidence on this point. It seems that the team went to Toronto in semi-regal state, going to Havelock in autos where they were taken in a special pullman to the big city. Chapman left home as manager but he swore that at Havelock Masterson threatened him with physical violence unless he signed a paper turning over the management to him This the witness did and took no active part in the arrangements. A number of the players threatened to leave the train at Havelock if Masterton was to be their manager but Chapman persuaded them to go.

Several of the players who went on the trip to Toronto were called —John Cowell, John Archer, Joseph Gould, D. Cruickshank and Gordon Wells all swore that on the train they had heard Masterton say to them and the party that he was giving the trip. William Clapper also testified that he had heard Masterton make the same statement.

C. P. Doughty swor, that he had heard Masterton say that the Association was behind financially and that on his return from Toronto he intended to pass the hat and start of by contributing $20.

Masterton Recalled

Mr. Hall called the plaintiff in rebuttal and the latter swore that he had never promised to pay the expenses of the trip out of his own pocket.

The point that Mr. Hall chiefly emphasized in his examination of the various witnesses that according to the rules of lacrosse a visiting team is entitled to receive a certain sum for mileage and other expenses and that this sum was lawfully owing the St. Simons from Hastings. He contended that the $100 cheque was really in payment of this amount, adding that as it had been endorsed by an official of the St. Simons team that it could, if not paid here b, collected from them. In this argument he cited a number of authorities in support of his position. Taking a team on a trip did not necessarily mean that Masterson was to pay the bill.

Mr. Gordon asserted that it had been clearly proved that Masterton had agreed to pay the expenses of th, trip and that if he had not done so the cheque wouldd never have been issued. H, added that lacrosse an other athletic rules were frequntly set asid, by mutual consent and that where home and home games were played it was nothing unusual to have each team take all the money paid in at it, own gates. There had, he said, been plenty of evidence produced to support the position taken by the defendants.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Well, boys, we can keep on smoking our fags.

MILLBROOK BABY SWALLOWED A PIN

Brought to Peterborough Last Night--Two Operations Necessary.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 13th.—The three-weeks' old baby boy of Mrs. Howard Lunn met with a very serious mishap yesterday, which necessitated the bringing of the child to Peterboro for an operation by Dr. N. D. Buchanan, with prospects of another operation being necessary to day.

As Mrs. Lunn was dressing the baby, which was crying, a small safety pin fell from the mother's dress front into its mouth. Dr. H. A. Turner was sent for, but was out of town and two hours elapsed before he arrived. The child was then taken to the hospital in Millbrook but no X-Ray apparatus being available nothing was done, as the pin could not be located.

Last night, the child was brought to Peterboro, and Dr. N. D. Buchanan performed an operation at half past eight o'clock. It was discovered that the pin had dropped farther down into the chil's stomach, farther down into the child's stomach sary to-day.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

By GEORGE BRITT.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Hearken to a paean of urban boastfulness, an appraisal of this particular corner of this little world. It is not by the Association of Commerce, nor even by a resident Chicagoan, but from the recent novel, 'Nowhere Else in the World," by J. W. Hudson.

"Of all cities, Chicago best expresses a mighty American spirit. New York is too provincial. Washington is too patrician. Boston is too pouty. Philadelphia is too placid. And San Francisco is too far away.

"Chicago is a city of action. Of all the cities of the globe it is the most restless, the most strenuously active and the most keenly alive."

* * *

Action it has, certainly, on these zero mornings of late when everyone hurries to work. Low temperature is one of the solutions to the problem of speeding up city traffic. And cold is the touch of nature which makes the whole world kin. Total strangers shiver greetings without embarrassment, traffic policemen and taxi drivers sympathize like brothers, and there's a truce on all formality.

* * *

The street car and "L" conductors reign here also as arbiters of pronunciation in street names. If you come to Chicago and seek a friend living, say on Goethe street, don't try to Teutonize the pronunciation. Get the conductor to pronounce it and then go inquiring for the new name you have received. It will be recognized.

* * *

Hundreds of trucks, groaning under every sort of fruit and vegetable, make probably the queerest traffic halt in Chicago.

South Water street, the great commission merchants' mart, lies squarely across the path of the principal carlines entering the loop from the north. The rush hour at the market is the same as for the morning car crowds. So every second minute a stream of cars and motors is stopped to permit the antiquated push cart procession to proceed crosswise on South Water street.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Nobody Got Away With the Cash Prize Offered at Entertainment-News Notes.

Campbellford, February 13. — The members of the Methodist church choir offered a handsome cash prize to any person who would attend their annual entertainment Tuesday evening, and refrain from laughing during the presentation of the programme. If any individuals went to the church with heads set on the winning of the money the result was failure. Their countenance may have been steeled to gravity but facial strain and such members of the audience joined in the general mirth.

The entertainment had been put on under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, and before eight o'clock every foot of space in the school room was taken and orders were given to close the doors. For the benefit of those who were turned away or who were unable to attend for any other reason it was decided to repeat the performance Wednesday evening at the same hour.

The programme was unique from beginning to end. The first part consisted of the rendition of a number of old and familiar songs, different members of the choir taking the solo parts, and the others joining in the choruses. Mr. Cowell accompanied the singers on the piano. The different selections were as follows: "Hail Smiling Morn," by the choir; "Sweet Genevieve," by G. Smith, "Tit for Tat," by Miss Helen Wood. "When you and I were Young, Maggie," by C. Maquire; "My Bonnie Lies over the Water," by Mrs. E. Bates; "The Old Mill Stream," by W. Lowe; "List to the Convent Bell" by Dr. Lillian Young and Mrs. A. L. Malcolm; "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by Mrs. Collison; "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," by Miss R. Taylor, and a trio, "Hard Times," by Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. A. E. Wragge and Mrs. E. Bates.

The singers in this number, dressed in garments in keeping with the character they were acting ,were supposed to be singing for charity on the street, and the audience lent an air of realism to the presentation by throwing copper coins to the vocalists.

Another number that was heartily appreciated was "Love's Old Song," sung by J. and R. Taylor, F. Dorie and C. McGuire.

It was like a return to the scenes, the costumes and the musical favorites of 40 years ago. The ladies in the choir were all arrayed in the now grotesque-appearing, but rich apparel of their grandmothers. While the men on the stage were rigged out in the staid and dignified coats and stocks that were popular with the gallants of a bygone day.

"The Family Doctor."

A bright little operetta was put on by Dr. H. O. Richardson, George Lucy, Mrs. Richardson, and Miss Nellie Hoover.

Mr. Lucy, in order to gain admittance to the home of his fiancee, disguises himself as a doctor, and calls to prescribe for the girl's father, who is suffering from ills that are largely imaginary. The comedy lies in the efforts of the young man to act the part of a physician and in the wonderful effect his harmless doses have on the grouchy invalid. When the girl happens into the room the secret is out, and after a paroxysm of hasty temper the father consents to the match

Old Maids' Convention.

The masterpiece of the evening, the number that made it safe to offer a prize to any person who could refrain from laughter, was a society meeting of old maids, whose common object in life was to change their condition.

The members of the cast were: Mrs. C. W. Turner, the president, Mrs. A. E. Wragge, Mrs. Ed. Bates, Mrs. George Smith, Miss Harriet Potts, Miss Verna Sanders, Miss Hazel LaBrash. There were also six men so well disguised as females that it was impossible to detect them except by their voices—Harry Boyd, secretary-treasurer, W. Bell, Robert Frazer, Ed. Bates, Carl Maguire and Fred Dorie. The play was a good imitation of a gathering of women with matrimony as their chief aim in life, ready to resort to any measure short of criminal to attain their ends. A careful list of widowers, actual and prospective.

While the meeting is in progress S. A. Maguire, himself a matrimonial eligible, drops in and for a time appears in a precarious position as a lamb among wolves, but it turns out that his mission is of a commercial nature. He is dressed as a French professor, with the national curled moustache and goatee and with the accent of one to the manner born. The professor has a machine, a large cabinet affair, warranted to transform any aged woman into a young person and to make her anything she desires to be. The president is the first to venture. Her desire is to be a golf player. She enters the cabinet and after some machinery has been heard to buzz the door is opened and there emerges a young girl with a golf club. The fact thta the trick is readily understood does not detract from the interest. One after another the old maids tatke the treatment and come out of the cabinet with all the sprightliness of youth, one as a milliner, another as a college girl and another as a nurse, just as each elects. When all that has been changed their former selves pass in a mournful parade before them to remind them of what they once were. This was an ambitious venture in amateur dramatics and was performed with all the skill of professionals.

News Notes.

MINERS WILL NOT ACCEPT AGREEMENT

Mine Workers Local in Cape Breton Take Action.

SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Practically all the British Empire Steel Corporation's mines in Cape Breton, comprising the greater part of Nova Scotia coal fields, decided at meetings of the various united mine workers' local yesterday afternoon and tonight against returning to work under the new agreement signed at Montreal until a referendum vote is taken on it. It was announced by the miners' representatives in Montreal after the signing, that a referendum would be taken at an early date, but pending that they ordered the men back to work.

Those opposed to the new agreement state that the increase in the price of domestic coal from $2.25 to $3.60 a ton largely wipes out the wage increases granted.

There are various other arguments against the new agreement, but some of these may be due to misunderstanding.

HUMANE SOCIETY NOW ON FISH PROTECTION

Says Fish Should be Wrapped in Fur Coats After Being Caught.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 13.—(Canadian Press). — The Owen Sound Humane Society, through Miss M. Vail, president, is protesting against the practice of local fishermen in leaving fish after being caught, lying on ice. This is stigmatized as inhuman by the Society. Fishermen contend that fish are cold-blooded, and suffer no more than when caught in summer. The Society asks that the practice be stopped. It is also asked that boys be prohibited from driving their dogs hitched to sleds, or, if this cannot be done, that the law sees that dogs are not overloaded.

Herring Packing Plant Was Swept Into Sea.

PRINCE RUPERT, Feb. 13. — (Canadian Press). — The herring packing plant at Three Cent Bay, a remote point on Kodiak Island, was swept into the sea when the wharf collapsed during a heavy wind storm on Sunday, according to word reaching here yesterday. No loss of life was reported.

It has been arranged that Aegidius Fauteaux, in charge of the library of St. Sulpice in this city, shall make the selection of the works of French-Canadian authors, while Dr. George Locke, public librarian of Toronto, will select those of English - speaking Canadian authors.

THE PIONEER IN CANADA.

Thirty-two years ago the now famous "SALADA" Tea was placed on the market in metal packages. "SALADA" was the pioneer package tea in Canada. Immediately its superior flavour and purity won for it a great popularity that has been growing ever since. It is still a little different and a little better than ordinary tea.

TUBERCULOSIS—AND WHISKEY.

The Quebec Government has announced its intention of making a grant of $100,000 a year to help the spread of tuberculosis in Quebec, and is taken to task by the Montreal Star for what that paper terms an attempt to confront a frightful conflagration with a pitifully inadequate spray.

A strong case is made out in favour of a much more sincere effort to deal with the Great White Plague, which is taking a ghastly roll of casualties each year.

Examiner readers will agree that not much of a fight can be made with $100,000 spread over a whole Province.

And compared with the immense profits the Quebec Government is making out of its liquor traffic, the grant looks even more lamentably inadequate.

In five years it is estimated the Government will secure nearly twenty million dollars out of liquor profits, and if the $100,000 grant is made for each of these years the grant to fight tuberculosis will represent over two and a half per cent. of the profits from the liquor business carried on by the Government, or, as the Star pointedly remarks, "Out of every dollar made out of whiskey two and a half cents will be spent on a sham fight against tuberculosis."

BETTER STREET LIGHTING.

The Utilities Commission is asking the Council to consider an improved system of street lighting, and the city fathers, although naturally reluctant to discuss any undertaking that involves expenditure, should not fail to take the sggestion under advisement.

That the local street lighting calls for improvement is a fact that admits no dispute.

All things considered, Peterborough is probably the poorest lighted city of its size in the Province, a regrettable condition in view of the city's nickname, "The Electric City."

Even our business streets are poorly lighted, while the residential sections, illuminated only by sickly-looking incadescent lamps which in the summer give only 40 per cent. of the light they should because of the trees, are not in keeping with the spirit of progress and enterprise that distinguishes Peterborough in other respects.

Seen from a train at night, the inadequate illumination utterly fails to impress a stranger with this city as a modern, thriving community—and the small lamps burning all day long invite comment of a nature that is unkind, to say the least.

Instead of improving, the conditions have become worse, and it is high time that the situation was faced and some effort made to substitute a more modern and more adequate system for the present arrangements, which at best seems only a makeshift.

The action of the Utilities Commission in calling the attention of the Council to the desirability of a change will bring the matter to a head.

THE WELL BABIES' CLINIC.

The Well Babies' Clinic, on its record of achievement and on the amount of community service it has rendered since its inception, has justified the citizens who have carried on the work in asking for the consideration of the City Council and for assistance in the form of a substantial grant.

To many mothers the clinic has been a source of great benefit, and it can be claimed truthfully that the assistance, advice and instruction given have been the means of saving more than one young life and of developing ill-nourished, sickly infants into lusty, healthy babies.

A staff of local doctors generously give their services, there are popular and practical lectures on health matters that cannot fail to be of much value to mothers, the services of a nurse are available at meetings of the clinic and a vast amount of work along educational lines has been done.

The effect of such work is cumulative; it does not all appear at once, but it is a certainty that the instruction given hundreds of young mothers at the Well Babies' Clinic cannot fail to ensure a better chance for the youngsters.

It is a fallacy to think that mothers always know what to do in the care of their children.

Many of them are woefully ignorant of health matters and they depend for advice on older women whose treatment is more often a matter of superstition and tradition than it is a sane application of the elementary principles of health.

It is true that under such conditions babies have grown strong and robust—some of them—but, as one authority puts it, "they had to be strong to survive and the weaklings dropped off."

The Well Babies' Clinic is an important factor in combating old-fashioned and unsound theories and in applying the lessons of experience to the care of children.

THE LURE OF A TITLE.

Canadians as a people pretend to despise titles and to scoff at the respect paid in Europe to the "belted aristocracy."

"Jack is as good as his master in this country," is a saying often heard, and the majority of the residents of this country pride themselves upon the democratic spirit abroad in the Dominion.

The abolishment of titles by the Canadian Parliament a few years ago was hailed as a striking exemplification of that spirit, and people everywhere applauded the action of Parliament and the principle it involved.

The feeling seemed to be genuine—and yet even now and then incidents arise that cause some wonder as to whether the supposedly adamant Canadian antipathy to titles is not after all a pose that does not mean anything in particular.

The excitement caused by the wedding of Prince Erik of Denmark to a well-known Ottawa girl furnishes an illustration.

The marriage took place at the capital on Tuesday, and the newspapers chronicle the event under such headings as "Ottawa Crowd Mobs Bride."

These good Canadian democrats to whom a title professedly signified nothing were so eager to get a glimpse of a Danish prince that they nearly caused a riot, the police having to use force to clear a passage for the bride, and so great was the crush that the bride's train was torn as she entered the church.

It is just one of those cases that seem to indicate that down in the hearts of many people in this country there is a feeling quite different from the sentiments publicly voiced.

THE ARCHBISHOP ON DRESS AND DANCING.

The pastoral of Archbishop Gauthier, following that of Cardinal Begin, dealing with dress, dancing, the feverish pursuit of pleasure and the criminal extravagances of the present day, is perfectly in harmony with sound opinion among thinking people of all religions and none, says the Montreal Star. The dangerous drift of the age is the despair of men and women everywhere who realize that society rests upon certain principles of moral rectitude and decent behavior, and that—while such descents to the level of the ape as the Roman decadence and the hideous license of the Stuart Restoration in England may come from time to time—the present deliberate drive in that direction means disaster to thousands, if not millions, in our own time.

It is quite as murderous a relapse into the brutalities of the past as the late war. It will have fully as many "casualities," with a certainty of more torturing misery in each individual case. It is not that the so-called "moralists" oppose pleasure—it is that they fain would warn the ignorant and the thoughtless, the unread in history and those who know nothing of the bitter penalties that follow such follies, against "poisoned sweets." The purely intellectual scientist," the wise physician, the lay student of public advancement, all take the same view. No one has written more stingingly of the shocking contrast between modern levity and the terrible sacrifices of the war than Alfred Noyes, the poet:

"The cymbals clash and the dancers walk—
Long silk stockings and arms of chalk,
Butterfly skirts and white breasts bare—
And the eyes of dead men watching them there."

Of course, youth will not be guided. Youth never has been. It is the prerogative of each generation to despise the accumulated wisdom of its predecessors. "Old" is a synonym for "discarded." But the consequences of stepping aside from the firm highways builded by painful labor through the ages into the shimmering morass of meretricious pleasure will soon become so obvious and so ubiquitous that the next generation will of its own motion swing back in disgust and fear—will probably swing back too far. For it is the grim shadow of Puritanism which drives the joy-lovers that every generation happily produces into treating all restrictions as puritanical and tasting once more the deadly liquors of decadence.

OIL, WAR AND CORRUPTION.

The Teapot Dome scandal overshadows all other political issues in the United States. The sensation is the deeper because no such revelation was expected. In the last half-century there has been in the common judgment a marked growth of political morality at Washington and at most of the State capitals. There still is corruption, but it is less general and brazen. There are abuses of patronage, but the spoils are not delivered over the counter. Not only have the people ceased to fear great corporations, but corporation-baiting has become the pastime of demagogues. Roosevelt taught American politicians that there was profit in fight "malefactors," and Wilson learned the lesson. Probably it would be nearer the truth to say that both were pupils of Bryan. No one believed that a minister under Harding could go astray. But it would be only the truth to say, as George William Curtis said in 1876, "I have heard that suspicion haunts the footsteps of the trusted companions of the President."

Rhodes, in his History of the United States from the Compromise of 1850, suggests that "the high-water mark of corruption in national affairs was reached during Grant's two Administrations." One recalls the Whiskey Ring, Belknap, Blaine, the Union Pacific, and the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad. But never since have there been revelations at Washington so gravely compromising men who have held high office in the national Government. Nothing comparable was revealed during the war with Spain or the war in Europe. There was waste and jobbery in the United States, as there has been in time of war in all countries, but ministers were not seriously besmirched. Indeed all over the Continent there had developed a deep and general feeling that Ministers of State were secure against the arts and resources of corruptionists.

How unerringly from age to age the eagles find the carcass. In the time of the pioneers what men wanted was land or timber and for land and timber individuals became public plunderers and Governments were corrupted. Then came the age of railways and the massing of capital for great projects of development and upon these enterprises political corruption fastened. Now by the changing processes of civilization oil has become the great source of wealth and power and individuals and nations are bedevilled in the struggle to secure control of the world's supplies. There are those who believe that oil is at the root of the demoralization of Europe and affects vitally the policies of the nations. In this there is the exaggeration which distinguishes all seasons of excitement, but revelations in the United States and elsewhere suggest that oil is a danger to the peace of the world and the integrity of Governments. It is a curious fact, too, that these unexpected revelations at Washington should come so shortly after the Great War in Europe, as the scandals of Grant's Administration followed upon the heels of the Civil War of the Sixties. It would seem that many men are coarsened and corrupted by the huge profits which come out of war contracts, become unbalanced by the huge spending which war provokes, and drive on in the temper which war develops long after peace has been restored.—Montreal Star.

CONTEST.

Dan Dobb's Contest Causes Much Excitement.

Our recent contest to find the six most important words in the language is being contested. Many have written us to say the judges were not selected properly and did not make their selection properly.

But that is the way with every contest. Look at Bok's peace plan—they had a fight over who knew how to make peace the best. While his contest was not as large as ours, we use the illustration to show that contests are very dangerous.

JUDGE SAYS MISTAKE IS BEING MADE

A Chicago divorce judge believes more dishes were broken last year than during any year in the history of the world.

There are many broken and unbroken ones tied up in his court as evidence. A broken dish usually means the woman didn't aim to throw it. She merely turned loose and let it go.

When a dish hits a husband it neither breaks nor bounces. When it hits furniture it breaks without bouncing. This belief that you can take a piece of china and bounce it is all wrong.

AIRPLANE ON AUCTION BLOCK.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 13.—(United Press).—An airplane will go on the auction block here for the first time in March, according to announcement of Sheriff Lowry.

The airplane will be sold to the highest bidder to satisfy a laborer's lien filed by F. F. Hughes, a mechanic, against J. H. Elliott.

Hughes in his complaint alleged that Curtiss Oriole became unmanageable and that he was called upon to make adjustments and repairs. His bill of $260 for the work has never been paid, Hughes claimed.

The bi-plane was located at Watkins field and held in custody of the sheriff for the public sale.

Floating Specks Before The Eyes Means Liver Trouble

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything seems to turn black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you can rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and clear away the accumulated mass of waste and poisonous matter from the system.

Mr. Chas. Ayland, Frankville, Ont., writes:—"I used to be awfully bothered with floating specks before my eyes, headaches and sickness to my stomach. I took just half a vial of your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and ever since I have felt as well as I ever did. Now I always keep them on hand."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GAVE $1 A DAY TO HIS CHURCH.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—In 1873 Charles H. Knights, founder of the Knights-Thearle Company here, helped organize the Englewood Baptist church, and pledged himself to give $1 a day to the church as long as he lived.

Knight made good his vow, his recent death in California revealing he paid $18,302 into the church treasury. For 31 years Knights had kept his donations secret, until accidentally discovered by the minister of the church.

Knights came to Chicago in 1865. Three years later he entered the jewelry business and founded the concern bearing his name. He was poor when he helped organize the church but believed he should give a definite part of his earnings to it.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 13.—At a social evening of School Section No. 9, Smith township, held in the school house the adult members of the section to show their appreciation of the teacher, K. S. Madill, presented him with a handsome gold watch accompanied by an address. Mr. Madill, although taken by surprise, replied suitably. The evening was spent in music and social intercourse. Mr. Madill has been an acquisition in the section only on account of his ability as a teacher but also because of the personal interest he takes in the individual pupils, and also because of his rare musical ability which he uses for the advantage of the school.

Bitten By Dog.

Master Pat McFadden, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McFadden was badly bitten in the face by a cross dog at the rink on Friday afternoon. Medical attendance was promptly secured and it is hoped that there will be no serious consequences. The dog had become infuriated because of the teasing of a group of older boys and little Pat was an innocent victim.

Snow Plough Out.

The snow plough made a tardy appearance on Sunday afternoon after the good citizens had broken the road to church through the heavy drifts. Owing to the drifting of the snow one was compelled to break the road to church and also on the homeward way. The appearance of the snow plough would have been welcome earlier in the day.

WHEAT TOOK A JUMP TWO CENTS A BUSHEL

South Monaghan Farmers Busy Hauling Grain to Elevators.

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 13.—Wheat took a jump of two cents a bushel last week at the elevators at Fraserville, and the farmers are taking advantage of the slight raise in the price and the good roads, and have been hauling their wheat out in large quantities during the past week. They are getting ninety-eight cents a bushel at Fraserville. Other farmers from the lower end of the township have been hauling their wheat across Rice Lake to Port Hope, where they are receiving one dollar per bushel.

The lake has been in splendid condition for traffic for some time, and by crossing over to the head of the lake and getting onto the Provincial highway they have an excellent road all the way to Port Hope. They also make the distance so much shorter by crossing the lake.

The Debating Club.

The South Monaghan U.F.Y.P.O. Club were again disappointed on Friday evening last, when the Indian River club failed to answer the challenge of the home debaters. However, there was a splendid crowd present, and a good programme was enjoyed before the business of the meeting was conducted. The programme included a solo by Wesley Bradshaw, reading by Miss Stutt, solos by Harold Dawson, piano solo by Gwen Hutchison, reading by Mrs. Jas. Lang.

At the conclusion of the business meeting lunch was served, and the young people then enjoyed a pleasant hour in group singing.

On Tuesday evening South Monaghan challenge the Peterborough club in the last debate of the season, and they have great confidence in bringing home to South Monaghan the U.F.O. Cup.

MacDONALD'S ADDRESS ANNOUNCING POLICIES EARNED COMPLIMENTS

Labor Government Made Favorable Impression on First Appearance in the Seats of the Mighty — Baldwin and Asquith Congratulated Premier on His Speech.

BAPTISM OF FIRE.

LONDON, Feb. 13.— In a calm atmosphere, though not devoid of excitement, and in circumstances which a few months ago would have been regarded as impossible, the new Labor Prime Minister, J. Ramsay MacDonald, yesterday announced the policy of his Government to a crowded and intensely interested House. His speech was characterized as able and well reasoned, and it earned compliments from two former premiers—Stanley Baldwin and H. H. Asquith, leaders, respectively, of the Conservative and Liberal parties.

There were no scenes of turbulence or criticism, such as have characterized many former great occasions in British parliamentary annals. It might have been a new government formed by either the two great traditional parties, which in past times have alternately controlled Great Britain's administration.

Spirit of Fair Play.

The country has called for fair play for the Labor Government, and from anything visible in the House of Commons yesterday, fair play will be accorded.

Taking into consideration the novelty of the position of the Ministers, who had only three weeks to prepare to present themselves before Parliament under exceptionally difficult circumstances— circumstances which would have severely taxed the energies of the well versed and experienced administrations formed by the older parties— the House was willing to adjourn immediately the Prime Minister concluded his speech, and would have done so but for the pertinacity of a few members.

Follow Traditions.

The Premier indicated that he had no intention of driving against parliamentary traditions, but warned the House that his government equally had no intention of being driven from office by small party tactics. He intended to claim the privileges due the head of a minority government.

This is accepted as meaning that he considers that so long as the Government limits itself, as the Premier promised it would, to such legislative proposals as were outlined in the King's speech and which are part of the policy of the Liberal Party, he would expect the support of that party.

The Prime Minister's speech dealt very largely with social problems, less with foreign affairs, but he was extremely optimistic concerning the better atmosphere already created in dealing with France and hopeful that America would be induced by the new spirit invoked by his Government to lend aid eventually to the promotion of the work of peace, associated with the League of Nations.

Capital Levy Ignored.

One of the most interesting passages of Mr. MacDonald's speech was devoted to national finance. No allusion was made to a capital levy, which it would be quite hopeless for a minority government to suggest, apart from the fact that it was clearly rejected by the country in the recent elections, as was protection.

Mr. MacDonald, however, was strong for a complete investigation into the subject of national debt, in order to find out how heavily the taxation to pay the interest on this debt, presses on trade and industry.

Submit Preference.

Concerning the preference promised to the colonies by the late government, which it has been supposed in some quarters the Labor Government might refuse to recognize, the Premier promised to submit them all to a free vote of the House, and thus meets the views of the Conservative Opposition, which considers that the country ought to honor these decisions of the Imperial Conference.

On the whole, the feeling in the lobbies of the House was that the Government had made a successful first appearance.

To all appearances the Labor ministers went through their first day in the House of Commons without difficulty and the benches behind them appeared to be filled with serious men fully conscious of being component parts of His Majesty's Government.

The Ministers seemed to be unembarrassed by the baptism of questions fired from the Opposition. They even scored prettily at times in exchanges of banter. Austere Austen Chamberlain was the first one to fall before a pointed answer from Phillip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who in replying to a statement by Mr. Chamberlain, said:

"I should be sorry if anybody except the Right Honorable Gentleman could place such an interpretation on my attitude."

Several times the Speaker interceded for the Labor Ministers and saved them from further gruelling, reminding the speakers that it was a time for questions and not debates.

Laughed at Fears.

The Opposition was particularly insistent in questions regarding Labor's affiliation with international socialistic organizations, but the Labor benches laughed uproariously at the Opposition's fears in this direction, while the Premier painstakingly explained the exact relationship which, he said, left British Laborites full independence of action.

After Mr. MacDonald had informed the House of Russian recognition, Commander the Honorable Joseph M. Kenworthy, asked if a message of condolence on Lenine's death had been sent the Russian Government. The Premier rose to reply but the Speaker interrupted and said that the query had no relation to the original question.

The Conservative questioners so continually sought details of the Labor programme and criticized its lack of details for carrying out its proposed schemes that Mr. MacDonald expects to be attacked in the debate which will continue to-morrow.

Mufflers and Wool Vests are Popular

By "THE STROLLER."

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(United Press).—Mufflers, or scarfs, are being worn more frequently this winter than last. The long, heavy muffler, generally of camel's hair, has practically disappeared, being supplanted by a heavy silk one or a light one of fine silk or cashmere. The former is either single or double and quite long, usually with a fringe on the ends. Blues or greys are favorite colors. The light scarfs are generally short and white with black polka dots or other distinctive designs. As a rule, they are made square and doubled from corner to corner, making a triangular effect or doubled so as to make a rectangular shape.

Many men despise mufflers and with an ulster overcoat, a muffler is more or less superfluous. However with the lighter overcoats being worn these days, the smaller coat collars provide little defense against an unexpected blast and many men like to wrap a muffler about the neck to ward off throat troubles Then, too, a good silk muffler—or a closely knitted scarf—provides a relief from the monotony of the plain overcoat. In this manner it acts much as a listinctive necktie does in bringing a bit of color above a sober sack suit.

Wool vests ar eproving to be an indispensable and dependable part of a man's wardrobe. There are wool vests to fit almost every type of pocket book and they are capable chest protectors as well as neat appearing. Pockets are provided in the same places as in the ordinary vest and they have the added virtue of not getting out of shape no matter how much are crowded into them. Light tan is the shade most worn and this goes well with almost any color suit. Some of the vests are ribbed and some have facing and pockets of different material to provide a change

Fancy Shoes.

Men's fashions in shoes show very little change from year to year, but occasionally a novelty is brought out which takes popular fancy. The latest of these is the "trouser crease" shoe. This shoe has no broguing about the tip, which is made perfectly plain. However, a crease has been made in the centre of the upper, extending from the bottom of the lacing to the point This continues the trouser crease to the point of the shoe and serves to make the foot appear narrower. Just whether it will develop into an institution or not is hard to forsee, but practically all of the boot shops in New York are carrying them in stock.

Science Solves Mystery of Damascus Blade, But Can't Reproduce One

LONDON, Feb. 13.—(United Press).—The age-old myster of how Damascus blades were tempered has at last been solved.

The so-called Damascus blades were made in India, but got their name from the market whence they were distributed to the west. For a thousand years and more no western smith has been able to account for the steel contained in them, much less reproduce it.

The scimitar of Saladin, famed in history as finest blade ever drawn from a scabbard, has for many hundred years been the raditional symbol of perfection in the steel temperer's art.

Now the X-ray, under the direction of such men of science as Sir William Bragg and others, has brought to light the secret of how this famous blade was manufactured.

"The use of X-rays to look into the structure of crystals has explained all sorts of things we could not understand before," Sir William said

"Nowhere is this shown more than amongst metals."

The distinguishing property of an atom of a metal, according to Sir William, is that it is always ready to pair with one or two electrons. When melted metal solidifies, its atoms nearly always pack into the simplest possible form, something like a triangular pyramid of cannon balls. Such a pyramid is full of regular alleyways.

Among these minute alleyways in the metallic crystal the free electrons move easily, and the moving electrons form an electric current. When the metal is heated, the atoms swing about more and more rapidly, with the result that the electrons find their way blocked.

The steel of Saladin's sword, Sir William said, originally contained great numbers of needle-like crystals of cementite, a compound of three atoms of iron with one atom of carbon. These needles were exceedingly hard.

The Indians of old found that they could work the metal if they kept it exactly at a certain temperature, so they heated it up in their charcoal furnaces, taking it out now and then to give it a tap or two, then heating it again, and so, with infinite patience, producing a blade.

Now, a thousand years later, by utilizing the X-ray, it is discovered that the persistent smith had beaten each of the needle-like crystals into a minute ball of intense hardness.

But even with the knowledge of how it was done, no modern smith will guarantee to hammer out a sword of as fine a temper as the scimitar of Saladin.

of the Prime Minister is that he does not approve of the choice of an opposition by the people, and that he himself intends to select the members of the Legislature whom he desires shall be his critics in the assembly. The petition also declares that the Premier's declaration is in affront to the Speaker and his honorable duties, and also states that the statement is arbitrary and tyrannical.

The petition winds up by asking for the seats which properly belong to the opposition and asks the Speaker to be guided by the statute of 1920 giving groups of fifteen official recognition.

The petition is signed by every member o the U.F.O. party and by the two Labor members who in a separate note state they will preserve the autonomy of their group but desire to be associated with the protest of the Farmers.

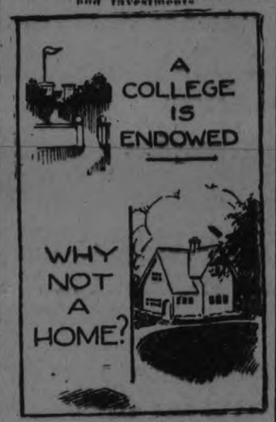
MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments



Invested money kept at work for the upkeep of the home is money well used.

Owning a home, even one that is free from indebtedness, is not enough. For with home ownership certain recurring expenses come. There are taxes, insurance, and public improvements which must be paid if the home is to be kept. Repairs must be kept up and a certain amount of money must be spent for upkeep and improvement on the property if the original value is to be sustained.

All these expenses take cash and some definite plan should be made for supplying the necessary funds.

As soon as the home is paid for, if not before, some money should be saved and invested each year, from which the income would be reserved for home use. For instance, if the home is valued at $10,000 it is wise to have an endowment fund of not less than $5,000. The income from this sum will be about $300 annually, which should take care of current home ownership expenses. Perhaps less would be sufficient. These expenses would not, of course, include heat, light and such living expenses, but merely the cost of the property itself.

RESERVES WERE THERE!

MANCHESTER, Eng., Feb. 13.—Twenty prison matrons formed a guard of honor at the wedding of Miss H. Heselton, a wardress at Strangeways Jail, and Constable Heysham of the Manchester police. Uniformed comrades of both the bride and groom filled the church.

R. C. D. TROOPER HAD THREE RIBS BROKEN.

Listed As Roman Catholic to Get Time to Attend Baptist Church.

TORONTO, Feb. 13. — Examination of Trooper William Bowen, who was so brutally beaten by certain of his comrades a week ago, when they stripped and whipped him, now reveals that his head was badly bruised and that three of his ribs were broken.

The trooper was taken to Christie Street Hospital and examined, for it was feared that in the rough handling the men gave him he had suffered a fracture of the skull. It was discovered, however, after an X-ray examination, that it was not more than a concussion. He had evidently been thumped or dropped in some manner by the men who attacked him.

Listed as a Catholic.

Detective Sergeant Tuft is now investigating the circumstances of the affair at the behest of Crown Attorney Armour, who has received instructions from the Attorney-General to probe the assault.

It was revealed by the investigation at the barracks that when Bowen enlisted there he was listed as a Roman Catholic. In view of his leaning to the Baptist denomination this was considered strange.

The explanation, however, is quite simple. Bowen says now that he may have made a tactical mistake in this matter, but his motive was to enable himself to be at liberty to attend the Baptist services.

Church parade in the army is compulsory, even for the atheist. It is the Anglican form of service, and many of the men object to the compulsory nature of it. Knowing the army rule, when Bowen signed up and was asked at the barracks "What church parade do you wish to attend?" he said the Roman Catholic.

By doing this he would of course be obliged to attend the Catholic Church parade. But this was early in the morning, whereas the Anglican Church parade is at the same hour as the other regular Protestant church services, and if he had chosen it he would not have been able to go to the Baptist church.

Now Listed as Baptist.

After the trouble occurred he went to the officers at the barracks and declared himself to them as a Baptist, and as such he is now listed on the records.

Bowen, who is a man of about 38, is very much annoyed at the attention given the affair.

When the medical officer discovered his wounds the trooper said to him, "Just say that I have the flu and let it go at that."

He is not anxious to make any allegations against his comrades. In fact, he says they are not all to blame — they were misled into believing things which were not the fact.

Pastor Makes Statement.

Rev. Ernest Forde, pastor of Beverley Street Baptist Church, the church which Bowen recently joined and at which he made the statements which were misrepresented to his comrades, made a statement of the case as he knew it.

"Bowen is a good type of man, serious and evidently intent on living a good life," he said. "He rings true in his words and actions despite the fact that it may have been a mistake for him to choose the Catholic parade as he did."

"As for the statements he made in the social after meeting on that Sunday night in our church, there is no doubt that they were misrepresented by somebody."

"Just what did he say?"

"Well, it was this way," said Mr. Forde, "I had called on a student to speak, and then somebody suggested that this man, indicating Bowen, might have something to say. Bowen was accompanied by a couple of his comrades. He did not voluntarily speak, but arose when asked to do so, and said that he was making soldiering his business, and that he intended to live a Christian life in the barracks.

"'I know I will be up against difficulties,' he said, but he went on to say that he was determined to live the right life, and he thought it could be done. He made no direct reference to Stanley Barracks, though he did speak of his experience as a soldier with the American army of occupation on the Rhine and of the temptations there. I took his reference to be to the soldiers' life generally."

It had been reported to his comrades at the barracks that Bowen had used some such phrases as that with drinking on one side of him and gambling on the other at the barracks it was hard for a man to live a Christian life. Mr. Forde does not substantiate this and he points out that as Bowen's right hand companion in the barracks was with him at the time it is not likely that he would have made use of a phrase like that.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

February 9th, 1924

The Peterborough Examiner Co.,
Peterborough.

Gentlemen:

In view of the controversy in "Voice of the People" re toxin anti-toxin inoculation of school children. It is interesting to note that the American publications are at present discussing the pros. and cons. of this practice showing that many eminent medical doctors are opposed to both vaccination and anti-toxin. Dr. Simon Louis Katzoff, M.D., Ph. D., of Bridgeport, Conn., has an article condemning the practice in the current number of Physical Culture in which he says, having described the death of a child who was inoculated with vaccine: "As I looked upon the shrouded wax-like figure in the little basswood box I felt as though I was looking upon the helpless victim of a murder, and I solemnly and silently vowed to work, as long as I lived, to wipe out the criminal practice of vaccination, and he further says: "The question is often asked: Just what is vaccination? In other words, what is vaccine virus composed of? Is the matter, which is inoculated into the blood strain pus, grease, fat filth, blood or what? Who really knows? Those who make it should know, but do they know?"

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica "there exists no official definition of what consists of successful vaccination.

According to Osler's Modern Medicine "it would be of great scientific interest and some practical value to have records of all vaccination strains but as it is makers often do not know or are unwilling to state the source and nature of the stuff."

One manufacturer writing to Dr. J. W. Hodge of Niagara Falls, New York, said:

"In response to your inquiry we beg to state that vaccination virus or its active principle is a subject about which very little is known.

In 1911 specimens of virus produced in the laboratories of one of the leading manufacturers of this country were purchased in the open market and subjected to exhaustive bacteriological and biological tests. From them no less than twenty-two different micro-organisms were isolated and their morphological, straining, culture and pathogenic properties determined. Eighteen out of twenty-two were found to be pathogenic. Six out of every eighteen were pyogenic, or pus-producing. Fourteen were mortal to laboratory animals. During the course of the experiments, forty-eight animals were subjected to inoculation. Thirty-three succumbed to lesions unmistakably produced by the germ filth with which they were inoculated."

According to Osler's Modern Medicine Willison first found tetanus bacilli in vaccine virus, and varini out of 400 examinations of 50 different specimens of lymph, found tetanus bacilli 5 times.

According to Gould's Medical Dictionary, virus means "a poison that causes a morbid process or disease." This is the poison that the law asks you to have injected into the healthy bodies of your children, poison that contains inoculating germs of a dozen terrible diseases such as syphillis and tuberculosis. Thousands of children soon after being vaccinated develop measles, diphtheria, enlarged tonsils, pneumonia and similar diseases. Some become mentally deranged, others develop weak hearts that last a lifetime. Dr. J. J. G. Wilkinson, once a pro-vaccinationist, was urged to investigate the whole subject. Reluctantly after an exhaustive investigation Dr. Wilkinson pinned this violet tinted leather medal on the rounded bosom of Vaccina: "Not denying other forms of social wickedness, I now, after careful study, regard vaccination as one of the greatest and deepest of all vices, abolishing the last hope of races, the new born soundness of the human family."

Speaking in the Reichstag during the session of 1911, when compulsory vaccination was being attacked, Fr. Fechtinger, made this startling confession:

"I deserve to be hanged to the highest branch of the tallest spruce-tree of the Black Forest, for I have thousands of lives of innocent children on my conscience."

This amazingly frank admission was reproduced in the official bulletin of the Nature Cure Societies which, before the war, had a circulation of over 750,000 copies. The writer quotes the names and testimonials of dozens of other prominent medical doctors in both U. S. and Europe who are opposed to inoculating the numeral disease strain in the human circulation.

Quoting Professor Alfred Russel Wallace: "Think of the unparalleled absurdity of deliberately infecting the organism of a healthy person in this day of sanitary science and aseptic surgery with the poisonous matter obtained from a sore on a diseased calf."

Dr. George Starr White, M.D., Ph. D., of Los Angeles, Calif., the author of "A Lecture Course to Physicians," says: "Facts have convince me that vaccination is a great mistake and that compulsion is one of the most fearful outrages that selfishness and cowardice has ever devised."

Among many hundreds of prominent people who are opposed to the inoculation of animal disease strains for the purpose of curing and preventing diseases are the following well known names.

William E. Gladstone, John Stuart Mill, John Bright, Bernard Shaw, Herbert Spencer, Alfred Russell Wallace, Francis W. Newman, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, Sir Benjamin Ware Richardson, M.D., Sir William Collins, M.D., Edgar M. Crookshank, M.D., Charles Creighton, M. D., J. J. G. Wilkinson, M.D., Walter R. Hadwen, M.D., W. Scott Tebb, M.D., C. T. Pearce, M.D., and many other physicians of standing. Lord Grimthorpe, Lord Dysart, Viscount Harburton, Duchess of Hamilton, Lady Maud Warrender, Lady Grove and other members of aristocracy. Arnold Lupton, M.P., and many other members of parliament for years past.

And now comes the news from Boston that last week 25 students who were inoculated in he McIlwain School and 19 in the Concord Academy are ill in bed and will have to stay there for a month at least if they are ever fortunate enough to recover. Their arms being swollen up to three times the normal size from blood poison caused from inoculation of toxin anti-toxin. The reason given by the doctors "That the product had been frozen.!"

Surely this opera ion is a fearful risk for a well person to take when it is remembered that scarcely more than one per thousand of the population contract diphtheria per annum. Not satisfied with the revenue they derive from treating they have discovered a new and wider field by experimenting on the healthy. The excuse being prevention of possible future sickness.

COMISKEY RECALLS BASEBALL SCANDAL.

White Sox Owner on Stand Against Joe Jackson's Claim of $18,000.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 12. — Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, took the witness stand to-day in defense of his club against the $18,000 salary and bonus claim of Joe Jackson, former outfielder. He related the story of the tense moments at the White Sox Park, in September, 1920, when Eddie Cicotte, one of his pitchers, confessed his part in the world's series scandal of 1919.

He testified that Cicotte, asking to see the witness alone, told the story of the world series, how he had received $10,000 as his share for "throwing" the games, and named seven other players as implicated jointly with him.

Serbs Warn Sokolski Not to Hoodwink Them.

BELGRADE, Feb. 13.—(Associated Press).—Cyril Sokolski, according to his Bulgarian passport, spruce, young and fur-coated, passed through Belgrade in December on the Simplon express, bound for Sofia. The local police looked him over, as they do all travellers, and let him go on. Now they learn he is a Coburger," a son of former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, heir to the throne so long as his brother, King Boris, remains unmarried, and that under no circumstances should he have been allowed to travel through Servia.

So Cyril is now where he would be, on Bulgarian soil, and it is not believed that he has any intention of going back to Coburg, where dwells his father. "If he does," say the Servian police menacingly, "he had better not try to pass through Belgrade."

Duofold converts the "Die Hards," too

—the men who think all fountain pens are alike

Its Size and Balance and 25-year Point put fresh inspiration into everyone's writing

YOU know the "Die Hards"—the fellows who believe all fountain pens are alike. They probably never owned a pen like Duofold but have four or five cheap pens rattling around in their desks.

They had no affection for alarm clocks either, until Big Ben came along and woke them up. And when Gillette first took the morning murder out of shaving, the "Die Hards" were the last to cheer the safety razor.

But there's one good thing about the "Die Hards"—they can be convinced if you show them. So whenever one of their number starts to expound his theory about fountain pens, just pull out this black-tipped lacquer-red Duofold and give him a taste of fresh inspiration.

Even the hardest "Die Hard" will own up he never swung a pen with Duofold's inspiring balance. And he'll catch the new idea when you tell him this Chinese lacquer-red color makes Duofold a hard pen to lose—that its size and symmetry give it a friendly feel in the hand.

He can't write his signature without admitting that Duofold's polished Iridium point (guaranteed 25 years for wear and mechanical perfection) is the smoothest thing that ever slid over paper. And he'll like the capacity of the Over-size ink barrel.

After all, the Parker Duofold gives the biggest thrill to men and women whom ordinary pens can't stir.

If you don't own the Duofold already, get this classic at the nearest pen counter before the "Die Hards" beat you to it.

"Is he still in love with her? Are you sure he didn't come here to ask her to marry him?"

"If he did he had his journey for his pains—although I can see that it would be a highly desirable combination from his point of view. But he's not in love with her. I'll stake all I know of men on that."

"You are sure?"

"As sure as that I'm alive."

"Well, I'll take the morning train for New York."

"Lee," said Mr. Dinwiddie impressively, "take the advice of an old man, who has seen a good deal of men and women in his day, and stay where you are until you hear from Mary. Some sort of crisis has arisen, no use blinking the fact, but if you burst in on her now, while she is Madame Zattiany, encased in a new set of triple-plated armor, you may ruin all your chances of happiness. Whatever it is let her work it out—and off—by herself. I made her promise she would not leave the country without seeing you again—for I didn't know what might be in the wind—and when she had given her word she added that she had not the least intention of not seeing you again, and that it was quite possible she would return to camp. If you go down you'll spoil everything."

"I suppose I can trust you, Din, but I've seen plainly that you don't want me to marry her."

"That is true enough. I want nothing less—for your sake; and Hohenhauer would be a far more suitable match for her. But I don't believe you even question my faith——"

"No. I don't. You're a brick, Din. But I'm unspeakably worried—almost terrified. I have never felt that I really knew her. She may have only imagined—but that is impossible! How in God's name am I to sit around here for three days and twiddle my thumbs?"

"Don't. Take one of the men and go off on a three days' tramp. Climb Mount Moose. That will give you no chance to think. All your thinking will be in your muscles."

"And suppose she should return—or telegraph me to go to her?"

"If she returns and finds you gone it'll serve her right. And she won't telegraph before Thursday—if she's going to Washington. Now take my advice and don't be a fool."

Clavering shrugged his shoulders, but he set his lips. "Very well. I won't follow her. Nor will I forgive her in a hurry, either."

"That's healthy. Giver her a piece of your mind, have a good row, and then make it up. But let me tell you, my dear boy, that she was horrified at the thought of that man coming up here, and she only refrained from telling you of the summons, so to speak, because she wanted to spare you any anxiety. There's no doubt in my mind that she's as much in love with you as you are with her. . . . You have none, I suppose?"

"None. Particularly lately. I hadn't told you, but I had intended, in a day or two, to ask you if you would let me have the camp for a few weeks. We intended to marry in Huntersville the day the rest of you went out."

Mr. Dinwiddie whistled. "No wonder she was furious at having her preliminary honeymoon disturbed. But if that is the case of course she'll return. You're more than welcome to the camp, and I'll send you whatever you need from time to time. You've only to command me. . . . It makes it all the more comprehensible. Whatever it was that man said to her, she wanted to get over it by herself before coming back to the place where she had forgotten that Hohenhauers and politics existed. I could see how it was with her here. She looked exactly as she used to in the old days, and I don't doubt she felt like it, too. No wonder she resented being forced back into the role of Madame Zattiany, or Grafin—countess—as he calls her. You must let her thresh it out by herself."

"You believe she will come back?"

"If that was your plan, I assuredly do. There isn't a spark of human affection between those two, and Mary never placed herself in any man's power. I am more and more inclined to believe that he appealed to her for help in his mission here, whatever it is—and it's not so difficult to guess—and that against her inclination and out of her love for Austria, she consented."

"Well, it's no use to speculate. There's the supper bell. I'll decide in the morning whether I go off for a tramp or not."

LVII.

Clavering slept when he first went to bed, for he was healthily tired, but he awoke suddenly at midnight with body refreshed and mind abnormally clear. He knew that he would sleep no more that night, and he put on his trousers and coat over his pyjamas, thrust his feet into bedroom slippers and went out into the living room. There he put a log on the fire and paced up and down, not unlike a tiger round its cage.

He felt as if black bats were flying about his brain, each charged with a different portent of disaster. Once more the unreality of the whole affair overwhelmed him. How could he have been so fatuous as to believe that he had really won such a woman? He remembered his first impression: that she was on a plane above, apart. They hadn't an interest in common, not even a memory that antedated their meeting a few short weeks ago. She had lived a life of which he knew nothing outside of European novels and memories. She had known nothing of any other world until he had introduced her to his friends, and he made no doubt that her interest in them was about as permanent as a highly original comedy on the stage would inspire. There was nothing, literally, between them but a mutual irresistible attraction, and that bond recognized so unerringly by both.

That bond.

Would it hold?

Had this man offered her something that would make love seem insignificant and trivial? She, who had had a surfeit of love long since? Whose eyes had looked a thousand years old until he had given her mind back its youth as the great Vienna biologist had rejuvenated her body.

He was entirely indifferent to her old love affair with Hohenhauer. It was those years of political association and mutual interdependence in Vienna that he feared. He had, when he first met her, appraised her as a woman to whom power was the breath of life. Ambition—in the grand manner—incarnate. She had all the appearance and the air of a woman to whom the wielding of power, however subtly, was an old story. He recalled that that terrifying suggestion of concealed ruthless forces behind those charming manners, those feminine wiles, had almost made him resolve to "avoid her like the plague." And then he had fallen madly in love with her and forgotten everything but the woman.

He had divined even before these last miraculous days that she had looked upon love with abhorrence for almost half as many years as he had lived, an abhorrence rooted in a profound revulsion of body and mind and spirit. For nearly twenty years that revulsion had endured and eaten into the very depths of her being. . . . He had a sudden blaze of enlightenment. She had frequently alluded to that Lodge of hers in the Dolomites and their sojourn there together, but always in the terms of romance. . . . She had never given him a glance of understanding. . . . And she had put off the wedding until the last possible moment. . . . If she had really been as eager as himself she would have left her power of attorney with Trent and started for Austria six weeks ago. Or the papers could have been sent to her to sign, if her signature was imperative. . . . And in spite of the fact that everybody had taken the engagement for granted, she had, with wholly insufficient reasons—as he saw, now that he was removed from the influence of her plausible and dominating self—refused to announce it. Could it be that in the depths of her mind—unadmitted by her consciousness—she had never intended to marry him? Was that old revulsion paramount? . . . . Sixteen years! . . . . A long time, and nothing in life is more corroding than habit.

Perhaps—as long as they were down there in New York. But not up here. That he would be willing to swear. There had been another revolution, involuntary perhaps, but the stronger for that; and every shackle that memory and habit can forge had dropped from her. She had been youth incarnate. The proof was in her joyful consent marry him immediately and remain in the mountains . . . and then her complete surrender of the future into his hands. . . . She had during those three brief days loved him wholly, and without a shadow in her soul.

But now? Whatever had happened, she was not Mary Ogden tonight, hastening to New York nor would she be when in her own house on the morrow. She might hate Hohenhauer, but his mere presence would have made the past live again. She must have known when she went down that mountain that even with her strong will and powers of self-delusion, things could not be quite the same again. Not even if she had returned with Dinwiddie. Why in heaven's name had she been so mad as to go? She could have sent Hohenhauer a pre-emptory refusal to see him and then gone off on a camping trip that could have lasted until he gave up the game. She must have been mad—mad.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

NERVES

A large number of women develop nervousness or nerve instability as a result of some chronic ailment which is permitted to gnaw at their vitality and remain undisturbed for years.

Many people, often in the same family, do not understand or sympathize, especially if they have never suffered in the same manner, and declare that the nervous symptoms in Aunt Jennie or Sister Sue are "imaginary." But it isn't. The one afflicted knows different, through the terrors of many a nerve-racked day and afflictions that sometimes last for years.

"Nerves" are a deadly enemy to the appearance and attractive personality of any woman. They aggravate and increase to a marked extent any actual ill health she may have.

The first thing to realize is that there is a cause. You must try to remove that and make up your mind or "will" to escape from nerves. If you are troubled with dyspepsia, begin at once to get your digestive organs into a healthy sound condition by right eating habits and proper food. If you are doing more than you should properly do, let up Don't be a martyr. They are not appreciated at the present day.

Practice muscle relaxation with complete rest at certain intervals during the day and try deep breathing frequently during both rest and work. The nervous woman breathes rapidly, and by so doing expends energy she ought to save.

Lastly, strive for mind control. Refrain from anger, sharp words or irritating remarks which are evidences of a nervous explosion. Don't think of yourself, or try self-pity. Use you energy for others and be the happy warrior.

Here is another case where the health examination comes into the play. Have you ever had one, a real honest health examination by a real physician? Its purpose is to find out thewher there is anything wrong in the machinery of your body. If there is you should know it and try to bring about a complete restoration in your health.

This will definitely tell you what to do so that you may not continue drifting along for years into neurasthenia, nerve instability and health bankruptcy.

GRAIN APPEALS EXPLAINED AND MOISTURE TEST

Appeals Last Year to Survey Board Numbered 236—Grade of Grain Confirmed in 188 of Them — Raised in 34 Cases.

SCENE SHIFTED.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 13.—The Royal Grain Inquiry Commission left for the head of the lakes last night, where it is expected their sittings will be concluded in a week or ten days. The sessions will be held first at Fort William and then at Port Arthur.

The preliminary preparations of evidence indicates that Dominion Government officials at the lakes in regard to inspection of grain will first be called. The chief weighmaster and other officials connected with the weighing in and out of the terminals will then be called. If the problems connected with mixing are heard at the lake head it will be at another session though, the indications are this end of the probe will be inserted at the Winnipeg session.

On the return to Winnipeg technical information such as research work, chemical tests and laboratory details of those making milling tests will be supplied. The railway officials will then be given an inning relating to rates, routes, demurrage, bulkhead charges, car dimensions and leakage.

Millers and Bankers.

The milling industry will be next examined, followed by what is on the agenda as "financing of grain marketing." In this connection the evidence of a number of bankers will be taken as well as that of many members of the grain trading firms.

It has not yet been decided whether all or any members of the commission will go to the United Kingdom to get the evidence of millers and buyers of Canadian grain.

Technical evidence was submitted before the commissioners on the ways of testing grain for moisture. Methods of appealing against tests of grain were also explained.

Dr. Bell, who is now secretary of the Grain Survey Board and Commercial Standard Board, stated that at least three members of the Survey Board must be present in considering an appeal. They do not know what grade has been given the grain involved nor do they know what grade has been given it by the inspection department. For the year ending August, 1923, the board heard 236 appeals. In 34 cases the grade was raised, 14 cases the grade was lowered and in 188 cases the grade was confirmed as given by the inspeciton department.

Easy to Obtain.

All that is necessary to get a resurvey is the certificate showing that the cargo or car of grain is intact, a written application and three members of the board. Daily sessions are held. The chief inspector is not always present but his services are available if required. In most of the appeals this year it has been purely on the basis of dockage, not on grade. The owner sometimes asks for a re-sample as well as a re-survey of his grain. In that event new samples are taken and the old one is compared with it. It is rare that the three members present are not in agreement. If there is a dispute it is argued out and the result voted on.

The commercial standard board is composed chiefly of farmers from the prairies and other grain men. They meet once a year and fix the standards and these are sent to some 18 foreign exchanges so that the world knows the basis of Canadian grades.

CHINESE GIRLS RUN EXCHANGE

Tower of Babel in San Francisco's Chinatown Is Unique.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—(Associated Press).—San Francisco's "Tower of Babel" is a telephone exchange set in the midst of its world famous Chinatown. This exchange is the only one in America devoted exclusively to Chinese patrons.

The exchange has 1,463 lines to serve the 10,000 Chinese inhabitants of the district. The operators are Chinese girls, 13 in number. All must speak, read and write English; but more important, they are familiar with several native Chines dialects, for China as a nation is a great unwieldy empire hat is a babel of tongues.

The 13 girls handle an average of 11,000 calls daily, nearly all inter-Chinatown service. The girls must remember names, numbers and addresses because the bulk of the calls are made by name and not by number. All the girls are graduates of San Francisco schools. Loo Kum Shoo, the manager, was graduated from the University of California.

Another peculiarity of the service is that there are absolutely no party lines in Chinatown. Though recognized as scrupulously honest, the Chinese is very secretive by nature and demands an individual line.

The telephone exchange building is one of the finest specimens of Chinese architecture to be found anywhere, even in China itself, with its pagoda-like tower and prow-like balconies. But the architecture is dictated by precedent. The several roofs were not added for ostentation, but because the Chinese consider that the dignity and social position of the inmates of a house are in direct proportion to the number of roofs sheltering them.

The retrousse balconies are designed to shoot rain from the building and shelter it from direct rays of the sun. Supporting columns have no capitals or bases and are as round and red as giant firecrackers. Even concrete foundations correspond to the stone foundations upon which Chinese construct buildings as protection from dampness.

The Chinatown telephone exchange is one of the district's great attractions for tourists. Several thousand visitors enter it every month of the year.

HER CHILDREN HAD WHOOPING COUGH

This is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It starts with fever and cough. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms, vomiting follows, and sometimes there is nose bleed; the child turns livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems emminent till relief is brought on by the "whoop."

Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phelgm and in this way ease the racking cough, and in a short time make is disappear.

Mrs. L. Ambrose, Sarnia, Ont., writes:—"My little ones were both sick with whooping cough. I read where Dr. Wood 's Norway Pine Syrup was good, and I only used two bottles and they were better. I had chronic bronchitis for three years and tried everything until, finally, I got 'Dr Wood's'. I would not be without this remedy."

THE STREET CAR OUT OF BUSINESS

Mayor D. C. Rybolt of Akron Was Elected on a Promise That He Would Retain a 5-Cent Fare.

By HAROLD B. MATSON.

AKRON, O., Feb. 13.—Can an American city of 200,000 persons get along without street cars?

Akron is finding out.

Mayor D. C. Rybolt was elected on a promise he would retain a 5-cent fare.

The traction company announced it would have to quit operating unless granted permission to increase its fare from 3 to 7 cents.

"Then quit," said the Mayor. And the company did.

So 225 automobiles, including 100 Fords sent from Detroit on the request of H. S. Firestone, Akron tire man, were drafted into service.

Healthul, Anyway.

Strange looking autos came in from everywhere, responding to Rybolt's call for help.

Men were accosted on the street with the question: "Can you drive an auto?" and if they could were given a job at the wheel of a bus.

"Keep half of what you take in," they were told.

Half of the town walked.

Downtown stores advertised free taxi service to shoppers.

Women's clubs cancelled all meetings during the "emergency, not wishing to risk themselves at night with strange drivers."

Ford Interested?

The weatherman made it warm.

Mayor Rybolt talks of tearing up the tracks.

There are rumors that Henry Ford and H. S. Firestone are interested in making the experiment a success.

But the Akronite refuses to look upon the situation as anything but a good joke.

"When it gets cold again," he says, "we'll be glad to drag out the street cars, even at 7 cents!"

Petitions are being circulated by the 800 street car employes asking the Mayor to compromise. Political wiseacres say he will have to give in.

Akronites Disagree.

Every citizen in Akron has his own ideas about the auto bus as a substitute for street cars.

"I'd rather walk," declares Mrs. J. W. Schade, Akron social worker, "than ride in a crowded jitney."

The sentiment of those who are satisfied with the new transportation service is perhaps expressed by H. C. Evans, a Goodrich factory office clerk.

"This bus thing is a diamond in the rough," he asserts. "It may need polishing, but you wait a couple of weeks and see it at its best. In the meantime I am willing to suffer a little inconvenience."
